Introduction

The Canadian Institute for Health Information (CIHI) is an independent, pan-Canadian, not-for-profit organization working to improve the health of Canadians and the health care system by providing quality health information. CIHI's mandate, as established by Canada's health ministers, is to coordinate the development and maintenance of a common approach to health information for Canada. To this end, CIHI is responsible for providing accurate and timely information that is needed to establish sound health policies, manage the Canadian health system effectively and create public awareness of factors affecting good health.

The Canadian Organ Replacement Register (CORR) at CIHI is a national information system that records, analyzes and reports the level of activity and outcomes of vital organ transplantation and renal dialysis. CORR members include the Canadian Society of Transplantation and the Canadian Society of Nephrology. The Register provides statistics that track long-term trends for organ transplantation, organ donation and dialysis activity and makes comparative data available that can facilitate better treatment decisions.

In addition, CORR creates a directory of participating dialysis and transplant centres and Organ Procurement Organizations. This directory is divided into Three sections: Section A lists the participating dialysis centres; Section B lists the participating transplant centres; and Section C lists Organ Procurement Organizations. The directory is further subdivided by province and hospital name. Key personnel for each hospital are listed alphabetically.

For additional information on the Canadian Organ Replacement Register, please contact the Canadian Institute for Health Information (CIHI) at 416-481-2002.

Introduction

L'Institut canadien d'information sur la santé (ICIS) est un organisme pancanadien autonome et sans but lucratif dont l'objectif est d'améliorer la santé des Canadiens et le système de santé en offrant une information de qualité sur la santé. Le mandat de l'ICIS, tel que défini par les ministres de la Santé du Canada, est de coordonner le développement et l'entretien d'un système commun d'information sur la santé au pays. À cette fin, l'ICIS est chargé de diffuser en temps opportun l'information appropriée et nécessaire en vue d'établir des politiques de santé avisées, de gérer avec efficacité le système de santé canadien et de sensibiliser le public aux facteurs déterminants pour la santé.

Le Registre canadien des insuffisances et des transplantations d'organes (RCITO) de l'ICIS est un système d'information national qui enregistre, analyse et produit des rapports sur le degré d'activité et les résultats des transplantations d'organes vitaux et de dialyse rénale. Les membres du RCITO incluent la Société canadienne de transplantation et la Société canadienne de néphrologie. Le Registre fournit des statistiques qui font ressortir les tendances à long terme des transplantations d'organes, des dons d'organes et des activités de dialyse et des données comparatives permettant de prendre de meilleures décisions au sujet des traitements.

De plus, le RCITO produit un répertoire des centres de dialyse et de transplantation et des organismes chargés de l'acheminement des organes. Le répertoire est divisé en deux sections : la section A énumère les centres de dialyse participants; la section B énumère les centres de transplantation participants; et la section C énumère les organismes chargés de l'acheminement des organes. Le répertoire a également été subdivisé selon la province et le nom de l'hôpital. Les employés clés de chacun des hôpitaux sont énumérés par ordre alphabétique.

Pour de plus amples renseignements sur le Registre canadien des insuffisances et des transplantations d'organes, veuillez communiquer avec l'Institut canadien d'information sur la santé au 416-481-2002.
