Analysis

In 2009/2010, there were 44,423 full-time faculty at Canadian degree-granting institutions. Of these, 14,718 (33.1%) were full professors, 14,941 (33.6%) were associate professors, 10,591 (23.8%) were assistant professors and 4,173 (9.4%) were unranked. These proportions have remained relatively stable over the past 20 years.

Compared to 2008/2009, the number of full-time faculty increased by 5.9%. This increase is primarily due to the inclusion of several new universities in 2009/2010.¹ The analysis of trends over time that follows excludes the institutions that were new to the survey in 2009/2010.

Table 1 of this report presents information for institutions that have greater than 100 staff. The information includes the following for each institution: the number of full-time teaching staff; the number of staff excluded from salary calculations; average and median salary; and salaries at the 10th and 90th percentiles. Although data are collected for institutions that have less than 100 staff and are included in the analysis, they are excluded from Table 1 for reasons of confidentiality.

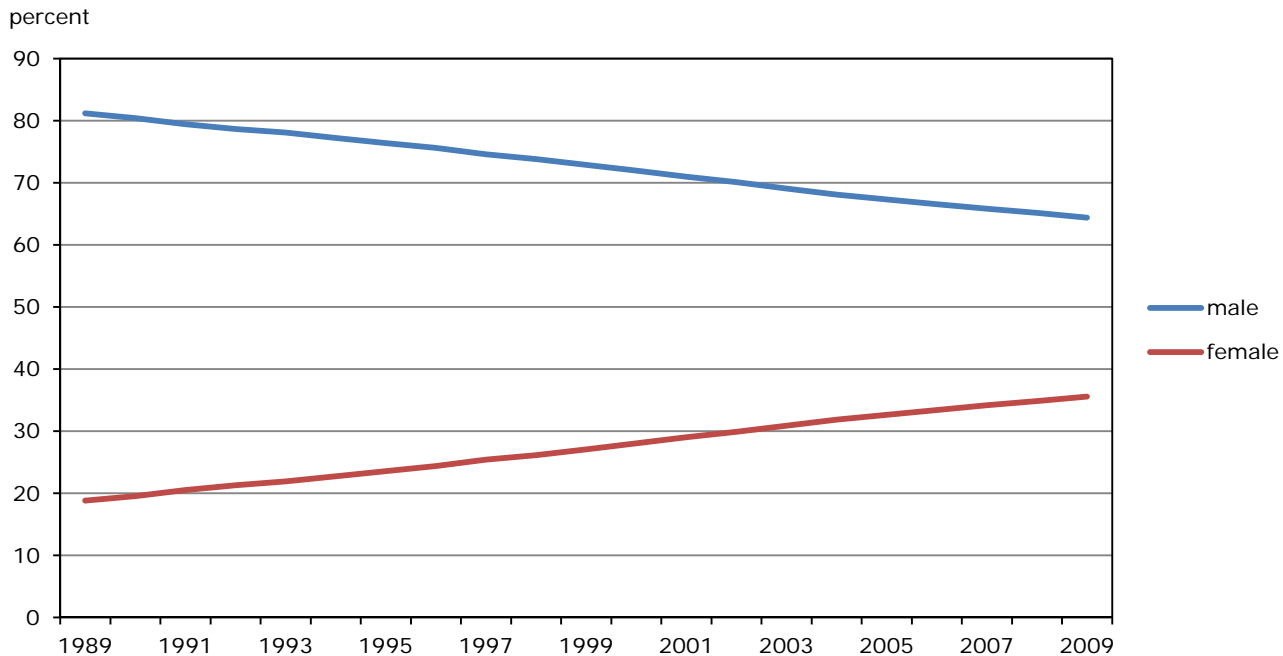

Among the 116 Canadian degree-granting institutions reporting in both 2008/2009 and 2009/2010, the number of full-time faculty increased by 1.5%, with 74% of them reporting gains. Increases occurred in all provinces, with the largest being in Saskatchewan (4.0%), Manitoba (2.5%) and Newfoundland and Labrador (2.4%).

The increase in full-time faculty was not distributed evenly across either rank or sex. Between 2008/2009 and 2009/2010, the number of full professors increased by 2.3%, associate professors, by 3.6%, and the rank below assistant professor, by 16.6%. However, the number of assistant professors decreased by 4.5% and the number of "Other staff" fell by almost one third (30.2%). The increase in full-time faculty was concentrated among females, with their numbers increasing by 3.7%, whereas the number of males was almost unchanged.

Women account for a minority of faculty; however, their proportion has risen steadily over the past 20 years. In 1989/1990, women comprised less than 20% of faculty; by 2009, their share had reached 35.6% (Chart 1). The share of women grew within all ranks. In 2009/2010, women accounted for 22.8% of full professors, 37.5% of associate professors and 45.7% of assistant professors. This stands in contrast to 20 years earlier, when women comprised just 7.2% of full professors, 18.5% of associate professors and 32.0% of assistant professors.

1. The following institutions were included in the FT-UCASS survey for the first time in 2009/2010: Mount Royal University and Grant MacEwan University in Alberta and the University of the Fraser Valley, Vancouver Island University, and Kwantlan Polytechnic University in British Columbia. Formerly, these institutions were colleges but became universities (that is, had degree-granting status) in 2009/2010. In addition, Thompson Rivers University in British Columbia was included in the FT-UCASS survey for the first time.

Proportion of full-time faculty, by sex, 1989/1990 to 2009/2010

Within the ranked categories, the overwhelming majority of full-time teaching staff held a PhD in 2009/2010: 88.4% of full professors, 85.6% of associate professors and 77.3% of assistant professors. However, in the “rank below assistant” category, only 30.7% of staff held a PhD, 48.7% had a Master’s degree and 7.5% had a Bachelor’s degree.

The average salary of full-time teaching staff was $113,407 in 2009/2010, compared to $108,643 in 2008/2009, an increase of 4.4%. In 2009/2010, a full professor earned $139,861, on average; associate professors earned $109,535; assistant professors earned $88,932; and the average salary of those in the category “rank below assistant” was $85,386. The increase in average salary between 2008/2009 and 2009/2010 was greatest for the category “rank below assistant,” which increased by 7.7%.

Average salaries differed by sex. In 2009/2010, the average male earned $118,145, while the average female earned $104,832, or 89% of the average male salary. The difference between men and women is largely influenced by the larger number of males at the higher academic ranks.

The male/female salary gap narrows when within-rank comparisons between males and females are made. Among full professors in 2009/2010, full-time males earned $141,521, on average, while females earned 95% of that ($134,238). The average salary of female associate professors was 97% that of males (at $107,324 and $110,863, respectively), and that of female assistant professors was 98% that of males (at $87,945 and $89,761, respectively). In the “rank below assistant” professors, the average female salary was 97% that of males (at $84,026 and $87,054, respectively).

The overall wage gap between men and women has narrowed over time as women have come to occupy higher ranks in higher proportions. Whereas women academic staff earned 89% of what males earned in 2009/2010, that figure was 82% in 1989/1990.

There were some differences across provinces. In 2009/2010, the average salary ranged from $98,814 in Nova Scotia to $124,502 in Alberta.

Explanatory Notes

Salaries of full-time teaching staff at Canadian universities and colleges

Table 1 in this publication presents, for each institution with greater than 100 staff in 2009-2010, the number of full-time teaching staff, along with their average and median salaries.

In addition, as a measure of distribution, the salary at the 10th and 90th percentile is given. In other words, the teaching staff is ranked by salary from lowest to highest and divided into ten even groups; the values presented in the table are the cutoff points for the lowest and highest 10% of the distribution.

Background

The data in this report are drawn from the University and College Academic Staff Survey (UCASS). Conducted since 1946, UCASS presents a national picture of the socio-economic characteristics of full-time university teachers in degree-granting institutions. The survey is conducted annually, with a reference date of October 1. Therefore, the data collected through this survey present a snapshot of full-time teaching staff as of that date.

Target population

The target population of this survey is full-time teaching staff in degree-granting institutions that are under contract for twelve months or more. This includes all teachers within faculties, academic staff in teaching hospitals, visiting academic staff in faculties and research staff who have an academic rank and salary similar to teaching staff. Administrative and support staff and librarians are excluded, as are staff solely engaged in research. Teaching and research assistants are also excluded.

The salary represents the reported annual rate of pay plus administrative stipends, if any, for all reported faculty members, including those on sabbatical leave

A note on confidentiality

The University and College Academic Staff Survey is conducted under the Statistics Act. To release data at the institutional level, institutions must authorize Statistics Canada to release their information. Furthermore, information is processed in such a way that results are not shown where there are too few individuals.

Due to the Statistics Act which, in part, prohibits the identification of individuals, a number of measures have been taken to ensure that no one individual or their salary can be identified or extrapolated. Information is processed in such a way that the mean is not shown when the given rank contains less than six (6) people and medians and percentiles are not calculated when there are less than 10 people.

Notes on terms used in the tables

The title Canadian Universities and Colleges refers to degree-granting institutions.

In Table 1, the column labeled Numbers refers to the number of teachers included in the salary calculations, that is, the average, the median and the 10th and 90th percentiles. Furthermore, the column labeled Excluded shows the number of teachers at the institution who are excluded from the salary calculations. This group consists of:

- deans
- directors equivalent to deans i.e. directors who have significant administrative responsibilities
- staff not paid according to regular salary scales
- staff on leave of absence
- visiting professors

Note that while deans and directors equivalent to deans are not counted in the salary calculations for specific ranks, they are included in the category All ranks combined, and in the breakdown of this comprehensive category by gender.

The sum of the two columns Numbers and Excluded yields the total number of full-time teachers by rank at the institution.

Full professors and associate professors are subdivided into those with and without senior administrative duties. Assistant deans, associate deans, vice-deans, directors not equivalent to deans, department heads, coordinators and chairpersons are classified as with senior administrative duties. Persons in these posts are included in the salary calculations.

The category rank below assistants refers to the next rank directly below that of an Assistant professor. Institutions use a variety of terms to label this position however, in many institutions lecturers are included here. The category rank below preceding covers the remaining full-time teachers (in many cases instructors) with the exception of Other teaching staff which refers to ungraded staff.

Salary scales for university teachers

The final table in this report presents 2009-2010 salary scales for full-time university teachers in 87 institutions. Note that the institutions included in this table are not a subset of the institutions covered in the salary tables.
