

HOUSING MARKET OUTLOOK

Ontario Region Highlights

CANADA MORTGAGE AND HOUSING CORPORATION

Date Released: First Quarter 2013

Figure 1

Resale

- Ontario home sales peaked in the second quarter of 2012 and are expected to stabilize before recovering by second half of 2013 and into 2014.
- Modest job growth and tighter mortgage market conditions will dampen demand among first time buyers in immediate term.
- Softer price growth combined with an improving job market will support housing demand by 2014.
- Owing to economic uncertainty, Ontario sales will range between 177,500 to 213,900 transactions this year and next.

Figure 2

Resale Prices

- Ontario resale prices grew above the general rate of inflation in 2012.
- A balanced market and fewer home sales at higher price ranges suggest less upward pressure on Ontario home prices in 2013.
- Improving job and income growth and rising sales will support stronger price growth by 2014.

Housing Starts

- After growing to over 76,742 unit starts in 2012, Ontario starts will slow and reach 60,800 units this year before stabilizing in 2014.
- High density housing will dampen Ontario starts in 2013.
- Modest job growth, better supplied resale markets, and high under construction counts will weigh on multi-family home starts in 2013.
- Owing to economic uncertainty, starts will range between 55,900 to 69,900 units this year and 2014.

Economic Forecasts

- Ontario's economy will fall short of growth in the rest of Canada in 2013 but by 2014 will gain ground against other provinces.
- High base metal prices and gradually improving US consumer spending will support traditional goods producing sectors.
- Northern and selected south western Ontario economies will benefit most from improving goods sector performance.
- Finance, real estate, retail trade and public administration sectors will contribute less growth to the Toronto and Ottawa economies.

Housing Forecasts

- Housing activity will hold up better in northern and southwestern Ontario communities thanks to support from ongoing US economic recovery, relatively less expensive housing and an improving migration picture.
- Larger southern Ontario housing markets in 2013 held back by high home prices, high apartment inventories and less investor demand.
- Detached construction will remain relatively stable thanks to continued income growth, lower unsold inventories and relatively tighter detached resale market conditions.

Mortgage rates to see modest and gradual increases, but will remain low

According to CMHC's base case scenario for 2013, the one-year mortgage rate is forecast to be within 3.00 per cent to 4.00 per cent, while the five-year posted mortgage rate is anticipated to be within 5.00 per cent to 5.75 per cent. For 2014, the one-year posted mortgage rate is expected to rise and be in the 4.00 per cent to 5.00 per cent range, while the five-year posted mortgage rate is forecast to be within 5.50 per cent to 6.25 per cent, consistent with higher economic growth prospects in 2014.

Mortgage rates are not expected to increase until late 2013 or early 2014, leading to a slight rise in mortgage rates on an annual basis, when compared to 2012. Further increases are expected through 2014, but rates will remain low, by historical standards, over the forecast horizon.
