Examples of Canada Council funding in Saskatchewan<sup>5</sup>

The Canada Council supports the endeavours of professional artists and arts organizations through its programs. The following selection illustrates the scope of the activities supported by the Canada Council in Saskatchewan.

Through the Visual Arts section's Acquisition Assistance for Art Museums and Public Galleries program, the MacKenzie Art Gallery (MAG) in Regina received $24,500 to acquire The Grain Bins by Graeme Patterson, Thunderbird by Wally Dion, and several works from Nadia Myre's Indian Acts series. The Gallery has a mandate to serve the people of Saskatchewan by exhibiting, collecting, preserving and interpreting original works of art for the enrichment of the artistic and cultural heritage of Saskatchewan and Western Canada. These acquisitions join a growing collection of contemporary art by a new generation of Saskatchewan artists. In coming years, the MAG hopes to continue building a strong collection that reflects the diversity and current art practices of the local arts community.

In 2008, Regina's Constance Deiter was awarded a $10,000 grant through the Grants to Aboriginal Writers, Storytellers and Publishers program to create a new book entitled Robbing the Hood, which examines the high rates of victimization of First Nations people in Saskatchewan. Similar to her first book From Our Mothers' Arms (1999), which tells the stories of First Nations people and their experiences in the residential school system, Robbing the Hood will explore themes of incarceration, unemployment, foster care, and violence from an Aboriginal perspective. An active member of the Aboriginal rights community, Deiter has devoted considerable time to her research and hopes to continue to shed light on the experiences of her ancestors through her writing.

A $20,000 grant was awarded the John Arcand Fiddle Festival Inc. through the Aboriginal Peoples Music Program to present the 11th annual John Arcand Fiddle Festival. The festival is a four-day celebration of Métis culture, music, and dance in Saskatoon, held in August 2008. The Festival has a mandate to promote and preserve music and dance by offering concerts, competitions, and innovative workshops featuring the fiddle, guitar, piano, and Red River jigging. Through the Festival's high-quality and diverse programming, the entire community has the opportunity to learn about Métis history and worldview. As participation numbers increase, organizers look forward to making further advancements in performance and outreach education in the upcoming years.

Regina architect Bernard Flaman was awarded a $20,000 grant through the Visual Arts section's Assistance to Practitioners, Critics and Curators of Architecture program to conduct a landscape and architectural survey of Victoria Park in Regina, which was exhibited at the Dunlop Art Gallery from July to September 2008. The project, entitled The Sun Never Sets: Victoria Park in Context, explores the evolution of the park and the vision of what such a public space means for a capital city through a video and photographic installation. Since the park's architecture and the surrounding area have been influenced by international styles and trends over the past century, Flaman hopes that this project provided audiences with the architectural knowledge required to understand the gradual urban changes which have occurred over time.

New Dance Horizons Inc. (NDH) received a $4,200 grant through the Support Services to the Dance Milieu: Multi-Year and Annual Funding program to assist in the development of the Somatic Summer Lab project held at the NDH House of Dance in Regina in July 2008. The two-week intensive workshop focused on the need to explore human movement in a holistic and alternative way. By relying on the instruction of renowned movement specialists, professional and amateur dancers had an opportunity to gain an enhanced understanding of their movement potential. Through this program, NDH continues to serve an integral role in the Canadian dance milieu.

An $18,000 grant was awarded to the Sage Hill Writing Experience of Regina through the Co-operative Projects in Writing and Publishing program to assist the organization with programming, faculty, and promotion costs for its 2009 summer programs. A charitable organization specializing in developmental opportunities for literary writers, Sage Hill offers a special learning and working opportunity to writers at different stages of development from across Saskatchewan. The organization hosted a Spring Colloquium, as well as a Teen Writing Experience workshop aimed at bringing awareness of storytelling, writing and Canadian literature to communities throughout the province. Through these initiatives, Sage Hill hopes to remain a catalyst for new and innovative writing within Canada.

La Troupe du Jour (LTDJ) was awarded a two-year $45,000 grant through the Operating Grants to Professional Theatre Organizations to support its 2008-09 and 2009-10 programming. A non-profit theatre organization in Saskatoon, LTDJ focuses on the development of French-language theatre through the creation of new works and performances, training programs and outreach initiatives. With the grant, LTDJ plans to produce the play Rearview, written by Gilles Poulin-Denis, and will introduce the use of English subtitles for certain productions as a means to appeal to broader, more diversified audiences. Through these initiatives, LTDJ hopes to remain a leader among Francophone theatre organizations in Saskatchewan and expand its presence throughout Western Canada.

A grant of $7,500 was awarded to Queer City Cinema Inc. through the Annual Assistance to Media Arts Festivals program to assist in the research and development of the eighth Queer City Cinema Festival, scheduled for Regina in 2010. The largest ongoing gay and lesbian media arts festival in Western Canada, the Queer City Festival is committed to expanding the knowledge and perception of media arts and queer culture by promoting issues relevant to communities across Canada and beyond. The grant will allow the organization to explore the idea of catalogues, panel discussions, artist talks, performances, and exhibitions as tools to better serve the community. Queer City Cinema hopes the festival will create a diverse, complex and stimulating environment for all audiences.

A total of $20,000 was awarded to Alison Norlen of Saskatoon through the Assistance to Visual Artists: Project Grants program to create new multi-dimensional works which explore specific trajectories of utopias, spectacle, and personal space. Relying on her own observations and life experience, Norlen's paintings and sculptures often refer to the bizarre, the extraordinary, the mundane, and the familiar as a means to contemplate social and physical change. Norlen hopes to include her work in upcoming 2009 and 2010 exhibitions. This most specific project examines the interplay between landscape, environment, and personal space, and forces viewers to move physically through the installation. With this initiative, Norlen intends to challenge her artistic approach by pushing her work to be more interactive and complex.

Through the Writing and Publishing section's Literary Readings and Festivals program, the Living Skies Festival of Words, located in Moose Jaw, Sask., received a $25,000 grant to support the participation of Canadian writers at the 13th annual Saskatchewan Festival of Words in July 2009. A multi-disciplinary literary arts festival, the 2009 Festival focused on the theme Life is an Open Book, as audiences assembled to celebrate authors whose work takes readers on memorable literary journeys. This year, participating artists included Sharon Pollock, David Carpenter, Linda Bailey, and Thomas Wharton. The organizers of Living Skies intend to use the Festival to inspire life-long readerships and creative writing aspirations among diverse audiences.
