YOUR LINK TO THE HOUSING MARKET

Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation

The Vancouver CMA housing market remained vibrant in 2004 as a result of low mortgage rates, positive net migration flows, and local employment growth. Builders have been ramping up construction activity to meet demand, while MLS home sales have been trending down from the frenzied pace set earlier in the year. As the resale market moves toward more balanced conditions, price gains are expected to moderate.

Low mortgage rates continue to be a driver of housing demand. At year-end, the posted 5-year mortgage rate was down to 6.05 per cent, from 6.45 per cent in December 2003. The mortgage rate fluctuations in 2004 (a variance of 100 basis points over the year) combined with the looming prospect of rising rates, had the effect of spurring homebuyers into action.

2004 marked the second consecutive year in which BC saw a positive net inflow of migrants from other provinces. In the third quarter, BC gained 10,229 people from international and interprovincial migration.

Employment growth of 2.7 per cent in the Vancouver CMA helped fuel demand for housing in 2004. The unemployment rate dropped to 6.8 per cent from 7.3 per cent in 2003. Improving labour market conditions boosted consumer confidence to 117 at year end, meaning that consumers feel that now is a good time to make a major purchase.

New Home Construction

Housing starts in the Vancouver CMA were up 24 per cent compared to 2003, totalling 19,430 units. Total housing starts were at their highest level in ten years, but are expected to trend flat or increase marginally in the near term.

The townhouse and apartment condo markets recorded the strongest growth in 2004. The number of semi-detached starts climbed by 33 per cent, to 974 units. Single detached starts were up 4 per cent, to 5,614 units.

Townhouse and apartment condominium starts increased by 43 per cent and 41 per cent, respectively. With the former contributing 3,304 units and the latter 8,542 units, condo construction comprised 61 per cent of total starts in 2004.

Multiple unit construction has been steadily on the rise in the CMA. In 1985, multiple unit starts accounted for 44 per cent of the total. By 2004, this figure increased to 71 per cent. With the lean supply of developable land and steadily rising land and building costs, this trend is expected to continue.

Rising construction costs and competition for land by condo developers have slowed purpose-built rental construction in the Vancouver CMA. In 2004, rental townhouse starts dipped 38 per cent, while rental apartment starts contracted 22 per cent.

New home inventories were near historic low levels in 2004. At year-end, the total inventory of complete and unoccupied units was up 13 per cent over December 2003, to 1,250 units. However, this is well below the 15-year average of 3,143 units.

Strong housing demand and lean inventories propelled double-digit growth in new home prices in 2004. Rising building, land and development costs contributed further to home price increases.

The average price of a new single detached house in 2004 increased 11 per cent to $553,459. In the new condo market, townhouse prices climbed 15 per cent to $302,793, while apartment prices were up 23 per cent, to $313,928. This trend is expected to slow, with prices rising more modestly.

Resale Market

The existing home market in Greater Vancouver remained buoyant in 2004. MLS sales dipped 4 per cent to 36,755. Sales remained strong by historic standards, especially given that 2003 posted the highest number of sales transactions on record (38,159 units). Sales of single detached units declined 14 per cent in 2004, while townhouse sales saw no change. Apartment condo sales sustained the market with a 6 per cent jump in sales to 16,082 units.

Seasonally adjusted sales have been trending down since April 2004, signalling a shift towards more balanced market conditions. Sales will remain near current levels based on strong economic fundamentals including employment gains, continuing low mortgage rates, and strong consumer confidence.

Seasonally adjusted new listings in Greater Vancouver rose to their peak of 5,846 in May 2004. Listings subsequently declined to 3,620 by December.

Active listings increased 19 per cent in 2004 to 10,620 units. With active listings on the rise and sales dipping slightly, the average sales-to-active listings ratio fell for all product types in 2004. At year-end, the single detached market was near balanced, while the townhouse and apartment condominium markets remain in sellers' market conditions.

Average resale prices increased for all product types in 2004: single detached prices were up 17 per cent to $527,192; townhouse prices expanded 16 per cent to $313,881; and apartment condo prices jumped 19 per cent to $258,661.

With sales levelling off and active listings on the rise, the resale market is moving toward more balanced conditions. This should help mitigate price increases.
