Canadian Labour in Profile: Wage Adjustments, May 2011

Major collective bargaining settlements reached in May 2011 provided base rate wage increases averaging 1.8% annually over the term of the contracts. These results are based on a review of 25 agreements* and cover 40,000 employees.

When the parties to these settlements previously negotiated, the resulting wage adjustments averaged 3.6%, a larger average than in their current settlements. Contract duration in May 2011 averaged 47.0 months, compared to 42.1 months in the previous round of settlements.

Wage adjustments in the public sector were lower than in the private sector in May. Public sector wage adjustments averaged 1.5% for 24,270 employees in 14 agreements. Private sector wage adjustments averaged 2.3% for 15,730 employees in 11 agreements.

The public-sector figure was largely influenced by eight agreements in the province of Alberta which provided 20,590 public servants with an average annual wage increase of 1.5% over 31 months; each agreement offers a 4.0% increase in the 20th month of the contract. Three agreements in British Columbia were subject to a wage freeze which affected 1,950 instructors and lecturers at the Vancouver Community College,

Thompson Rivers University (Kamloops), and Langara College (Vancouver). The entire public sector in British Columbia is subject to a wage freeze for two years.

In the private sector, wage adjustments ranged from 1.0% for 2,200 employees with the Interior Forest Relations Association, to a high of 3.6% for 950 coal miners with Teck Resources Limited. Both companies are in British Columbia.

In the federal jurisdiction, there was only one major settlement (over 500 employees) in May, the British Columbia Maritime Employers Association, with an average annual increase of 2.5% over the eight-year life of the contract. In the first year, employees are subject to a wage freeze; however, they receive a prorated lump sum payment that can amount up to $5,500 per employee working full-time hours.

Wage increases in the first five months of 2011 (January through May) also averaged 1.8% for 266,230 employees in 112 major settlements. So far in 2011, wage adjustments are averaging 1.7% in the public sector and 2.1% in the private sector.

 Note: All data compiled in this review involves major collective agreements covering 500 or more employees across Canada.*
