A Strong Partnership in Trade:

Feeding an integrated supply chain! Canada-Iowa trade is all about "making things together". Consider the pork sector. Canadian farmers feed their hogs with soybean meal grown in Iowa. When the hogs are ready, Canadian farmers export them to Iowa for processing. Once processed, Iowa sends the finished pork back to Canada. In 2014, Canada imported $170M in fresh and frozen pork from Iowa! Iowa processors can count on Canadian producers to keep plants operating at full capacity, and Iowa's expertise in pork processing provides Canadians with a variety of meat products. The story of the pork sector, from feed to farms to processing to market, is a great example of our efficient and effective integrated supply chains.
