A Strong Partnership in Trade:

Beef cattle production represents the largest single segment of agriculture in Texas. Canadians showed that they enjoy Texas beef products by importing $142 million of fresh and frozen beef products in 2013, making Canada one of Texas' top export markets for beef. Meanwhile, Texans had the opportunity to taste Canadian beef by importing $27 million of fresh and frozen beef products. This trading relationship allows consumers in both Texas and Canada to taste beef of exceptional flavor, tenderness and juiciness. The U.S.-Canada trading relationship is increasingly important as trade and integration mutually strengthens our competitive position within the changing global marketplace.
