1. The planning, design and communication of the Program needs improvement to allow for greater Program results, as follows: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The vision of RLEMP as an important intermediate step toward the First Nations Land Management Act (FNLMA) requires greater clarification and reinforcement with all stakeholders. A gap analysis between communities' land management training needs and RLEMP training is required to improve training design. A review of and adjustments in RLEMP's funding formula is necessary as part of this redesign to ensure the Program is addressing needs equitably among participating communities. The roles and responsibilities of 	Consultations will take place with INAC Regions and Stakeholders to develop a communication strategy that will help to clarify RLEMP's role as a stepping stone toward FNLMA. RLEMP training was developed in cooperation with First Nation land managers to address the capacity requirements for managing lands under the Indian Act. Course curriculum will continue to be reviewed and amended as part of the work of the RLEMP Steering Committee, which includes members from INAC HQ, the National Aboriginal Land Managers Association and the University of Saskatchewan. Training needs for individual First Nations will fluctuate based on staff turnover and changes in land use	December 2009 March 2010	Status: Ongoing Update/Rationale: As of 31/03/2011: From May to December 2010, INAC held meetings with stakeholders to obtain input to assist in informing the renovation of LED programs. Engagement focused on 6 key themes: Strategic outcomes and performance measures, program delivery options and service standards, opportunities for harmonization and linkages among existing programs, challenges related to current programming and innovative solutions, capacity development and funding priorities. Current programs will continue with some immediate changes, the RLEMP has been moved into the Community Opportunities Branch which over time will allow for better synergies between land management and economic development and a strategic approach to the funding for land management and economic development functions; including training and capacity needs within communities. Communications material will be used to update Departmental website content in 2011.

2. RLEMP's training model requires updating as per the revised Program design and program monitoring to ensure continual improvement to the content and delivery of training, as follows: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> A more cost-effective model needs to be implemented that will include a mixed training delivery model to accommodate the next generation of training participants, land managers who are new as a result of turnover in participating communities, and land managers whose capacities are evolving with experience. A performance monitoring and reporting system to monitor and report on Program results needs to be implemented and will require alignment with Program redesign. 	Alternative training delivery methods (e.g., online courses) will be explored by the FNLN Directorate in partnership with training delivery partners (NALMA and the University of Saskatchewan) and will be discussed at regular Steering Committee meetings. An RMAF/RBAF for RLEMP has been developed outlining the applicable performance indicators. This information will be included in the RLEMP Performance Measurement Strategy and will outline the monitoring and communication requirements.	31/03/2010	Status: Ongoing Update/Rationale: As of 31/03/2011: On-going INAC is working closely with National Aboriginal Land Managers Association (NALMA) and other stakeholders to explore further training requirements and options regarding training delivery, such as web-based training. Small adjustments were made to the training modules during fiscal year 2010-2011. A performance measurement strategy remains to be designed and adopted and this work will be undertaken in the 2011-12 fiscal year. The performance measurement strategy will need to take account of the overall program renovation for Lands & Economic Development as well as the changes to RLEMP Programming (alignment of RLEMP + EDO programming) AES: Underway
