STUART LAKE AGENCY

DETAILED REPORT

STUART LAKE AGENCY

Field operations in the Stuart Lake Agency were conducted during the Summer seasons of 1914 and 1915 and covered, in the aggregate, a period of fourteen weeks, exclusive of time occupied in the examination of Mr. Agent McAllan, which continued from the 15th to the 26th November, 1915.

The Commission's work in this Agency, as in the Stikine, was chiefly incident to the creation of Reserves for tribes and bands of Indians hitherto unprovided for and which railway construction and the consequent influx of white population have only recently brought in touch with civilization other than as represented by the Northern frontier trader, trapper and prospector. These Indians were found to claim membership principally in the Francois Lake, Burns Lake, Maxim Lake, Decker Lake, Uncha Lake and Skins Lake Bands of the Francois Lake Tribe; the Tacla Lake, Cheslatta Lake and Tatla Lake Tribes; the Fort Graham Band of the Siccanees Tribe; the Bear Lake Tribe, and the Euchinico (or Trout Lake) Band of the Kluskus Tribe—these with an approximate aggregate population of 205, exclusive of that of the Bear Lake Tribe, which can only be estimated with accuracy after further investigations than the Commissioners were able to complete.

At the inception of the Commission's work, the recognized Reserves of the Stuart Lake Agency numbered 37, with an aggregate area of 22,047.94 acres (less rights-of-way deductions, etc.), population of nine hundred and sixty-five, and per capita of 22.85 acres; reductions or cut-offs for the Agency, justified by the practical extinction of the Blackwater Tribe some few years ago through an epidemic of smallpox, total 409.00 acres. To further meet the necessary and reasonable requirements of the Agency population, 97 new Reserves have been established and constituted, subject to approval, their total area being roughly estimated at 14,892.20 acres, exactitude being impossible inasmuch as these new Reserves include certain islands of as yet undetermined acreages, while some few other allowances have been made "subject to selection and survey."

The new area total, made up of confirmed and created Reserves, will thus be slightly more than 36,531.14 acres, and the per capita 31.22 acres or thereabouts—an allowance by no means in excess of the actual requirement, cattle ranching being the future maintaining industry of these northern Indians, varied—in a limited area necessarily—by mixed farming.
