Manufacturers' shipments in September at $$ 2,465$ million climbed sharply to reach the second highest monthly value recorded this year; the highest value was reached in May when shipments were $$ 2,547$ million. Shipments unadjusted are seven per cent higher than in August and adjusted for seasonal varlation are also up by seven per cent. Although a high level of shipments in September is not unprecedented, as recently as in 1960 for example, the two peak months of the year for manufacturers' shipments were June and September, the fall peak usually occurs in October or November. In fact, in both the past two years peak monthly shipments for the year were reached in the fall, in 196? in October and in 1961 in November.

The August and September shipments very largely reflect the sharp swing in shipments in the automobile industry in these two months. The level of shipments in August at $$ 19 \mathrm{million}$ is the lowest monthly value as far back as the beginning of 1958 reflecting the record level of shipments in the preceding eleven months of the 1963 model year. In the year ending August 1963 total sales by motor vehicles manufacturers were $$ 1,544$ million, twenty-two per cent higher than sales in the year ending August 1962 and over half as much again as sales in the year ending August 1959. September shipments at $$ 107$ million are forty per cent higher than shipments in September last year.

The total increase in September shipments as compared with August was $$ 156$ million of which $$ 16$ million was in the non-durable goods industries and $$ 140 \mathrm{million}$ in the durable goods group. of this latter motor vehicles accounted for $$ 88$ million and motor vehicle parts and accessories for $$ 13$ million. An increase of $$ 6$ million in the machinery industries group brings the quarterly total back to the level of the second quarter after the sharp drop in August.

For the first three quarters of the year, however, the value of shipments has remained at just less than six per cent higher than shipments in the first three quarters of 1962 . In total the increase has eased slightly downard through each quarter with non-durable goods about four and a half per cent higher and durable goods just over seven per cent.

In the non-durable groups foods have remained very stable at four and a half per cent higher as have textiles where the level was fust over ten per cent higher in the first quarter dropping slightly to Just over nine per cent higher at the end of the third. Shipments in the knitting mills and clothing factories have remained fairly stable around four per cent higher. The leather industries have been moving downard since the end of the first quarter and are the only group in the non-durables industries where shipments have fallen below last year's level. The paper and allied products industries ended the first quarter with shipments slightly below shipments in 1962; the chemical products industries were one and one half per cent higher; both are now running about three per cent above last year. The petroleum and miscellaneous industries ended the first quarter at eight and eleven per cent above last year and have declined gradually to about seven and six per cent higher. The tobacco and rubber industries have been moving upward and quite sharply. Tobacco shipments at the end of the first quarter were eight per cent below last year; they are now over three per cent higher. Shipments in the rubber industries were over five per cent higher at the end of the first quarter and are eleven per cent higher now.

In the durable goods industries the transportation group is of course at the highest level with shipments still fourteen per cent higher than in 1962. The level at the end of the first quarter was actually higher, sixteen per cent, but has dropped gradually to the present level. A gradually declining trend has been general in this group with shipments in the furniture and fixture industries six per cent higher at the end of the first quarter and just over four per cent higher now; shipments in primary metals were over seven per cent higher at the end of the first quarter and are now down to three per cent; the metal fabricating industries had shipments eleven per cent higher at the end of the first quarter as compared with shipments in 1962; at the end of September the increase has dropped to five per cent. The electrical products industries show the same pattern with the level at the end of the first quarter ten per cent higher dropping by September to seven per cent. The wood and wood products industries and the machinery industries are completely different with shipments at the end of the third quarter bringing the level of shipments for the year up sharply to eight and fifteen per cent over last year's shipments. In the machinery industries shipments during the first six months were eleven per cent higher than in 1962. In the wood and wood products industry shipments at the end of the first quarter were eight per cent higher but second quarter shipments brought them down to just over one per cent over last year to be followed, as mentioned, by a large increase in the third quarter.

Total inventories held at the end of September were slightly higher, by less than one per cent, than at the end of August and were over one per cent higher than the level at the end of September a year ago. Inventories held under progress payments arrangements were up considerably more than total inventory, by over two per cent, consequently the increase in inventory owned was slightly less. In comparison with the end of September a year ago, however, inventory held under progress payments had fallen by ten per cent.

The change in inventory holdings, by components was also slight in September as compared with the previous month. In total, goods in process inventory was up by one per cent, finished products by just less than one per cent and raw materials by less than half of one per cent. The changes were quite different, however, when the durable goods industries and the non-durable goods industries were considered separately. In the non-durable goods changes in raw materials and goods in process were insignificant, the first slightly higher, the second lower, but stocks of finished goods were up by over one per cent. In the durable goods industries, however, the change in finished goods stocks was insignificant; raw materials rose by just less than one per cent and goods in process by just over one and a half per cent.

As compared with inventory holdings in September 1962 all manufactures combined shows inventories at the end of September insignificantly lower for raw materials and goods in process while finished goods stocks are just over four per cent higher. If the durable and non-durable groups are looked at separately the changes are again in contrast. In the non-durable goods group the increase in finished goods of two per cent is slightly less than the increase in goods in process of nearly two and one half per cent; raw matertals stocks are lower than they were a year ago but by less than one per cent. Finished goods inventories in the durable goods industries are nearly seven per cent higher than they were a year ago although goods in process inventory is down by nearly one and one half per cent.

Unfllled orders on manufacturers" books at the end of September were higher by just less than one and one half per cent than unfilled orders at the end of August. However, this increase was larger than usual for the month, pushing the seasonally adjusted estimate up by over four per cent.

The bulk of orders carried on manufacturers" books are in the durable goods industries; the low level of orders in the non-durable goods industries swung considerably higher in September to bring them above August, as noted above, although in the durable goods group the level remained stable or fractionally less than the level at the end of August. It was, however, over six per cent higher than the level at the end of September a year ago.

TABLE S. Ratios of Value of Finished Products Inventory to Value of Shipments grouped according to the Standard Industrial Classificstion

INDUSTRIAL GROUPINGS

The industries shown in the Standard Industrial Classification Groups are listed below.

A single asterisk (*) preceding the individual industry title indicates that the industry is shown separately in Table 4 - Statistics for Selected Individual Industries.

A double asterisk () preceding the individual industry title indicates that the industry is shown in Table 4 combined with one or more other industries. The industries grouped are ilisted in footnotes to the table.

The bracketed letters following the individusl industry titles indicate the statistical series - shipments, inventories and orders in which the industry is included monthly: (s) means the industry is included in the shipments series; (1) In the inventory series; and (o) in the orders series. Industzies for which monthly coverage is not indicated are included in the all-industry and group totals estimates.

CONCEPTS

Shipments - (Tables 1 to 4) - represent an egtimated projection, on a monthly basis, of the latest available Census of Manufactures values.

New Orders - (Tables 2 and 3) - This series is designed to indicate the rate at which new business is being received. It is defined as all New Orders Received during the period, at estimated selling values. Thus it covers total new orders, net of cancellations, regardless of whether the orders will be filled from stock or as a result of activity during the same month (and, therefore, will also be reported as shipments in the month received) or whether they will be added to existing backlogs.

Unfilled Orders - (Tables 2 and 3 ) = are defined at estimated selling value, at the end of che period stated, of orders received but not yet shipped (or treated as a sale), irrespective of work done on them or of stocks from which they can be filled.

Total Imventory Owned - (Tablea 2 to 4) - represents the estimated book value of inventory owned by manufacturers in connection with manufacturing operations, whether held at plant or not, at the end of the period stated. It is made up of: raw materials, goods in process, finished goods of own manufacture at plant and warehouse, less value of inventory held but not owned which carnot be assigned to specific components. Since the geries relates to manufacturing inventory only, value of goods purchased for re-sale is not included.

Imentory Held but Not Owned - (Tables 2 and 3) - represents, as far as possible, the portion of manufacturers total inventory holdings which are no longer owned by the reporting manufacturers because of payments made on long-term contracts as work on these progresaes. This item is applicable only to the relatively few industries where long-term contracts are common although, because of the nature of the 1 tem, the value per industry is high.

Because of variations in accounting methods there are a few cases where it is not possible to obtain values for this type of inventory. The estimated value shown for this irem must therefore be considered co some extent incomplece.

Total Imentory Held - (Tables 2 and 3) - represents the estimated total value of manufacturers inventory holdings in connection with manufacturing operations, regardless of ownerahip; it differs from invencory owned by che inclusion of amouncs held under progress payments arrangements.

Inventory Components - (Tables 2 and 3) - Raw Materials, Goods in Process, and Finished Products are reported and compiled as on the books of each manufacturer, i.e. there has been no actempt to define che components specifically for each industry.

The inventory components are always a breakdown of total inventory held, nat of total inventory owned. In industries where these two items differ, due to the inclusion of inventory held but not owned (see sbove), it is not possible to obtain value of imentory owned by components since, where separate progress accouncs are maincalned, firms concerned can only state that, of total holdings, a certain amount is no longer owned by them. It is fairly obvious that the bulk of such payments apply to goods in process holdings but due to time lags in shipments and to prepayments some of the total value of inventory held but not owned would be applicable co finished products or raw materials.

Any comparisons of shipments/inventory ratios should be made using total imentory owned, not total imentory held, since the latter includes values which have already been written off to sales. If shipments/imentory ratios are desired using imencory components, rather chan total invencory, a reasonable approximation to total imventory owned by components would be obtained by assuming that all imventory held but not owned had been included with goods in process.

Groupings - The Standard Industrial classification groupings of industries used in Tables 3 and 4 are defined according to the Standard Industrial Classification Manual. A list of the industries included in the Standard Industrial classification groups will be found on page 27 of the bulletin.

SOURCES

Monthly (or, in a few cases, quarterly) reports covering value of inventories and shipmenta are now submitted on a voluntary basis by 3,000 plants in 120 industries; in addition, 3,000 smail plants in 100 of these industries report monthly shipments only. Of the first group, 1,025 plants in 83 industries also report new and unfilled orders. Four industries are included in the total shipments estimstes by using data available from other Bureau series, and two of these are also included in the total inventory estimates.

FOOTNOTES TO TABLES

TABLE 1. - (1) Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia combined for monthly estimates.
(2) Yukon and the Northwest Territories combined with British Columbia.

TABLE 2. - (1) Annual shipments values differ slightly from published Census of Manufactures totals due to inventory adjustments for certain industries where Census of Manufactures data represent production rather than shipments values.

(2) The value of Unfilled Orders and, therefore, of New Orders for industries in major groups - $1,2,6,8,9,10,17,18$ and 19 is small and sample coverage is not adequate to provide separate estimates for them.
(3) The value of inventory held but not owned in this group is very small, and sample coverage is not adequate to provide separate data. Estimates for this type of inventory are included with Total Inventory Held; for all practical purposes this can be considered the equivalent of Inventory Owned.

TABLE 5. - (1) Ratios for this group were calculated using values of Total Inventory Held instead of values of Total Inventory Owned. See footnote (3), table 3.
