ESTIMATED VALUES OF SHIPMENTS, INVENTORY OWNED AND ORDERS IN ALL MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES

The monthly bulletin of Manufacturers' Shipments, Inventories and Orders provides monthly values for these items for the manufacturing industries of Canada. The aggregate shipments values and year end inventory values are directly comparable<sup>(1)</sup> with the annual shipments values of Census of Manufactures and the opening and closing inventory values are also comparable with the census values for all years where the census values have been published. Thus in this bulletin the values up to and including the year 1961 are equal to or directly comparable with the census values. The values for 1962, 1963 and for the first three months of 1964 are estimates obtained by using reports from a group of manufacturing firms to project the latest, 1961, census values. The values published here for 1962 and 1963 may therefore be used as preliminary estimates of the census values for these years and the monthly estimates for 1964 bring the series up to date.

The format of the publication follows the Standard Industrial Classification with two additional groupings. First total shipments are divided into manufactures' shipments by provinces; and secondly the major groups in the standard industrial classification are classified as durable or non-durable industries and these two groups are summed and shown separately.

The Manufacturing Division of the Standard Industrial Classification is a classification of manufactures according to the process carried on and the end product produced. In this classification the entire range of manufacturing in Canada is reduced to approximately 200 industries. These industries are, again using the same two criteria, grouped into 20 major groups and, as noted above, the twenty major groups are divided into two: durable and non-durable goods, but for this division the criterion is the end product only. A further division into economic use groups has not been included in this publication but will be available later this year. The more extensive use of the end product criterion in the Standard Industrial Classification has brought the individual industries more closely in line with the economic use concept so that the latter will follow more readily from the revised industry classifications than from the former industry series.

The monthly series revised to the new industrial classification were first published a year ago. The revision this year, which has also been extended to cover the years back to 1958, is in one sense the customary annual revision which is done to incorporate the latest available annual census data into the series and to use it as the base for the subsequent years and the current monthly estimates; this year, however, the use of the 1961 base has resulted in the revision of the series to the new establishment concept as the year 1961 is the first year in which the census has used this definition.

The manufacturing establishment was defined in the 1961 census as the smallest manufacturing unit in a company which is a separate accounting entity capable of reporting the full range of principal statistics. The former definition also required a full range of statistics but the essential consideration was the attempt to break out manufacturing activity separate from other activity and to obtain separate reports if major groups of commodities produced in the same plant were classifiable to different industries. The major activity of the establishment must be manufacturing activity in contrast to the former practice of attempting to cover the manufacturing activity in non-manufacturing establishments. In changing the emphasis many companies which formerly prepared two or more census reports for the same manufacturing location will now prepare only one and in many cases the value of shipments will reflect final sales rather than values at the manufacturing level as in the past. The firms participating in the monthly survey had fairly generally adjusted their monthly reporting to the new definition during 1962 as the 1961 census reports came in or were revised on the new basis so that the current values were revised at the same time as the annual series. It should be added that as the new definition of the establishment is designed to obtain the most meaningful values from firms on the basis in which their records are set up many firms were already reporting monthly on this basis as the detailed adjustments required to report on the old definition were often only possible for the annual report.

In working out the new establishment definition with manufacturers it became apparent that many firms had been reporting factory shipments at cost to the census and were reporting final sales to customers in the monthly survey as a company sales figure. In many companies the final sales were made through a sales division or trading outlet which lent some rational to the differences although, in fact, the sales outlet was an integral part of the company taking orders and selling goods directly from the plant or warehouse. Under the new definition the shipments from such firms are now reported in the annual census at final selling value (the same as in the monthly survey) and the employment and payrolls of the sales staff are shown on the annual plant report. This results in a more meaningful figure of value added in manufacturing. Since during the work on the revision it became evident that the trading outlet universe, as previously defined, would to a large extent vanish under the new establishment concept, shipments and inventories of manufacturers' sales outlets were discontinued from this publication when the revision to the new Standard Industrial Classification was published last year. This area of activity in many industries is now included with manufacturing.

There are, however, some companies with bona fide sales outlets; outlets which "purchase" goods from their own company's plants and expect to sell them at a price to cover the costs of operating the sales outlets. There are also some industries, notably petroleum refineries and the agricultural implements industry where the wholesale or distributing function is an integral part of the manufacturing activity but where the sales activity is so large that the distribution activity has been separated from the manufacturing activity. Thus the wholesale functions in these industries are not included with manufacturing activity and manufacturers' sales are valued at the value of the product at the plant. There is another group of manufacturers where although the manufacturing activity and sales activity are not separate information about commodities produced can only be given at the plant level. Commodity identity is not carried through to the final sales level. These are chiefly food processing companies which can and do report the value of various food items produced in their plants but, since the selling is done through a central but not separate sales division in the company, the total value of shipments cannot be broken down by commodities. For these companies the value of production is recorded rather than the value of shipments in each industry. On the other hand certain plants which do a considerable amount of manufacturing and which were formerly considered manufacturers have been transferred to trade since their major activity is trading. Two groups in particular have been transferred out of manufacturing, sawmills which formed part of a lumber yard and building materials sales outlet and feed mills.

(1) See end of text and footnote to Table 2 on page 95 for exceptions.

Changes from the previously published series resulting from the new concept of the establishment will show up in the values for the years prior to 1961. Changes in the value of shipments and inventories in 1961 are the result both of the change from the old to the new concept and of the revision from the preliminary estimates for 1961 values based on the 1960 census to the 1961 census values. Changes in 1962 and 1963 values are again partly the result of the change in the establishment concept and partly the result of changing the base from 1960 to 1961. Thus only the change in the values for 1960 can be properly ascribed to the change in concept above. The changes in shipments in 1960 estimates at the major group level range from minus 6.6 percent in the wood industries group to plus 1.7% in the rubber products group. The tobacco and tobacco products industries, the paper products and transportation industries show changes of less than a tenth of one percent and six other industry groups: the leather products industries, the knitting mills and clothing industries, the primary metals and machinery industries and the electrical products industries show changes of not more than one percent. Of the eleven remaining groups seven show changes of two percent or less. These are the foods and beverages industries, the rubber industries, the textile industries, the furniture and fixture industries, the metal fabricating industries, the non-metallic mineral products industries and the chemical and chemical products industries. Two others the printing and publishing industries group and the miscellaneous manufacturing industries group show declines of 2.3 and 2.8 percent respectively. The petroleum and coal products industries group has shipments 4 percent lower in 1960 under the new concept than under the former one and the wood industries group has shipments 6.6 percent lower.

A more detailed description of the changes in the annual census of manufacturing resulting from the change in the concept of the establishment will be found in Section A of the report Manufacturing Industries of Canada 1961 (Catalogue No. 31-203). In addition the individual industry reports for the 1962 Census will include a description of the changes in each industry. It should be noted that the Poultry Processors Industry in the Food and Beverage Group and the Dental Laboratories Industry in the Miscellaneous Manufacturing Group have been excluded from Section A - Manufacturing Industries of Canada, 1961, in order to make the 1961 figures comparable to those of previous years when data for these industries were not collected. These industries however, have been included in the monthly series contained in this report beginning with 1960. The sum of the monthly shipments figures for 1961 in this report are therefore about $151 million greater than the corresponding annual census figures. (Poultry Processors - $138 million and Dental Laboratories - $13 million) The figures are $129 million greater in the same comparison for 1960. These industries will be re-introduced in the annual census series in the 1962 Census of Manufactures reports, beginning with the revised 1961 figures.

The monthly series for 1958 and 1959 have been revised to the new establishment concept and are available on request.

INDUSTRIAL GROUPINGS

The industries shown in the Standard Industrial Classification Groups are listed below.

A single asterisk (*) preceding the individual industry title indicates that the industry is shown separately in Table 4 - Statistics for Selected Individual Industries.

A double asterisk (**) preceding the individual industry title indicates that the industry is shown in Table 4 combined with one or more other industries. The industries grouped are listed in footnotes to the table.

The bracketed letters following the individual industry titles indicate the statistical series - shipments, inventories and orders in which the industry is included monthly: (s) means the industry is included in the shipments series; (i) in the inventory series; and (o) in the orders series. Industries for which monthly coverage is not indicated are included in the all-industry and group totals estimates.

CONCEPTS

Shipments - (Tables 1 to 4) - represent an estimated projection, on a monthly basis, of the latest available Census of Manufactures values.

New Orders - (Tables 2 and 3) - This series is designed to indicate the rate at which new business is being received. It is defined as all New Orders Received during the period, at estimated selling values. Thus it covers total new orders, net of cancellations, regardless of whether the orders will be filled from stock or as a result of activity during the same month (and, therefore, will also be reported as shipments in the month received) or whether they will be added to existing backlogs.

Unfilled Orders - (Tables 2 and 3) - are defined as orders on books at the end of the period stated. That is, they cover orders received but not yet shipped (or treated as a sale), irrespective of work done on them or of stocks from which they can be filled.

Total Inventory Owned - (Tables 2 to 4) - represents the estimated book value of inventory owned by manufacturers in connection with the manufacturing operations of the establishment covered whether held at plant or elsewhere, at the end of the period stated. It is made up of: raw materials, goods in process, finished goods of own manufacture less the value of inventory held but not owned which cannot be assigned to specific components. Since the series relates to manufacturing inventory only, value of goods purchased for re-sale is not included.

Inventory Held but Not Owned - (Tables 2 and 3) - represents, as far as possible, the portion of manufacturers' total inventory holdings which are no longer owned by the reporting manufacturers because of payments made on long-term contracts as work on these progresses. This item is applicable only to the relatively few industries where long-term contracts are common although, because of the nature of the item, the value per industry is high.

Because of variations in accounting methods there are a few cases where it is not possible to obtain values for this type of inventory. The estimated value shown for this item must therefore be considered to some extent incomplete.

Total Inventory Held - (Tables 2 and 3) - represents the estimated total value of manufacturers' inventory holdings in connection with manufacturing operations, regardless of ownership; it differs from inventory owned by the inclusion of inventories held under progress payments arrangements.

Inventory Components - (Tables 2 and 3) - Raw Materials, Goods in Process, and Finished Products are reported and compiled as on the books of each manufacturer, i.e. there has been no attempt to define the components specifically for each industry.

The inventory components are always a breakdown of total inventory held, not of total inventory owned. In industries where these two items differ, due to the inclusion of inventory held but not owned (see above), it is not possible to obtain value of inventory owned by components since, where separate progress accounts are maintained, firms concerned can only state that, of total holdings, a certain amount is not longer owned by them. It is fairly obvious that the bulk of such payments apply to goods in process holdings but due to time lags in shipments and to prepayments some of the total value of inventory held but not owned would be applicable to finished products or raw materials.

Any comparisons of shipments/inventory ratios should be made using total inventory owned, not total inventory held, since the latter includes values which have already been written off to sales. If shipments/inventory ratios are desired using inventory components, rather than total inventory, a reasonable approximation to total inventory owned by components would be obtained by assuming that all inventory held but not owned had been included with goods in process.

Groupings - The Standard Industrial Classification groupings of industries used in Tables 3 and 4 are defined according to the Standard Industrial Classification Manual. A list of the industries included in the Standard Industrial Classification groups will be found on page 105 of the bulletin.

SOURCES

Monthly (or, in a few cases, quarterly) reports covering value of inventories and shipments are now submitted on a voluntary basis by 3,000 plants in 120 industries; in addition, 3,000 small plants in 100 of these industries report monthly shipments only. Of the first group, 1,025 plants in 83 industries also report new and unfilled orders. Four industries are included in the total shipments estimates by using data available from other Bureau series, and two of these are also included in the total inventory estimates.

FOOTNOTES TO TABLES

TABLE 1. - (1) Prince Edward Island, Yukon and Northwest Territories are not published separately. They are included in the total for Canada.

TABLE 2. - (1) Annual shipments values differ slightly from published Census of Manufactures totals due to inventory adjustments for certain industries where Census of Manufactures data represent production rather than shipments values.

(2) The value of Unfilled Orders and, therefore, of New Orders for industries in major groups - 1, 2, 6, 8, 9, 10, 17, 18 and 19 is small and sample coverage is not adequate to provide separate estimates for them.

(3) The value of inventory held but not owned in this group is very small, and sample coverage is not adequate to provide separate data. Estimates for this type of inventory are included with Total Inventory Held; for all practical purposes this can be considered the equivalent of Inventory Owned.

TABLE 5. - (1) Ratios for this group were calculated using values of Total Inventory Held instead of values of Total Inventory Owned. See footnote (3), table 3.
