

Prince Edward Island HST Rate Increase – Sales and Rentals of Non-residential Real Property

On April 19, 2016, the Government of Prince Edward Island announced its intention to increase the provincial part of the harmonized sales tax (HST) by one percentage point from 9% to 10%, effective October 1, 2016. This results in an increase in the HST rate from 14% to 15%.

On June 16, 2016, the Government of Prince Edward Island released transitional rules to determine the HST rate applicable to transactions that straddle the October 1, 2016, implementation date.

This info sheet provides information that reflects the application of those transitional rules, which have been enacted in the Regulations Amending Various GST/HST Regulations, No. 9 (Prince Edward Island) (SOR/2016-212).

This info sheet does not deal with tax changes for the implementation of the HST in Prince Edward Island that came into effect on April 1, 2013. GST/HST technical publications dealing with those tax changes are available on the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) website at cra.gc.ca/gsthsstech.

All supplies referred to in the examples are made in Prince Edward Island. If you are uncertain as to whether a supply is made in a participating province, refer to GST/HST Technical Information Bulletin B-103, Harmonized Sales Tax – Place of Supply Rules for Determining Whether a Supply is Made in a Province.

This info sheet explains the rules for the Prince Edward Island HST rate increase that apply to the taxable sale or rental of non-residential real property (that is, real property other than housing) in Prince Edward Island.

Exempt sales and rentals of non-residential real property are not affected by the HST rate increase.

Refer to GST/HST Info Sheet GI-194, Prince Edward Island HST Rate Increase – Sales and Rentals of New Housing, for information on how the HST rate increase applies to taxable sales, “self-supplies,” and rentals of new housing in Prince Edward Island. For additional information on the transitional rules for housing and other real property, refer to GST/HST NOTICE 302, Prince Edward Island HST Rate Increase – Questions and Answers on Housing Rebates and Transitional Rules for Housing and Other Real Property Situated in Prince Edward Island.

Sale of non-residential real property

Effective October 1, 2016, the HST at 15% applies to a taxable sale of non-residential real property in Prince Edward Island.

However, transitional rules apply to determine which HST rate (14% or 15%) applies to transactions that straddle the October 1, 2016, implementation date.

Transitional rules – HST at 15%

The HST at 15% applies to a taxable sale of non-residential real property in Prince Edward Island if ownership and possession of the property transfer to the purchaser after September 2016.

In the following examples, all of the suppliers are GST/HST registrants and all of the supplies are subject to the HST.

Example 1

In August 2016, a land developer in Prince Edward Island enters into a written agreement of purchase and sale to sell a small commercial mall to an individual. Under the agreement, ownership and possession of the mall transfer to the individual in November 2016.

The HST at 15% applies to the sale of the mall since ownership and possession of the mall transfer to the individual after September 2016.

Transitional rules – HST at 14%

The HST at 14% applies to a taxable sale of non-residential real property in Prince Edward Island if ownership or possession of the property transfers to the purchaser before October 2016.

Example 2

In July 2016, a land developer in Prince Edward Island enters into a written agreement of purchase and sale to sell a parcel of bare land to a purchaser. Under the agreement, possession of the land transfers to the purchaser on September 27, 2016, and ownership of the land transfers to the purchaser on October 7, 2016.

The HST at 14% applies to the sale of the land since possession of the land transfers to the purchaser before October 2016.

Rental of non-residential real property

For purposes of this info sheet, the word “lease” refers to a lease, licence, or similar arrangement.

Effective October 1, 2016, the HST at 15% applies to a taxable lease of non-residential real property in Prince Edward Island.

However, transitional rules apply to determine which HST rate (14% or 15%) applies to transactions that straddle the October 1, 2016, implementation date.

To determine whether the HST at 14% or 15% applies to a taxable lease of non-residential real property in Prince Edward Island, one must also consider when the consideration for the lease becomes due or is paid without having become due.

When consideration becomes due

For GST/HST purposes, in the case of a written lease agreement for non-residential real property, consideration becomes due on the day the lessee is required to pay the consideration under the agreement.

If the lease is not made under a written lease agreement, consideration, or a part thereof, becomes due on the earliest of:

- the day the supplier first issues an invoice for the consideration or part;
- the date of that invoice; and
- if there is an undue delay in issuing that invoice, the day the supplier would have issued the invoice.

When consideration is paid without becoming due

For GST/HST purposes, in the case of a supply of non-residential real property made by way of lease, consideration is paid without having become due when the lessee pays the consideration before it is required to be paid (for example, payment is made before the consideration becomes due under a written lease agreement).

Does the HST apply at 14% or 15%?

Once it is determined when the consideration becomes due or is paid without having become due, the following rules are applied to determine whether the HST at 14% or 15% applies to a taxable lease of non-residential real property in Prince Edward Island:

- the HST at 15% applies to any consideration that becomes due or is paid without having become due after September 2016; and
- the HST at 14% applies to any consideration that becomes due or is paid without having become due before October 2016.

Example 3

The owner of a commercial building in Prince Edward Island makes a supply by way of licence of space in the building to a dance studio for the period from September 6, 2016, to October 31, 2016. Under the written agreement for the supply, the licence payment for the period is due on September 6, 2016, and the dance studio makes the payment on that day.

The HST at 14% applies since the payment becomes due before October 2016.

Example 4

The owner of a commercial building in Prince Edward Island makes a supply by way of licence of space in the building to a couple for the period from September 18, 2016, to September 20, 2016. The couple will use the space for their wedding ceremony and reception. The licence payment for the period is $650.

Under the written agreement for the supply, a portion of the licence payment ($300) becomes due and is paid by the couple on September 1, 2016. The remaining $350 becomes due and is paid by the couple on October 1, 2016.

Since the payment of $300 is not a deposit and it becomes due before October 2016, the HST at 14% applies to that payment. Since the payment of $350 becomes due and is paid after September 2016, the HST at 15% applies to that payment, even though the licence period is before October 2016.

Example 5

An individual enters into a written agreement with the operator of a marina in Prince Edward Island for the right to dock the individual's boat for the period from October 1, 2016, to October 31, 2016. The docking fee for the entire period is $450.

Under the agreement, a portion of the docking fee ($200) becomes due on September 1, 2016. The remaining $250 becomes due on October 1, 2016. The individual pays the full $450 on September 1, 2016.

Since the amount of $200 becomes due and is paid before October 2016, the HST at 14% applies to that payment. Since the balance of $250 is paid without having become due before October 2016, the HST at 14% applies to that payment.

Example 6

An individual rents a parking space in Prince Edward Island on a monthly basis from the operator of a parking lot located near the individual's work. The payments are due and paid on the first day of each month. There is no written agreement and the operator issues a receipt when payment is made.

For the month of October 2016, the HST at 15% applies to the payment since the amount becomes due and is paid after September 2016. This is the first payment to which the HST at 15% applies and all subsequent payments for parking are subject to the HST at 15%.

Example 7

A non-profit organization makes a supply by way of licence of an ice rink in Prince Edward Island to a hockey club every Monday night for the period from March 1, 2016, to November 1, 2016. The hockey club pays the licence fee on the day of use. There is no written agreement and the non-profit organization issues a receipt when payment is made.

As of October 1, 2016, the HST at 15% applies to the licence payment paid by the hockey club on the day of use. The HST at 14% applies to licence payments paid by the hockey club on days of use that occur before October 2016.

Example 8

An individual has a licence to use real property in Prince Edward Island for the period from September 15, 2016, to November 15, 2016. The licence payment for the period is due and paid in-full on September 15, 2016.

Although a part of the licence period occurs after September 2016, the HST at 14% applies to the full amount since the payment for the licence becomes due and is paid before October 2016.

Example 9

A hotel operator in Prince Edward Island rents a room to an individual for a four-night stay beginning on September 30, 2016. The supply is made under a written agreement under which the hotel operator charges a nightly rate of $125 that is payable when the individual checks out of the hotel. However, the individual pays the full amount for the four-night stay when checking in to the hotel on September 30, 2016.

Although the payment becomes due after September 2016, the HST at 14% applies since the payment is made before October 2016.

Example 10

A hotel operator in Prince Edward Island rents a room to an individual for a four-night stay beginning on September 30, 2016. The supply is made under a written agreement under which the hotel operator charges a nightly rate of $125 that is payable when the individual checks out of the hotel. The individual pays the full amount for the four-night stay when checking out of the hotel on October 4, 2016.

The HST at 15% applies to the full amount since the amount becomes due after September 2016 and it is not paid before October 2016.

Example 11

An individual enters into a lease agreement in May 2016 for the taxable lease of commercial real property in Prince Edward Island. The term of the lease commences October 1, 2016, and requires monthly lease payments, due in advance, on the first of the month beginning October 1, 2016. The individual takes possession of the property under the lease on October 1, 2016, and makes the lease payment for the month of October on that date.

The HST at 15% applies to each lease payment since each lease payment becomes due after September 2016, and is not paid before October 2016.

applies the deposit as consideration for the supply or the amount is forfeited. Generally, a deposit is an amount, whether refundable or not, given by a recipient as security for the performance of an obligation by the recipient. A deposit is not a prepayment. One way of determining whether an amount is a deposit or a prepayment of consideration for a supply is to refer to how the supplier accounts for the receipt of funds in its books and records. An amount paid to a person as a deposit would generally not be recorded in the person's books and records as revenue until such time as the person applies the amount as a payment or the amount is forfeited.

Example 12

A guest makes a deposit in August 2016 for a hotel room in Prince Edward Island in October 2016. Upon receiving the payment, the hotel operator sends the guest confirmation of the reservation and receipt of the deposit. No invoice was issued either upon receipt of the deposit or beforehand, and there is no written agreement in respect of the accommodation. The deposit is not applied as consideration for the supply until the guest checks out of the hotel in October 2016.

The supply of accommodation is subject to the HST at 15% since the consideration becomes due and is paid after September 2016.

Deposits

Deposits given in respect of a supply are not consideration for a supply unless and until the supplier
