THE FEDERAL ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT AND REVIEW PROCESS

The federal Environmental Assessment and Review Process (EARP) is used to implement the legal requirements of the EARP Guidelines Order. EARP is to be used early in planning before irrevocable decisions or actions are taken.

The Guidelines apply to all federal departments, boards or agencies that are responsible for making decisions on proposals. Parent Crown corporations are expected to make this part of their corporate policy unless this is not possible within the legislative authority of the corporation. This also applies to agencies that deal with regulation of certain activities unless this would cause a duplication of procedures or unless legislation does not permit their decisions to be based on environmental factors.

EARP applies to proposals:

- . that are to be undertaken directly by the government
- . to which the government makes a financial commitment
- . that are located on federally administered land, including offshore
- . that may have an environmental effect on an area of federal responsibility.

The process consists of two phases:

. Initial Assessment: Each department is responsible for an initial assessment of each proposal for which it is a decision maker. The results of the initial assessment help determine the potential environmental and directly related social implications of proposals for which the government has a decision making responsibility.

. Public Review: If it is determined that the potential adverse environmental effects are significant, or there is sufficient public concern, the proposal must be referred to the Minister of the Environment for public review by an independent panel. A proposal may also be automatically referred to the Minister of the Environment for a public review as a type that potentially could produce significant environmental effects.

The Federal Environmental Assessment Review Office (FEARO) administers EARP for the Minister of the Environment.

This Bulletin is published quarterly by FEARO. It presents, in summary form, decisions arising from initial assessments of proposals, as submitted to FEARO by the departments and agencies that have conducted those assessments.

INITIAL ASSESSMENT

An initial assessment is conducted when a department intends to undertake any proposal of its own, or when it has the authority to make a decision about a proposal of another organization that:

- might have an effect on federal Government responsibility
- would require federal Government financial commitment, or
- would be undertaken on lands administered by the federal Government, including those offshore.

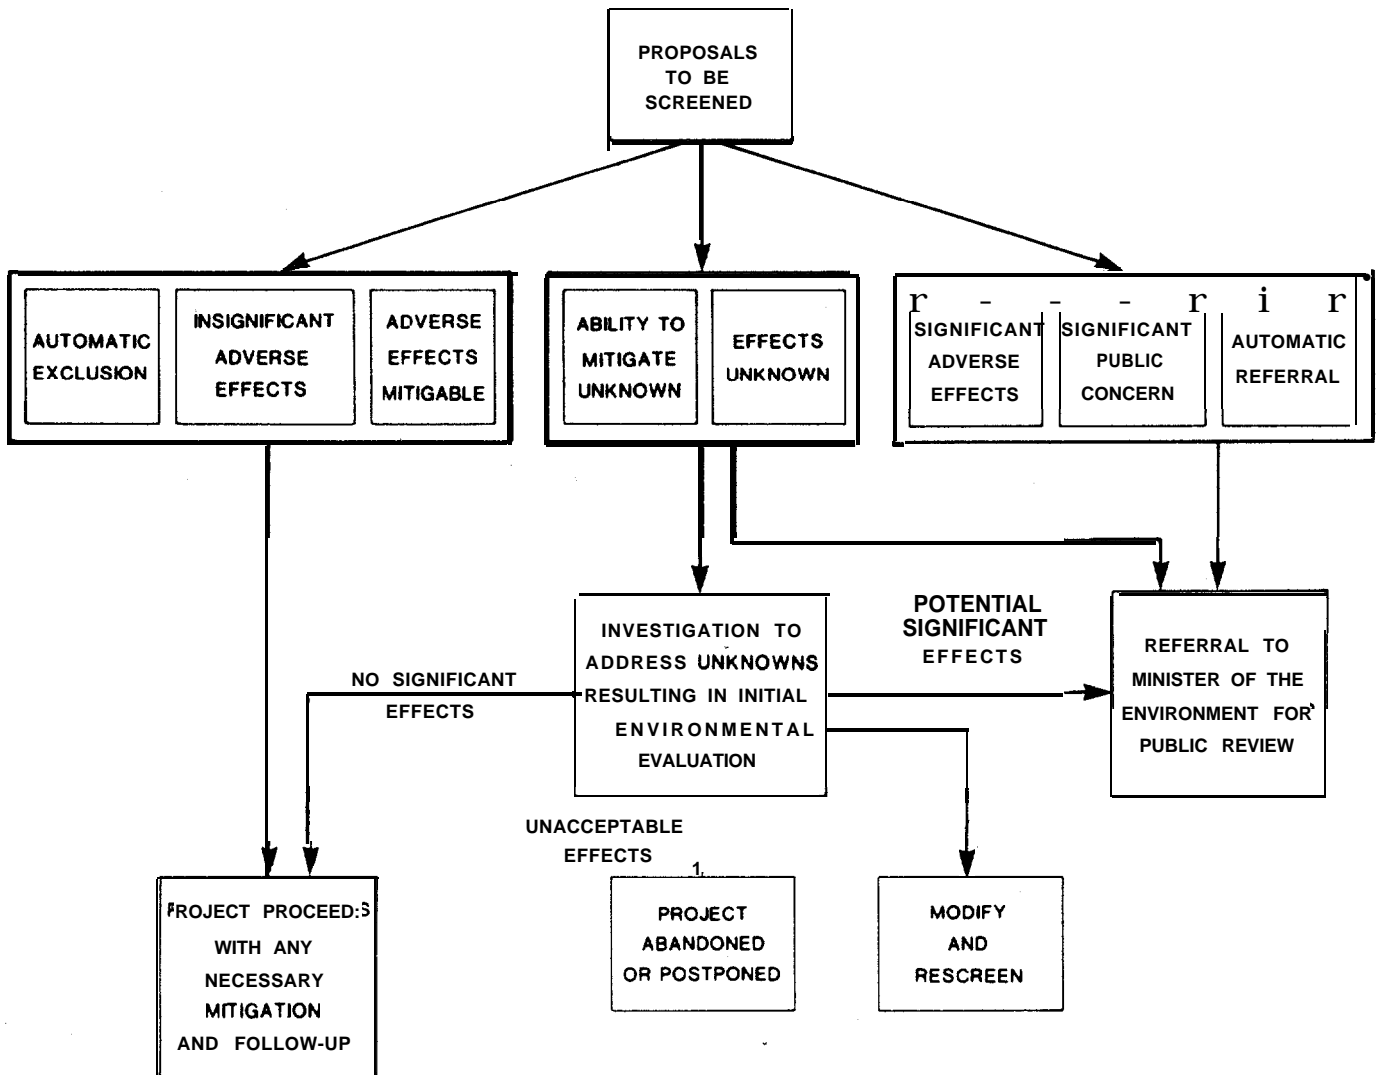

Initial assessment starts with a screening procedure by a department to determine the potential environmental and directly related social effects of a proposal; that is, effects that could bring adverse changes to the natural environment, and effects that these changes could have on people. Screening may lead to additional study that results in a detailed document called an Initial Environmental Evaluation (IEE). This document is described in more detail on page 4 of the Initial Assessment Guide published by FEARO. Its place in initial assessment can be seen in the diagram on page 8 of this Bulletin, which is taken from the Guide.

As a result of the initial assessment, a department makes a decision about the environmental significance of a proposal. In this Bulletin, each proposal listed has been assigned a number indicating what decision was taken. The codes are explained on the page immediately preceding the listings. Eight decisions in that list are the same as those described on page 5 of the Initial Assessment Guide. There are two additional numbers: 0 – to indicate that initial assessment of the proposal has started but no decision has been made; 10 – to indicate that the proposal is to be carried out in another country under the auspices of the Canadian International Development Agency and although an environmental impact statement may be produced, there may be no public review by an independent panel.

Two of the decisions may be made immediately: automatic exclusion from study or automatic referral to the Minister of the Environment for a public review by an independent panel. Excluded proposals are those that would not produce any adverse environmental effects, such as routine maintenance. Automatic referrals are made for proposals that potentially could produce significant adverse environmental effects.

The list of decisions is a summary meant to identify, in a few key words, proposals that have entered the process. It is not intended to provide a complete description nor be the sole source for information about such proposals. More detail about any proposal, as well as lists of automatic exclusions and automatic referrals, is retained by the department concerned. Requests for additional information – available in either official language – should be made first of all to the appropriate department contact listed at the end of this Bulletin, rather than to FEARO.

Initial Assessment

KEY TO DECISION DESCRIPTIONS

Proposed projects are listed alphabetically by province or territory and by location. Interprovincial and offshore projects are listed under "CANADA," and international projects under the designation "INTERNATIONAL."

The project is described in a few key words. The federal government, board, agency or corporation responsible for the project is listed (see list of departmental abbreviations below). Initial assessment decisions are listed in the final column, by number code 0 to 10. See the next page for details on the Decisions Code.

DECISION CODES

Initial assessment decisions are listed as numbers from 0 to 10. Those projects qualifying for automatic exclusion from further study, Code 1, are not listed in this Bulletin, but information about them may be obtained from departments.

- 0 Initial assessment starting: no decision yet.
- 1 Automatically exclude proposal from study as a type that would not produce any adverse environmental effects (NOT listed in this Register).
- 2 Proceed with proposal because there are no significant adverse effects.
- 3 Proceed with proposal because the potentially adverse impacts may be mitigated with known technology.
- 4 Assess the proposal in greater detail (Initial Environmental Evaluation — IEE) because the adverse effects that might be caused by the proposal are unknown.
- 5 Give the proposal further study (IEE) because the ability to mitigate adverse effects is unknown.
- 6 Refer the proposal to the Minister of the Environment for a public review by a panel because the potential adverse impacts are significant.
- 7 Refer the proposal to the Minister of the Environment for a public review because public concern about it is such that a review is desirable.
- 8 Automatically refer the proposal to the Minister of the Environment for a public review as a type that potentially could produce significant environmental effects.
- 9 Either modify the proposal and rescreen it or abandon it because the impacts are unacceptable.
- 10 Production of an Environmental Impact Statement at request of the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) because potential adverse impacts are significant.
