NFB/education

WELCOME LETTER

Dear Educators,

As many of you may know, the National Film Board of Canada turned 75 years young in May, and with more than seven decades of experience bringing quality educational content to classrooms, we have a lot to celebrate—and even more to thank you for.

You've spoken, and we have listened: your feedback remains invaluable to us as we continue to provide you with the best learning resources available. That's why we're delighted to share with you the 2014–2015 NFB Education Catalogue, with its exciting new crop of films, apps and interactive projects—rich and wide-ranging content that is guaranteed to get your students thinking about the critical social issues of the day.

CAMPUS

For those of you who haven't heard, learning really is our favourite subject... and nothing illustrates this better than our online media hub, CAMPUS. This year, we've added a host of new titles and features to CAMPUS, including our new Learning Bundles library, a curated collection of films, clips, behind-the-scenes information and downloadable content that is searchable by theme, subject, or age level. We developed this valuable tool based on your feedback, recognizing a need for curated, high-quality productions exploring select themes and subject areas. Be sure to check out our Learning Bundles on Gender Studies, Environmental Issues and Aboriginal People—they contain a treasure trove of material so rich you may feel an irrepressible need to tweet about it!

AWARD-WINNING PARTNERS

In addition to offering many acclaimed new NFB releases, we've been working with award-winning partners across Canada to maintain a well-rounded film collection that tackles the subjects that matter.

We've established partnerships with Library and Archives Canada, MindFuel (formerly Science Alberta Foundation), Mongrel Media and DHX Media, among others, hand-picking quality content to ensure CAMPUS remains the premier one-stop shop for classroom media resources.

WORKSHOPS

Also, over the past year, NFB education specialists have been travelling from coast to coast, holding a variety of inspiring workshops for students of all ages. (If you have yet to sign your class up for one of these sessions, please see page 48 for more details about them.) Educators can get in on the fun, too, by attending one of our professional development workshops, which cover subjects such as integrating technology into the curriculum, teaching media-literacy skills and producing films with students. And if you can't make it to a workshop, you can always visit us at one of the many educational conferences we take part in every year; we would love to meet you in person.

VIRTUAL CLASSROOMS

Our Virtual Classroom program continues to expand, featuring new, timely and informative events for both students and educators. Last year, we brought Chris Hadfield and David Suzuki, among others, into your classroom. This year's lineup promises some wonderful surprises and incredible learning opportunities; subscribe to our newsletter to keep abreast of upcoming Virtual Classroom events and special guests.

DIGITAL BOUTIQUE

Finally, we're going digital—in a BIG way. Thanks to our new Digital Boutique, you no longer need to wait for a DVD to be delivered in the mail: you can download any film that piques your interest, in a matter of minutes. Better yet, subscribe to CAMPUS (if you haven't already) and gain access to over 3,500 titles, available from any location, on any day of the week.

The NFB is proud to be working with you as we continuously expand the unique selection of films, resources, events and workshops that makes us Canada's leading educational resource provider. Please be sure to stay in touch: like us on Facebook, follow us on Twitter, check out our blog and visit us often at nfb.ca/education.

We hope that you'll make the NFB's education offerings a key part of your next lesson plan, just as we consider you to be a vital part of the work we do every day.

Happy viewing,

Kristine Collins

Canada's Leading Online
Educational Resource

CAMPUS

CAMPUS IS EXPANDING TO ENHANCE YOUR CLASSROOM EXPERIENCE

Get unparalleled access to online media from Canada and around the world

CAMPUS, the NFB's innovative online streaming service, empowers educators to transform traditional learning environments with a curated selection of engaging films, dynamic apps and exciting interactive experiences. With resources created specifically for educators, CAMPUS is designed to meet the pedagogical needs of your classroom. It's also constantly evolving in response to your feedback: more films available for streaming, an improved educator-focused interface, and all-new CAMPUS Learning Bundles to help inspire classroom discussion.

CREATE YOUR CAMPUS PROFILE TODAY

CAMPUS has already been adopted by ministries of education and school boards across Canada. To check if your organization already has a subscription or to purchase a subscription for yourself or your school, contact us at info@nfb.ca.

A SUBSCRIPTION INCLUDES THE FOLLOWING:

> Over 3,500 Canadian films and counting

Get continuous access to a selection that is updated frequently throughout the year, with additional releases exclusive to CAMPUS subscribers including new releases, not available to the general public. You can easily stream documentaries and animated films in English and French. Our careful acquisitions from Canada and around the world are thoughtfully selected to meet your targeted curriculum and learning outcomes.

> Curated by and for educators

All films available through CAMPUS have been assessed by Canadian educators. With thousands of options at your fingertips, you can quickly determine whether a film is right for your lesson, or use the advanced search feature to find additional resources by curriculum and age. Selecting relevant online media for the classroom is now easier than ever.

> Share your playlists, individual chapters, or entire films

Sharing your selected CAMPUS resources with students, parents and colleagues is as intuitive as clicking your mouse. Use the new playlist feature ahead of time to easily access your selected resources during class. Playlists also allow you to target specific chapters and entire films for students to investigate further, on their own.

LEARNING BUNDLES – NEW ON CAMPUS!

CAMPUS Learning Bundles are developed in consultation with Canadian educators. Designed to make lesson-planning easy, each bundle contains a rich selection of resources such as films, playlists, apps, background information, discussion questions, articles, and other tools provided by the NFB or our partners. CAMPUS allows you to select the right resource to spark a discussion, illustrate a concept, or support a specific point of view. All the information you need is in one place—no need to scour the Internet, we’ve already done that for you.

LEARNING BUNDLES INCLUDE

FILMS

CAMPUS gives educators exclusive access to a collection of more than 3,500 films, and counting. Choose from our incredibly diverse selection of titles to complement your lesson plan and inspire, engage and inform your students.

CLIPS

A selection of edited clips and a handy chaptering tool make it easy for educators to highlight select moments from their favourite films. When there isn't enough time to screen the whole film, our clips will help you to quickly focus your lesson.

BACKGROUND NOTES

Our Learning Bundles include important film production notes and background information that will help educators contextualize their subject. You can incorporate these into your lesson or assign them as supplemental reading.

STUDY GUIDES

Available for new as well as classic NFB titles, our study guides are designed to meet curriculum objectives and ensure that educators and students get the most out of our productions. Download and share complete guides or only particular sections.

CLASSROOM ACTIVITIES

Working with educators from across Canada, we've developed an array of fun and engaging learning activities to complement our film selection—including research projects, live debates, classroom discussions and visual and media-arts projects.

MEDIA FORMATS

Designed to meet the technological needs of today's classroom, each Learning Bundle features links to interactive productions, tablet applications and additional curated online content that will satisfy your students' digital cravings.

54 HOURS

Arts education, Health/personal development

54 Hours is a remarkably vivid account of the 1914 tragedy in which 132 men were stranded on the ice during a severe snowstorm off the coast of Newfoundland. Seventy-eight men froze to death on the ice pack. Survivor testimony, striking archival materials, weather visualizations, inventive animation and puppetry are seamlessly blended to recreate this harrowing ordeal.

INTERACTIVE PRODUCTIONS

DISCOVER NFB INTERACTIVE DOCUMENTARIES

Discover new possibilities for the classroom

Engage students with innovative, action-based learning. The NFB is recognized globally as a leader in interactive productions, and our award-winning collection provides educators with powerful teaching tools for exploring standard school subjects in exciting new ways that nurture digital literacy and inspire students to create!

A SHORT HISTORY OF THE HIGHRISE

A collaboration between the NFB and The New York Times, this interactive documentary explores the 2,500-year-old global history of vertical living and the issue of social equality in an increasingly urbanized world. Ideal for subjects like History, Politics, and Social Studies, it's primarily composed of four short films that evoke chapters in a storybook through rhyming narration and animated photos.

THE FAITH PROJECT

This interactive documentary features evocative short films about prayer in the modern world, complementing your lessons in World Religions and History. Young Canadians of a diversity of faiths share the rituals that define their spiritual lives, providing you with engaging and authentic content that goes beyond dogma and sparks classroom debate.

MAKING MOVIE HISTORY: A PORTRAIT IN 61 PARTS

This historically rich interactive project is composed of 61 profiles, offering an anecdotal portrait of the NFB's place in Canadian and international cinema as told through the stories of its artists, rebels and dreamers. Organized by filmmaking topics that aim to meet your Media Studies and Canadian History curriculum, these interviews offer a compelling look at the NFB's evolution.

THE DEVIL'S TOY REDUX

Skate or Die! The Devil's Toy Redux is a comic exploration of the skate film genre, bridging 50 years of skateboarding on camera and charting the life of a daring counterculture. Eleven directors from across the world reinterpret Claude Jutra's pioneering 1966 film, providing Social Studies students with a rich storytelling history of rebellion and youth.

FORT McMONEY

Designed for the Web and iPad devices, this groundbreaking documentary game engages students with economic, environmental and social issues as they decide the future of the world's largest energy project. Access over two years of in-depth investigations to inspire action-based learning on this timely topic in subjects like Politics, Science, and Environmental Studies.

SEVEN DIGITAL DEADLY SINS

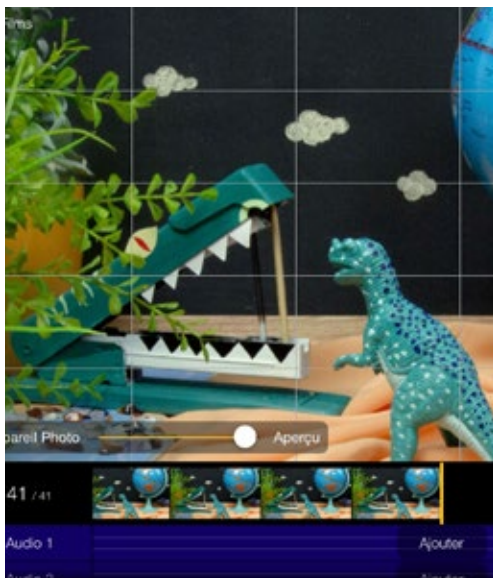

Delve into the new moral dilemmas posed by advances in digital technology and social media. From greed-driven traders to envious anonymous trolls, Instagram foodies, and dads who e-spy on their kids, these short films feature humorous conversations with celebrities like singer-songwriter Billy Bragg, comedian Ophira Eisenberg, author Gary Shteyngart, and television personality Mary Walsh. Each interview helps spark discussions on how technology is reshaping our beliefs and everyday lives.

APPS FOR THE CLASSROOM

MOBILE DIGITAL RESOURCES – TAKE YOUR TEACHING ANYWHERE

Learning through creative participation

The NFB offers a host of fascinating digital applications for your mobile devices to complement the resources available through CAMPUS. These projects enrich classroom learning in a more responsive way by nature of their intuitive design. Whether you have an iPad, Android tablet, or a smart TV, simply download apps using the links available at nfb.ca/apps and transform learning experiences with your students.

STOPMO STUDIO

Shoot and share stop-motion animated movies. Educators can quickly get up to speed on creating frame-by-frame animation and inspire creative student collaboration in any subject area, bringing classrooms to life in an exciting way. Optimized for the iPad and iOS7, the StopMo Studio app is available for $2.99 through the App Store.

CIRCA 1948

Co-created by the NFB's Digital Studio in Vancouver and world-renowned artist Stan Douglas, this interactive art app explores how the social dynamics of poverty and wealth influence urban planning. This immersive media experience for Canadian History and Social Studies deals with topics such as Canadian politics, economic recession, police corruption, and the black market economy.

McLAREN'S WORKSHOP

Great for students in Media Studies, this iPad app is inspired by the genius of filmmaker and animation pioneer Norman McLaren. It includes a compilation of over 50 award-winning films by McLaren and offers students a chance to experiment with his paper cut-out, scratch-on-film, and synthetic sound animation techniques.

THE LOXLEYS AND THE WAR OF 1812

Based on historical events, this beautiful interactive graphic novel app tells the story of a fictional family caught up in the conflict between British-ruled Canada and the U.S. The accompanying study guide provides Canadian History educators with discussion material on key events, people and complex issues surrounding the war.

LUDOVIC

Designed to appeal to children three-to-five years old, this tablet app leads players through the magical world of the four seasons. With eight simple interactive exercises and four films, educators can introduce children to the concept of passing time with the lovable teddy bear, Ludovic, as their guide.

EDUCATIONAL WORKSHOPS

Creative, hands-on sessions for media and digital literacy

In addition to the massive collection of in-depth CAMPUS resources, the NFB also offers an extensive range of workshops for educators, youth and children at our Montreal and Toronto studios. Integrating digital literacy principles with hands-on media production, these fun and compelling workshops are centred on activities that promote collaboration, creative thinking, communication and engagement with current social issues.

NFB Education Specialists guide creative learners of all ages through introductory techniques in animation, documentary and digital storytelling. Each workshop is tailored towards meeting curriculum guidelines in Quebec and Ontario, but they can also be adjusted to meet standards in other provinces. For educators interested in professional development, the NFB offers workshops on integrating digital media and production into the classroom and guidance on maximizing NFB resources.

For current workshop offerings or to inquire about reserving a workshop for your class or colleagues, visit nfb.ca/education/workshops.

VIRTUAL CLASSROOMS

Building connections between students and influential thinkers

The NFB's Virtual Classroom experience engages students in live online discussions with influential public figures. Past events featured world-renowned astronaut Chris Hadfield, passionate environmentalist David Suzuki, and Olympian Adam Van Koeverden. Spearheaded and organized by the NFB, this innovative program has also fostered important conversations on topics like the Holocaust and the legacy of Canada's Residential School system.

With the power to connect students and educators across the country and to share a variety of viewpoints on current affairs and critical issues, Virtual Classrooms provide a unique experience that transcends traditional learning methods. Pre-selected NFB films and learning resources give educators and students invaluable background information to spark the online discussion between participants—who only require Internet access, a webcam and a microphone to get involved.

We make it easy for you to integrate Virtual Classroom technology into your teaching. The NFB tech team will guide you through the simple sign-in process and help answer any questions.

GET INVOLVED

This year we will be inviting students and educators alike to join us in important conversations about diversity in the classroom, the environment, human rights, and other important social issues. We will be offering Virtual Classrooms in English and French for elementary, secondary, and post-secondary grade levels, as well as professional development sessions for teachers. Our moderated, hour-long Virtual Classrooms offer students and educators the chance to dialogue directly with fascinating Canadians.
