Commodities contributing most to this increase were iron ore, 11,103 (versus 8,365 in 1968); crude gypsum, 1,399 (936) and woodpulp, 1,901 (1,339). Offsetting these increases were declines in loadings of copper-nickel ores and concentrates which continued at a low level due to strikes in Northern Ontario; as a result only 64 cars were moved in comparison with 967 a year earlier. Other commodities showing significant decreases were: wheat, 2,863 cars (4,604); and coal, 1,715 (2,164). Combined receipts from Canadian and United States rail connections increased 3.5% to 24,223 cars from 23,409 in the 1968 period and piggy-back loadings declined 3.7% to 3,111 cars.

4. Hospital Indicators, 1967 This report, the seventh in an annual series begun in 1961, contains 172 tables of hospital indicators or ratios designed to measure hospital activity in Canada for the reporting year 1967. The report is divided into sections which correspond to the organization of services and departments within hospitals. Table order within sections coincides as closely as possible with the order of data presentation in Volumes I-VI of the Institutions Section's publication series, dealing first with beds and patient movement and then services, followed by personnel, balance sheets, revenues and expenditures. The preface, the glossary of terms and the classification and organization charts also provide supplementary information for the user.

For the most part, the data presented in this volume represent the average (i.e., arithmetic mean) values for the activities being measured. Values for the first and third quartiles and the median (or second quartile) are shown for public general hospitals. For example expenditures on gross salaries and wages by Canadian public general hospitals ranged from a minimum of $7.83 per patient-day to a maximum of $83.04 with a mean average expenditure of $28.83. The inter-quartile range (middle 50%) lay between $17.37 (Q_1) and $25.95 (Q_3). One half of the hospitals reported salaries and wages per patient-day of less than $21.49 (Q_2 , or the median value), while the other half reported salaries and wages in excess of $21.49.

5. Hospital Services, 1967 This publication presents data related to the volume and types of services provided for in-patients and out-patients of general and allied special hospitals in Canada.

Laboratory workload for patients of 922 reporting public general and allied special hospitals in 1967 amounted to some 191 million units, where 1 unit equals 10 minutes. General hospitals accounted for 97.9% of this total workload. Laboratory work for in-patients per patient-day amounted to 5.3 units in general hospitals, compared with 4.7 in 1966. Laboratory units done in general hospital per paid hour averaged 8.6 in 1967 (8.3 in 1966).

Radiology examinations reported by 899 public hospitals numbered almost 8 million, of which 98.0% were accounted for by 823 reporting general hospitals. Of the total in general hospitals, 86.7% were other radiographic (including fluoroscopic) and 13.3% were routine chest x-rays. In general hospitals, the ratios per 100 admissions of routine chest x-rays, fluoroscopic examinations, and other radiographic examinations were 32.3, 20.3, and 111.7, respectively.

In general hospitals, in-patient operations in the operating room per 100 admissions numbered 47.2 in 1967 (46.6 in 1966). Patients delivered per 100 admissions decreased from 12.9 in 1966 to 12.2 in 1967.

In 1967, all reporting public, private and federal general and allied special hospitals accounted for 371,072 live births, a decrease of 3.9% from 1966. Public general hospitals accounted for 93.3 of these live births.

For every 100 deaths in public general hospitals, there were 36.8 autopsies (36.9 in 1966), while for every 100 stillbirths there were 33.0 autopsies (32.4 in 1966).

6. Vital Statistics The 34,406 births recorded in provincial offices during October brought the total number registered for the first ten months of 1969 to 314,262, an increase of 0.9% from the 311,525 registrations for the corresponding months of 1968. Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Quebec and Alberta reported increases.

There were 19,950 marriages registered in the provincial offices in October compared with 21,147 in the corresponding month of 1968. For the first ten months of 1969 marriages were 7.7% higher than in the corresponding period of last year with increases shown in all provinces except Quebec and Saskatchewan.

Deaths registered in provincial offices in October numbered 13,155, slightly higher than the 12,827 in October 1968. The cumulative total for the first ten months of 1969 was 0.3% higher than during the same period of last year. Increases were reported in all provinces but Prince Edward Island, Quebec, Ontario and Saskatchewan.
