Canadian Balance of International Payments

Canada recorded a current account deficit of $137 million in the second quarter of 1973 as a trade surplus of $432 million was more than offset by a deficit of $569 million on non-merchandise transactions.

Net inflow of $30 million in short and long-term capital in the quarter combined with a $107 million decrease in Canada's international monetary reserves served to finance the deficit.

Seasonally adjusted, the second quarter deficit stood at only $3 million, compared with a deficit of $253 million in the previous quarter, and a deficit of $680 million for all of 1972.

Approximately 60% of the change in the latest quarter was due to an increase in the trade surplus to $554 million, reflecting both a rise in exports and a decline in imports. The major shift in the service accounts was a decline in travel expenditures abroad.

Significant increases in exports were recorded for crude petroleum, lumber, iron ore, wheat, wood pulp and agricultural machinery.

Exploration, Development and Capital and Repair Expenditures by Mining and Exploration Companies, 1972

Preliminary final results available for the 1972 annual survey of exploration, development, capital and repair expenditures by mining and exploration companies show the most notable strength was in capital expenditures for machinery and equipment, where the high level of 1971 was extended into 1972. Other categories of expenditures in the survey were generally lower.

Capital expenditures for buildings and other structures were down 45% to $227 million from $410 million. On-property exploration and development decreased 18% to $176 million from $216 million. Outside or general exploration also dropped with the new 1972 total of $71 million 22% lower than the $91 million in 1971.

The 1973 outlook for mining (excluding outside exploration) published in August 1973 in Private and Public Investment in Canada, Outlook, Mid-Year Review (61-206), shows the 1973 expectations for capital expenditures to be at a level again lower than in 1972 for expenditures for on-property work, structures and for machinery and equipment. The 1973 total at $709 million would be 11% below the $798 million estimated for 1972.

Further information will be published in Private and Public Investment in Canada, Outlook 1974 (61-205, 504), or may be obtained from J. Cain (613-994-9546), Construction Division, Statistics Canada, Ottawa K1A 0Z6.
