Preface

The publishing program of Statistics Canada is designed to provide easy access to Canadian statistical information. In keeping with that objective, this "Bibliography" brings together, for the first time, sources of social and economic data which are produced on a regular basis by other federal departments and agencies. This book and the Statistics Canada Catalogue together provide the key to locating much of the current federally-produced data.

The "Bibliography" describes the contents of such published sources in the summer of 1981. Table titles and an index are included. Its coverage includes almost all departments, a cross-section of agencies, commissions and boards and some crown corporations. The encouragement and support of these organizations is gratefully acknowledged.

All publications known to contain statistical data could not be accommodated in the publication of this volume. However, a second edition is planned.

This volume was produced by the Reference Products section of the User Services Division. Research and compilation were carried out by Carla Cusack and Dean Bouridis.

Introduction

Organization of the Book

The "Bibliography" is divided into two parts, a publications section and a subject index.

Publications Section —

The publications section has been arranged to enable quick location of material relevant to a general or specific subject. All publications from a department or agency are grouped alphabetically within that department and the departments themselves appear in alphabetical order, as noted in the Table of Contents. Each publication is identified by a unique index reference code which indicates the issuing department or agency (digits preceding the dash) and the publication itself (digits following the dash).

The organization of material in the publications section employs a standard format. The departmental heading which appears at the top of each page is followed by the publication title with its index reference code and bibliographics, i.e., frequency, pagination, language, SSC (Supply and Services Canada) number, International Standard Serial or Book Number (ISSN/ISBN) and price.

Under the heading "Availability" an address is provided from which publications may be ordered. Wherever possible a departmental address is provided; otherwise the Publishing Centre of Supply and Services Canada address is given. When ordering, the title of the publication and the SCC number, if supplied, should be quoted. Where a price is indicated, payment should accompany the order with cheques or money orders made payable to the Receiver General for Canada.

Under the heading "Contents", a brief abstract describes the main topics covered in the publication. Under the heading "Statistical Data" a numbered listing of table titles, refined to include the major subject terms used in the table, furnishes a more detailed description; where the number of tables is large a single description may cover a number of tables having similar content.

Index Section —

The subject index which has been designed as a convenient guide to the publications section, contains a selection of keywords and phrases derived from abstracts and table descriptions. Publication titles are also included and appear in italics. Cross referencing and broad subject headings applied throughout the index contribute to its ease of use. An index reference code, as described above, identifies each publication. Since publications are grouped according to department or agency the Table of Contents can also be a general guide to subject coverage.

Statistics Canada Publications —

The reader should be aware that Statistics Canada publishes current statistical data on many of the subjects covered in this "Bibliography". For a thorough introduction to the publishing program of the bureau a current copy of the "Statistics Canada Catalogue" should be obtained. This publication is available to an organization or individual at no cost for an initial set of one English copy and one French copy; additional copies are priced at $5.00. The Catalogue may be ordered from User Services, Statistics Canada, Ottawa, Canada, K1A 0T6 or from any of the regional reference centres listed below.

Users interested in a retrospective view of Statistics Canada's publishing program may obtain a copy of the "Historical Catalogue of Statistics Canada publications, 1918-1980" by ordering from Publication Sales and Services, Statistics Canada, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0V7, from federal government authorized agents or other bookstores, or from any of the regional reference centres. Orders should quote the title and catalogue number: 12-512E for the English edition, 12-512F for the French. The price is $15.00 per copy.

Contents:

Details the developments in the mineral industry for the year. Includes a general review dealing with the main events and trends in the Canadian economy during the year, as well as overall developments in the mineral industry. Contains individual chapters (approximately 50) for each mineral showing production, imports, exports, consumption, and world production, and descriptive material on development and operations of the industry. Includes a Company Index; and a statistical summary of Canadian mining and related activities. The summary is divided into nine sections containing a number of statistical tables and is preceded by a listing of the tables and by a table entitled "Canada General Economic Indicators". Data are usually in metric (SI) units. Sources include Statistics Canada, Energy, Mines and Resources Canada, other departments and agencies; and company annual reports.

Statistical Data:

1. Production: (12 tables) i.e., value of production; by province; mineral class; percentage contribution by province; census value-added; indexes of physical volume and real domestic product; and leading minerals.
2. Trade: (7 tables) i.e., value of exports and imports of crude minerals and fabricated mineral products by group and by country.
3. Consumption: (3 tables) i.e., apparent consumption; reported consumption; and domestic consumption of refined metals.
4. Prices: (4 tables) i.e., annual prices; wholesale price indexes; general wholesale price index, mineral and non-mineral products indexes; and sales indexes.
5. Principal Statistics: (8 tables) i.e., number of establishments, salaries and wages; costs; value of production; consumption and costs of fuel and electricity; for mining minerals and manufacturing.
6. Employment Salaries and Wages: (12 tables) i.e., number of wage earners; labour costs; man-hours paid; industrial fatalities; average weekly earnings; and number of strikes and lockouts.
7. Mining, Exploration, and Drilling: (10 tables) i.e., diamond drilling; exploration and capital expenditures by group, type, and province; ore mined; rock quarried; and oil and gas operations.
8. Transportation: (7 tables) i.e., "railways"; St. Lawrence Seaway; coastwise shipping; loads and unloads at Canadian ports in international shipping trade; for crude and fabricated minerals.
9. Investment and Finance: (7 tables) i.e., financial statistics of corporations by industry group; by control; by degree of non-resident ownership for either mineral manufacturing or mining; capital and repair expenditures for mineral mining, natural gas, and petroleum industries.

Contents:

Reviews the development of electric power in Canada with discussions on proposed development projects, research and development, alternative energy sources, etc. Includes various statistics on an annual basis for electric utilities and industrial establishments including installed generating capacity, supply, and disposal. Presents data on fuels used to generate electricity; and assets, capital structure and expenditures for electric utilities. Provides comparative year figures.

Statistical Data:

1. Installed and proposed generating capacity by type and by province.
2. Electricity consumption, by region and sector.
3. Fossil fuel use by utilities, and by province.
4. Percentage distribution of electrical energy generated by utilities and industrial establishment — three year comparative.
5. Electric utility capital investment over a given time period.
6. Original cost of utility fixed assets in service, by generation, transmission, and distribution over a given time period.
7. Approximate electric utility investment by province.
8. Electrical utility financial structure by province over a given time period.
9. Average mid-year interest on public utility new long-term debt for selected years.
10. Average revenue from electricity sales by province over a given time period.
11. Installed capacity and electrical energy consumption over a given time period.
12. Electrical energy production, by principal fuel type, and by province (preliminary figures).
13. Electric power exports, by province — two year comparative (some figures preliminary).
14. Generation capacity, by type and by province (includes proposed additions).
15. Installed generating capacity expansion by type, and by province and station (major additions during the year and projected ones).
16. Conventional thermal capacity, by principal fuel type and by province.
17. Forecasts of capital expenditures, by province.
18. Forecasts of generating capacity and production facilities for utilities only.

Statistics include forest land area and wood volume, by province and territory per fiscal year. Classification of the data includes forest inventory type; production and reserved forest land; productive and unproductive forest land; economically accessible and inaccessible forest land; stand maturity and tree species groups.

Statistical Data:

1. Volume of wood of the main stem, including stump and top, of trees and stands, by province or territory.
2. Summary of land areas of Canada and their usage by province or territory.
3. Circle graphs showing a) ownership of forest land; b) ownership of production forest land; c) ownership of reserved forest land by federal crown, provincial crown or by private sector.
4. Summary of production and inventoried forest land area by ownership type, productive and unproductive classes.
5. Wood volume on and area of stocked, productive, forest land by ownership type, species group, and economic accessibility.
6. Annual allowable cut of all species on productive forest land, by province or territory and ownership.
7. Summary of land and freshwater area, by province.
8. Wood volume, by species group for mature, and immature classes, on provincial crown; federal crown; and privately owned forest land.
9. Area of maturity class (of all tree species) on provincial crown, federal crown and private sector production, economically accessible, forest land by province.
10. Annual allowable cut from production forest land, of softwoods and hardwoods, by ownership type.
11. Annual depletion of inventoried forest land, by ownership.
12. Annual depletion (as a result of fires) of inventoried forest land, by ownership.

Contents:

Gathering of information on insects and diseases that are likely to significantly affect the forest economy and environment. The concern for possible wood shortages in Canada in the foreseeable future has underlined the need for quantitative estimates of losses for use in forest management planning. Due to this need to obtain quantitative damage and loss information in pest surveys, those pests considered to be currently most significant have detailed descriptions under "Major Insects and Diseases." Since numerous pests are consistently present in particular regions, they may not be mentioned in this report each year. Information on these and other pests can be obtained from the regional forest research centres concerned.

Statistical Data:

1. Maps showing the distribution or occurrence of major insects and diseases.
2. Quantitative estimates of wood losses from major insects and diseases.
3. Areas of forest land affected by major insects and diseases.
4. Lists of other insects and diseases by region and locality, indicating the host trees, with summary remarks.

210-9 Migratory Birds Killed in Canada During the 19XX Season

Annual, 40 pp., English/French, Free.

Availability:

Canadian Wildlife Service

Contents:

A mail survey is conducted each year to estimate the kill of migratory game birds by hunters in Canada. The survey provides accurate data on the legal sport kill. These data do not include crippling loss, illegal kill or hunting by native peoples. The National Harvest Survey (N.H.S.) is a summarization of the Species Composition Survey which is a gathering of information on duck wings and tail fans from geese to be used to identify the species, age and sex of the birds killed.

Statistical Data:

1. Permit sales by province of purchase in yearly comparisons.
2. Permit sales by resident / non-resident and renewal / non-renewal, by province and zone of sale for the year.
3. Sample selection and response to the National Harvest Survey questionnaire by province and % of response, in yearly comparisons.
4. Number of and ratio of successful hunters and birds harvested, in yearly comparisons by province.
5. Recreational activity provided by the hunting of ducks and geese showing number of permit sales, active / successful hunters, and retrieved kill by province.
6. Estimated retrieved kill of migratory game birds other than waterfowl in Canada, by species in yearly comparisons.
7. Estimated number of successful hunters of: woodcock, common snipe, American coot, sandhill crane, mourning dove, band-tailed pigeon, and of their retrieved kill by province, in yearly comparisons.
8. Estimated recreation activity provided by the hunting of migratory game birds other than waterfowl per annum, by province — average.
9. Precision of estimates at 95% confidence interval of duck and goose kill, from the N.H.S. by province, in yearly comparisons.
10. Net intensity of the Species Composition Survey, by zone.
11. Total waterfowl harvest in Canada, by yearly comparison.
12. Estimated retrieved kill of waterfowl by species and by province, in yearly comparisons.

Consultant Report is available on an interlibrary loan basis.

Contents:

Reports the results of an annual survey conducted by Travel Data International on Canadian vacation travel habits. Presents detailed findings on areas such as, vacation travel patterns; multiple trip taking; demographics of vacationers; the female and retired travel market; trends in vacation travel habits; and trips to the United States and offshore. Findings are presented in question and answer form (Where are Canadians travelling?, How many Canadians take vacations?) with accompanying figures and tables. Figures are usually in percentage terms measuring proportional distribution. A copy of the main questionnaire is appended to the report. A 15 page summary presenting highlights of this consultant report is available by contacting Canadian Government Office of Tourism.

Statistical Data:

1. Characteristics and percentage of Canadian adults taking vacation trips over a given time period.
2. Percentage distribution of Canadian vacation trips by areas visited over a given time period.
3. Reasons for taking trips as a percentage of total trips taken over a given time period.
4. Demographic characteristics of the Canadian adult population in comparison with those who take vacations.
5. Demographic characteristics of vacationers travelling in Canada compared to those vacationing in the United States and offshore.
6. Canada's "market share" relative to foreign destinations among specific demographic subsegments (i.e., age, economic status, etc.) by percentage of total trips taken and percentage of market share.
7. Profile of domestic travellers by region visited — two year comparative.
8. Travel patterns of female vacationers by married/non-married status and by working/non-working status — two year comparative.
9. Areas visited, reasons for travel, mode of transportation, and duration of trips by retired vacationers.
10. Number and percentage of Canadians travelling to the United States for business (one or more nights) or for short weekend pleasure trips as a proportion of trips reported — three year comparative.
11. Nature of trips to the United States classified as "other trips" (business, shopping, or short weekend pleasure trips) by duration and purpose of trip — three year comparative.
12. Destination of non-vacation trips to the United States by areas visited overnight — three year comparative.
13. Profile and percentage distribution of multiple triptakers visiting Canada or the United States.
14. Percent distribution of vacationers taking only one trip in a year and those taking two or more, by areas visited — three year comparative.
15. Percentage of Canadians taking vacation trips by region of residence — 10 year comparative.
16. Percentage of vacation trips taken by mode of transportation utilized.
17. Impact of United States fuel shortage on travel by ways in which plans were altered, i.e., no change, cancelled trip, etc.
18. Profile of vacationers who use travel agents for destinations within Canada, the United States mainland, and offshore.
19. Incidence of vacation travel among various demographic segments and by percentage of Canadian adults taking vacation trips.
20. Differences, i.e., purpose, mode of transportation, and expenditures, in short, medium, and long trips between Canada and the United States.

Consolidates and in some cases revises data previously issued in the quarterly bulletin of the same name. Wage information is derived from base rates of pay contained in collective agreements covering 500 or more employees, excluding the construction industry. In addition to all industries tables, data are disaggregated by manufacturing/non-manufacturing and commercial/non-commercial industries. Data covers the current year of publication plus that of the previous year; the previous year's figures are final for the year while the current year's data contain some preliminary figures.

Statistical Data:

- A New settlement data: percentage wage changes provided by major collective agreements settled by quarter and year.
- 1. Average annual percentage increases in base rates by duration of agreement; annual compound rates of increase over the term of the agreement.
- 2. Average annual percentage change in base rates by effective period of increase and duration of agreement.
- 3. Number of employees covered by new settlements by duration of agreement.
- 4. Average annual percentage increases in base rates by region.
- 5. Average annual percentage increases in base rates by jurisdiction and industrial division.
- B New settlement data: percentage wage changes provided by major collective agreements settled by quarter and year separately with and without C.O.L.A. clauses
- 6. Average annual percentage increases in base rates by duration of agreement; annual compound rates of increase over the term of the agreement.
- 7. Average annual percentage change in base rates by effective period of increase and duration of agreement.
- 8. Number of employees covered by new settlements by duration of agreement.
- C Monthly and annual index numbers (1971=100) and annual percentage and cents per hour increases in base rates.
- D Number and percentage of settlements and employees by duration of agreement.
- E Number and percentage of settlements and employees by settlement stage.
- F Number and percentage of settlements and employees by duration of negotiation.
- G Public and Private sector average annual percentage increases in base rates and annual index numbers (1971=100) of base rate increases.

Presents tabulations reflecting increases in base rates as a result of settlements of major collective agreements reached during the calendar year. Major collective agreements are defined as those governing 500 employees or more in all industries other than the construction industry. Increases in base rates are tabulated on both a percentage and cents-per-hour basis and grouped by province, industry, term of agreement, and effective year of increase. Similar tabulations are issued for each quarter under the same title. The data utilized in the quarterly reports are preliminary and therefore subject to revision. As a result the totals in the annual report will not correspond to the total of the combined quarterly publications.

Statistical Data:

1. Increase in base rates on a percentage and cents-per-hour basis, by term of agreement.
2. Increase in base rates on a percentage and cents-per-hour basis, by term of agreement, province and industry.
3. Increase in base rates on a percentage basis, by term of agreement and effective year of increase: 1-17 months; 18-29 months; 30 months or more.
4. Increase in base rates on a cents-per-hour basis, by term of agreement and effective year of increase: 1-17 months; 18-29 months; 30 months or more.

5. Increase in base rates on a percentage basis, by term of agreement and effect time year on increase, and by province and industry: 1-17 months; 18-29 months; 30 months or more.
6. Increase in base rates on a cents-per-hour basis, by term of agreement, effective year of increase, and by province and industry: 1-17 months; 18-29 months; 30 months or more.
7. Increase in base rates on a percentage basis, by effective year of increase.
8. Increase in base rates on a cents-per-hour basis, by effective year of increase.
9. Total weighted average increase in base rates on a percentage and cents-per-hour basis by term of agreement and by industry.
10. Average increase in base rates on a percentage and cents-per-hour basis, by effective year of increase and by industry.
11. First year cents-per-hour basis and simple percentage increase.
12. Average annual cents-per-hour and compound percentage increase.

Contents:

Presents national information on wage rates and salaries, and hours of labour for a number of office and service occupations, maintenance trades, non-production labourers, and specific industry jobs, based on the results from an annual survey of establishments having 20 or more employees. Wage and salary tables include a breakdown on size of establishment; on a union/non-union basis; and on a median and first and third quartile basis. Similar information is presented in individual Community Reports for 22 communities. A listing of these communities plus a listing of the industries for which information is published in each community report appears at the end of the document.

Statistical Data:

1. Wage and salary rates by cross-industry occupations: data on employment and wage and salary rates (hourly) for approximately 81 office occupations, maintenance trades, service occupations, and non-production labourers whose duties and responsibilities are similar from one industry to another. Data are broken down by size of establishment; on a union/non-union basis; and by median and first and third quartiles.
2. Wage and salary rates by industry occupation: occupational wage rates for a selection of non-office occupations in a number of industries (jobs tend to vary from industry to industry).
3. Standard hours of work by industry group: percentage of employees in establishments reporting standard hours per week and per day for office/non-office/other employees.
4. Frequency distribution of employees in the cross-industry occupations: data are for office/non-office occupations at a specific weekly wage and salary level for all industries surveyed.

Note: Similar statistical data are available for the following communities.

St. John's Newfoundland, Charlottetown, Halifax-Dartmouth, Saint John New Brunswick, Montreal, Quebec City, Trois-Rivières, Ottawa-Hull, Hamilton, Kitchener-Waterloo, London-St. Thomas, St. Catharines-Niagara, Thunder Bay, Toronto, Windsor, Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver, and Victoria.

An annotated directory has been developed to provide information on available data and bibliographic/statistical services which identify Canadian marine transportation information sources. The GUIDE includes 150 non-bibliographic sources of information such as corporate expertise within governments, universities, associations and commercial bodies. Primary sources were used to extract information on active agencies in the marine field. These bodies were then profiled. Seventy-nine secondary bibliographic sources with significant Canadian content such as data bases, directories, abstracts, indices, bibliographies, research in progress, periodicals, handbooks, etc. were identified. A detailed index follows the organizations profiles and bibliographic entries.
