THE DOCUMENT COMPANY XEROX
NORTH YORK, ONTARIO

I. XEROX ABORIGINAL SCHOLARSHIPS AND INTERNSHIPS PROGRAMS

Description: The Xerox Aboriginal Scholarships and Internships encourage information technology literacy among Aboriginal men and women so they will be able to participate in Canada's economic prosperity as we move toward 2000. Xerox hopes to increase the number of Aboriginals employed in the information technology industry and in Xerox specifically. Xerox is committed to workplace diversity and the need to ensure that all people reach their full potential. The overall objectives of the program are:

- ▶ to encourage and assist Aboriginal people in obtaining post-secondary education relevant to the information technology industry which develops the hardware, software and services needed for the creation, movement and storage of information;
- ▶ to provide an opportunity for First Nations/Aboriginal students to learn to use information technology on-the-job through a summer employment program at Xerox; and
- ▶ to create student role models and community leaders who will inspire high school Aboriginal youth to pursue a post-secondary education and learn information technology skills.

Three students will be hired for four months each summer. Students will work part of the summer in Xerox offices in positions involving information technology. They will also work part of the summer reaching out to local communities to fulfill a role model's responsibility in inspiring Aboriginal youth to develop a comfort with information technology.

Amount: A minimum of four Xerox Aboriginal Scholarships for Aboriginal students in post-secondary programs which could lead to a career in the information technology industry.

Each scholarship is $3,000 yearly.

Eligibility: Canadian resident.

Status or Non-Status Indian, Métis or Inuit.

Must be a full-time student at an approved Canadian post-secondary institution in a program with significant content in information technology. This may be found in such disciplines as (though not restricted to):

- ▶ Computer/math sciences
- ▶ Business administration/commerce programs
- ▶ Engineering.

Financial need is not the basis for selection.

Must meet and exceed academic requirements of the chosen post-secondary institution.

Active participation in extra-curricular activities where community leadership skills are displayed.

Participation in public duties and a well-rounded student.

Selection will be based on all the information, transcripts and references provided with the application.

There is no restriction to prevent scholarship winners from receiving concurrently other grants or awards or income from other sources.

Duration: Scholarships are awarded for one year but recipients may reapply annually for the scholarship to a maximum of four years for university programs and three years for college programs.

Application

Deadline: June 15 of each year.
