THIRD ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION OF CANADA

FROM SEPTEMBER 1, 1910, TO AUGUST 31, 1911

The Civil Service Commission has completed the third year of its administration of the Civil Service Act, as amended by the Acts of 1908 and 1910. The benefits to the service and the relief to ministers and members of parliament which have resulted from the non-partisan appointments to the various positions in the Inside Service, since September 1, 1908, have been very generally recognized.

As anticipated at the time of the new departures involved in the Act of 1905, experience has proved that several amendments in the details of the Act would render its principles still more efficient, and permit of a closer and more direct adjustment to the needs of the Service, particularly in the higher and more technical branches. Most of these amendments, though essential to the efficient working of the Act, yet being chiefly concerned with matters of detail, are more suitable for discussion between the Commission and a Committee of Council than in the annual report of the Commissioners.

One of the most hopeful indications for the ultimate removal of all appointments to the Service from the sphere of political patronage has been the increasing extent to which positions of a technical or professional character, which might have been filled without open competition, have been voluntarily assigned to be filled by competitive methods, administered jointly by the Commission and the heads of the departments or branches of the Service concerned with the duties to be performed. It is true that, in consequence of a certain rigidity in the details of the Act, some persons selected by competitive methods still require to be appointed under Section 21 of the Civil Service Act, which authorizes appointment without competition. Thus, as given in Table 14 of the Appendix, page 113, out of a total of forty appointments made under Section 21, it will be found that twenty were selected as the result of open competition, while of the other twenty who were nominated by the departments, fully one-third were selected after consultation with the Commission and admitted to be the most suitable persons available for the positions in question.

During the past year, the regulations of the Commission were revised in several particulars. The revision, based on the experience of the first two years of the administration of the new Act, was made by the members of the Commission in consultation with a Committee of Council, and the revised regulations were duly approved by an Order-in-Council of February 22, 1911. The chief changes relate to the subjects and percentages required for the Third and Second Division examinations. They involve also a considerable reduction in the requirements for the promotion examination from the Third to the Second Division.

During the year there was a very considerable increase in the number of candidates going up for the various Civil Service examinations, and a marked increase in the number of positions filled as the result of open competitions. At the same time, considerable difficulty was met with in securing an adequate number of properly qualified candidates for appointment to special positions at the salaries fixed by the Act for the various grades of the Service. This has been particularly observable in the case of male stenographers, it being found practically impossible to meet the requirements of the departments at the salary of $500, which is the standard salary for entering the Third Division.

The minimum of $800 for the Second Division also rendered it difficult to secure a sufficient number of properly qualified candidates for positions where a university education was desirable, if not indispensable, as in the case of positions involving a technical or scientific training.

It would be of undoubted advantage in securing the best available candidates for the Service if university graduates and others who stand well in the competitive examinations and who were favourably reported upon after at least six months probation, might be appointed at a salary of not less than $1,000.

Those who, owing to special experience before entering the Service, have acquired qualifications of exceptional value to particular departments are, in a measure, provided for under Section 33 of the Act of 1908. But the special increase provided for under that section should be available at any time during the probationary period and not merely at the beginning of it when the special value of a clerk's previous experience may be quite uncertain.

The number of examinations required to be held and the special competitions not necessarily involving written examinations are steadily increasing. In addition to the semi-annual, competitive examinations for the Third and Second Divisions, held throughout the Dominion in November, 1910, and May, 1911, Preliminary and Qualifying examinations for the Outside Service were held at the same dates and places. A general qualifying examination for lower grade positions in the Inside Service was held in May, 1911. The first annual examination for naval cadets was held in November, 1910. This took place on comparatively short notice, owing to the recent organization of the Naval College and the still more recent appointment of the staff.

In addition to the regular examinations, many special written examinations were held during the course of the year. The most important of the special examinations were those held to meet the requirements of the Census Branch of the Department of Agriculture. About one hundred and sixty-two special clerks were required to compile the returns sent in by the various enumerators throughout the country. The required clerks were obtained as the result of two special examinations, the first of which was held in February, and the second in May, 1911.

The most numerous, however, of the special examinations were those connected with the lower grade positions in the various departments of the Inside Service. These are necessitated from the fact that the departments have the option of either selecting persons to be appointed from the regular list of successful candidates at the general examinations held by the Commission, or of nominating special candidates, who then require to take special qualifying examinations in order to obtain the necessary certificates.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 31

There is also an increasing number of special technical and scientific positions to be filled, involving not only a thorough theoretical and practical training but a considerable amount of subsequent experience in actual work. For filling such positions, special competitions are commonly required. Applications are generally limited to those possessing degrees or diplomas from the scientific or technical departments of recognized universities or colleges, and the competitive feature, in accordance with the regulations of the Commission, is determined by the relative range of successful experience in actual positions held and work accomplished.

General Competitions.

At the general examinations held in November, 1910, there were forty-two candidates for the Second Division and one hundred and eighty-eight candidates for the Third Division. Of these, twenty-one were successful in the Second Division and fifty in the Third Division. Of the successful candidates for the Third Division, thirty were qualified as typewriters and stenographers, of whom five were men and twenty-five women. The remaining twenty were qualified as general clerks, and all of them were men, no women being required with these qualifications.

At the general examination in May, 1911, sixty candidates wrote for the Second Division and two hundred and twenty-eight for the Third Division. Of these, thirty-five were successful in the Second Division and ninety-three in the Third Division. Of the latter, forty-eight qualified for general positions, twenty being men and twenty-eight women, and forty-five as stenographers and typewriters. Of the latter only one was a man.

Practically all of the successful candidates have been already appointed to permanent or temporary positions.

Special Competitions.

Two special competitive examinations were held to secure a staff of clerks for the work of compiling the recent census. At the first of these examinations there were nineteen candidates in the Second Division, of whom ten were successful. For this section only men were invited to apply. For the Third Division there were three hundred and eighty candidates, of whom one hundred and seven were men and two hundred and seventy-three women. Of these, sixteen men and seventy-seven women were successful. At the second census examination, held for Third Division clerks only, there were two hundred and twenty-six candidates, of whom forty-one were men and one hundred and eighty-five women. Of these, fourteen men and eighty-one women were successful. Of the ten successful candidates in the Second Division all have been appointed. Of the thirty successful men in the Third Division, twenty-three have been appointed, and of the one hundred and fifty-eight successful women, one hundred and twenty-nine have been appointed.

As the result of the other special competitions held from time to time, forty-three positions were filled. Five of these were in the First Division, one in Subdivision A and four in Subdivision B. Thirty-eight were in the Second Division, eighteen in Subdivision A and twenty in Subdivision B. These appointments included such positions as architects, translators, draughtsmen and topographers, actuaries, botanists, geologists, live stock commissioner, archæologists, accountants, law clerks, civil, mining and structural engineers.

Lower Grade Examinations.

At the regular examinations of November, 1910, and May, 1911, there were one hundred and ninety-four candidates for the qualifying examinations for lower grade positions in the Inside Service. Such positions include those of messenger, sorter, porter, packer, &c. Of these, one hundred were successful. Yet from this list only five were accepted by the departments to fill vacancies in lower grade positions. At the same time fifty others who had not gone up for any examination were selected by the departments and nominated to the Commission, necessitating the holding of forty-two special examinations during the year to test their qualifications. Of the forty-two temporary appointments to lower grade offices made during the year, only seven were accepted from the list of qualified candidates, while thirty-five were specially nominated.

Temporary Appointments.

The usual reasons for making temporary appointments are—(a) Temporary pressure of work at particular seasons of the year; (b) Absence of regular clerks due to illness, statutory leave, or other causes. An increasing number of temporary appointments, however, are made to positions which are intended to be permanent. Such appointments are made either because the Commission has not at the time a sufficient number of qualined persons available to fill the positions which fall vacant, or because temporary appointment is a convenient method of testing the practical qualifications of successful candidates before selecting them for permanent appointment.

As already explained, the lack of adequately qualified persons is largely due to the inability of the Commission to secure a sufficient number of male clerks, more particularly stenographers, at the salaries which are offered. The deficiencies are, naturally, most marked during the month or six weeks preceding the semi-annual examinations. To meet the requirements of the departments, temporary appointments are made from the most promising of the candidates who have filed their applications for the ensuing examinations. Those who prove successful at the examinations and have given satisfaction during their temporary employment are appointed in a permanent capacity.

The total number of temporary appointments made during the past year was four hundred and twenty-seven, of whom two hundred and seventeen were men and two hundred and ten women. Of these, twelve men and forty-six women were successful candidates at previous competitive examinations and were therefore eligible for permanent appointment. The great majority of these were afterwards permanently appointed. Of the remainder, ten men and thirty-eight women were subsequently successful competitors in the Third Division examinations, four men were successful in the Second Division competitions, four men were successful in special competitions, and ten men and two women were successful in lower grade examinations. Many of the others who have been employed during the past six months are candidates for the next semi-annual examinations. It is further to be observed that among the temporary appointments were a considerable number of students of universities, colleges and high schools, who were available for temporary employment during the summer months. While unquestionably qualified for temporary employment, they were not candidates for permanent appointments.

Of those temporarily employed in the Third Division, two hundred and five men and forty women were engaged in general clerical work, while twelve men and one hundred and seventy women were employed as stenographers and typewriters.

In the Second Division, twenty-seven men were employed in a temporary capacity. Of these, nineteen had been successful candidates at previous examinations and were eligible for permanent employment. Nearly all of them have been since permanently appointed. Of the remaining eight, who were not at the time of their employment eligible for permanent appointments, two were subsequently successful competitors for special positions, while most of the others are candidates for the next examination.

Examinations for the Outside Service.

The Civil Service Commission is not required to deal with appointments to the Outside Service. It is required, however, to conduct the Qualifying and Preliminary examinations which are taken by some of those who receive appointments in the Outside Service.

At the examinations held in November, 1910, there were three hundred and sixty-three candidates for the Qualifying examination, of whom one hundred and sixty-eight were successful. For the Preliminary examination there were two hundred and eighty-two candidates, of whom one hundred and ninety-eight were successful. At the examinations held in May, 1911, there were two hundred and forty-five candidates for the Qualifying examination, of whom ninety were successful. For the Preliminary examination there were one hundred and ninety-seven candidates, of whom one hundred and eight were successful. Of the number who have been selected for appointment from the successful candidates at these examinations, our Commission has no record.

Promotions.

Practically the only promotion examination which is held is that which qualifies for promotion from the Third to the Second Division. This is simply a qualifying examination and represents a special privilege granted to those who were in the service prior to the passing of the Civil Service Act of 1908. During the past year twenty-eight clerks in the Third Division, who were nominated for promotion to the Second Division, went up for this promotion examination. Twenty-one of these were successful and have been promoted. All those who have entered the Third Division since September 1, 1908, have done so through the open competitive examinations for that subdivision. In order to pass into the Second Division, such clerks must take the open competitive examination for that Division. During the past year, sixteen of the fifty-six successful candidates for the Second Division were previously clerks in the Third Division.

Although the regulations of the Commission provide for promotion examinations in exceptional eases above the grade of Subdivision B of the Second Division, yet, in the great majority of cases, it has been deemed advisable that where the members of the Service have once qualified to enter the Second Division, their subsequent promotion should depend upon their capacity and efficiency, as indicated by the services which they render and the manner in which they perform their duties.

During the year, certificates for promotion have been issued for two hundred and thirty-two clerks and have been withheld in the case of seven clerks. These promotions have been distributed as follows:—

From Subdivision B to Subdivision A, Third Division	81
From Subdivision A, Third Division, to Subdivision B, Secondary	ond
Division	21
From Subdivision B to Subdivision A, Second Division	68
From Subdivision A, Second Division, to Subdivision B, Fi	irst
From Subdivision B to Subdivision A, First Division	22

It is to be observed that Subdivision B of the Second Division is chiefly recruited through the regular competitive examinations for the Second Division, but, as already noted, of the fifty-six successful candidates at the competitive examinations, sixteen were previously clerks in the Third Division.

In conclusion, the Commissioners have much pleasure in reporting that the members of the staff have given entire satisfaction in the discharge of their duties.

APPENDIX E.

REGULATIONS OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION.

WITH REFERENCE TO ENTRANCE TO THE SERVICE AND PROMOTION IN THE SERVICE.

(Approved by His Excellency the Governor General in Council, on the 22nd day of February, 1911.)

In accordance with section 10. clause 2 of the Civil Service Amendment Act, 1908, requiring that the duties of the Civil Service Commission 'shall be performed in accordance with regulations made by the Commission, and approved by the Governor in Council,' the following regulations have been prepared by the Commission:—

EXAMINATIONS FOR ENTRANCE TO THE INSIDE SERVICE.

- 1. In order to comply with section 13 of the Civil Service Amendment Act, which states that 'except as herein otherwise provided, appointment to positions in the Inside Service under that of deputy head shall be by competitive examination, which shall be of such a nature as will determine the qualifications of candidates for the particular positions to which they are to be appointed, and shall be held by the Commission from time to time in accordance with the regulations made by it and approved by the Governor in Council,' the Commission will provide for general competitive examinations for entrance to the following divisions and subdivisions of the Inside Service:—
  - (a) Clerks for Subdivision B of the Third Division.
  - (b) Clerks for Subdivision B of the Second Division.
- 2. In accordance with section 15 of the Civil Service Amendment Act, the number of competitors to be selected, for appointment to the Service, from those taking the examinations for the above divisions, shall be computed by the Commission on the basis of the reports from the several departments as to their probable requirements for the ensuing six months.
- 3. The general competitive examinations shall be held twice a year, in the months of May and November. Forms on which applications for these examinations shall be made will be provided by the Commission, and may be had on application to the Secretary of the Commission. Where not less than three candidates make application to take an examination at the same place, general competitive examinations shall be held at the following places: Halifax, Yarmouth, Sydney, Charlottetown, St. John, Fredericton, Moncton, Quebec, Sherbrooke, Montreal, Ottawa, Kingston, Hamilton, Toronto, London, Sault Ste. Marie, Port Arthur, Winnipeg, Brandon, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton, Nelson, Vancouver and Victoria. Examinations may also be held at such other places as may be selected by the Commission for the convenience of candidates applying for examination.
- (2) Where competitive examinations are required involving technical or scientific subjects and necessitating the use of scientific apparatus, it shall not be necessary to hold such examinations at each of the above places, but the Commission shall, as far as possible, arrange for at least one place in each province where such examination may be taken.

- 4. Any examination may be taken in the English or French language, at the option of the candidate.
- 5. A general examination for messengers, porters, sorters and packers shall be held annually in the month of May, at the same places as the general examinations for the Third and Second Divisions, and shall include the following subjects of the ordinary public school standard: Writing, spelling and the first four rules of arithmetic. The minimum percentage of qualification shall be fifty per cent on each subject and sixty per cent on the whole examination.
- 6. Where messengers, porters, sorters and packers require certificates of qualification and fitness under section 22 of the Civil Service Amendment Act, the Commission may require any or all of these to pass an examination which shall be as nearly as may be of the same standard as that set for those who take the general examination for entering that grade of the Service.
- 7. The general competitive examination for elerkships of Subdivision B of the Third Division shall include the following subjects: Writing and copying manuscripts, spelling, composition, arithmetic, geography, history, typewriting. The maximum number of marks for each subject shall be one hundred, except in the subjects of writing and copying manuscripts, for each of which the maximum number shall be fifty marks. No candidates shall be selected for appointment to a position in the Third Division who secures less than fifty per cent of the marks assigned to the subjects of spelling, composition and arithmetic and sixty per cent of the marks assigned to the whole examination. The standard of examination shall require a good general knowledge of the above subjects.
- 8. Candidates may take, in addition to the foregoing subjects, either or both of the subjects of stenography and book-keeping. Where candidates obtain over sixty per cent of the marks assigned to either or both of these subjects, the marks above sixty per cent may be added to the total of the marks obtained on the compulsory subjects in determining the relative standing of the candidates in the general examination.
- 9. Persons employed in the Civil Service, in the Third Division, may take the competitive examination for entrance to the Second Division under the following regulations:—
- (1) Such persons must have passed the Third Division Examination at least one year before competing in such examination; also their records in the reports to be furnished under the Civil Service Amendment Act must be good.
- (2) In case of failure in such examination any person so failing shall not compete again within a year.
- (3) Persons so failing may, if their records for conduct continue good, present themselves for examination a third time, but in case of failing a third time they shall not again be allowed to take the said examination.
- 10. To insure the availability of a sufficient number of competent typewriters and stenographers, the Commission may appoint a special competitive examination for typewriters and stenographers, for Subdivision B of the Third Division, which shall include the following subjects:—Typewriting, stenography, writing and copying manuscripts, spelling and composition. Successful candidates must obtain at least fifty per cent of the marks assigned to each subject, and sixty per cent of the marks assigned to the whole examination.
- (2) Where a sufficient number of typewriters and stenographers are not available among those who have taken the full examination for Subdivision B of the Third Division, the requirements of the departments may be supplied by appointing, in order of merit, those who have taken the special examination for typewriters and stenographers.
- (3) No one appointed as the result of such special examination shall be considered as eligible for promotion to Subdivision A of the Third Division who has not subsequently qualified in the additional subjects of arithmetic, history and geography, as required for the regular examination for entrance to the Third Division.

11. Where candidates for employment as temporary clerks require certificates of qualification and fitness under section 23 of the Civil Service Amendment Act, the Commission may require any or all of these to pass an examination which shall be as nearly as may be of the same standard as that set for those who take the general examination for entering that grade of the service.

12. Candidates for the general competitive examination for clerkships of Subdivision B of the Second Division shall take all the subjects in group A of the following list, and any five in group B:-

A .- Writing, spelling, composition, literature, arithmetic.

B.—Algebra, geometry, physics, chemistry, geology (including mineralogy), biology (animal and vegetable), French (for those taking the general examination in English), English (for those taking the general examination in French), Latin, German, history (modern), political science, economics, geography (general, physical and commercial), philosophy (scholastic or general), law (English or civil).

(2) The maximum number of marks for each subject shall be one hundred, except in the subject of writing, for which the maximum number shall be fifty marks.

(3) No candidate shall be selected for appointment to a position in Subdivision B of the Second Division who secures less than forty per cent of the marks assigned to each subject in group A, and sixty per cent of the marks assigned to the whole group.

(4) No candidate shall be selected for appointment to a position in Subdivision B of the Second Division who secures less than thirty per cent of the marks assigned to each subject in group B, and forty per cent of the marks assigned to the five subjects selected.

(5) The standard of examination shall require a good general knowledge of the subjects selected from the above groups. In order that due regard may be had to the different educational systems in Canada, a curriculum shall be prepared by the Commission showing, with as much detail as possible, the ground to be covered under each of the subjects in the above groups A and B. A copy of this curriculum shall be supplied to any person on making application to the Secretary of the Commission.

13. Candidates may take, in addition to the foregoing subjects, any or all of the subjects of typewriting, stenography, and book-keeping. Where candidates obtain over sixty per cent of the marks assigned to any one or more of these subjects, the marks above sixty per cent may be added to the total of the marks obtained on the whole examination in determining the relative standing of the candidates.

14. Where the deputy head of a department applies to the Commission for a nomination to a clerkship in Subdivision B of the Third Division requiring special qualifications not covered by the general examination for that division, or for a nomination to a clerkship in Subdivision B of the Second Division requiring special qualifications in technical or scientific subjects, a special competitive examination may be provided by the Commission, instead of the general competitive examinations for either of these subdivisions. The subjects for such special examination shall be arranged between the Commission and the deputy head of such department.

15. Where the deputy head of a department applies to the Commission for a nomination to a position above that of Subdivision B of the Second Division, which requires to be filled by appointment from without the Service, the Commission shall, after consultation with the deputy head of the department in which the appointment is to be made, provide a special competitive examination or test, which may or may not involve written answers to questions, but which shall be of such a nature as to secure a person well qualified for the position to be so filled. In determining the qualifications of candidates for such positions, the examination or test shall have special reference to executive ability and tact, such special or professional training as may be required, and a successful experience in duties similar to those pertaining to the position to be filled.

16. Where the appointment is one which is to be made under section 21 of the Civil Service Amendment Act inasmuch as the person to be appointed requires to obtain from the Commission a certificate that he possesses the requisite knowledge and ability, the Commission, with the consent and co-operation of the head and deputy head of the department in which the appointment is to be made, may arrange a form of examination or test, by which to determine whether the person is qualified. On satisfying the Commission that he is duly qualified, such person will receive the certificate of the Commission.

17. When the selection is made by the head and deputy head of the department without reference to the Commission, the Commission may make such inquiries and appoint such an examination or test to determine the qualifications of the person so nominated, as it may deem necessary for an intelligent and responsible discharge of its duties.

PROMOTIONS IN THE INSIDE SERVICE.

18. A candidate who is recommended by the head of a department for promotion, other than from the Third to the Second Division, in order to receive the prescribed certificate of qualification, must satisfy the Commission of his ability to perform the duties of the position to which he is to be promoted. For this purpose the Commission, if it considers an examination necessary, may, after consultation with the deputy head of the department in which the promotion is to take place, prescribe a promotion examination, having regard to the requirements of the subdivision to which the promotion is to be made, and the special duties of the position to be filled-

19. Where there are two or more persons in the employment of a department who are eligible for promotion to any vacant position, the Commission may, at the request of the head of the department, provide a competitive promotion examination limited to those who are declared eligible for promotion. Such an examination shall have regard to the requirements of the subdivision to which the promotion is to be made, and the special duties of the position to be filled. Upon the results of this examination, if satisfactory, the Commission shall issue the required certificate of qualification.

20. Candidates who, under subsection 2 of section 26 of the Civil Service Amendment Act, 1908, are nominated by the head of a department for promotion from the Third to the Second Division must, in order to receive the prescribed certificate of qualification, satisfy the Commission that they are entitled to enter the Second Division. To this end, the Commission, after consultation with the head or deputy head of the department in which the promotion is proposed, shall prescribe a non-competitive promotion examination which, while having special reference to the requirements of the positions to be filled, shall nevertheless insure a qualification substantially equivalent to that required in the open competitive examination for entrance to the Second Division. Such non-competitive promotion examination shall include all of the subjects in group A under regulation 12, any three of the subjects in group B under regulation 12, and two papers on the work of the department in which the candidate for promotion is engaged. The minimum percentages required for passing on the subjects included in group A shall be not less than forty per cent of the marks assigned to each subject and sixty per cent of the marks assigned to the whole group. The minimum percentages required for passing on the subjects selected from group B shall be not less than thirty per cent of the marks assigned to each subject and forty per cent of the marks assigned to the three subjects, also that candidates must obtain at least fifty per cent on each of the papers on the work of the departments in which they are engaged. In the case of a candidate who does not obtain the minimum of forty per cent, assigned to the three subjects selected from group B, but who obtains an excess of marks above the minimum percentage required on each of the papers on the work of the department, such excess shall be added to the marks obtained by him on the subjects selected from group B for the purpose of estimating his percentage on the whole group.

- 21. All general competitive examinations for entrance to the Service shall be advertised in the 'Canada Gazette' at least four weeks before the examinations are to take place. Special competitive examinations shall be advertised in the 'Canada Gazette' at least two weeks before the examinations are to take place. Such advertisements shall state the number of positions to be competed for, the conditions to be complied with by the competitors, the subjects to be covered by any special examinations, and the places at which the examinations may be held.
- 22. Within one mouth after the publication of the results of a Civil Service examination any candidate who considers that his answer papers have not been correctly valued may make application to the Commission to have his papers re-read. Such application must be accompanied by a fee of $3 in the case of Third Division or lower examinations, or $5 in the case of Second Division or higher examinations. In cases where the appeal is sustained the fee will be returned.
- 2. The answer papers of all candidates at any Civil Service examination, after being valued by the examiners, shall be retained by the Commission for a period of six months from the date of publishing the results, and at the end of that period they shall be destroyed.
- 23. Every successful candidate, before receiving a permanent appointment to the Inside Service, must furnish the Commission with a certificate of good health, which shall be filled out on standard forms to be furnished by the Commission.
- 2. There shall be appointed by the Governor General in Council in each place where an examination is held one or more medical examiners, from whom such certificates shall be obtained.
- 3. The fees for the health certificate shall be:—For messengers, porters, sorters, packers, and for temporary clerks, two dollars ($2); for clerks of the Third Division, three dollars ($3); for clerks of the First and Second Divisions, five dollars ($5).

MOTOR-DRIVEN WARSHIPS NOT VET FEASIBLE.

Portsmouth, England, August 24.—A prominent officer connected with the engineering department of the naval station here to-day declared that it was beyond the range of probability that the Admiralty thought of constructing a motor-vessel capable of exterminating such a tremendous engine of war as Great Britain's latest battle-ship Orion. Notwithstanding the remarkable progress in engineering science made in late years, it has not, in his opinion, advanced sufficiently to make such a complete revolution in naval shipbuilding.

Furthermore, it was extremely doubtful whether the Admiralty would embark upon what really must be a $10,000,000 experiment, and having such highly problematical results.

With the jeneral development of the kuntry, the incressing amount of travell and unprecedented prospereity, the meny thousends of acres of public parks and inumerrable privet estats developed into beautiful landskapes, has come a jeneral love for the beauties of natur. This has been ogmented and intensefied by the introduxion of hundreds of valueable speacies and variaties of trees, shrubes and plants from various parts of this kuntry as well as those from foreign lands.

This has prodused a widespred demand for expert advise on the subject of the improvement of public and privet grounds, without which in many cases large sums are being disburced that bring unsatisfactory results. Plants and trees are sometimes selected that are entirely unsuted to the soil and kundishuns that prevale, or some easily-produced stock may have been obtained without conciderashun of the fact that it cannot posibly meet the requierments of different places holy unlike in the karacter of the soil, climatic kundishuns and expozure. # TYPEWRITING.

Time allowed: 1 hour.

from Halton (Mr. Henderson), to the effect that the present law is quite inadequate. Many cases have arisen, and do arise, where, through the action of the government or its officials, serious direct loss is suffered by farmers and no compensation is paid, and where, I am sorry to say, I do not think any effort is being made in the direction of paying compensation. I have rather a pointed case in my own county which I drew to the attention of the House last session, and have brought it to the attention of the department before, a case in which compensation has been refused. I think if ever there was a fair, just and reasonable case, to use the minister's language, in which compensation should be paid, the case I have submitted, and will again mention, is that case. In November, 1908, either one or two carloads of cattle were ordered for export from Fergus to Liverpool, fine cattle all ready for export. At Niagara Falls, on the frontier, a veterinary inspector of the government stopped them, examined the car and reported, not that an animal was diseased, but that he suspected that one of the animals had the mange. The shipment was delayed at the Falls. It was ordered from there back to Toronto, for some reason that I have not yet been able to ascertain, from Toronto ordered back to Fergus. There it was kept for a considerable length of time, three or four weeks, the farmer had to procure special stables and to comply with the special quarantine regulations, and in the end it turned out that the animal was not diseased and did not have the mange. The whole loss arose from the mistake of the inspector of the government at Niagara Falls. The farmer has lost his opportunity of making a sale, he has lost his freight from Fergus to Niagara Falls and back via Toronto, he has been put to large expense for providing special stables and complying with the quarantine regulations; in fact, his loss has run from $1,000 to $1,200. That is directly attributable to the action of the inspector who made the mistake. Why should not the government compensate in a case of that kind? A man might make a mistake and act bona fide, and I have no doubt that it was a bona fide mistake. Why should the farmer bear the loss? The minister informs me that it was for the security of the public. Well, then, why should the public not pay? If the animals had been slaughtered two-thirds of the value would have been paid, but as the matter stands to-day the man has lost from $1,000 to $1,200 on one shipment through no fault of his own, he has a fair, just and reasonable case and I think that either by special vote or otherwise that claim should be paid.

What is right and just and honourable should be the law. Now, the government appoint inspectors to inspect meat. They do that for the benefit of the general public. The government, representing the general public, pay these inspectors, and it is through them that the general public get the benefit. Those who get the benefit should pay the cost. The government in appointing inspectors, have gone a certain distance. Any one who employs another person to work for him, whether the government or an individual, is responsible for what that person may do under his instructions. When an animal is condemned, there may be considerable difficulty in knowing to whom it belonged in the first place. It is utterly impossible that one hog among 400 or 500 can be traced to the farmer from whom it was purchased. Even if that could be done, a farmer who had any suspicion that the animal was diseased, would not offer it for sale to a drover who would be likely to take it to a point where it would be inspected.

SHORTHAND.

Eighty Words a Minute.

DEAR MR. MILLER,—I have your letter of the 2nd instant, asking whether the Dominion Parliament has any authority to restrict, or limit, the length of a racing meeting on the tracks of an association incorporated by a provincial legislature.

I think the rational way of regulating such a subject would be by action on the part of the provincial authorities. Such a question seems to me properly a matter of police supervision, and in that view within the jurisdiction of the local authorities. There is nothing I can see to prevent any provincial legislature from requiring licenses for the holding of race-track meetings. Under such licenses, they could regulate the day and times that racing could be carried on, charging such license fee as they saw fit. The Dominion Parliament has no such jurisdiction, and the only way in which the Dominion Parliament could deal with the subject is by undertaking to make it a crime to continue a race-track meeting for more than some given number of days. There may be people in Canada to-day, in fact I believe there are some, who are absolutely opposed to horse-racing in any form. To these people I say: You have a perfect right to enjoy your opinions, that is a privilege accorded to every Canadian. And, sir, while men are at liberty to have views of their own of the very extremest kind, yet I say that it is not in the interests of this country that they should try to force these views upon other elements of the community who do not share them, and especially so by the most offensive means possible, the invocation of the Criminal Code. I do not question the power of the Dominion Parliament to legislate in that manner, but it would certainly seem to me entirely illogical to do so. It would be an equivalent to declaring that racing for, say, 30 days was perfectly lawful and innocent, but that to race on the 31st day was a crime. That does not strike me as sensible or reasonable, and although I think the Dominion Parliament has, in its general jurisdiction over criminal law, power to pass such an enactment, it would seem to me that the regulating of the times and manner of conducting race-track meetings was properly a matter for purely provincial attention.

I remain, yours faithfully.

SAVING FOR OLD AGE,

No one denies that it is wise to make provision for old age, but we are not all agreed as to the kind of provision it is best to lay in. Certainly we shall want a little money, for a destitute old man is indeed a sorry sight, and suggests to every one the suspicion that his life has been foolishly, if not wickedly, spent. Yes, save money by all means. But an old man needs just that particular kind of strength which young men are most apt to waste. We advise the young to be saving of health for their old age, for the maxim holds good with regard to health as to money: 'Waste not, want not.' It is a great mistake to suppose that any violation of the laws of health can escape its penalty. Nature forgives no sin, no error. She lets off the offender for fifty years sometimes, but she catches him at last; and inflicts the punishment just when, just where, just how, he feels it most. Save up for old age, but save more than money: save honour, save knowledge, save the recollection of good deeds and innocent pleasures, save pure thoughts, save friends, save love, save rich stores of that kind of wealth which time cannot diminish nor death take away. Then a youth of prudence will be followed by an age of peace.

SPELLING.

Time allowed: 30 minutes.

Note.—This exercise is purposely misspelled. The candidates are required to correct the errors. For every mistake in spelling 5 marks will be deducted.

The ground-wurk of the caracter of William Pitt, the grate statesman was an intence and pashunate pried, but it was a pried which kept him from stuping to the levell of the men who had so long held England in there hands. In the midst of a sossiety criticle, polit, indifferent, simple even to the afectation of simplicity, witty and amuseing but absolutely prossaic, skepticle of virtu and enthuseasm, Pitt stood intirely alone. The depth of his convixion, his pashunate love for all that he deamed lofty and troo, his fiery energe, his poetic immaginativeness, his theaterical airs and retoric, his pompusness and extravegence were not more puzzeling to his contemperies than the confidance with which he appealed to the hier sentements of mankind, the skorn with which he turned from a coruption which had till then been the great enjine of pollitiks. He was the first staitsman since the Restoration who set the example of a purely public spiret. Keen as was his love of power, no man ever refuzed ofice so often or aksepted it with so strict a regard to the principles he proffessed. At the outsett of his carere he was appointed to the most lucretive office in the administrashun, that of paimaster of the forces, but its proffits were of an ilegal kind, and poor as he was, he refused to aksept one farthing beyond his salery. No leader ever had a wider popularrity than 'the grate comoner,' as Pitt was stiled, but his manner was allways that of a man who commands popularrity rather than one who seaks it. He never bent to flattur populer pregudice, but his temper harmonnized admirebly with the temper of the comercial England which rallied round him with its energe, its self-confidence, its pried, its patriotisme, its onesty and its morel ernestness.

DICTATION.

Time allowed: 30 minutes.

Note.—This paper is not to be seen by the candidates. The Examiner in charge will read over each section slowly and distinctly.

Never perhaps was there so comprehensive a talent for the delineation of character as was possessed by Shakespeare. Not only does he grasp the diversities of rank, sex and age back to the dawnings of infancy and portray in the most accurate manner, with only a few apparent violations of costume, the spirit of the ancient Romans, but his human characters have such a depth and precision that they cannot be arranged under classes and are inexhaustible. These things existing only in imagination possess such truth and consistency that they lead to the conviction that should they exist they would so conduct themselves. We are lost in astonishment at seeing the extraordinary, the wonderful and the unheard-of in such intimate nearness.

If he deserves our admiration for his delineation of character, he is equally deserving of it for his exhibition of passion, taking this word in its widest signification as including every mental condition, every tone from indifference or familiar mirth to the wildest rage and despair. He gives a living picture of all the most minute and secret artifices by which a feeling steals into our souls, of all the imperceptible advantages which it there gains, of all the stratagems by which every other passion is made subservient to it, till it becomes the sole tyrant of our desires and our aversions.

2. The proceedings of the opening day of the Colonial Conference, held in Ottawa during the year 1894, were presided over by Lord Aberdeen, then Governor General of Canada, who delivered the following address of welcome. Make a synopsis of this address which will give in a clear and concise form the important points in it. The synopsis should not exceed two pages of foolscap. Candidates are requested to give attention to spelling, writing, punctuation, grammar and style.

Lord Aberdeen.—The most cordial expressions to which utterance can be given will be needed in order adequately to convey the heartiness of the greetings which I desire to offer to you, gentlemen, on your arrival on this most interesting and memorable occasion. For your own sake, for the sake of the countries which you represent, for the sake of the Empire which those countries compose, for the sake of the work which has brought you here, I say welcome to Canada, welcome to Ottawa. (Cheers.) And although this is the earliest opportunity for offering to you officially and collectively these assurances, I venture to hope that ere now, since your arrival on Canadian soil, you have observed indications of the fact that in endeavouring thus to bid you a most cordial welcome. I am only voicing or endeavouring to voice, the sentiments and the purpose of the Canadian Government and the Canadian people. (Loud cheers.) I trust, therefore, that you will have reason to form the opinion that there will be no cause to regret that Canada, and Canada's official capital, have been selected for the place for holding the meetings of this Conference. That such should have been the arrangement is certainly both natural and appropriate, not merely because of the fact that the idea and suggestion of holding this Conference emanated from here, but also because of the position, geographical and otherwise, which Canada occupies in the British Empire; and not only so, but because of the use which has been made by the people of Canada of that position, in developing the resources of Canada itself, and in carrying out enterprises of vast and gigantic character, which cannot fail to be of the deepest and most permanent interest and importance to the Empire as a whole. (Cheers.)

This occasion, gentlemen, is in no small degree unique. There have been conferences similar in some respects to that which we are now about to inaugurate, but, these we may say, have been rather precursors than precedents, because of the distinctive characteristics which I make bold to say will characterize your proceedings and the result of those proceedings. The objects of your meeting are sufficiently well defined. It say 'sufficiently,' because if, on the one hand, there had been an attempt to lay down with rigid precision a programme which it might be proposed that you should follow, it might have had a hampering effect on your discussions and conclusions. If, on the other hand, too wide a margin had been left, there might have been an inevitable tendency to diffuseness of discussion, and a want of practical result; but, as I say, the objects before you, the development and increase of trade within the Empire, and the means which may be taken to carry out such an extension, undoubtedly furnish a topic which cannot fail to produce the most significant and valuable discussions and recommendations in the direction which we all desire to pursue, (Cheers.)

I think also that the coming together of representative men from all parts of the Empire to discuss such matters, is in itself of no small value, and I apprehend that to this among other features of the conference we may attribute the steadily increasing recognition of the importance of this occasion, which we have observed in process during the past months. And, gentlemen, when we speak of the value of meeting in conference to exchange ideas and to formulate views, those who have had any opportunities of travel, cannot fail in an especial manner to realize the advantage of such opportunities of contact with those in the case of whom such an opportunity must be of value. If, for example, one has had the opportunity, as regards Australasia, of visiting the splendid harbour of St. George, of inhaling the healthful breezes of Adelaide, of traversing the spacious and busy thoroughfares of Melbourne, of exploring the mines of Ballarat, of admiring the exquisite surroundings and the noble harbour of Sydney, of resting in the delightful island of Tasmania, or of contemplating the wonderful scenery and resources of New Zealand, it is not only the externally imposing and interesting features that bring value to such an experience, but it is the opportunities afforded on such occasions of meeting the leading men of these countries and of learning their views in regard to the affairs of their colonies, and of the Empire as a whole. This is the special value of such meetings, and, therefore, though we cannot all at once have the opportunities of seeing for ourselves what the Empire means, we can at least seize the occasion of meeting those who come from all parts of its world-wide territories, and who can by their own valuable experience, their own ability, convey to those who wish to learn what is really involved in the expression—the interests of the British Empire.

Again, when we speak of travelling, I must not forbear alluding to the fact that probably no small share of the success which we may already say has attended the preparations at least for this conference is due to the fact that a highly esteemed Canadian statesman, the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, has travelled through a large part of Australia, accompanied by Mr. Sandford Fleming, and was thus able personally to come in contact with the leading men of the Australian Colonies and others, and to shape views and ideas regarding the advisability of holding a conference and the results which would accrue from such a gathering.

There are just two other points which I wish to refer to as illustrating the representative, and, therefore, the far-reaching character of this gathering. We note the presence here of distinguished members from a colony, one geographical feature of which is so notable in history and in contemporary affairs, that among the innumerable headlands of the world one alone can claim the distinctive designation of 'The Cape.' We rejoice to see the representatives of Cape Colony, because in that, as in other ways, we observe how comprehensive is this gathering. (Cheers.)

The Imperial Government, the central government of Her Majesty the Queen, have shown their sense of the value of this ocacsion by intrusting their representation to a statesman whom I claim as a personal friend of my own, and whom all the more I rejoice to see here to-day, the Earl of Jersey. (Cheers.) The Earl of Jersey combines the experience of a British statesman with that of a colonial administrator, and a successful administrator. (Loud cheers.) And, therefore, it is clear that they attach importance to the nature of the proceedings here and are determined to recognize it. It may have been expected by some that the British representative was to come here in a different capacity from the other delegates. In one sense that may be so; but we cannot help observing that the fact of a representative of the British Government coming here to listen, to observe, to report, and, as far as he may find occasion to do so, to take part in the discussions, is most significant, and cannot fail to bear fruit. (Cheers.)

In concluding these general observations, such only being suitable for this stage of the proceedings, may I be permitted to express the earnest hope that from the one ever effectual source of wisdom and justice, your deliberations may be fraught with benefit to the British Empire, and to the world at large. (Loud cheers.)

Mr. Speaker,—I rise to a point of order. I do not wish to interrupt my hon. friend in his able argument; but he is claiming some rights on behalf of people who are much interested in the passing of this Bill, and is quoting from the evidence that was given before the special committee which has considered it. I have a copy of this evidence before me; it covers more than 500 pages. It has not been translated into French, and I know that a number of members of the House have not had the time or the opportunity to read all the evidence, and I am told that the great majority of the members have not read it. To speak for myself alone, I have not had the time to read one page of that evidence, having been much occupied in the committee dealing with the election affair, where four of us have to do the work of seven, sitting morning, afternoon and night. Therefore, I am not at all prepared to give my opinion on this Bill, or to take part in the discussion, and I would ask my hon, friend, in all fairness and justice—and I know he is moved by a great spirit of fairness and justice—not to proceed any further with his argument now, or until, according to the rule and custom of this parliament, in order to give full effect to the right of the minority in this House to the use of the French language, the evidence given before the special committee is translated into French, in accordance with rule 133, which I have now the honour to invoke. It is not only a question of considering the Bill. My hon. friend from Grey had to withdraw his first motion. We have had similar legislation in the State of New York, in the State of Michigan, in nearly all the leading horse-breeding States of the American Union. With a larger and longer experience than we have had. they have passed legislation prohibiting race-track gambling in those States. I do not ay that in legislation, along the lines of moral reform or otherwise, we should always follow their example, but I say that in legislating along these lines we have usually supposed ourselves to be at least up to as high a standard as the citizens of the United States, and I ask whether it is to be tolerated, whether it is to be supposed that we will continue to make Canada a dumping-ground for the professional gamblers of the race-track banished by this legislation from the race-tracks of the American Union. It has been said that we ought to follow English precedent, and that in place of that we are in this legislation seeking to follow American precedent. If the men who carry on the races persist in following, not the English, not the British, but the American system, they cannot, I think, find fault with us.

V.—REGULAR COMPETITIVE EXAMINATION FOR CLERKSHIPS IN SUB-DIVISION B OF THE SECOND DIVISION IN THE INSIDE SERVICE, NOVEMBER 7, 1910. (No. 87).

SPELLING.

Time allowed: ½ hour.

Note.—Copy the following, correcting the errors in spelling; 5 marks will be deducted for every mis-spelled word in your copy.

Battles, seeges, triumfs, the exployts of the chase were portrayed on the walls, skullptured in allabaster, and painted in georgus collors. Under each pictur were ingravd in collors, filled up with bright koper, enscriptions discribing the seens represented. Above the skullptures were painted other events—the king atended by his unucks and wareors, recieving his prisoners, entering into allianses with other monarks or preforming some sacerd dootie. These representations were inklosed in collored bourders of elaborite and ellegent designs. The emblemattic tree, winged bulls and monstrus animals were conspicuous among the ornements. At the uper end of the hall was the collesel figger of the king in addoration before the supreem diety, or recieving from his unuck the holy cup. He was attended by wareors bearing his arms and by the preists or presiding divinnities. His robes and those of his followers were adorrned with groops of figgers, animals, and flowers, all painted with brillaint collors. The stranger trod upon allabaster slabs, each bearing an inscription recording the tittles, geneology, and acheevments of the great king. Severel doorways, formed by jigantic winged lions or bulls, or by the figgers of gardian dieties, led into other appartments, which agen opened into more distant halls. The ceelings above him were divided into square compartements, painted with flowrs or with the figgers of animals.

DICTATION.

Time allowed: 1 hour.

Note.—This paper is not to be seen by the candidates. The examiner in charge will read over each section slowly and distinctly.

How soon shall the average man be able to add flight to his list of available sports? This is the natural query suggested by the recent successful experiments with flying machines that culminated with the unexpected and greatly admired manœuvres of some of the world's most daring adventurers. These flights indicate that after decades of study man is at last on the verge of realizing the ambition entertained by the human race since the beginning of history. None of the tedious hours of scientific observation and none of the dangerous attempts at aeriel navigation with machines developed as a result of such careful work, has been in vain, however futile it may have seemed. The success of scores of builders of aeroplanes within the last few years is due directly to the facts and physical laws relating to aero-statics discovered by original investigators. Some of these laws were known to experimenters centuries ago, but the great and insurmountable difficulties were the development of means for attaining sufficient velocity, without excessive weight, to cause the machine to leave the ground, and of means for preserving the equilibrium of the aeroplane under all conditions. The mechanism of an aeroplane is simple and easily understood. The box-like tail is for the purpose of keeping the machine approximately level in a longitudinal direction. Almost centrally of the whole apparatus is placed a powerful gasolene engine, usually of five to eight cylinders. As the engine is designed to run at high speed, the propellor rotates with terrific velocity. This engine is in reality an adaptation of the automobile engine, but the aviator gives little attention to the engine beyond starting it and stopping it when he wishes to alight. Notwithstanding the hazardous nature of this sport of aviation, it seems within the range of possibility that men of average intelligence and dexterity will be able to enjoy it in a few years with comparative safety.

I must say that I am somewhat averse to entering upon a discussion of the motion moved by the hon, senator for Ottawa, largely for two reasons. In the first place, I fear I cannot, in controverting, or attempting to controvert some of the arguments he advanced, treat them with that delicacy which I would like to treat the remarks of an hon, gentleman of his age and experience, and I wish to protect myself at the outset by saying that if by any divergence I should treat them more strongly than, perhaps, the hon, gentleman might feel that I should, that he will not attribute it to any want of discretion on my part, but rather to the difficulty one has in expressing himself as tenderly as he would like to in dealing with his arguments. In the first place, I feel that there is, perhaps, nothing very material that could be gained by repeating a prolonged discussion on Senate reform in the present state of public opinion. It would almost appear from what has transpired within these walls during the last four or five years that the Senate itself is more anxious for reform than the public opinion to which we appear to pay so much deference. In 1906, before I had the honour of a seat in this House, I understand that for several days there was a prolonged discussion of the question. Last year a similar discussion took place, and now we are resuming the same subject, without any proposition before us to which we can attach more responsibility than we can to the measures of any private member of the Senate. I feel that what has been said in this House on the subject during the last four or five years would, perhaps, warrant us discontinuing this discussion unless we had before us a conclusive and well thought out proposition emanating from the government and carrying with it the responsibility which always attaches to a government measure. It goes without saying that anything we propose involves an amendment to the constitution. Our constitution has already been amended on five different occasions, in every instance such amendment emanating from or originating with the government. This resolution proposes a more momentous, a more drastic amendment to our constitution than any which has hitherto been proposed. I feel myself very strongly that before we enter upon a further discussion of this question—at least beyond the present occasion—that we should have submitted to us a proposition which met with the approval of the government, and in regard to which we would have the assurance that so far as our consent was concerned, if that consent were given, that the measure would be pushed through to a conclusion. We have fired sufficient arrows in the air now to discontinue such an amusement, if amusement it is. I might be mistaken, but I do not feel that there is a very strong opinion outside in demanding Senate reform. The battle has not been pushed to the gates by any means. The hon, gentleman from Ottawa said that the time is opportune as we have just been through a general election. So we have, but did we hear much of Senate reform in the last campaign? Was there an election in a single constituency that turned upon this question? Did either the leader of the opposition or the leader of the government make it one of their foremost planks in their respective platforms? Did the journalists of the day press it upon the public attention as one of those vital questions demanding immediate consideration? There has been no such pressure, as far as I can understand. There has been no such demand thrust upon the attention of the electorate for reform of the Senate. Outside of the occasional observation of an emotional journalist, or of an fantastic caricaturist, very little is said about the Senate. We are not open to the charge that we have observed public opinion. At least if the charge has been made it has not been proven. There has been no petition presented to either House in favour of so-called Senate reform. If the question appears to be urgent we are making it urgent, largely by the line we are pursuing. My hon, friend referred to the motion made by the Hon, David Mills in 1875. We have crossed many a river since that time. The Hon. Mr. Mills was for thirty years or more a member of parliament after he moved that resolution, but he never repeated his motion, so far as I can remember. Even when submitted to the House it was only carried by a majority of three votes. Twenty-one Liberal members of the House voted against Mr. Mills' resolution. So that taking that as a starting point in the history of the movement toward Senate reform, it cannot be said that it was a movement that disturbed the public opinion, which agitated either branch of the parliament of Canada, which was dismissed itself, practically, by the Hon. Mr. Mills, as a motion out of which there was little or no political capital to be made, if he had that object in view, or what was not essential to the successful operation of our constitution, so that we may dismiss that as the starting point for Senate reform. Then we were referred to a resolution passed by the Liberal convention in 1893, a resolution which indicated in terms, as such resolutions usually do, that something had to be done, but how it was to be done, by what process, was not stated. However, it gave a basis for the demand for Senate reform. We have travelled now sixteen years beyond the meeting of that convention, and there is no proposition emanating from the Liberal party. They were sincere, no doubt, and the convention was unanimous in adopting that resolution; but there was no pressure of public opinion outside to arge the Liberal party to any further declaration or action. It was simply a declaration of opinion to which there was no sufficient response that warranted the Liberal party in advancing further, and it not unfrequently happened that in laying a party platform, it is afterwards found by experience that some of the planks, so-called, may be either in advance of public opinin, or may be an assumption of a condition which might be afterwards dismissed from public attention. So that taking either of these two propositions as an indication of Senate reform, they have been practically abortive. True, there was some agitation in the House of Commons by one party in favour of the abolition of the Senate, and by another party in favour of an elective Senate, but how far these appeals to the House of Commons will meet with the approval of the members of that House remains to be seen. I, therefore, arrive at this point, and I feel it somewhat strongly, that as it is the government of the day who is responsible for legislation, and who is in a special sense responsible for amendments to the constitution, the Senate would act wisely in its own interests—I do not fear Senate reform and would do justice to a large question, if hereafter it were left in abeyance until the government of the day, who is responsible for the legislation, takes it up, and as far as I am concerned, as a private member of the Senate, I propose treating it in that way. My hon, friend suggests that the season for reform is opportune, because of the action of the English House of Lords, and he argued that because they have recommended that certain members of that House should be made elective by their own colleagues, therefore that an elective Senate was seriously considered by leading legislators in Great Britain. His quotations from the report of the House of Lords do not prove quite as much as would appear from his statement. Hon, gentlemen are aware, and the hon, gentleman from Ottawa has so stated, that the peers from Scotland are elected by their fellow peers, and the peers from Ireland similarly elected, 16 in one case and 28 in the other. The proposition of the committee was that the peers of England, or of Great Britain rather, which number about 400, I think, should be clected up to the number of 200 by their fellow peers, just as the peers of Scotland are elected now. The object was, as stated in the report I have before me, first to eliminate from the list of members who receive a writ of summons to attend a session of the House of Lords, those who are irregular in their attendance, or perhaps who do not attend at all, except under very strong whip, and, secondly, to climinate those who take very little part in the business, and, thirdly, to reduce the House of Lords from about 600 to a House of about 400 members.

FRENCH AND ENGLISH.

Time allowed: 2½ hours.

Translate into French one of the two following passages:

- (a) I have now described my first loves, my happiness and my misery, and my first journey into Italy. Since that time, Italy became my own country, or, at least, the country of my affections. But my life was about to change entirely. We were in the year 1812-13. Bonaparte, like a man chased by the Furies, had returned from Moscow, where he never should have gone, while the other half of his forces were engaged in Spain, to which country he had no right to pretend. Of seven hundred and fifty thousand men whom he had under arms, only a few thousand remained this side of the Vistula. But in the midst of his reverses he was grand. He never despaired. He gathered together the fragments of his glorious army, and with these hundred thousand men was fighting a brilliant campaign, though he could not recover the lost ground.
- (b) When he left the Southern Railroad, letters came to him eloquent with this loyalty. Under date Sept 17, 1896, a subordinate writes: 'I desire to frankly state that in my whole experience in railroad business, I have never come in contact with a superior officer in whom I had greater confidence, and whose energy, ability, and general consideration for subordinates, were more marked.'

'In my poor way,' writes another, 'I said to you when I last saw you, what I now repeat: that the very high order of intelligence, the earnestness of purpose, the firm but kindly discipline, and the just and considerate treatment of your associates and subordinates, which universally characterized your management of the Southern Railroad, have given you a place in the estimation and affection of those who were fortunate enough to be associated with you, that might be well envied by any one.'

Traduire en anglais un des deux morceaux suivants:

- (a) Un fond de timidité naturelle l'empêchera de briller dans un salon. Non qu'il ait plus de difficulté à parler qu'un autre; mais, devant des inconnus ou des indifférents, il ne se livre pas. Aussi ne cause-t-il bien qu'entre amis, lorsqu'il se passionne. Devant des figures qui ne lui sont pas familières ou qui ne lui reviendront pas, il ne lâchera que quelques phrases brèves, tranchantes, n'arrondissant pas les angles, laissant voir aux imbéciles qu'il les juge comme tels. Quand on a cet excès de franchise, on passe pour un ours. Mieux vaut dès lors ne pas se déranger, rester en pantoufles au coin de son feu, au milieu d'un petit cercle d'intimes, devant lesquels, ans chercher à briller, on pourra tout dire. C'est ce qu'il fait la plupart du temps. Alors, il est vraiment lui-même: affectueux, modeste, s'intéressant à vous, sachant écouter, faire eas de votre pensée, vous laissant aussi pénétrer aux plus intimes replis de la sienne.
- (b) Si l'on admet que les guerres doivent se perpétuer entre peuples européens, evidemment la France est en danger, avec sa natalité stationnaire, bientôt décroissante. Mais sette probabilité de grands conflits entre nations civilisées, commerçantes, sourdement travaillées toutes par le socialisme pacifique, va en diminuant. D'ailleurs, en tenant compte de la nécessité d'être prêt, et armé suffisamment pour repousser une agression injuste, ou pour maintenir des droits légitimes, est-il absolument indispensables de disposer de masses considérables? Dans le passé, les grandes victoires ont été remportées par de petites armées, mais bien commandées et bien organisées. Et puis, les moyens scientifiques nouveaux, les engins perfectionnés, les explosifs, les ballons dirigeables, les sous-marins, ne peuvent-ils diminuer les tentations belliqueuses des souverains?

VOTING AT AN ELECTION.

A week after nomination day the elections are held. Suitable places are chosen throughout the constituency as voting or "polling" places, each being put in charge of a deputy returning officer.

Voting is done by ballots, which are small sheets of paper on which are printed the names of the candidates. The names are in alphabetical order and are separated from one another by broad black lines.

When you go to a polling place to record your vote, you notice, besides the deputy returning officer and his assistant, a number of men called "scrutineers," who have been chosen by the different candidates to watch over their respective interests. If your name is on the voter's list and the officials present are satisfied that you are the person you claim to be, you receive from the deputy returning officer a ballot. You retire to an adjoining room or behind a screen and make a cross opposite the name of the man for whom you wish to vote.

You then fold the ballot and take it back to the deputy returning officer, who puts it into the ballot-box. In the meantime his assistant checks off your name in the poll-book to indicate that you have voted.

'I am sorry to trouble the House for even a short time discussing a subject which I think has already been sufficiently debated in this Chamber. Several motions in the last two or three years have been made by hon, gentlemen with a view to reforming the Senate. Each gentleman when introducing his resolution endeavoured to point out that the people of Canada were very desirous that reform of the Senate should take place. Upon each occasion the simple statement was made, but no evidence was given why the Senate should be reformed, so far as public opinion is concerned. None of the provincial legislatures have passed resolutions with that object in view. No board of trade and no public body representing the people has passed resolutions of that nature that I am aware of. I have never heard in my travels in the many places I have visited in Canada any expression of desire on the part of the people for a change in the mode of constituting the Senate. I will admit at once, that some of my political friends, if I may say I have political friends, because I think when a gentleman comes into this Chamber he should cease to be a politician entirely, and I claim to be in that position myself, have advocated Senate reform. While I, of course ann a radical and my natural tendencies are towards the Liberai party, I shall do equal justice to all so far as legislation is concerned. It is quite true that while in opposition the I beral party in Canada did on many occasions suggest the reformation of the Senate. It is also true that at the convention which took place in Ottawa in 1893 a resolution was passed calling for the reformation of the Senate. The Liberal party at that time had but a few members in this Chamber, and I am frank to say that I believe their desire for the reformation of the Senate originated from that and from no other cause. It is like many of the principles which a party advocates in opposition, not only in Canada but in many other countries. Gentlemen in opposition always have a habit of advocating that which they are unable to perform when they come into power. Grover Cleveland was a free-trader, and he and his party were pledged to wipe out protection. When they came into power they only modified the tariff to a slight extent and their Act was repealed when the other party returned to power. They did not go the length they intended or expected to go. We have another illustration in Canada. When the party to which I formerly belonged, and to which I still adhere, were in opposition we preached from one end of Canada to the other the principle of free trade, and promised to introduce free trade when we got into power. Have our friends introduced it? Not at all. They have modified the tariff to some extent, but protection still exists in Canada, very greatly to the detriment of the people. Some of our friends, in the days when they were in opposition, suggested so many reforms that if they should live for a couple of hundred years they could never bring them all about. I am afraid some of them have since forgotten the many reforms they then advocated. Coming more directly to the question before the House, my lion, friend the ex-Secretary of State deals with it in a very fair way from his standpoint. He used for an illustration the conditions of affairs in republics on this continent, and referred also to the agitation going on at present in Great Britain for the reformation of the House of Lords. In dealing with this question you cannot make the bald statement that the Senate is to be reformed, and use such illustrations. You must take the conditions. Would any member of this House like to introduce the United States system for the Constitution of the Senate? The Senate of the neighbouring republic is so constituted that only very wealthy men can get the position, and because they are only elected for a few years, the greatest study that occupies their attention the whole of their term is how they are to be re-elected when their term expires. Our system may be defective, but I prefer it to any system to be found today in the republics of America. In so far as the House of Lords is concerned, my hon, friend suggested that what we should bring about is a system more in accord with the popular will. Why use the House of Lords as an illustration, when the fact is they as a House are going to have nothing to say in the matter? It is an election among the peers themselves, and not among the people. In my earlier parliamentary experience in another place, our education was that it was not proper to refer directly to this Chamber, and when necessary it was always delicately done. In the Senate there is greater freedom in that respect, and it is not unusual to discuss the House of Commons. If I refer to the other Chamber I shall simply do it because the hon, gentleman suggests what he considers the improvement of the Senate. He considers this body is not in accord with the popular will, and suggests that some members of the Senate be elected and others appointed. I do not agree with that idea. The result would be that there would be large electoral districts, and only men of large means would be able to contest them for seats in this Chamber. That would be a very deplorable result. It is a happy thing for Canada that we have the safeguard of the Senate. Although I did not approve of it formerly, I think it is a safeguard in some of the provinces that there is an upper chamber. Why? There seems to be to-day a leaning toward radical ideas, so far as legislation is concerned, a tendency to trample on individual rights. There seems to be an opinion among certain individuals who are not conversant with our legislative operations that the Senate is a safeguard in so far as the Government and its legislation are concerned. I do not hold that ground at all. My opinion is that the great use for the Senate to-day is in watching private legislation, and in the protection of private rights. But for the Senate, private rights would be trampled upon continuously. Is there any great danger to public legislation so far as the Senate is concerned? Have we had any examples of it? Not at all. If the Senate, or any large portion of it, were elected we would have simply a second House of Commons, and there is no telling where our legislation would land us. There are some who hold that the life term is unfortunate, and that short terms of office would be better. This is my twenty-fourth session in parliament, and I have closely followed at least some of the events which have taken place, especially in the committees. This session certain causes have hindered me from doing so, but I hope it will not occur again. The change in so far as legislation is concerned is very considetable, and in an unfavourable direction, largely because unfortunately representation in the House of Commons changes too rapidly. In each successive election we have a large change of the membership, as a consequence of which the gentlemen who compose that body are not long enough in public life to get the experience necessary to make a man a suitable legislator. The changes have been too rapid. At the last election, I think, nearly one-half of the House of Commons was changed. There are only some five or six gentlemen there to-day who were in the Commons when I first entered it, and there are very few indeed who were there ten years ago. It is a new body. There could be nothing more undesirable and unfortunate than a condition which would shorten the term of representation, and I favour in the strongest terms the life tenure of office for senators."

Let us consider the comparative value of litrature to mankine. Buy comparitive value I mien its worth to men in comparason with other things of acknoleged importence, such as the creashun of industrys, the government of states, the manipulashun of the pollitics of an age, the achievments in war and discovry, and the lifes of admireble men. It kneads a certain perspective to judge of this awrite, for the neer and the imediate always asume importence. The work that an age has on hand, wheather it be discovry, konquest, the wars that determane boundrys or are fought for policies, the industrys that develope a countrie or effect the caracter of a peopel, the wealding of power, the acumulation of fortune, the various activities of any given civilisation or period, asume such enormus proportions to those engaged in them that sutch a modest thing as the litrary product seams insignificand in comparizon; hense it is the man of action always holds in slite esteem the man of thought, and especially the expreser of fealing and emotion, the poet and the humorist. It is only when we look back over the ages, when civilisations have passed or changed, over the rivalrys of states, the ambishuns and enimities of men, the shining deeds and the base deeds that make up historie, that we are enabeled to sea what remains, what is permanent. Perhaps the chief result left to the wurld out off a period of heroic eggsertion, of passion and a strugle and acumulation, is a sheave of poems, or the record by a man of letters of some admirabel caracter.

Medical science labours under a disadvantage, in comparison with other sciences, which is inherent in the conditions under which it must be carried on. The very obligation lying upon the medical practitioner to do whatever seems most likely to benefit his patient deprives him of the chief weapon of the scientific investigator in any other field of research. Everywhere else, the scientific worker's cardinal resource is freedom of experiment.

But this debarment from the resources of experimentation is not the only fundamental disadvantage under which medicine has laboured, in comparison with other sciences. Of anything like that minute and unremitting observation which is the key of so many of the great achievements in the biological sciences generally, the practice of medicine, up to a comparatively recent time, except in a few signal instances, offered hardly a trace.

In modern days there has been an enormous advance toward supplying both these deficiencies, and with it there has come that magnificent progress of medical science and practice which is reflected in the conquest of some of the most deadly diseases and in a decisive reduction of the general death-rate. The sciences of physiology and chemistry, as such, have contributed greatly to this result; but pre-eminently important have been, on the one hand, laboratory research, amply endowed and directed with perhaps unprecedented perfection of system, and on the other, the idea of the hospital as a means of investigating disease to a degree of efficacy never before attained.

The Restoration of 1660 was such a revolushun. Kumpleet and instantanous invership of the too partys in the pashun, it ocasioned much individuel hard-ship. But this was only the fortun of war, the necesarie konsequense of partie assendency. The Restoration was much more than a tryumf of the partie of the roialists over that of the Roundheds; it was the deth-blo to nashunal aspirashun to awl those ames which raze man above imself. It distroied and trampeled under foot his ideel. The Restoration was a morel katastrofee. It was not that their wanted good men among the churchmen, men as pyus and vertuous as the Puritans whom they displaced. But the roialists came back as the partie of reactshun, reactshun of the spiret of the wurld against aseticism, of self-indulgense against dutie, of materielism against ideelism. For a time virtu was a publick lafing stok and the word "saynt," the hiest expreshun in the language for morel persecktshun konoted everything that was ridickelus. I do not speke of the galantrees of whitehall which figger so prominentlie in the histories of the rein. Far to much is maid of these, when they are maid the skapegote of the morelyst. The stile of kort maners was a meer insident on the cirfuss of the sochul lite. The nashunal life was far more profoundlie taynted by the diskuragment of all good men which penetrated every shyre and every parish, than by the dystant reports of the luse behaviour of Charles II. Cervilitie, meenness, tyme serving and a disbeleaf in vertu difused themselves over a nashun like a pestilentiel miasma, the depressing influence of which was hevy, even upon those soles which individually resisted the poysen.

It seems, too, from various unequivocal statements and allusions contained in the narratives of the times, that Alfred did not possess, during this period of his reign, the respect and affection of his subjects. He is accused, or rather, not directly accused, but spoken of as generally known to be guilty of many faults which alienated the hearts of his countrymen from him, and prepared them to consider his calamities as the judgment of Heaven. He was young and ardent, full of youthful impetuosity and fire, and was elated at his elevation to the throne. They charged him with being tyrannical and oppressive in his government, being so devoted to gratifying his own ambition and love of personal indulgence that he neglected his government, sacrificed the interests and the welfare of his subjects, and exercised his regal powers in a very despotic and arbitrary manner.

It is difficult to decide, at this late day, how far disposition to find fault with Alfred's early administration of his government arose from, or was aggravated by, the misfortunes and calamities which befell him. On the one hand, it would not be surprising, if, young, and ardent, and impetuous as he was at this period of his life, he should have fallen into the errors and faults which youthful monarchs are prone to commit on being suddenly raised to power. But then, men are prone, in all ages of the world, and most especially in such rude and uncultivated times as these were, to judge military and governmental action by the sole criterion of success. Thus, notwith-standing Alfred's efforts to avert them, it was natural that they should look at and exaggerate his faults, and charge all their national misfortunes to the influence of them.

X.—SPECIAL COMPETITIVE EXAMINATION FOR CLERKSHIPS IN SUB-DIVISION B OF THE SECOND DIVISION ON THE CENSUS STAFF, FEBRUARY 6, 1911. (No. 102).

DICTATION.

Time allowed: ½ hour.

Note.—This paper is not to be seen by the candidates. The Examiner in charge will read over each section slowly and distinctly.

His genius was not dramatic; vigorously as he portrayed emotions, he was not successful in drawing characters; he was not a master of variety; all his most prominent personages are strictly resolvable into one. There were diversities, but they were diversities of age, clime and circumstance, not of character. Even the lively and the serious moods belonged alike to one being; but there was a bitter recklessness in the mirth of his lively personages, which seems only the temporary relaxation of the proud misanthropic gloom that is exhibited in his serious heroes; and each might easily become the other. It may also be objected to many of his personages, that, if tried by the standard of nature, they were essentially false. They were sublime monstrosities:—strange combinations of virtue and vice such as had never really existed. In his representations of corsairs and renegades, he exaggerates the good feeling which may, by a faint possibility, belong to such characters, and suppresses the brutality and faithlessness which would more probably be found in them, and from which it is not possible that they should be wholly exempt.

His plan was highly conducive to poetical effect; but its incorrectness must not be overlooked in an estimate of his delineation of human character. In his tragedies there is much vigour; but their finest passages are either soliloquies or descriptions, and their highest beauty is seldom of a strictly dramatic nature. Many of his dialogues are scarcely more than interrupted soliloquies; many of his arguments such as one min! would hold with itself. In fact, in his characters, there is seldom that degree of variety and contrast which is requisite for dramatic effect. The opposition was that of situation rather than sentiment; and we feel that the interlocutors, if transposed, might still have uttered the same things.

Arrange your summary on one page and give to the arguments advanced a prominence that would enable a busy man readily to grasp them. Attend to spelling, punctuation and accuracy of expression.

I may offer a few reasons why the government proposed to create this particular department. In a general way, I concur with the remarks made by my hon, friends on both sides as to the undesirability of increasing the number of ministers, and I have also my own particular views as to what might be done and which I explained on a fermer occasion. But with respect to this particular measure, I would call the attention of the House to the fact that within the last very moderate number of years the whole industrial situation, and more especially on this continent, has undergone many and very important changes. Within a comparatively short number of years, three things have occurred in the neighbouring republic, and to a lesser extent in Canada. none of which, I may say, I regard with much favour. There has been too great a congestion, I think, in the various towns and cities in the United States and in certain parts of Canada. Agriculture has been rather at a discount, and a great number of our people have betaken themselves rather to the task of distribution than to the task of production. Now, I believe that, particularly in a country like Canada, the agricultural element is the backbone of the prosperity of this Dominion, and that anything which tends in any way to divert men from the soil and bring them into the cities, particularly where they are not going to engage in productive occupations, but rather act as middlemen, is not best for Canada. Another thing, that has occurred in a very much larger degree in the adjoining republic than with ourselves, has been the terrible accumulation of huge fortunes in individual hands. That I hold to be a threat to civilization of the very worst kind, and I have regarded with increasing apprehension the tremendous accumulations that have taken place, notably in the United States, in a much smaller degree with ourselves, and which I think are more likely to endanger the prosperity of both the United States and of other countries where the same state of things prevail than almost any other cause I know. From that has arisen the state of things which, I think every hon, gentleman here who has studied the matter will agree with me in saying, requires the earnest and serious consideration of the legislatures of every country where it arises; I mean the very marked division which now exists between labour and capital. It is hardly too much to say that these two forces both of which are eminently necessary to the prosperity of a country, and which ought to work together in harmony, are, one might say, almost arrayed in hostile camps against each other. We have seen in other countries, and to some extent in our own, what tremendous mischiefs arise from a collision between organized labour and its employers. The cost of a great strike, such for example, as that which occurred a few years ago in connection with the coal fields in the United States, almost equals the cost of a great war. For the purpose mainly of doing what can be done by the government to reconcile what I may say are these hostile factions, at any rate to provide means whereby a better understanding may be arrived at between these parties, the government have thought it expedient to create a department which should be very specially charged with the duty of looking after the interests of labour, and incidentally of everything connected with labour, and in particular would be charged with the duty for which an Act has been specially provided, of establishing and maintaining courts of arbitration, whereby and through which these disputes may be averted. I need not say that the cost of a Department of Labour, organized as it is proposed to be, is a most insignificant thing compared with the cost of any considerable work. The smallest strike almost would involve a greater loss to the community than probably the Department of Labour would in several years. I may also observe that in other countries similar departments and Ministers of Labour have been created, and I think that on the whole the result has been very satisfactory, and that the experience of what is known as the Lemieux Act has, on the whole, been very satisfactory in Canada. For all these reasons, the government has deemed it wise to ask parliament to permit them to create a new department which shall be specially charged with the adjustment of the differences that I have alluded to, that have arisen and are arising all over this continent, though more especially in the republic to the south of us, between organized labour and the capitalists and other employers of labour. Those are the reasons which move the government to advise the creation of this department. I move the second reading of the Bill.

CONSOLATIONS IN OLD AGE.

There is a conscience of the head as well as of the heart, and in old age we feel as much remorse, if we have wasted our natural talents, as if we have perverted our natural virtues. The profound and exultant satisfaction with which a man who knows that he has not lived in vain—that he has entailed on the world an heirloom of instruction or delight—looks back upon departed struggles, is one of the happiest emotions of which his conscience is capable. What, indeed, are the petty faults we commit as individuals, affecting but a narrow circle, ceasing with our own lives, to the incalculable and everlasting good we may have produced as public men by one book or by one law? Depend upon it that the Almighty, who sums up all the good and all the evil done by his creatures in a just balance, will not judge the august benefactors of the world with the same severity as those drones of society, who have no great services to show in the eternal ledger, as a set-off to the indulgence of their small vices.

LES SOUVENIRS DE LA VIEILLESSE.

Le plus doux privilège que la nature ait accordé à l'homme qui vieillit, c'est celui de ressaisir avec une extrême facilité ses impressions d'enfance. A cet âge de repos, le cours de la vie ressemble à celui d'un ruisseau que sa pente rapproche à travers mille détours des environs de sa course et qui, libre de tons les obstacles qui ont embarrassé son voyage inutile, vainqueur des rochers qui l'ont brisé à son passage, se déroule et s'aplanit tout à coup pour refléter une fois encore, avant de disparaître, les premiers ombrages qui se sont mirés à ses bords. A le voir si calme transparent, réfléchir à sa surface immobile les mêmes arbres et les mêmes rivages, on se demanderait volontiers de quel côté il commence et de quel côté il finit. Il faut qu'un rameau de saule, dont l'orage de la vielle lui a confié les débris, flotte un moment sous vos yeux pour vous faire connaître l'endroit vers lequel son penchant l'entraîne. Demain, le fleuve qui l'attend à quelques pas de là l'aura emporté avec lui, et ce sera pour toujours.

SPELLING.

Time allowed: 30 minutes.

Note.—This exercise is purposely misspelled. The candidates are required to correct the errors. For every mistake in spelling five marks will be deducted.

The ideel road for electric moters shuld be as strait as possibel, sharp curves being more objectionible than heavy gradiants. Crossings at track levell shuld be absolutly ellimminated; the entiar line shuld be covered at sutable distanses with otomatick signels, with which every switch shuld be interlocked. In fact, it is practicible to use switching aplianses by which the main line rails remain unbroken, and the posibility of cassualtys from defective switches wud therby be altogether obveated. Trains at slow speads making frequent stops shuld not run on the same tracks with expres trains, and this requirement wud only permit electric moters on the fore-track road. The pasenger equipement on such a road shuld be provided with the best power breaks and with safety vestabule platforms from the tender to the rear car, and shuld be as far as posible so construcked as not to flie into splinters and be set on fire in case of derailment. If the railroad companys were held to such standards by eficiant inspection, the executif authority of the state would thereby be benefishially exerted in the general wellfare for the prevention of unsafe and objectionable railway operation, as its judisial othority is invocked to penalise the consequences of such operation.

DICTATION.

Time allowed: 30 minutes.

Note.—This paper is not to be seen by the candidates. The Examiner in charge will read over each section slowly and distinctly.

George Stephenson, the celebrated English engineer, has been made responsible for the assertion as an axiom that where competition is possible, combination is probable; and this axiom may be emphasized in its application to railway companies that where unrestricted competition exists between them, consolidation will certainly result. In this country, unrestricted competition had done its best and its worst. On the one hand, it had peopled the wilderness; it had built up great cities in solitudes; it had necessitated a reduction in rates to a minimum before deemed impracticable. That reduction, however, had been attained at great cost to the investors in railroad property and with injury to commmunities that were not so situated as to be the beneficiates of natural competition, and had not been admitted within the zones of artificial competition established by rivalry among railroad managements. Worse than all, it had engendered a public opinion so hostile to those managements that the people would neither listen to arguments in support of their policies nor to appeals for justice on their behalf.

While this cloud of disapprobation was gathering over their heads, the work of reorganization was in progress. Of course, it took the direction of consolidation, and great trunk line systems were built up, following natural trade routes and administering to the wholesome development of interstate commerce.

Where wires or cables to be erected across the railway are to be carried above, below, or parallel with existing wires, at the crossing, either within the span to be constructed, across the railway or within the span next thereto on either side, such additional precautions shall be taken by the applicant as an engineer of the board shall consider necessary.
- 6. Nothing in these conditions shall prejudice or detract from the right of the company owning, operating, or using the railway to adopt at any time the use of electric or other motive power, and to place and maintain over, upon, or under its right-of-way, such poles, lines, wires, cables, pipes, conduits, and other fixtures and appliances as may be necessary or proper for such purpose. Liability for the cost of any removal, change in location or construction of the poles, lines, wires, cables, or other fixtures or appliances creeted by the applicant over or under the tracks of the said railway company, rendered necessary by any of the matters referred to in this paragraph shall be fixed by the Board on the application of any party interested.

- 7. Any disputes arising between the applicant and the said railway company as to the manner in which the said wires or cables are being erected, placed, maintained, used, or repaired, shall be referred to an engineer of the Board, whose decision shall be final.
- 8. The wires or cables of the applicant shall be erected, placed and maintained across the said railway in accordance with the drawing approved by the Board and the specification following. If the drawing and specifications differ, the latter shall govern unless a specific statement to the contrary appears in the order of the Board.
- 9. In every case in which the line of a railway company shall be constructed under the wires or cables of a telegraph or telephone company, the construction of the telegraph or telephone company shall be made to conform to the foregoing specifications, and any changes necessary to make it so conform shall be made by the telegraph or telephone company at the cost and expense of the railway company.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY WORDS PER MINUTE.

This matter arose over the consideration of a proposed order respecting joint freight and passenger tariffs where the tolls exceed the sum of the toll for the same or like traffic of the several companies singly or jointly operating the continuous route between the point of origin of the traffic and the destination thereof.

Complaints have arisen that, in various instances, traffic moving over railways, subject to the jurisdiction of the Board, has, when moving on a through rate, been charged a higher toll than would have been obtained from a combination of the locals. In various instances railways have admitted that this apparently anomalous condition is not justifiable, for they have stated their willingness to refund the difference between the combination of locals and the higher through rate.

It is a fundamental proposition under the policy outlined by the Railway Act that when a rate, whether joint or whether limited to points situated on one line of railway alone, has come into force in conformity with the provisions of the Railway Act, it is the only legal rate in respect of the traffic mentioned and between the points mentioned. This policy is not limited to Canada alone. In 1906 the Interstate Commerce Commission, which has had to deal with the problem now before us established the same position.

While the provisions of the Canadian Railway Act differ in various respects from those of the Act to Regulate Commerce and while the findings of the Commission organized under that Act are by no means applicable in their entirety in Canada, it is manifest that when that body has dealt with problems identical with those coming before the Board, the findings and experience of that commission demand most careful attention. Prior to 1906, a practice had at times prevailed in the United States of stating in a tariff quoting through rates, that where the sum of the locals was less, such lower combination would apply. It was as a result of the disadvantages attaching to such an arrangement that the position of the Interstate Commerce Commission in regard to the single legal rate, referred to above, was established in 1906.

It has been suggested that the practice, found objectionable in the United States, might be used in Canada to relieve a shipper from the burden of paying a through rate exceeding the sum of the locals. While this suggestion would apparently solve the difficulty, it is of the nature of a rapid fire solution to create other and more important difficulties. It is of course apparent that the arrangement whereby a lower combination of locals takes in time the place of higher through rate, is an outcome of traffic conditions not of a mere concession by the railways. For it is open to the shipper to treat his shipment as a local one, billing it to the junction point or points and so on to destination.

TYPEWRITING.

Time allowed: Thirty minutes.

Copy the following extract.

STANDARD CONDITIONS AND SPECIFICATIONS FOR WIRE CROSSINGS. PART I.—OVER-CROSSINGS.

Specifications.

A. Labelling of Poles.—Poles, towers, or other wire-supporting structures on each side of and adjacent to railway crossings, to be equipped with durable labels showing (a) the name of the company or individual owning or maintaining them, and (b) the maximum voltage between conductors; the characters upon the labels to be easily distinguished from the ground.

B. Separate lines.—Two or more separate lines for the transmission of electrical energy shall not be erected or maintained in the same vertical plane. The word "lines", as here used, to mean the combination of conductors and the latter's supporting poles, or towers, and fittings.

- C. Location of Poles, &c.—Poles, towers, or other wire-supporting structures to be located wherever possible a distance from the rail not less than equal to the length of the poles or structures used. Poles, towers, or other wire-supporting structures must under no consideration be placed less than 12 feet from the rail of a main line, or less than 6 feet from the rail of a siding. At loading sidings, sufficient space to be left for driveway.
- D. Setting and Strength of Poles.—Poles less than 50 feet in length to be set not less than 6 feet and poles over 50 feet not less than 7 feet in solid ground. Poles with side strains to be reinforced with braces and guy wires. Poles to be at least 7 inches in diameter at the top. Mountain cedar poles to be at least 8 inches at the top. In soft ground poles must be set as to obtain the same amount of rigidity as would be obtained by the above specifications for setting poles in solid ground. When the crossing is located in a section of the country where grass or other fires might burn them, wooden poles to be covered with a layer of some satisfactory fire-resisting material, such as concrete at least two inches thick, extending from the butt of the pole for a distance of at least 5 feet above the level of the ground. Wooden structures to have a safety factor of five.
- E. Setting and Strength of Other Structures.—Towers or other structures to be firmly set upon stone, metal, concrete, or pile footings or foundations. Metal and concrete structures to have a safety factor of four.

F. Length of Span.—Span must be as short as possible consistent with the rules of setting and locating of poles and towers.

G. Fittings of Wooden Poles for Telegraph, Telephone, or Low Tension Lines.—The poles at each side of a railway must be fitted with double cross-arms, dimensions not less than three inches by 4 inches, each equipped with 14 inch hardwood pins nailed in arms or some stronger support and with suitable insulators; cross-arms to be securely fastened to the pole in a gain by not less than a \(\frac{5}{2}\)-inch machine bolt through the pole; arms carrying more than two wires or carrying a cable must be traced by two stiff iron or substantial wood braces fastened to the arms by \(\frac{3}{2}\)-inch or larger carriage bolts, and to the pole by a \(\frac{3}{2}\)-inch or larger bolt.

H. Fittings of all Poles, Towers, or other Structures.—All wire-supporting structures to be equipped with fittings satisfactory to an engineer of the board.

I. Guards.—Where cross-arms are used, an iron hook guard to be placed on the ends of and securely bolted to each. The hooks shall be so placed as to engage the wire in the event of the latter's detachment from the insulators.

J. Insulators.—All wires or conductors for the transmission of electrical energy across a railway to be supported by and securely attached to suitable insulators.

Wires or conductors in 10,000 volt (or higher) circuits, to be supported by insulators capable of withstanding tests of two and one-half times the maximum voltage to be employed under operating conditions. An affidavit describing the tests to which the insulators have been subjected and the apparatus employed in the tests shall be supplied by the applicant. The tests upon which reports are required are as follows:

Ja. Puncture test.—The insulators having been immersed in water for a period of 7 days, immediately preceding and ending at the time of the test, to be subjected for a period of five minutes to a potential of two and one-half (2.5) times the maximum potential of the line upon which they are to be installed.

Jb. Flash-over Test.—State the potential that was employed to cause arcing or flashing across the surface of the insulator between the conductor and the insulator's point of support when the surface was (1) dry, and (2) wet.

K. Height of Wires.—(a) Low tension conductors.—The lowest conductor must not be less than 25 feet from top of rail for spans up to 145 feet; 2½ feet additional clearance of rails or other wires must be given for every twenty feet or fraction thereof additional length of span. The words "low tension," as here used, to mean conductors for telegraph, telephone, and kindred signal work, as well as conductors connected with grounded secondary circuits of transformers.

XIII.—SPECIAL COMPETITIVE EXAMINATION FOR TECHNICAL CLERKS IN THE TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYS BRANCH OF THE DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, APRIL 10, 1911. (No. 111).

PENMANSHIP AND ORTHOGRAPHY.

Time allowed: 1 hour.

Note.—This paper is not to be seen by the candidates. The Examiner in charge will read over each section slowly and distinctly.

The most convenient form of barometer for travelling is the pocket aneroid. These by the best makers give fairly constant readings, but no aneroid can be depended on as unchangeable. It should be compared with a standard mercurial barometer as late as possible before starting, and recompared, as often as opportunity may offer, with any mercurial barometer the correction of which is known.

The readings of thermometers are understood to show the temperature of the air, and the sling thermometer does this very nearly, even in the sunshine, and very accurately in the shade. But thermometers suspended and at rest are affected by radiation from all objects round about them. They must in any case be fully screened from the sun and sky, and from any strong reflection of sunlight. The use of the screen is to afford a tolerably uniform exposure, and a sufficient, but not excessive, protection. In order to ascertain how far it fulfils this purpose, simultaneous readings should sometimes be taken with the sling thermometer and the suspended thermometers, and the two compared.

The astronomy of such countries as India has been described by professional astronomers; but among ruder nations there is still a great deal unrecorded, for instance, as to the constellations into which they map out the heavens. This likening stars and star groups to animals and other objects is almost universal among mankind. Savages like the Australians still make fanciful stories about them. Such stories enable us to understand the myths of the Classical Dictionary, while modern astronomers keep up the old constellations as a convenient mode of mapping out the sky.

It is easy, on looking into the proceedings of the magician, to see that many of them are merely attempts to work by false analogy or deceptive association of ideas. It will often be noticed that arts belonging to the systematic magic of the civilized world, which has its source in Babylon and Egypt, have found their way into distant lands more readily indeed than useful knowledge so that they may even be met with among barbaric tribes. Thus it has lately been pointed out that the system of lucky and unlucky, which led the natives of Madagascar to kill many infants as of inauspicious birth, is adopted from Arabic magic.

TRANSLATION FROM FRENCH INTO ENGLISH.

Time allowed: 3 hours.

Translate into English two of the three following extracts.

Cela ne veut pas dire au moins que, sur la foi de Montesquieu, nous ayons eu raison jadis de leur emprunter leur forme de gouvernement; et, au contraire, quand on voit ce qui se passe depuis de longues années déjà, non seulement en France, mais en Italie, ou en Espagne, et même ailleurs, on est tenté de se demander si le parlementarisme, puisqu'il faut l'appeler par son nom, ne serait pas quelque chose d'aussi parfaitement, profondément, et exclusivement "national" que la cuisine anglaise, par exemple, ou que ces sports dont nous aurons deux mots à dire tout à l'heure. Nous répondra-t-on que c'est nous, Francais ou Latins, qui n'avons su nous approprier le régime parlementaire. Mais la question est précisément de savoir si nous aurions pu nous l'approprier, et, sans faire intervenir ici la question de race ou d'aptitude originelle, si le parlementarisme n'aurait pas pour conditions d'existence, ou de fonctionnement régulier, la stabilité de l'institution monarchique, ou la continuité d'une aristocratie de naissance, ou généralement tout ce qu'en France, comme en Italie d'ailleurs et comme en Espagne, depuis cent ans, nous avons travaillé consciencieusement à détruire. On dit aujourd'hui de beaucoup de choses bonnes et désirables en soi qu'elles sont malheureusement "incompatibles avec la démocratie," et bien entendu ce n'est pas la démocratie qu'on propose de leur sacrifier; on le voudrait qu'on ne le pourrait pas, et plutôt on s'y briscrait. Mais, en fait d'incompatibilité, je n'en connais guère de plus irréductible que celle du "parlementarisme" avec la "démocratie."

Tel est mouvement intellectuel qui aboutit, dès le XVII siècle, à cette double conquête, dont la fécondité n'est pas épuisée; la première, la conquête de moyens d'observation indéfiniment révélateurs; la seconde, la conquête d'un mode de représen-tation, la représentation mathématique, prodigieusement souple et fidèle.

La différence donc entre la science du moyen âge et la science moderne, c'est d'abord que dans la première le champ de l'observation était limité, et que l'on n'y revenait plus, tandis que, dans l'autre, le champ de l'observation est incomparablement plus vaste, et le savant y revient sans cesse; c'est ensuite que dans l'une, la représentation des choses se faisait par concepts, et les concepts se combinaient suivant la pure logique abstraite du syllogisme; dans l'autre au contraire la représentation est mathématique, et les formules mathématiques se combinent selon les lois des mathématiques.

Or le XVIe siècle se trouve placé entre la science du passé et la science de l'avenir; il est chargé de détruire l'une et de préparer l'autre; mais il ne peut pas voir très nettement le dessin de l'avenir. Il travaille dans une demi-lumière, il sait bien que c'est une aube et où est l'orient, mais il ne discerne pas le contour des choses; ses coups portent souvent à faux. Il insiste sur l'insuffisance des observations faites par les anciens et sur les vices qui les rendent incomplètes et suspectes. Il multiplie les railleries sur la vaine logomachie du syllogisme des écoles. C'est bien, mais c'est dangereux. Supposez qu'un penseur, dans des circonstances déterminées, exagère ses idées; supposez qu'il s'effare ou veuille s'effarer devant la multitude des faits nouveaux à observer et devant la difficulté, tranchons le mot, devant l'impossibilité de bien observer; supposez encore qu'il affecte de considérer la dialectique syllogistique comme le processus unique et vain de l'esprit humain. Ce penseur sera peut-être en fait un précurseur de Bacon, de Galilée, de Descartes; mais pourra aussi bien être le maître d'un sceptique.

Je ne veux pas non plus examiner à fond si Pascal était réellement sceptique à l'égard de l'existence de Dieu. Si vous vouliez absolument connaître ma pensée sur ce sujet, je vous dirais que je crois que Pascal, abstraction faite des lumières du christianisme, croyait à l'existence d'un Dieu et à l'ensemble des dogmes qui constituent ce qu'on appelle la religion naturelle. Mais je ne puis vous le prouver rigoureusement, et ce qui, en revanche, est certain, c'est qu'il a déclaré ne trouver ni dans la nature, ni dans la métaphysique des raisons assez fortes pour convaincre des athées endurcis. Mettons la chose au pis: Pascal était athée.

S'il l'était, ce fut un malheur. S'il l'était, nous pouvons nous en étonner. Toutefois, il est juste de placer ici quelques observations, qui, sans servir d'excuse à une si prodigieuse erreur, expliquent sa présence dans le monde.

Savoir qu'une chose est, sans savoir ce qu'elle est, fort souvent c'est ne rien savoir. Séparée de son mode, l'existence n'est qu'un mot. Et sclon le mode qu'on lui assigne, une existence est quelque chose ou n'est rien. Croire à l'existence de Dieu, et ne pas croire à la personnalité, à la souveraineté, à la justice de Dieu, décidément ce n'est pas croire en Dieu. Croire à l'existence de Dieu, et hésiter sur ses attributs essentiels, c'est hésiter sur l'existence même de Dieu. Enfin croire en Dieu, et se trouver incapable d'en tirer aucune conséquence pratique, c'est, si vous voulez, croire en Dieu, mais c'est être sans Dieu. Sur ce pied, vous serez peut-être obligés de convenir que la croyance en Dieu, une croyance ferme, énergique, réelle, n'est pas tout à fait aussi commune qu'on le pense.

In the Session of 1888 the Quebec Government passed an Act called the District Magistrates Act. It provided for the abolition of the Circuit Court at Montreal—presided over by judges of the Superior Court, who are appoined by the Dominion Government—and created in lieu thereof a new court, to be known as the "District Magistrate Court". By the Act in question, the Lieutenant-Governor was empowered to appoint to this court two justices, at a salary of $3,000 each, to be paid out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of the Province, who were to be styled district magistrates, and were to be irremovable except on the joint address of the Legislative Council and Assembly". All the powers and jurisdiction hitherto exercised by the Superior Court judges in their capacity as judges of the Circuit Court, being vested in these magisrates, made them virtually judges as the words "judge of the Superior Court," "judge" or "judges", whenever referring to their powers and duties respecting matters connected with the Circuit Court sitting in that district, should mean the District of Montreal.

This Act was disallowed, as by section 96 of the British North America Act it is provided that judges of the superior and district courts in each province are appointed by the Governor-General on address of the Senate and House of Commons; and by Section 100, that their salaries are fixed and provided by the Parliament of Canada.

Let me recall the seasonable words of caution contained in Lord John Russell's despatch to the Governor-General of Canada, of Oct. 14, 1839, a despatch which has been termed "the charter of responsible government", as it was the first official communication to introduce that system into a British colony: Every political constitution in which different bodies share the supreme power is only enabled to exist by the forbearance of those among whom this power is distributed. In this respect the example of England may well be imitated. The sovereign using the prerogative of the Crown to the utmost extent, and the house of commons exerting its power of the purse to carry all its resolutions into immediate effect, would produce confusion in the country in less than a twelve-month. So in a colony, the governor thwarting every legitimate proposition of the assembly, and the assembly continually recurring to its power of refusing supplies, can but disturb all political relations, embarrass trade, and retard the prosperity of the people. Each must exercice a wise moderation. The Governor must only oppose the wishes of the assembly where the honour of the Crown or the interests of the empire are deeply concerned; and the assembly must be ready to modify some of its measures for the sake of harmony and from a reverent attachment to the authority of Great Britain.

Time allowed: 3 hours.

D'année en année, j'ai eu occasion d'apprécier l'attachement des habitants de Québec au trône, au gouvernement de Sa Majesté la Reine, ainsi qu'aux intérêts de l'empire, et lorsque tout récemment, un nuage portant la guerre dans ses flancs menaca la Grande Bretagne, rien ne me causa de plus légitime orgueil que de voir que les sujets franco-canadiens de Sa Majesté ne restaient pas d'un iota en arrière de leurs compatriotes écossais et irlandais, dans l'expression de leur désir de se rallier pour la défense de ses possessions.

Il est bien vrai que les différences de races qui existent au Canada compliquent jusqu'à un certain point les problèmes que les hommes d'Etat ont à résoudre, cependant les inconvénients qui peuvent quelquefois en résulter sont plus que contrebalancés par plusieurs avantages qui en dérivent. Je ne crois pas que l'homogénéité ethnologique soit un bienfait sans mélange pour un pays. Il est incontestable que le côté le moins attrayant du caractère social d'une grande partie des populations de ce continent, est le cachet d'uniformité que présentent plusieurs de ses aspects, et je pense qu'il est heureux pour le Canada de pouvoir compter sur la coopération de différentes races. L'action réciproque des idiosyncrasies nationales introduit dans notre existence une verdeur, une fraîcheur, une variété, une couleur, une impulsion éclectique qui sans cela, ferait défaut; il serait d'une très mauvaise politique de chercher à les faire disparaître.

Le traité de Washington fut l'oeuvre d'une commission conjointe, nommée par l'Angleterre, les Etats-Unis et le Canada, pour régler les questions irritantes suscitées en grande partie par l'abrogation du traité de réciprocité, et en particulier pour résoudre la question des pêcheries.

Sous l'empire du traité de réciprocité les Américains avaient le droit de pêcher dans les eaux canadiennes, mais l'abrogation de ce traité faisait revivre le traité de 1818 qui leur interdisait la pêche en dedans de trois milles marins de nos rives.

La question en litige était de savoir d'où devraient partir ces trois milles.

Les Américains continuaient de pêcher, comme ils l'avaient fait sous le traité de réciprocité, sans s'occuper le moins du monde des remontrances du gouvernement canadien et même des ordres du président des Etats-Unis. Des croiseurs anglais et canadiens recurent l'ordre de protéger les droits des Canadiens et d'arrêter ceux qui les enfreindraient. Plusieurs vaisseaux américains furent saisis et confisqués; une agitation violente s'ensuivit dans la presse, et l'opinion publique irritée se fit entendre jusqu'au capitole de Washington.

Les autres questions soumises à la commission avaient trait aux fameuses réclamations de l'Alabama, à la navigation du St. Laurent et des canaux canadiens, à la délimitation de la frontière entre les Etats-Unis et la Colombie Anglaise, ou au droit de posséder l'île San-Juan sur la côté de Vancouver.

100 FIRST DISCOVERY OF DIAMONDS MADE IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The first discovery of diamonds in Canada which can be definitely announced has been made in British Columbia, on Divine Mountain, near the Tulameen river, by Mr. Chas. Camsell, while he was making a geological examination for the Dominion survey. Professor R. W. Brock, Director of the Geological Survey, who announces the discovery, states that the specimens obtained so far are all smaller than a pin-head, so that the discovery is of scientific rather than of commercial importance. Many appear under the microscope to be clear and bright. Mr. R. A. A. Johnston, Mineralogist of the Survey, has established beyond doubt, however, that the stones are genuine diamonds.

Professor Brock says: "It is possible that the new placer deposits found in the streams draining peridotite rock-mass may contain stones of greater size, although the fact that placer-mining for gold and platinum has been carried on for a number of years without such a discovery having been made, tends to lessen the possibility, as stones of commercial size in the sluice-boxes would be apt to attract the attention of the miners."

LOW WATER IN THE OTTAWA RIVER.

Ottawa has had pretty low water since last fall, but according to a statement to the Journal to-day by Mr. C. R. Coutlee, engineer in charge of the Conservation Commission dams on Lakes Temiscamingue and Kipawa, the city can thank the conservation work that things have not been considerably worse.

It appears, (putting the matter in a nutshell,) that all along while the city has been worrying about the lowness of the river, the Conservation Commission engineers have been watching the situation, and gradually feeding out water, since early in January, from the big reserve supply held on Lake Kipawa.

It appears also, from what Mr. Coutlee says, that in November last, the city got the benefit of six feet of water from all the area of big Lake Temiscamingue, which has an area of 115 square miles. The accession of the city's supply on that occasion was due to the commission having to blow-up a coffer-dam at the Long Sault, owing to the rise of the dammed waters in the lake behind, flooding over the masonry work of the big dam that is being constructed there.

The city of London with its suburbs has seven millions of inhabitants, and still it grows. It grows through the passion which seems to be seizing mankind everywhere, on this continent as well as in Europe, for emigration from the country into the town, not only as the centre of wealth and employment, but as the centre of excitement, and, as the people fondly fancy, of enjoyment. The Empire and the commercial relations of England draw representatives of trading communities or subject races from all parts of the globe, and the faces and costumes of the Hindoo and the Chinaman mingle in the motley crowd with the merchants of Europe and America.

Here is the great market of the world, to which the best and richest products are brought from every land and climate, so that if you have enough money in your purse you may command every object of utility or fancy which grows or is made anywhere, without going beyond the circuit of the great cosmopolitan city. That London is the great distributing centre of the world is shown by the fleets of the carrying trade of

"It is in the country that the Englishman gives scope to his natural feelings. He breaks loose gladly from the cold formalities and negative civilities of town, throws off his habits of shy reserve, and becomes joyous and free-hearted. He manages to collect round him all the conveniences and elegancies of polite life, and to banish its restraints. His country-seat abounds with every requisite, either for studious retirement, tasteful gratification, or rural exercice. Books, paintings, music, horses, dogs, and sporting implements of all kinds are at hand. He puts no constraint, either upon his guests or himself, but, in the true spirit of hospitality, provides the means of enjoyment, and leaves every one to partake according to his inclination. The taste of the English in the cultivation of land, and in what is called landscape gardening, is unrivaled. They have studied Nature intently, and discovered an excellent sense of her leautiful forms and harmonious combinations. Those charms which, in other countries she lavishes in wild solitudes, are here assembled round the haunts of domestic life. They seem to have caught her coy and furtive graces, and spread them, like witchery, about their rural abodes. Nothing can be more imposing than the magnificence of English park scenery. Vast lawns that extend like sheets of vivid green, with here and there clumps of gigantic trees, keaping up rich piles of foliage. The solemn pomp of groves and woodland glades, with the deer trooping in silent herds across them; the hare, bounding away to the covert; or the pheasant, suddenly bursting upon the wing. The brook, taught to wind in natural meanderings, or expand into a glassy lake—the sequestered pool, reflecting the quivering trees, with the yellow leaf sleeping on its bosom, and the trout reaming fearlessly about its limpid waters: while some rustic temple, or sylvan statute, grown green and dank with age, gives an air of classic sanctity to the seclusion."

This synopsis should not exceed two pages of foolscap. Candidates are requested to give attention to spelling, writing, punctuation, grammar and style.

British Columbia is especially favoured by nature in the versatility and richness of her natural resources, which it is believed Canadians are able to develop, and which if properly applied are capable of supporting a vast and permanent population. This nation-building should be based upon a sound foundation of good citizenship, in which every useful employment is honourable, and where the dignity of labour is recognized and preserved.

If the end to be sought is the building up of the nation, and not the exploitation of these resources, the one vital interest to be secured above all others is an immigration of settlers of whom we may hope to make Canadians, in the highest and best sense of that word. That this object ought to be the one in view is supported by the recent public utterance of a very distinguished personage, when he said:

"No one who has the privilege which we have had during our tour could fail to be struck with the all-prevailing and pressing demand—the want of population. Even in the oldest of our colonies were abundant signs of this need—boundless tracts of country yet unexplored, hidden mineral wealth calling for development, vast expanses of virgin soil ready to yield profitable crops to the settler; and these can be enjoyed under conditions of healthy living, liberal laws, free institutions, in exchange for the overcrowded cities, and the almost hopeless struggle for existence which, alas, too often is the lot of many in the old country. But one condition, and one only, is made by our colonial governments, and that is—send us suitable immigrants. I would go further and appeal to my fellow-countrymen at home to prove the strength of the attachment of the motherland to her children, by sending tem only of her best. By this means we may still further strengthen, or at all events pass on unimpaired, that pride of race, that unity of sentiment and purpose, that feeling of common loyalty and obligation which, knit together, alone can maintain the integrity of the Empire."

How far do the Chinese of the labour or coolie class approach to this standard? They come from southern China. drawn from the poorer classes, reared in poverty where a few cents a day represent the earnings which must suffice for a family; accustomed to crowd together in small tenements or huts, close, unhealthy and filthy; with customs, habits and modes of life fixed and unalterable, resulting from an ancient and effete civilization, with no desire to conform to western ideas. They form, on their arrival, a community within a community, separate and apart, a foreign substance within, but not of our body politic, with no love for our laws and institutions; a people that will not assimilate or become an integral part of our race and nation. With their habits of overcrowding, and an utter disregard of all sanitary laws, they are a continual menance to health. From a moral and social point of view, living as they do without home life, schools or churches, and so nearly approaching a servile class, their effect upon the rest of the community is bad. They pay no fair proportion of the taxes of the country. They keep out immigrants who would become permanent citizens, and create conditions inimical to labour and dangerous to the industrial peace of the community where they come. They spend little of their earnings in the country and trade chiefly with their own people. They fill the places that ought to be occupied by permanent citizens, many of whom leave the country on their account. They are unfit for full citizenship, and are permitted to take no part in municipal or provincial government. Upon this point there is entire unanimity. They are not and will not become citizens in any sense of the term as we understand it. They are so nearly allied to a servile class that they are obnoxious to a free community and dangerous to the State.

This class of immigration falls far short of that standard so essential to the wellbeing of the country. From a Canadian stand-point it is injurious and in the interest of the nation any further immigration ought to be prohibited. The great industries will not suffer. There is a surplus of this class of labour at the present time ready to enter any avenue of unskilled labour that may be open. If no more were admitted the supply is equal to the demand for years to come, and the change will be so gradual as to be almost imperceptible. There are more Chinese to-day in Victoria and adjacent thereto, than in the whole State of Washington. The Chinese labourers who are already in the country will be benefited by the change. Trade with China will rather be promoted than otherwise, by removing a cause of friction, as has been found to be the case in the United States in their trade with China since the Exclusion Act. The interesst of the Empire can best be served by building up a strong and united Canada, able not only to defend herself, but afford help if need be to the Mother Country. Whatever permanently weakens British Columbia weakens the Dominion and the Empire, and no material gain to individual interests ought to weigh for one moment against this injury to the nation.

TYPEWRITING,

Time allowed: ½ hour.

It may be remarked that Minneapolis wheat is now and often is at a premium over the current price in Chicago. That is true at times, for the reason that generally the demand for high-grade milling wheat at Minneapolis is much greater than at Chicago. Minneapolis is the greatest milling centre in the world. Minneapolis mills have a greater reputation throughout the world than mills of other sections. Their capacity being great, their cost of production is relatively low. With such facilities and reputation and low cost, they can afford to pay premiums for the better grades of wheat. There has recently been excessive competition among the mills of Minneapolis to attract wheat and hold it there.

It requires 6 bushels of wheat to make one barrel of patent flour. Even one bushel of high-class wheat combined with 5 bushels of average wheat will materially improve the one barrel of high-grade flour when produced by such a combination. The farmer may not realize what must be apparent to the thoughtful student, that the ability of the American mills to absorb practically all the wheat that is grown in the United Sttes and so combine it into a finished product that every kernel of it has immediate value, is the most important influence in existence for maintaining the high level upon which American wheat is sold.

Every bushel of Canadian wheat thus used in the development of increased trade abroad will require its complement of 4 or 5 bushels of home-grown wheat that would not be required by the American mill if it were unable, as at present, to increase its foreign outlet for flour. . . . . The question presented is whether the Canadian grain will reach the ultimate markets where the world's price is fixed on the low basis at which it is at present being marketed, or whether this grain will be handled by American methods, through American elevators, over American railways and by American flour-mills, all of which, with abundance of capital, established connections, and unparalleled facilities, provide channels and methods by which distribution may be made more in accordance with the world's needs, thus subjecting the Canadian surplus to influences that will add to its ultimate value when it finally goes into consumption.

Why have we been losing the most thrifty and most valuable citizens of the Western States, who, from choice, have left the protection of our flag and renounced citizenship in a republic to become citizens in the Canadian provinces under the protection of a British flag? Why have these valuable citizens left their homes and firesides in a mild climate to settle in the frozen north? Here comes the startling thought: Why should any United States farmer care to repudiate the flag of his country for the flag of Great Britain? or why are Canadians opposed to annexation to the United States?

Eighty Words a Minute.

It is the destiny of the colonies to become nations as it is the destiny of a child to become | a man, and while no doubt the idea of separation from the motherland causes a pang in the heart of | every one, yet there is not a child who leaves his father's house who does not do so with a | pang if his heart is in the proper place. There is a grander idea yet. John Bright truly said that | England is the living mother of nations, and we may yet hope to see British communities dotting the earth's surface | which I hold to be a grander idea than that of welding together a gigantic British Empire on the face | of the earth. For my part that is the view I favour. I say that I should like to see | a commercial alliance of all nations sprung from England. This is the policy I have favoured. But the fact remains, | however, that our colonial citizenship is inferior and must be reformed. For, in the opinion of all, what Canada wants | at this moment is foreign markets. There is not a country on the face of the earth which ever achieved | its independence except at the cost of blood and war and enmity with the parent State. I hold out to | my fellow countrymen the idea of independence, but whenever the day comes it must come by the consent of both | countries, and we should continue to keep the good feeling and the good will of the motherland. If we are | true to our record we will again exhibit to the world the unique, the unprecedented example of a nation achieving | its independence by slow degrees and as naturally as the severing of the ripe fruit from the parent tree. | But why should we wait for England to take action? England has dealt generously with us in the past. England | has given us a larger degree of liberty perhaps than is possessed by any other country on the face of | the earth. She has given us liberty to tax her wares even when she admits our goods free, and we | have taxed them to an enormous degree. Why should we wait for England to do more? Somebody must make a | move in this matter, and we propose that Canada shall lead the way in this great matter of a preference. |

One Hundred Words a Minute.

Canada is our neighbour on the north for three thousand miles. Her population is English, Scotch and French. Her soil is like ours. Her traditions I are the same as ours. Her language is ours. Her climate is temperate like ours, except that her growing seasons are shorter and she cannot | raise corn in any great quantity. She has a free popular government with a wage-earning class as intelligent and as well paid as ours. It is difficult to see in what respect her farmers have any advantage over our own except a virgin soil in the far north-west. I "How is the farmer to be hurt!" he asked. He then took up the effect it would have on corn and wheat prices, on the I value of farm lands in the United States and on the milling industry in the United States. He declared that "in respect to corn | the American farmer is king and will remain so, reciprocity or no reciprocity." As to wheat, he said the domestic price is governed by the | world price, and that "the sending of any part of Canada's surplus through our country instead of through Canada to be milled or to be exported I without milling will not perceptibly or materially affect the price of wheat for our farmers." The value of farm lands, he said, is affected | by the proximity to market more than by any other element, and he maintained that the American farmer would still have the advantage in this I respect. He also predicted a great increase in American milling as a result of the agreement. "It is a mere truism," said the president, "to | say that the farmers of a country constitute the greatest wealth-producing class of the country and that it is of the greatest importance to I conserve their welfare. When we have had good crops, the wheels of all industries have moved and wealth has been stored. Any one, therefore, who I would initiate a policy to injure the farmer has much to answer for at the bar of public opinion. The greatest reason for adopting this | agreement is the fact that it is going to unite two countries with kindred peoples and lying together across a wide continent, in a commercial | and social union to the great advantage of both. Such a result does not need to be justifield by a nice balancing of financial profit to each. I Its undoubted general benefit will vindicate those who are responsible for it. I say this in order that by answering the arguments directed to the | detailed effect of the agreement upon different classes of persons, I may not be thought to abandon the broad ground upon which the opportunity to I confirm this agreement ought to be seized." Taking up first the effect of the agreement on corn, he said: "The total production of corn in the | United States in 1910 was 3,125,713,000 bushels."

Horace Greeley was one of the most sellebrated men of his time. A raw produkt of the New England Hill cuntry when he began his work in life as a printir, with an individuellity so strongly marked that it virged on the eksentric and grotesk, with the zeel of a reeformer, the simpathy of a filantropist and the voilence of an aggitater, with an alert, assimmilative, but undisiplined mind and a gift for forcable, racey expression unsirpassed by any of his contempereries, with an intence consumeing interest in all that the life of his day presented to the observing eye, he became the most notible American jurnelist of the nineteenth sentury and a powre in the pollitiks of his cuntry in its most criticle period. His quaint and picturesk appearence, his oditties of manner, his "isms" and hallucenations, his hopeless disorderleness in afairs of bizness, and his incuribble propencity to give away his last doller, these were quallities which hightened poppuler interest in everything that he said and did. It may be said of him that he succeded in spite of his virtus. So curius, oddley compounded a caracter deffies analasis to-day precicely as it puzzled and confounded those who new and studied it in life. Yet there was a dominent strain of humanitarien idelism in the man which cores ponded to that great mid-sentury wave of soshel reform which raised up numberles "causes" to follow in the wake of the one momentus agitashun of the age-that of anteslaviry.

When the leaves, withered and discarded, are whirled about by the autumn winds and find lodgments where they can slowly give back to the soil the vitality they have absorbed, the naked trees seem placidly resigned to a long winter sleep. The pines, tall sentinels that never slumber, display there tasseled branches silently against the sky, or whisper restlessly to every disturbing wind. The hemlocks, less responsive, the graceful spruces, the feathed balsams, and the cone-shaped cedars all display their rich green colthing throughout the year, conspicuous among the many naked trees that seem to have forgotten the summer. But there is no sleep even among the intricate naked traceries that appear lifeless. The little buds that imperceptibly and perhaps inconsiderately weakened the hold of the dying leaves in the fall have never ceased to expand. From day to day their growth may have been imperceptible, but a short interval even in the coldest months could reveal the sleepless process of growth. The cake hold fragmentary bunches of dead leaves, and these are allowed to cling, because their displacing successors have, through some cause, failed to appear. The thorn-like winter buds of the beech have been slowly elongating and taking on the rich brown that is an assurance of active vitality. The elms conceal from general observation their tireless preparation for the expected season, but their swelling buds have increasingly absorbed sustenance for the summer display. All are manifesting the fruits of the silent activity carried on through the long months that seemed to be merely a season of sleep.

The question of Senate reform has been discussed on the platform in this country from year to year and a good deal of fault has been found with the work that the Senate does. It is generally supposed that we are a lot of old parliamentarians who are turned into a rich pasture to spend the balance of our days, and that we virtually do nothing here. Those who have spoken in the House of Commons in that way know little or nothing of the work that is done in this Chamber. The hon, Senator from Middlesex compiled a very extended statement with regard to the work done by the Senate since Confederation; but after all the feeling exists that some change should take place in the constitution of the Senate, especially with regard to the number of senators and life appointements. No doubt many people in this country are anxious that senators should be elected by popular vote. I do not know whether it would be in the public interest to make the Senate elective. I do not expect that it would bring better men into this Chamber than we have now. However, it is desirable that the amount of patronage exercised by any government should be reduced as far as possible. No matter what government is in power it has too much patronage. In some cases it is a source of weakness rather than of strength, because when a senatorship becomes vacant there are many applications for appointment, and when the vacancy is filled there are fifteen or twenty dissatisfied men who become enemies of the government from that time forwards. Therefore, it is desirable in the interest of the government itself, that they should have less patronage. From that point of view I would willingly consent to some change being made in the direction suggested by the resolution before us. I would also consent, owing to the fact that there is a feeling in the country that some change should take place, to other changes in the constitution of the Upper House. Since I have had the honour of occupying a seat in this House, I can houestly say that the Senate has discharged its duties well and ably both in its committees and in the Chamber. Bills sent to us from the Commons receivevery careful consideration, and in many cases important amendments have been made. In 1906 we made 133 amendments to the Bills sent to us from the Lower House. As a rule, those amendments were accepted and the Bills became law. You would fancy from the utterances of some members of the House of Commons that the Senate does little or nothing. It is quite evident that they know nothing about what is done in the Upper Chamber. It some of those who undertake to criticise the Senate would read the Senate debates and post themselves with regard to the work done in this Chamber, they would not make such a ridiculous exhibition of themselves as they do when they advocate the abolition of the Senate. There is but one intelligent nation of the many blessed with a system of responsible government that is without a second Chamber. That nation is Greece. So far as I can learn it is the only country whose parliament consists of only one Chamber. In the face of all this, surely Canadians are capable of deciding what form of government we should have, and it is not complimentary to the fathers of confederation that forty years after confederation has been consummated it should be said there was no need for the Senate and it should be abolished. I will admit that if the parliament of Canada_were blessed with men of exalted ability, it might be possible to get along with one Chamber; but we must not forget that Canada, as a confederacy, has been in existence forty years now, and in all that forty years the people have been from year to year electing representatives to the House of Commons, and in all that time they have never been fortunate enough to elect more than one representative who was blessed with the magnificent ability and the exalted statesmanship that enabled him to see that the Senate of Canada was unnecessary and should be abolished. Possibly he can see farther than any of us, but it is amusing, in view of the work done by the Senate, in view of the amendments made here to Bills that had been sent to us from year to year, and in view of the fact that the Commons accepted those amendments and passed the Bills as so amended, that any man would make such an exhibition of himself as to declare the Senate should be abolished. From session to session valuable legislative work is done in this Chamber, and, as I said before, those who undertake to criticise the Senate, do so without knowing what they are talking about. When I sat in the House of Commons. in my simplicity I criticised the Senate also.. I thought it might be done without. I felt very bitter against it, owing to the fact that it passed the Gerrymander Act in 1882. I thought it should not have done that. I thought it was an opportunity for the Senate to show its independence, but after all it passed the Bill, and I felt it my duty as a consequence to criticise the Senate; but since I have come here I have learned a good deal about the work that the Senate does, and I have come to the conclusion that we are not drones. We do not spend the days and the hours that we are called upon to sit in this Chamber virtualy doing nothing. The great trouble is, that the press of the country take little or no notice of what is being done in the Senate. We have one reporter furnishing a report of the proceedings to the papers, and the newspaper reporters have an opportunity of looking over the items that come up and are discussed in this Chamber and the result has been that from year to year less and less attention has been paid to the Senate and we do not get the notice in the public press that I think we deserve. We are not finding fault. It is the policy of the press to devote their time almost entirely to the House of Commons. Value.

    "Even in a palace"! On his truth sincere,
    Who spoke these words, no shadow ever came:
    And when my ill-schooled spirit is aflame

La vie de presque tous les grands hommes est un modèle d'énergie, de courage, de patience. Celle de Franklin, par exemple nous révèle toutes les beautés d'un caractère droit, généreux et énergique. Ce n'est point sans difficulté qu'il a cultivé son génie, sans effort qu'il s'est formé à la vertu, sans un travail opiniâtre qu'il a été utile à son pays et au monde. Il mérite d'être pris pour guide par ces privilégiés de la Providence, par ces nobles serviteurs de l'humanité qu'on appelle les grands hommes. C'est par eux que le genre humain marche de plus en plus à la science et au bonheur. L'inégalité qui les sépare des autres hommes et que les autres hommes seraient tentés, d'abord de maudire, ils en comblent promptement l'intervalle par le don de leurs idées, par le bienfait de leurs découvertes, par l'énergie féconde de leurs impulsions. Ils élèvent peu à peu jusqu'à leur niveau ceux qui n'auraient jamais pu y arriver tout seuls. Ils les font participer ainsi aux avantages de leur bienfaisante inégalité, qui se transforme bientôt pour tous en égalité d'un ordre supérieur. En effet, au bout de quelques générations, ce qui était le génie d'un homme devient le bon sens du genre humain, et une nouveauté hardie se change en un usage universel.

In the character of Robert Emmet there was such a combination of admirable qualities, and in his history there are so many of the elements of romance, that the man stands out before our mental vision as a peculiarly noble and loving being, with claims upon our sympathies that are absolutely without a parallel. He had youth, talent, social position, a fair share of fortune, and bright prospects for the future on his side, when he embarked in the service of a cause that had but recently been sunk in defeat and ruin. Courage, genius, enthusiasm were his, high hopes and strong affections, all based upon and sweetened by a nature utterly free from guile. He was an orator and a poet; in the one art he had already achieved distinction, in the other he was certain to take a high place, if he should make that an object of his ambition.

He was a true patriot, true soldier, and true lover. If the story of his political life is full of melancholy interest, and calculated to awaken profound emotions of reverence for his memory, the story of his affections is not less touching. So it is, that of all the heroic men who risked and lost everything for Ireland, none is so frequently remembered, none is thought of so tenderly as Robert Emmet.

Les treize colonies voisines offraient une physionomie toute différente. Autant la colonie française était unie, autant celles-là étaient divisées. Fondées, à l'origine, sans lien commun, elles avaient grandi, l'une à côté de l'autre, sans se rapprocher ni se fondre ensemble. On reconnaissait bien en elles des traits généraux de ressemblance, les grandes lignes de la législation anglaise et du protestantisme, les mêmes tendances démocratiques découlant du gouvernement représentatif apporté de la mère patrie; mais au delà, c'était l'image du chaos. La masse de la population était d'extraction saxonne, mais il s'y mêlait beaucoup d'éléments ayant d'autres origines. De là une variété presque infinie de caractère, de croyances, de lois, de mœurs, de coutumes. Cette masse énorme, exubérante de vie, était encore inconsciente de sa force, ne l'ayant jamais essayée. L'esprit public n'existait pas, ou, du moins, ne s'étendait pas au delà des frontières de chaque province. La plupart se jalousaient, souvent se querellaient pour des rivalités d'intérêt ou de secte.

PAPER B (with English-French and French-English dictionary).

Traduire en anglais:

La navigation maritime commence à Québec par un bassin qui pourrait recevoir toutes les flottes de l'Europe. Sur un front de plus de 5 kilomètres le port de la métropole canadienne a des profondeurs de 12 mètres. Et rien ne serait plus facile que de lui donner une extension pour ainsi dire indéfinie. De la pointe à Carey au cap Rouge, sur une longueur de 17 kilomètres, le fleuve présente dans son chenal principal des fonds qui varient entre 18 et 45. Et l'on aurait encore à utiliser la côte sud, à droite et à gauche de Lévis, où les mêmes commodités se rencontrent pour le mouillage des plus puissants navires.

Québec n'est pas seulement le bout de mer, c'est-à-dire le point extrême ou, avant la découverte de la navigation à vapeur, pouvaient remonter les grands voiliers. Québec a aussi une incomparable valeur stratégique. On a dit que c'était le Gibraltar de l'Amérique du Nord. Et en vérité la cité de Champlain commande cette porte de l'Amérique qu'est la vallée du Saint-Laurent. Sur son haut promontoire défendu au sud par les falaises abruptes du cap Diamant, à l'est par le confluent de la rivière Saint-Charles, elle intercepte d'autant plus facilement le passage qu'entre la grève de la Basse-Ville et la pointe Lévis, le fleuve se réduit à une largeur d'un quart de lieue.

Le bassin de Québec est fermé en aval par l'île d'Orléans qui vaut presque l'île de Montréal pour la grandeur comme pour la fertilité. Un archipel la continue: île Madame; île aux Grues, île aux Oies, que les battures réunissent à la marée basse.

L'estuaire du Saint-Laurent n'a pas sur sa rive droite d'affluent qui vaille la peine d'être cité pour sa longueur ou pour son débit. La ligne de faîte est trop rapprochée du fleuve pour qu'il soit possible à de grandes rivières de s'y développer.

Pour moi, tout en admirant les immortels chefs-d'oeuvre du XVIIe siècle, j'aime de toutes mes forces cette école romantique que a fait éprouver à mon âme les jourissances les plus douces et les plus pures qu'elle ait jamais senties. Et encore aujour-d'hui, lorsque la mélancolie enveloppe mon âme comme un manteau de plomb, la lecture d'une méditation de Lamartine ou d'une nuit d'Alfred de Musset me donne plus de calme et de sérénité que je ne saurais en trouver dans toutes les tragédies de Corneille et de Racine. Lamartine et Musset sont des hommes de mon temps. Leurs illusions, leurs rêves, leurs aspirations, leurs regrets trouvent un écho sonore dans mon âme, parce que moi, chétif, à une distance énorme de ces grands génies, j'ai caressé les mêmes illusions, je me suis bercé dans les même rêves et j'ai ouvert mon coeur aux mêmes aspirations pour adoucir l'amertume des mêmes regrets.

La première impression de Frontenac, en débarquant, avait été la surprise: 'J'ai trouvé ce pays, écrit-il beaucoup moins sauvage que je ne pensais.' Puis tout de suite, il exprime cette admiration frappe d'abord l'étranger, à l'aspect de Quebec, et qui s'imposait, dit-on, aux indifférents Iroquois eux-mêmes. 'Rien ne m'a paru si beau et si mangnifique que la situation de Québec, qui ne pourrait pas être mieux postée, quand elle devrait devenir un jour la capitale d'un grand empire.' Et Frontenac n'exagère pas: le plateau sur lequel se dresse la haute ville, en avant des plaines d'Abraham, s'avance comme un coin entre le Saint-Laurent et la rivière Saint-Charles, tombant à pic, par des rochers où s'accrochent des chemins tortueux, sur une étroite bande littorale; en face, à droite du Saint-Laurent, les falaises de Lévis; au delà de la rivière Saint-Charles, la montée plus calme des côtes de Beauport et de Beaupré, ou, parmi les cultures, des coins de forêts laissés debout mettent en automne, 'à l'époque où arriva Frontenac, les merveilleuses teintes rouges de l'érable canadien; au centre, dans le confluent des caux, l'île d'Orleans, dont le relief apparaît aplati, entre les hauts escarpements des deux rives.... En soldat qu'il était, Frontenac remarquait surtout la valeur militaire de cette position, la clef du long chemin creux que le fleuve s'est ouvert au travers des Laurentides; presque rien n'avait été fait encore pour en tirer parti: à peine un méchant fort, indigne de son mon officiel de château. bon tout au plus pour résister à des indigènes.

The ground-wurk of the earacter of William Pitt, the grate statesman was an intence and pashunate pried, but it was a pried which kept him from stuping to the levell of the men who had so long held England in there hands. In the midst of a sossiety criticle, polit, indifferent, simple even to the afectation of simplisity, witty and amuseing but absolutely prossaic, skepticle of virtu and enthuseasm, Pitt stood intiply alone. The depth of his convixion, his pashunate love for all that he deamed lofty and troo, his firey energe, his poetic immaginativeness, his theaterical airs and retoric, his pompusness and extravegence were not more puzzeling to his contemperies than the confidance with which he appealed to the hier sentements of mankind, the skorn with which he turned from a coruption which had till then been the great enjine of pollitiks. He was the first staitsman since the Restoration who set the exampel of a purly public spiret. Keen as was his love of power, no man ever refuzed ofice so often or aksepted it with so strict a regard to the principles he proffessed. At the outsett of his carcre he was appointed to the most lucretive office in the administrashun, that of paimaster of the forces, but its proffits were of an ilegal kind, and poor as he was, he refussed to aksept one farthing beyond his salery. No leader ever had a wider popularrity than "the grate comoner," as Pitt was stiled, but his maner was allways that of a man who commands popularrity rather than one who seaks it. He never bent to flattur popular pregudice, but his temper harmonnized admirebly with the temper of the comercial England which rallied round him with its energe, its self-confidense, its pried, its patriotisme, its onesty and its morel ernestness.

Work is practically inclusive of every force and kind of life; since every 50 real worker puts into it all that is most distinctive in his nature. The moral quality contributes sincerity, veracity, solidity of structure; the intellectual quality is disclosed in order, lucidity, and grasp of thought; the artistic quality is seen in symmetry, proportion, beauty of construction and of detail; the spiritual quality is revealed in depth of insight and the scope of relationships brought into view between the specific work and the world in which it is done. In work of the finer order, dealing with the more impressionable material, there are discoverable not only the character and quality of the worker, but the conditions under which he lives; the stage of civilization, the vigour of languor of vital energy, the richness or poverty of social life, the character of the soil and of the landscape, the pallor or the bloom of vegetation, the shining or the veiling of the skies. So genuinely and deeply does a man put himself into the thing he does that whatever affects him affects it, and all that flows into him of spiritual, human, and natural influence flows into and is conserved by it.  $\Lambda$  bit of work of the highest quality is a key to a man's life because it is the product of that life, and it brings to light that which is hidden in the man as truly as the flower lays bare to the sun that which was folded in the seed. What a man does. is therefore, an authentic revelation of what he is, and by their works men are fairly and rightly judged.

SHORTHAND.

SIR,—With reference to the transportation orders for use over the Canadian Northern Railway and certain branches of the Canadian Pacific Railway, it has been brought to the attention of the department that an agent issued several orders to clerks in his office when on holiday trips. I am directed to instruct you in future to see that the book of orders in your possession is kept in the office safe and care must be taken to see that the orders are used only by departmental officials travelling on government business.

An opinion seems to prevail that the railway orders represent free transportation, which is a very erroneous idea. For every order issued by our officials the different railway companies bill the Department of the Interior and cheques are issued out of the departmental appropriations covering same. When the transportation is over subsidized branches the cheques are drawn to the credit of the Receiver General and the amounts charged up by the Finance Department against the Subsidy Accounts. It will, therefore, be seen that as far as the Interior Department is concerned, these orders represent each and the greatest possible care should be taken in the issue of the orders in question. I am again to point out that on no account is an order to issue except to departmental officials travelling on government business.

One hundred words a minute.

SIR.—Referring to departmental circular of March 30, 1910, in connection with transportation orders, I may say that the Auditor General has drawn the attention of the department to several requisitions used for private purposes, and in order to safeguard the issue of the orders in question, I am to request you to instruct the agents and homestead inspectors to report to you monthly on Form No. 21, under the head of 'Nature of service,' whether or not the orders issued have been on government business. In future, when the accounts are received from the railway companies they will be forwarded to the inspector who countersigned the same in order that he may certify that the transportation orders included in the said bills were used on government business. It is realized that the inspectors of agencies are in much closer touch with the homestead inspectors and agents than the department can possibly be, and from the information furnished you on Form No. 21 you will be in a position to give the necessary certificate. In order to comply with the wishes of the Auditor General, the Deputy Minister is most anxious that the closest possible check should be kept on the orders in question. I am, therefore, to request you to take every possible means to prevent the use of the transportation orders for other than departmental business.

Although the question of compensation may not arise under this Bill, I may perhaps be allowed to say that I agree with the sentiments expressed by my hon. friend from Halton (Mr. Henderson), to the effect that the present law is quite inadequate. Many cases have arisen, and do arise, where, through the action of the government or its officials, serious direct loss is suffered by farmers and no compensation is paid, and where, I am sorry to say, I do not think any effort is being made in the direction of raying compensation. I have rather a pointed case in my own county which I drew to the attention of the House last session, and have brought it to the attention of the department before, a case in which compensation has been refused. I think if ever there was a fair, just and reasonable case, to use the minister's language, in which compensation should be paid, the case I have submitted, and will again mention, is that case. In November, 1908, either one or two carloads of cattle were ordered for export from Fergus to Liverpool, fine cattle all ready for export. At Niagara Falls, on the frontier, a veterinary inspector of the government stopped them, examined the car and reported, not that an animal was diseased, but that he suspected that one of the animals had the mange. The shipment was delayed at the Falls. It was ordered from there back to Toronto, for some reason that I have not yet been able to ascertain, from Toronto ordered back to Fergus. There it was kept for a considerable length of time, three or four weeks, the farmer had to procure special stables and to comply with the special quarantine regulations, and in the end it turned out that the animal was not diseased and did not have the mange. The whole loss arose from the mistake of the inspector of the government at Niagara Falls. The farmer has lost his opportunity of making a sale, he has lost his freight from Fergus to Niagara Falls and back via Toronto, he has been put to large expense for providing special stables and complying with the quarantine regulations; in fact, his loss has run from $1,000 to $1,200. That is directly attributable to the action of the inspector who made the mistake. Why should not the government compensate in a case of that kind? A man might make a mistake and act bona fide, and I have no doubt that it was a bona fide mistake. Why should the farmer bear the loss! The minister informs me that it was for the security of the public. Well, then, why should the public not pay! If the animals had been slaughtered two-thirds of the value would have been paid, but as the matter stands to-day the man has lost from $1,000 to $1,200 on one shipment through no fault of his own, he has a fair, just and reasonable case and I think that either by special vote or otherwise that claim should be paid.

What is right and just and honourable should be the law. Now, the government appoint inspectors to inspect meat. They do that for the benefit of the general public. The government, representing the general public, pay these inspectors, and it is through them that the general public get the benefit. Those who get the benefit should pay the cost. The government, in appointing inspectors, have gone a certain distance. Any one who employs another person to work for him, whether the government or an individual, is responsible for what that person may do under his instructions. When an animal is condemned, there may be considerable difficulty in knowing to whom it belonged in the first place. It is utterly impossible that one hog among 400 or 500 can be traced to the farmer from whom it was purchased. Even if that could be done, a farmer who had any suspicion that the animal was diseased, would not offer it for scale to a drover who would be likely to take it to a point where it would be inspected.

Il se déclara en faveur d'un chenal de quatre pieds à marée basse, et il évalua à vingt cents par yard cube le coût de ces travaux.

C'était là ce qu'il pensait être un prix raisonnable pour faire exécuter les travaux par une drague du Gouvernement. Les travaux terminés, nous avons eu le certificat de M. Stead qui montre dans quelle condition l'ouvrage a été fait et les dangers qu'il y avait à faire ces travaux spéciaux à travers la barre. Il s'est réuni aux autres et a renvoyé ces certificats du département recommandant le paiement d'une somme plus élevée. Il suffisait alors pour moi, après avoir envoyé l'ingénieur en chef et ces deux fonctionnaires indépendants du département, d'avoir vu dans leurs rapports que les prix étaient justes et raisonnables pour me justifier d'avoir payé le prix de la soumission. Il y a plus, nous avons la preuve supplémentaire que dans l'année suivante, même sur les travaux intérieurs qui étaient moins dangereux que ceux de l'extérieur de la barre, le prix réel des travaux de la drague du Gouvernement était de 41 cents par verge cube.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS OF CANADA.

CHIEF ENGINEER'S OFFICE,

OTTAWA, July 25, 1910.

Sir,—I have the honour to submit the annual report on the various works under my charge during the fiscal year ended March 31, 1910.

These works comprise the construction and repair of wharfs, piers, breakwaters, dams, weirs, bank and beach protection works; the improvement of harbours and rivers by dredging; the construction, maintenance and operation of government dredging plant; the construction and maintenance of graving docks; the construction, maintenance and working of slides and booms; the construction and maintenance of interprovincial bridges and approaches thereto, and of bridges on highways of federal importance in the Northwest Territories and the maintenance of military roads; also hydrographic and ordinary surveys and examinations, inclusive of precision levelling and geodetic measurements which are required for the preparation of plans, reports and estimates; the testing of cements, &c.

I have the honour to be, sir,

Your obedient servant,

Chief Engineer.

Write in French a precis of the following extract.

We are under no obligation to give additional work to the dredging company, but the company early in the season placed upon the work a very powerful suction dredge, for the purpose of removing the material by hydraulic action and depositing it behind the proposed revetment wall. That was for the purpose of filling in and making ground which would be used in connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific terminals. That was very necessary work. Of course, it would be of no advantage to the public to have that material taken out into the lake; it is better to be used there. That dredge, added to the others which the company had already, did a great deal of work, and got ahead more rapidly than we had anticipated. In September, I think, we gave orders to the resident engineer to stop the company dredging, because the appropriation was exhausted. At once the people of Fort William, and especially those connected with the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company, Mr. Chamberlin, the general manager, and Mr. Hays, the president communicated with me, representing that it was all important that this work should go ahead. They complained that vessels going to the elevator would be obliged still to go to the Kaministiquia river by a roundabout course. These representations so impressed me, that, in the public interest, as well as well as in justice to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company, as they are paying out millions of dollars in the creation of one of the most magnificent systems of terminals in the world, instead of stopping the work and having these dredges stand idle during a part of the working season, I presented the whole case to council, and authority was given to me to have the work continued to the end of the season, the contractors agreeing to wait until parliament made the necessary appropriation for the purpose.

There is a great deal of work still to be done there. A certain area to be dredged is shown on the plan. It includes a turning basin several acres in extent, a channel to the elevators of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway and widening and deepening the Mission river. When the work is done there will be 18 miles of water frontage at Fort William, with a depth ultimately of 25 feet of water; there will be a channel leading from the Mission river to the elevators of the Grand Trunk Pacific, capable of taking in the largest lake steamers, and there will be a turning basin covering an area of some 30 acres. The Grand Trunk elevator is designed, when the different units are completed, to have a capacity of 30,000,000 bushels. It will be one of the finest elevators to be found anywhere.

To His Royal Highness, Field Marshal, Prince Arthur William Patrick Albert, Duke of Connaught and Strathearn, K.G., K.T., K.P., &c., &c., &c., Governor General and Commander-in-Chief of the Dominion of Canada.

SIR,

The undersigned has the honour to present to Your Royal Highness the Annual Report of the Department of Public Printing and Stationery, for the year ended March 31, 1911.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your Royal Highness's most obedient servant,

W. J. ROCHE,

Secretary of State.

26th February, 1912.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC PRINTING AND STATIONERY.

Office of the King's Printer and Controller of Stationery.
Ottawa, 19th February, 1912.

The Honourable W. J. Roche, Secretary of State.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit herewith the annual report of this Department for the fiscal year ended 31st March, 1911. The details are grouped under their proper heads in the reports of the several branches under the Accountant, the Superintendent of Printing and the Superintendent of Stationery, respectively.

I have very little to add to the very full statements they furnish respecting the work of the Department during the fiscal year. The work turned out by the printing branch has been exceptionally good, the quantity very large and in almost all cases within reasonable time. In fact in many instances where the necessities of Parliament or of the various Departments of the Government demanded it, printing has been done with creditable celerity. In the face of many difficulties the Stationery branch also succeeded in giving a satisfactory service.

I may be permitted to point out that one of the greatest hindrances to efficiency in the conduct of the business is the building in which the Department is housed. Its many defects are plainly apparent. The storage capacity is inadequate and at considerable inconvenience the corridors have to be called into service to relieve the congestion. The paper stock room is too far from the press room, materially increasing the cost of handling. The press room is erowded to its utmost limit, leaving no space for additional presses, which the growing demands on the Bureau make it imperative to add from time to time. In my opinion the best relief is only to be obtained by the erection of a new building planned after the modern construction of large printing plants to secure the greatest convenience and economy in operation. Failing a new building in the near future some provision will have to be made for enlarging the present building.

During the year many changes were made with a view of rendering the discharge of the duties of the office staff more efficient and effective. Theretofore the office accommodation was divided into several comparatively small rooms, thus in many instances widely separating officers whose relations in the performance of their work called for easy and close communication. In order to remove that disability the partitions were torn down and the floor devoted to offices was converted into a large counting room. The change has been found beneficial in a high degree as it brings not only the individual officers but the various branches of the Bureau closer together and secures easier communication and keener co-operation among the whole clerical staff. As a means to the same end an internal telephone system has been installed, enabling the management to communicate with the foremen and those in executive positions throughout the building. The proof readers have been grouped in one room adjoining the linotype room and connected with the type setting rooms above by a copy hoist.

A loose leaf division has been added to the bindery, in which all the requirements of the Departments for loose leaf ledgers and kindred supplies are filled. The doing of the loose leaf work in the Bureau has many advantages which are readily recognized by the Departments. For one thing it secures uniformity, coupled with high class workmanship, superior materials, a prompt service and a diminished cost.

Much has been done and much more is being planned looking to the improvement of the plant generally, the aim being to increase the efficiency of the service and lower the cost of production. The demands on the Bureau keep pace with the growth of the country and the only way to meet them is to add to the plant as fast as may be necessary.

In an establishment the size of the Bureau regular additions to the plant are required to maintain it on a plane of efficiency, to say nothing of the additions that are needed to take care of the steadily increasing volume of work.

I am glad to say that a considerable improvement has been made in the electric lighting of the building. This was necessary for two reasons, one to secure the comfort of the operatives and the other to make it possible for them to do more and better work. A policy has been inaugurated of gradually changing by means of individual motors from steam to electric power. When the location of present machines is changed or new machines installed electric motors are included in the equipment. The chief advantages of individual motors are eleanliness and a bigger output.

A machine shop has been installed in which nearly all repairs to machinery are now made as well as many new parts manufactured. This gives instant service in the case of a breakdown and machines disabled by accident are put back into commission again with the least possible delay. The machine shop is not only a convenience but a money saver.

Several modern typesetting machines have been added to the plant and the addition of several more is contemplated in the near future. This will reduce the excessive cost of hand composition as well as the purchases of type, besides greatly raising the standard of quality of the finished product.

After careful consideration and study on the part of the management of the Bureau it was decided at the end of the fiscal year to instal a new cost accounting system. Accordingly the necessary forms were prepared and the new system put into operation. The system is that devised and recommended by the International Printers' Cost Finding Congress, an organization composed of employing printers of Canada and the United States. I am confident that the system will give the most gratifying results.

During the year three new offices of some importance were created, that is (1) a mechanical superintendent, who has charge of the building, the transmission machinery, the machinists, carpenters, electricians and plumbers; (2) a purchasing agent, through whose office all purchases are made and (3) a comptroller of composition, who, under the Superintendent of Printing, has charge of all the typesetting, machine as well as hand, in the Bureau.

While the Printing Bureau was created to do the printing and lithograph work of Parliament and the Departments of the Government of Canada, it has never been able from lack of plant and equipment to fulfil its mission completely. As a matter of fact, the Bureau has never been equipped with a lithograph plant nor is it likely to be for some time to come. The bulk of the printing that has to be done outside the Bureau is lithographic, and map printing forms a considerable part of that. It does happen, however, that, in order to relieve congestion and give the Departments the service they have the right to expect, some letter press printing has to be given to outside firms. Whenever practicable or possible, this class of work is made the subject of competition and is awarded to the lowest bidder, care being taken to confine invitations to tender to printers whose plant and experience are of a character to enable them to execute the work in a satisfactory manner and within the time limit that has to be fixed in the case of rush orders. Where from the nature of the work it is impracticable to call for tenders the work is given out to competent and responsible printers at Bureau rates, that is to say rates that are substantially based on prevailing commercial rates, but on the whole rather lower.

The conduct of the business of the Printing Branch is made easier by the co-operation of the different Departments. While something is still to be desired in this respect, it is encouraging to be able to say that there has been a general improvement, and most of the Departments now realize that by helping the Bureau they are helping themselves.

The clerical staff, operatives and miscellaneous employees in the Bureau during the year number about 850 people.

THE TENDER SYSTEM.

The tender system has been in vogue in the Stationery Branch of the Department for many years and has been gradually extended and perfected. It is not too much to say that it works well inasmuch as it serves to protect the Department both as to quality and prices. In the early days of the tender system exception was taken at different times to the stringent nature of the regulations but complaints on this score have practically ceased since manufacturers and dealers have learned that in safeguarding the interests of the Department there is nothing calculated to prevent them getting a square deal. The wisdom of the policy of buying by tender and contract is demonstrated by the fact that the prices paid by the Department compare favorably with those paid by large jobbing houses for papers of grades similar to those of the Bureau's standard lines and that the wholesale stationery houses, when competing, quote prices as low, if not lower, than those given their best customers.

The tender system is being extended to embrace all purchases, the total of which reaches figures of consequence during the year. Preference is always given to Canadian manufacturers and paper firms.

With reference to papers of all kinds, mechanical and chemical tests have been and will continue to be applied. These are absolutely essential to safe-guard the Department on the one hand and on the other to protect the manufacturers who are competing for the Bureau's business. The chemical test is used to determine whether papers are free from mechanical ground wood and the mechanical tests to determine the strength and wearing quality of the papers.

Tenders are not invited on the 'per sample' basis alone. If that were to be done each manufacturer or dealer would be prepared to contend that his paper was equal to or better than the sample and the controversies would be practically interminable. When the tests are stipulated in the invitation to tender there is a definite basis to work upon and friction and misunderstanding are obviated.

I have seen by personal experience in the Department that the tests exacted for the papers used in the manufacture of our different lines of envelopes have saved the Department a great deal of money and probably been the means of avoiding a great many disputes with the Departments served by the Bureau as to the quality of the stock furnished them. These tests are now stipulated in connection with small orders for special sizes of envelopes which are necessarily purchased without tender.

It goes without saying that all Parliamentary and Government records should be permanent in their character and as a guarantee of permanency care is taken to purchase only standard brands of typewriter ribbons and carbon papers, which as an additional security are regularly and thoroughly tested.

STATIONERY STOCK.

The Superintendent of Stationery, under direction, has been doing all in his power to work off surplus lines; in fact the stock was reduced during the last nine months of the year to the tune of $62,000 in round numbers. The reduction consisted chiefly in getting-rid of irregular and obsolete lines of paper and stationery sundries and in using up all overstock of various brands of carbon paper. The effect has been to restrict the range of goods carried and get the stock into as good shape as that of a first-class business house. Practically all the odds and ends of paper and stationery, the accumulation of years, have been worked off, with the result that the stock on hand is fresh and confined to standard lines. It is proposed to keep it so by stocking in future only standard or regular lines of paper and stationery in such quantities as may suffice to meet the requirements of the service. Strenuous efforts are being made to carry as few grades as possible of each article of stationery but as this Department has no authority to dictate to the other Departments of the Government just what they shall or shall not use in the way of stationery supplies the co-operation of the latter is necessary if a fair measure of success in this direction is to be attained. While on this subject let me say that the spirit of co-operation between this Department and the Departments it was created to serve is growing with results that are beneficial to the entire service inside and out. It is the endeavour to realize the ideal of a properly standardized stationery stock and with the help of the other Departments, which after all, are the most closely concerned, that condition may be reached in the near future. For envelopes a fair standardization already exists. For general correspondence one grade each of white wove and cartridge is used. For miscellaneous purposes No. 1 manilla and No. 1 jute in two weights are supplied. The Post Office Department requires quite a large quantity of envelopes of extra strength and wearing quality and these are manufactured from a paper made of 75 per cent rope and 25 per cent jute. A good many cloth lined envelopes are also used by the different Departments for filing purposes and in cases where extra protection is required for the contents.

Three standard lines of ledger papers, representing different qualities, are stocked in various sizes and weights and they substantially satisfy the requirements of the Departments. Departmental forms for which special papers were formerly procured, are now printed on one or another of these papers with a consequent saving of money and an increased efficiency of service.

The printing papers are all standardized. They consist of parliamentary printing, which is used for all annual reports, the Statutes, Hansard, Departmental Bulletins, etc.; Gazette paper on which the Canada Gazette is printed; Geological Survey paper, a grade somewhat whiter and better than the parliamentary; bill paper, proof paper and coated book paper for half tone work. These papers are all purchased by tender and contract.

Though several qualities of letter paper are used they could with advantage be reduced to three, thereby effecting a considerable saving without in the least impairing the efficiency of the service. In my opinion there should be (a) a grade to be used by Ministers, Deputy Ministers and others entitled to use an embossed paper; (b) a grade for the use of heads of branches and others conducting general correspondence and (c) a grade to be used for memorandums and correspondence of an unimportant character.

Typewriter papers are now bought in the flat and cut and boxed in the Bureau. This plan just about cuts the cost in two and at the same time permits the supplying of the Departments with typewriter paper in uniform boxes labelled 'Government of Canada.'

A new stock list is being prepared to replace one which has been in force for many years and which has in many respects become obsolete. The task has to be approached with considerable care in order to suit every reasonable need of the Departments and at the same time keep in view the economy which should characterize the conduct of the business of the Stationery Branch of this Department.

THE BUSINESS OF THE DEPARTMENT.

A short review of the volume of business transacted by the Department during the fiscal year 1910–1911 may be of some interest.

The eash clearances for 1910-11 were $3,593,402.28.

The eash clearances for 1909-10 were $3,381,595.53.

Showing an increase of $211,806.75.

The amount charged to Parliament and the different Departments of the Government for printing, binding, &c., was $1,130,610.56, representing an increase over the previous year of $141,680.98.

The amount of printing, lithographing, map engraving, &c., given during the year to outside firms was $259,670.38, showing a decrease of $40,942.88 as compared with the year 1909–10.

The accumulated surpluses, amounting to $234,243.19 on the cost of printing since 1889 to March 31, 1911, a period of twenty years, was transferred to the credit of the Dominion Government's Casual Revenue Account. This is merely following the practice pursued each year with the surpluses in the Stationery Stock Account.

The inventory of the Printing Branch as taken on March 31, 1911, is as follows:—

119,981	52
35,521	46
7,280	88
4,905	28
167,689	15
	35,521 7,280 4,905

The total number of accounts audited for Government advertising for the year was 8,112 as against 5,660 for 1909–10.

The increase in the amount audited was $41,240.51.

Government railway printing accounts, as audited by this Department, amounted to $95,976.55, an increase over the previous year of $8,706.08.

The cost of printing, binding and distributing the annual Statutes was $9,257.38 as against $9,999.02 for 1909-10.

The proceeds of sales of Parliamentary publications amounted to $12,323.84, an increase over last year of $1,452.33.

Revenue$
Expenditure	12,999 1	0
Surplus $	3.795 6	2

Goods purchased by the Stationery Branch amounted to $541,366.74, a decrease from the year before of $58,910.06.

Goods issued by the Stationery Branch to the different Departments amounted to $621,049.48, an increase over last year of $28,146.93.

The stock of the Stationery Branch on hand was reduced during the year as follows:—

March 31, 1910, stock on hand8	256,697.41
March 31, 1911, stock on hand	194,690 66
Stock on hand reduced by	62.006 75

The standing of the King's Printer Advance Account will be found on page 4 of the annual report.

I have deemed it worth while to prepare a short comparative statement, covering two ten-year periods from 1891 to 1911, for the purpose of showing the rapid growth in the volume of business conducted by the Department. Roughly speaking the Bureau is now doing in all of its branches more than three times as much as it was called upon to do twenty years ago. The comparative figures will be found suggestive and instructive. They are as follows:—

CASH CLEARANCES OF THE DEPARTMENT IN COMPARATIVE FORM.

	Fiscal Year.	Cash Clearances.	Increase.
		$ cts.	S ets.
1890-1891		1,052,354 76

1910-1911		3,593,402 28	1,780,030 96

The cash clearances of the year 1910-1911 in comparison with the year 1890-1891 show an increase of $2,541,030.52. It will be seen, at a glance, that the business of the Department practically doubles itself every ten years. This fact is shown clearly by all figures of expenditure and revenue which follow.

In the last ten years the increase in the output of the Department is more than the total amount of the output for the year 1900–1901 by $94,673.76.

THE STATUTES.

The details of expenditure on account of statutes are as follows:—

RETURN

[33]

Ottawa, November 16, 1911.

Sir.—I have the honour to forward for presentation to your house the Report of the Librarians of Parliament for the year 1911.

I have the honour to be, sir, Your obedient servant,

MARTIN J. GRIFFIN,
Parliamentary Librarian.

The Honourable
The Speaker,
House of Commons,

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIANS

To the Honourable the Speaker of the House of Commons,

The Joint Librarians have the honour to report as follows for the year 1911.

The long and valuable list of documents covering the history of reciprocal relations with the United States, which was published in our last annual Catalogue is not repeated this year; but a supplementary list bringing the subject up to the latest date possible has been prepared and will be published as soon as possible. All the material has been for some time in the hands of the printers.

The Librarians have endeavoured to anticipate the demands of members for information of a practical character, but owing to unusual demands made by members for such information during two sessions past, the purchases for the lighter side of the Library have had to be curtailed.

Owing to the manner in which appropriations have been voted, the accounts of the Library have become long overdue, and it is not deemed advisable to go on purchasing as freely as usual, till settlement has been made. Under the circumstances, the Librarians ask for the consideration of members till the beginning of the next financial year.

The work of making card catalogues, begun last year, for the Canadian section has been pursued during recess, and will be resumed after the present session.

The Librarians have endeavoured to re-classify as much as possible the books on the shelves so as to facilitate references for those who have access to them.

An easy and convenient arrangement of books becomes more and more difficult with the constant additions in the already extremely congested state of the Library. Almost every section has a double row of books on every shelf.

The Librarians may be permitted in this connection to call the attention of the government and of Parliament to the necessity of providing extensive accommodation for the Parliamentary Library. The subject has been for years pressed again and again on the notice of Parliament, and with no result.

A simple and efficient plan had been prepared by the Chief Architect of the Department of Public Works in 1904. This plan, which the Librarians considered as the best to give prempt relief would—for a comparatively modest sum—have given shelf space for nearly 200,000 volumes. The Library Committee had on several occasions given their aproval to this proposed plan, but, unfortunately, it was never acted upon. It would have enabled the Librarians to devote all the first floor in the rotunda to works in constant use by members of Parliament, and relieved the galleries to a large extent. It is to be hoped that Parliament will see their way to give the Library this much needed space.

In the meantime, the Public Works Department is preparing some rooms in the Senate basement to relieve the congestion on the floor of the Library. This addition to our space will be most welcome.

The list of donations has been prepared and is appended hereto.

From the Earl of Crawford, K.T., LL.D.

- A Bibliography of Royal Proclamations, 1485-1714 under the Tudor and Stuart Sovereigns. 2 vols. Folio, London, 1910.
- Biblitheca Lindesiana—Catalogue of Printed books Preserved at Haigh Hall, Wigan, England, 3 vols. Folio, London, 1910.

From Messrs Regan Paul, Trench, Trübner and Co.

Frank Brangwyn and His Work. London, 1910, with illustrations in colour; a welcome and valuable artistic production.

The list of copyrights has also been prepared and will be found as usual among the sessional papers when printed.

The annual catalogue of accessions has been prepared and is in course of printing. It will be distributed at an early date.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Juvenile Delinquents.—We regret to state that the practice of committing juveniles to the penitentiaries is still too common. Ten per cent of the entire prison population is composed of lads under twenty years of age. At St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary the juveniles constitute fifteen per cent. This lamentable condition is partially due to the restrictions placed upon the judiciary by the provisions of the penal code, and partially to the fact that certain members of the judiciary do not realize the unsuitability of the penitentiary for persons of immature age. No doubt, the incentive is to give the delinquents a chance to learn a useful trade; but the trade shops of the penitentiaries are restricted, and but a small number of apprentices can be employed. Even those who can be so employed are in necessary contact with mature criminals whose influence is not conducive to reformation.

APPENDIX A.

DOMINION PAROLE OFFICER'S REPORT.

The Honourable Sir A. B. Aylesworth, K.C., Minister of Justice.

Sir,—I have the honour to submit the annual report on the parole system for the fiscal year ended March 31st, 1911.

During the year I have interviewed 615 prisoners while visiting the penitentiaries, also 20S inmates of jails and reformatories. Outside, I have visited 315 men on parole in various localities and I found the great majority of them steadily employed and their conduct exemplary. 67 paroled prisoners applied to me to assist them in obtaining permanent employment and I am pleased to be able to report they were all placed in situations. The major portion of all released on parole are provided with employment by their friends before release. In several cases, this past year, I have been instrumental in bringing about a reconciliation where the home life had been broken up, and in three cases I had the children restored to home influences who had become wards of various institutions. During the year I also made a complete report on all the paroled prisoners from the penitentiaries, giving their present address, employment, name of firm or employer. name of patron or friend, and where it was possible to obtain the information, the amount of wages or salary received by the paroled prisoners. I am glad to be able to state that the average wages or salary received was $8.78 per week. special reports were countersigned by the chief of police and the friend or firm giving employment, and it is a source of satisfaction to know that the great majority released on parole since the inception of the Act, twelve years ago, have not betrayed their trust or honour. I desire to mention the cordial co-operation of the chiefs of police and sheriffs in their oversight of the prisoners; also for the support of the various prisoners' aid societies and the Salvation Army in making the results of the systems so tangible and satisfactory. I also beg to mention the wardens of the penitentiaries who have received me during my visits to their institutions and who have rendered every facility in the interviewing of the prisoners.

The tabulated statement of the Dominion Police furnish the ground work for a review of the parole system since the inception of the Act twelve years ago, and I beg to call your attention to the number of paroled prisoners who have been reporting many years, and beg to suggest the adoption of some system to relieve all from reporting whose conduct has been exemplary for two years on parole, and who have faithfully reported themselves during this period, except under exceptional circumstances. The following tabulated statement by Colonel Sherwood, Commissioner of the Dominion police, gives the exact operation of the parole system since its inception in 1899.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 34

Two thousand one hundred and forty three persons have completed their sentences on parole and one thousand three hundred and eighty seven are now reporting with the hope and prospect of full liberty—a very small percentage indeed is found of those who have completed their paroles and lapsed into crime. At the close of each month I am furnished with a full list by the Commissioner of Dominion Police of all delinquents who have failed to report for the month, and I immediately take steps to have them located and ascertain the reason for not reporting. It is gratifying to know the list is never a very large one, as the prisoners on parole as a rule report regularly to the chiefs of police or the sheriffs in the locality in which they reside and they are anxious to redeem themselves and establish a good citizenship in the community they have offended.

REFORMATION.

If the reclaiming of the criminal is to be the ultimate object of our prisons, the treatment of the criminal within the prison walls must be supplemented by an intelligent effort outside of them.

I am of the opinion that no prisoner should have at once a full discharge from the penitentiary. The step from actual imprisonment to absolute liberty is too great a one for the prisoner to take at any one time, and his absolute discharge should follow only on a more or less protracted period of parole, under the authority responsible for the operation of the law that has controlled him while in prison. The man on parole is still a prisoner in the eyes of the law, and his release is simply a test of his ability and willingness to maintain himself as an honest citizen.

The state must assure him that he will have a fair chance, and that he will be protected from persecution, also assume the duty of seeing that he follows the path laid out for him by his license to be at liberty, and where there has been a wilful violation of his word of honour in keeping these conditions he should be returned to custody without any sentimental demonstration or ado about it.

Giving alms to a released or paroled prisoner is not a charitable act. He is not entitled to any particular favour, only when ill health or some other calamity overtakes him which hinders him from earning his way—then financial assistance may prove helpful; but in the major portion of cases, that which is most required is an opportunity to reinstate himself, having an equal chance with all men to assume the obligations and responsibilities of good citizenship. It is on this principle that the parole system is operated and it has been the means of reforming and reinstating many prisoners.

DUTIES AND OBLIGATIONS OF CITIZENSHIP.

The obligations of society to the discharged prisoner is a problem the solution of which is yet far from complete, although intelligent and philanthropic people recognize it as an increasing matter of importance all over the Dominion. But, in my mind this obligation does not begin with the closing of prison doors upon the convicted prisoner, nor with his re-appearance in public at the expiration of his sentence. Back of his months of punishment and so-called expiation of crime, back of the years of apprenticeship to evil influences by which the crime is made possible, there lie other years of youth and childhood, years when impressions were being received and habits formed, when the plastic clay of the young mind was being moulded and hardened by environment or circumstances. It is in these years that our obligations begin, an obligation not to the discharged prisoner alone but to the possible criminal looking out into an unknown world through the innocent eyes of childhood. The state may go on from now until the end of time enacting laws to protect itself from itself; but unless-there is a mutual individual co-operation to obviate the necessity for enacting these laws, by respecting and upholding the laws already enacted, and by the removing of temptations to violate law—by the supplying a healthier environment, without which the criminally inclined cannot flourish—until these things are accomplished we are not making any effort to prevent crime. Consequently we must accept the counterpart and have criminals. It is the duty of every citizen to show these idle, vicious, immoral, criminous characters that they are destroying the safeguards of our civilization by assuming that society is not disturbed by their antisocial acts. Something might be accomplished by educating the masses in the duties of citizenship by a concentrated effort of each individual to properly respect and protect the state's right to suppress crime, and to so environ the criminal parasitic organisms that their chances for committing crime would be greatly reduced. It is not sanity to expect a large reduction in the number of criminal offenses, or in the number of criminals, so long as conditions exist which develop them. Crime and the criminal are in our country to stay, just as long as governments continue to ignore the social conditions; and especially in our cities, which are producing a type of vicious criminality equal to any in quality (if not quantity) in the civilized world.

Very respectfully submitted,

W. P. ARCHIBALD, Dominion Parole Officer.

Quarry.—The large quantity of stone quarried during the summer and fall has enabled us to keep a gang of 35 to 40 men constantly at work. This is the first year that we did not run short of stone. The additional quantity quarried is due to the improvement of quarry implements, derricks, etc.

During the winter the remainder of the stone for the new hospital has been dressed. The greater part of the stone necessary for the construction of the new north wing has also been dressed. As soon as the weather is favorable, we will be in a position to resume work at the shanties without further delay.

Construction during the year.—On May 1st, 1910, the demolition of the old house occupied by the warden was started. Over 2,000 cart loads of earth, mortar, etc., were taken away and dumped on the river bank in the rear of the house in order to enlarge the property which belongs to the government.

The reconstruction of the new house was started during the first week in June. All the work, without exception, has been executed by the convicts under the direction of the chief instructor. The house will be ready for occupancy by the first of May next. It is really surprising that a house of this size, i.e.,  $36 \times 40$ , four storeys high in the rear, three in the front, with a large verandah, also in the rear on each storey, supported by stone columns, should have been completed within the short space of 11 months' time. The floors are all cemented and the inside of the house, as well as the outside, is quite attractive and offers all desirable comfort. The work was performed by the most competent convicts in their respective trades.

I am also pleased to mention that all the work was executed without any accident or trouble. The guard watch has been perfect and certainly warrants a good note to be placed to the credit of the officers in charge.

Along with the warden's new house construction, we have continued the construction of the new hospital. The latter work would be much more advanced had we not been delayed somewhat by the stonecutters, who were endeavoring to finish the work for the warden's house first. However, I firmly believe that the new hospital will be ready for occupancy by early spring in 1912. side walls are completed, the basement and ground floors, and the cells on the latter are also made. The window grates are made and put on. As soon as the cold weather is over the work will be continued and the roof will be put on early this coming summer.

As for the north wing, I am sorry to state that we have been delayed by the lack of pipe fittings for the drainage and sewerage apparatus. In the meantime we have built the first row of cells and made the cement ventilator blocks.

The stonecutters are busy dressing stone for the rest of the new hospital and north wing, which work will go concurrently next summer. The cement sidewalk on the street has been completed.

A hall for the invalids has been constructed.

A good horse power derrick has been erected at the quarry, which has given entire satisfaction. Another derrick has also been erected to pile the stone at the west gate.

The bath room tank has also been replaced.

Besides the general repairs of the institution, we shipped 28 standard barrier doors to the British Columbia penitentiary. Sixty dozen of shirts, 45 fur caps and one half carload of tinware were also shipped to other penitentiaries.

Farm.—I regret that the farm returns for this year have not been satisfactory. The hav crop, though, has been quite fair. The 23 days of pouring rain which we had in May caused considerable harm, the dry weather in June and July, then the heavy rains in August and September affected the potatoes, partly rotting them. The above reasons also apply to the grain returns, which were rather poor.

The farm work was done in proper time and well done. The land was in good condition for the seed. The short crop here and in many other places is due to the very unfavorable weather which prevailed. Let us hope that we will be favored this year with good weather and that the crop will be satisfactory.

Discipline.—The convicts' behavior this year has been as good as it is possible to wish it. The convicts' labour in the various departments has been most satisfactory. The young convicts are learning and demand to learn a trade to suit their ability. It is a sign of reform and a proof that they wish to acquire a knowledge of a means to earn their future livelihood in order to become good and respectable citizens.

The instructors are devoting all their possible attention towards teaching the various trades to the convicts they are in charge of. The guards in charge of the departments are constantly on the watch, keeping good discipline and seeing that each and every convict does the work assigned to him.

During the night there is no disorder. The guards, under the supervision of the chief watchman, are very vigilant and always at their post. The conduct of both officers and convicts is very satisfactory.

I also express my thanks to the inspectors for their assistance during the year, also my thanks to the general staff of the institution for the respect and devotedness which they have accorded me in the discharge of my duties.

Yours respectfully.

Warden.

This shows an increase of nine during the year.

During the year death removed two of the officers of this penitentiary. The late warden, John A. Kirk, Esq., died on September 13th, 1910, at his old home, Guysborough County, N.S., while on leave of absence for a month. Having been associated with him officially here as deputy warden for nine years, I am able to state that he was a faithful public servant.

Mr. Joseph T. LeBlanc, quarry instructor, died very suddenly on the 24th of March, 1911, having served for nearly twenty-eight years here as guard and quarry instructor. Conversant as I am with conditions here, I can say Mr. LeBlanc did good work as quarry instructor.

Mr. James Luther resigned after having faithfully served as guard here for twenty-eight years. On account of failing eyesight, Mr. C. H. Martin resigned his position as accountant at this penitentiary. The work on the farm was carried forward with energy and ability, with satisfactory results, and under the efficient management of the present farm instructor, I look forward with confidence and pleasure for the future of the farm at Dorchester penitentiary.

The discipline has been good and the officers have been faithful in the discharge of their duties.

In conclusion, I desire to express my sincere thanks to yourselves for the uniform courtesy and assistance which you have extended to me, and also thanks to the general staff for the respect and devotedness which they all have accorded me in the discharge of my duties.

Respectfully submitted,

A. B. PIPES,

Deputy Warden.

The daily average for the year was 163 against 158 for the previous year.

The building work and extensions carried on during the fiscal year were very considerable.

New Store Room Building.—This new addition, which consists of storekeeper's office and storerooms, room for acctylene lighting plant, coal storage, oil room, etc., has been finished with the exception of some ceiling, delivery of which has been delayed, and plastering and the installation of the heating apparatus. A good root cellar is also provided in this building, with dead air spaces in walls to exclude extremes of heat and cold, and an adequate ice house which is already in use.

New Trade Shops.—This building is practically completed and will be ready for occupation early this summer.

New Pump House.—All work was completed on this building last fall and a new gasolene engine has been installed. The building, which is a good substantial one, constructed of brick, has been in use since last October.

Boundary Wall.—Work was resumed last season on this wall, the north and west sides of which were completed in heavy stone masonry some seven years ago. The demand for additions and new buildings during the past few years has prevented the completion of this wall and in order to expedite its erection, in view of the large volume of other work before us, it was decided to substitute concrete for stone work. Excavating was begun early last summer and the foundation was carried to completion along the whole of the proposed east face, including the south east corner bastion. In addition 200 feet of concrete wall, 20 feet high, was completed ready for the coping blocks. It is intended to proceed with this work during the coming summer.

Up to date, approximately, 9,000 square feet surface of stone has been cut for veneer work on the proposed south concrete wall. Two thousand feet of this have been turned out during the past winter. Sufficient "bastion" stone has also been cut to build the south east bastion. It is considered that by the time the veneer stone will be needed, sufficient will have been cut to face the entire south side of the wall which will require some thirteen thousand surface feet.

Other Buildings and Extensions.—Repairs on all buildings have been made where needed. The old carpenter shop and part of the old brick lumber shed have been torn down and all material therefrom which might be of subsequent use has been saved. The interior of the large water reservoir under the trade shops building has been treated with water proofing several times and will this summer be made thoroughly water tight for permanent use.

At the cemetery the boundary fence has been repaired and painted and the interior tidied up and under-brushed. As far as it has been possible head-posts have been placed, in order that the graves might be identified according to prison numbers.

Farm.—The yield from farm crops was below the average owing to the very dry season. Notwithstanding, our farm statement shows a good balance on the right side for the year.

Respectfully submitted,

A. G. IRVINE, Warden.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

NEW WESTMINSTER, April 22, 1911.

Sirs,—I have the honour to submit my report for the year ended March 31, 1911, together with statistical and other statements.

I regret that I have again to report a large increase in prison population. A year ago I noted as a matter for congratulation that the net increase for the year then ended was 5 only. This year it is 51. Two things seem to be mainly responsible. The first is, that in several of the Sound cities, just across the border, the police have been more than usually active, and many bad characters driven from these cities have found their way into this neighborhood; the other, that the demand for unskilled labor during the winter just past was not nearly so large as in the winter of 1909–10.

One prisoner died during the year. He had a complication of diseases, and I do not think his life was shortened by imprisonment. Two prisoners, who developed symptoms of insanity, were transferred to the public hospital for the insane, where they still are.

There was one successful escape during the year. An Indian prisoner employed in the farm gang and working outside the walls, succeeded in eluding the vigilance of the guard and has not been recaptured. There have been fifteen attempts to escape, or at least actions on the part of convicts which might be viewed in that light. In eleven cases the facts left no room for doubt that escape was contemplated, but in the other cases the acts may have resulted from a mere desire to give trouble, or to create a suspicion of insanity. The frequency of these attempts is probably due in part to the fact that the work of making the prison more secure has been pushed forward, so that those men who are never allowed beyond the inner yard feel that every day lessens the chance of the success of any such attempt; and in part to the fact that a man who does succeed in getting a start of a few minutes outside the fences has a fair chance of being able to conceal himself and make good his escape.

Apart from these attempts the discipline of the prison, more particularly during the fall and winter, has been very good.

The disaster to the piggery, noted in my last report, has been retrieved to a certain extent by the success which has attended that branch of the farm work since the re-stocking a year ago. I find that the total cash expenditure for the pure bred stock, and for feed and miscellaneous expenses for the year, has been $354.25; while we have received in cash for young animals sold to neighboring farmers desirous of improving their stock $68.50 and the piggery has been able to supply the steward's department with all the pork required during the past few months, the cost of which if purchased at the average market rate during the period would have been $312.45. This, of course, takes no account of the kitchen leavings, commonly called "swill", which has been the main part of the food, and which, if the pigs had not eaten it, would have gone to waste. It would appear therefore that, considering simply the cash side of the matter, the piggery is a few dollars ahead, and the increase from the 12 animals purchased has been sufficient to supply the steward's department, as above stated, and leave us at the close of the year with about 100 young pigs on hand. On the other hand, the farm department suffered severely from the dry summer, the months of July, August and September being practically rainless. Potatoes, particularly, were below average, resulting in a loss of over $600.00 by the shortage of the crop.

The rapid increase in the prison population has made necessary an increase in the staff, but it is difficult to find men physically qualified and otherwise suitable, willing to take a position on the staff at the present rates of remuneration; and the temptation to increase their remuneration by illegitimate means has proved too much for several of the officers during the year. Those detected in these practices have, of course, been discharged.

During the summer, bricklaying had to be suspended for some two months as a large percentage of the bricks burned the previous autumn were too soft for use. It was therefore determined to remodel the brickyard, and early in the year, the old kiln shed was pulled down and a larger one erected, the material of the old one being used to construct a large wood shed. A brick-drier was also constructed, and improvements made in the arrangements for bringing in the clay.

About 2,000 feet of 4 inch pipe, thrown out of use by the forced abandonment of an outlying dam on the stream which runs through the reserve, was taken up and relaid to connect the reservoirs in the back field with the prison. This gives an additional supply of about 14,000 gallons a day.

A system of intramural telephones has been put in operation and has proved very useful.

In accordance with your decision, the shops and brickyard are to be operated in future by electric power. The necessary pole line was in course of erection at the close of the year, and the new system will be in operation before this report reaches you. Practically all the work has been done by the prisoners. It is confidently anticipated that this system will prove cheaper, as it will certainly be more convenient, than the alternative—the installation of new boilers and a new engine.

Extra provision against fire has been made by putting in four hydrants and building two hose carts.

The north-east corner of the reserve, purchased two years ago, has been completely cleared and a wire fence erected around it.

I need not lengthen this report by detailing the numerous less important pieces of work which have been carried out during the year:—repairs and alterations in the buildings, the laying out of the grounds, the construction of new roads. It is sufficient to say that the work of bringing the prison buildings and their immediate surroundings up to modern standards has been pushed forward as rapidly as possible.

The new year finds us just ready to break ground for the erection of the east wing.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN C. BROWN,
Warden.

The Inspectors of Penitentiaries, Ottawa.

ALBERTA.

Edmonton, April 29th, 1911.

I have the honor to submit my annual report embracing detailed reports from the various departments of the Alberta penitentiary for the year ending March 31st, 1911.

The prison population has increased during the year from 149 to 199.

We have had a very successful year in building.

Our brick industry has turned out seven hundred thousand brick of superior quality.

The coal mine has been able to supply all the coal needed for the use of the penitentiary.

Owing to the very dry season our farm was not so successful, the hay crop being almost a failure. Enough potatoes and other vegetables were grown for prison use.

The health of the convicts as a whole has been good, and the instructors deserve great credit for their efficient and successful management.

I am pleased to say that there were no escapes, due largely to the faithful discharge of duty by the guards.

Discipline has been good and well maintained, and I wish to thank the deputy warden and all the officers for the loyal support given me in the discharge of my duties.

Not one complaint has been received from the female ward, and the matron deserves great credit for her good management and the large amount of work turned out from her department.

The chaplains have been very attentive in their duties on Sundays, also during the week.

The Salvation Army take great interest in convicts when discharged, in finding work and helping them. They are doing a good work.

I regret to say that our brick-maker instructor who has been very successful during the past four years, has resigned.

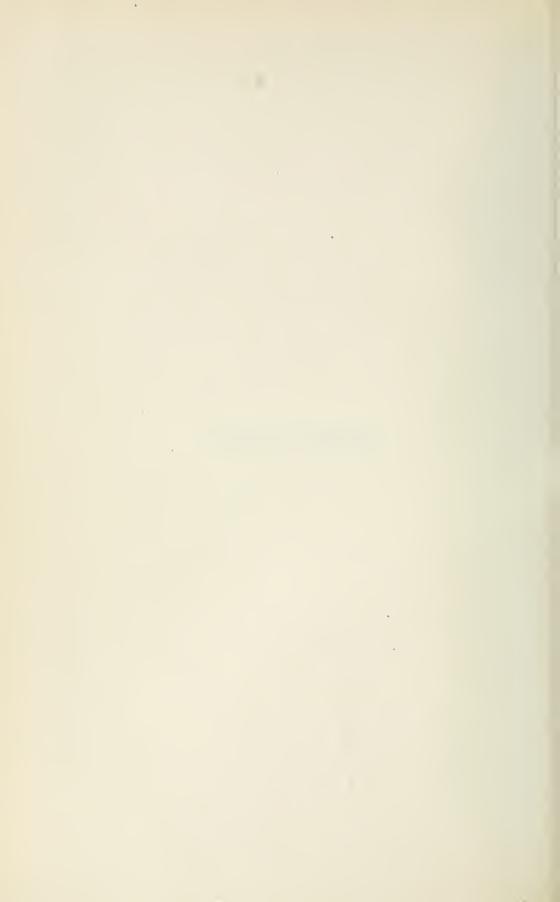

M. McCAULEY.

Warden.

APPENDIX C.

SURGEONS' REPORTS.

KINGSTON.

To the Warden,-

Sir:—In compliance with the law concerning the administration of penitentiaries, I hereby submit my annual report of the medical department of the Kingston penitentiary for the year ending March 31, 1911.

The sanitation of the prison was carried on in a most effective manner during the year. More than ordinary care was observed in these matters, so important to the well-being of those entrusted to our charge. The different industrial shops and other departments where prisoners are engaged at work were carefully looked after, and cleanliness appeared to be the aim of those having charge of each department.

The ventilation of the dormitories, workshops, and other buildings, was carefully looked after by those in charge, and there was no complaint on this score. The closets have been kept clean and in good repair, which goes a long way to enhance the sanitary condition of the prison, for if infection is to be found, it is usually in close proximity to these necessary appointments. Especially is the matter of cleanliness in these matters to be noted in the dormitories, where evidently every effort is taken to secure perfect and absolute sanitation.

As usual, the heating of the prison in general has given every satisfaction. Comfort and warmth, in the winter season, are pre-requisites to good health, and contribute to keep away disease.

The food supplied the prisoners was in point of quality, quantity, and in preparation, up to the usual standard. Much care evidently is being observed in making the mid-day meal as palatable and supporting as possible. The soups and meats served at this time, in point of flavor, would tempt the appetite of any working man.

At the end of the fiscal year, there was no prisoner in the institution who had not been vaccinated. Each prisoner is vaccinated as soon as possible after his arrival, providing fresh vaccine is available. Unfortunately, vaccine is comparable to many of the medicines in general use—it is liable to rapidly deteriorate, and consequently not being active does not provide that immunity which is sought.

There was no actively contagious disease in the prison during the year. Tuberculosis was not conspicuous, and I must say that we are very free from it; the cases which were treated in the hospital acquired the disease after la grippe, or after an attack of pneumonia—these diseases having a tendency to lessen the resistance of the body to the invasion of that disease.

One suicide was registered in the death role. This is a very small number, in consideration of the number of inmates segregated, and whose anxieties are ever pressing and whose remorse of conscience cannot fail to have some effect upon their natures. There is no guarantee against suicide, as one can commit it, even under the closest and the best managed supervision. It is often a surprise to me that more do not find vent for their feelings in this rash act. It is hope, even if it is only an illusion, which prevents its more frequent occurrence. The sick in the hospital had every attention, day and night, and all directions prescribed were carefully carried out. It is the good care and nursing which prevent a larger number of deaths. It would be difficult to particularize as to the diseases—pneumonia amongst the really dangerous diseases, however, being quite prevalent, and requiring most care. Many minor operations were performed, on the eye, ear, nose and throat, and other parts of the body, all of which have been successful.

Were an operating room available, these operations could be greatly facilitated and many others would be undertaken.

There were one hundred and eighteen cases of illness among officers during the year; on two, I performed serious operations and they are now as well as ever. Pneumonia was frequent amongst the officers, many requiring long and careful attention. Sick officers appear to be more anxious about the time when they will be able to return to duty than the course the disease is likely to pursue and the danger to which they are exposed. It is a pleasure to note the solicitude each officer manifests to return to duty as soon as possible. The sick are never the judges of their own cases, and many cases of temporary indisposition to my knowledge have been transformed into a grave condition by futile attempts to expedite recovery. To the sick officers I made ten hundred and sixty five visits.

Insane Ward.—This ward has been very carefully looked after, and the inmates have been made very comfortable. At the end of the year there were twenty seven in the ward; the general distribution into other quarters, some, the greatest number, being transferred out to work in the general prison, having recovered; others, whose time has been terminated being removed to the asylums in the province from which they came. Some of the inmates of this ward, sent in from other prisons as insane, appear to be more incorrigible and vicious than mentally deranged.

Female Ward.—There were fourteen inmates of this ward at the close of the year. Cleanliness appeared to prevail everywhere, and the prisoners were kept neat and clean. There was a fair amount of sickness; one woman being confined. She was pardoned after her infant was about four months old.

There was no accident amongst the prisoners during the year. The usual reports of the hospital overseers are appended.

DANIEL PHELAN,
Surgeon.

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL.

St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, 1st April, 1911.

To the Warden,—

Sir,—I have the honour to tender you my annual report for the year ending 31st March last.

Nothing worth to be mentioned occurred in the medical department.

The general health was fair all through the prison, though we had during the year more patients treated in the hospital than in the previous years.

Amongst the officers, I was called to attend many patients, one keeper was sick for 160 days.

I would suggest that the use of the razor on convicts be ruled off, on account of danger of inoculation and infection for the convicts. I think the clipper would be easier to disinfect and doing so, the real cause of so many specific diseases would not exist.

DORCHESTER.

Dorchester, April 28th, 1911

To the Warden,—

I have the honour to submit my annual report for the year ended March 31st, 1911.

A part of the following statistics are taken from the records of my predecessor, Dr. E. F. Gaudet.

Since I have taken charge here, I have found the sanitary conditions of the prison good. The health of the prisoners, as a rule, has been quite satisfactory. There has been one operative case of appendicitis, with recovery. During the last month there have been a number of cases of influenza among the prisoners and officers. One officer died of pneumonia.

I highly appreciate the courtesy of the staff, shown me as a new officer. The kindness and efficiency of the hospital overseer has assisted me greatly in my new duties.

Respectfully submitted,

D. D. McDONALD, M.D. Surgeon.

MANITOBA.

STONEY MOUNTAIN, April 19th, 1911.

To the Warden,-

I beg to submit my report for the year ended March 31st, 1911.

During the past year the health of the convicts has been fairly good. There was one death, due to meningitis. There was no accident.

Three prisoners, insane when received, were handed over to the provincial authorities. Two convicts became insane; one of these was transferred to Kingston and one to Selkirk asylum.

The health of the officers has been fair;  $245\frac{1}{2}$  days were lost on account of illness and injury. One officer was laid up for two months with a broken leg, and another for one month with appendicitis.

Respectfully submitted,

R. W. NEILL, M.D. Surgeon.

Sir,—I have the honour to submit my annual report for the year ending March 31st, 1911.

As a general thing the health of the convicts has been good, although some have been seriously ill, and one died.

The serious cases have all been of a tubercular nature. The convict who died had been in hospital on more than one occasion with this disease. Of the others, one was discharged and one still remains. There is also one who has it in an incipient form.

The usual tables showing the work done in this department of the prison are appended.

Respectfully submitted,

W. A. DEWOLF SMITH, M.D. Surgeon.

ALBERTA.

EDMONTON, April 24th, 1911.

To the Warden,-

Enclosed you will please find report of the medical department for the year ending March 31st, 1911.

We have been free from any contagion in the prison, and no severe cases except a few of pulmonary tuberculosis. Accidents have been few and trivial. The sanitary condition of the prison is as good as we can expect under the system of temporary cell blocks we have, the buckets being always more or less unsanitary. The health of the officers has been good during the year.

CHAPLAINS' REPORTS.

KINGSTON.

Kingston, April 5th, 1911.

To the Warden,-

I hereby submit my report for the year ending March 31st, 1911.

On that date the number of prisoners on the protestant chapel register was 320; males 313, females 7.

The following is their classification by creeds:—

Church of England	91
Methodist	94

I desire to acknowledge the honour of being permitted to attend the International Prison Congress held in Washington last fall, and to express the pleasure afforded me by that visit. The Congress was indeed an education. It tended to give larger views of duty, and to impress one with the serious importance of prison and penitentiary management.

Such an assembly consisting of so many delegates from so many countries met together to consult for the welfare of society at large, and at the same time to consider the best means to help fallen men and fallen women, was indeed, an inspiration, and may be regarded also as a visible proof of the brotherhood of mankind, and of the survival of "the good". Without doubt a blessing will result from it.

During the year we have been assisted in our services by the following visitors—Professor Morrison of Queen's College who preached for us: Messrs Johnson and Westerberg who are engaged in rescue work in San Francisco, Cal; Rev. W. Loucks, Rector of St. Matthews Church, Ottawa, who preached; Professor Knight of Queen's College who gave two excellent lectures on "healthy homes and healthy bodies"; The Lord Bishop of Ontario, who delivered a very impressive discourse. He was attended by the Rev. Canon Loucks.

We have been favoured also by a visit from the Messrs Harvey whose music we all so much enjoy.

I desire once more to tender my sincere thanks to the staff of the penitentiary for their kindness and courtesy.

Yours respectfully.

A. W. COOKE, Protestant Chaplain.

Portsmouth, April 5th, 1911.

To the Warden-

In accordance with the usual custom prevailing in the penitentiaries, I herewith present my report as Roman Catholic chaplain for the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1911.

At said date there were 182 convicts registered on my chapel rolls—to wit,175 men and 7 women. In the providence of God I have been blessed with uninterrupted good health during the year, constant in my attendance at the penitentiary and regular in my association with its inmates. Hence I am prompted to state that I think a certain general improvement in the moral tone of the convicts is gradually going on which can be better felt than described, for, while influence cannot be measured by mathematical formula, nevertheless the fact remains that its effects may be consciously present and recognized by the watchful observant.

As in the past the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass was celebrated every Sunday morning and feast day at 8.45 o'clock and each Sunday afternoon at 1.45 o'clock vespers were chanted followed by a sermon on the gospel of the day or by an instruction appropriate to the occasion. Much to the credit of the men be it said that their conduct was most exemplary at all times and they have been moreover most faithful in their frequent reception of the sacraments of penance and the eucharist.

The staff of officers are to be commended for having labored so loyally and efficiently for the best interests of the prison, which has in consequence been a source of great benefit to me.

With grateful acknowledgment, then, of all courtesies and ever-ready support so cheerfully and spontaneously tendered me,

I remain, Dear Sir,

Yours respectfully,

M. McDONALD, Roman Catholic Chaplain.

ST, VINCENT DE PAUL.

St. Vincent de Paul, March 31st, 1911.

To the Warden.

I respectfully forward you my yearly report for the fiscal year ending to-day. We numbered at the same date a year ago 436 catholics. Since then, 213 have quitted:—1 to the protestant chapel, 5 with pardon, 57 licensed, 2 deported, 4 to Kingston, 4 dead, and the balance released. We have received 169 from the courts and 2 from the protestant chapel. Total 394 catholics.

As in the foregoing year, I am satisfied with our congregation, and owing to the Eucharistic Congress in Montreal, the number of communions has remarkably increased. The singing is beautiful and does credit to our organist.

The occasion is most proper for me to present you, Sir, and your staff, my sincere thanks.

Yours respectfully,

L. O. Harel, Priest, Roman Catholic Chaplain.

St. VINCENT DE PAUL, March 31st, 1911.

To The Warden,—

I have the honour of submitting herewith my 16th Annual report as protestant chaplain of this penitentiary.

It is gratifying to be able to report that the number of convicts received this year is the smallest on record for a number of years past, and in marked contrast with the figures of last year. Whatever the cause, or causes, of this diminution may be, I trust that a desire to lead a better life may be counted as one of them. The work of a chaplain is largely one of routine, varied, at times, by disappointment where he had looked for success, and by encouragement in cases where he had least expected it. During the year one, a mere lad, died in the hospital, and was taken away by his parents for burial. I have to record one baptism, and a good attendance at the holy communion, of which there have been six celebrations. The behaviour of the men in chapel, as usual, has been good and attentive.

Statistics for the year are as follows:—

DORCHESTER.

To the Deputy Warden,—

For the fifth successive year, it is my duty, as well as my great pleasure to submit the report of the protestant chaplain of the Dorchester penitentiary for the year ending March 31st, 1911.

The year just closing has brought many bright joys, and some very dark shadows.

Death selected a shining mark when it took from us in September last our honored and much respected warden, Mr. J. A. Kirk. We were greatly indebted to him for the large measure of interest shown in our work. He was a manly man, and a christian gentleman. His death was sincerely mourned by the official staff, and especially by many of the prison population.

We note by referring to the last report that we had in custody on March 31st,

1910, 125 prisoners, as against 137 on March 31st, 1911.—

The following is the general record:—

In custody March 31st, 1910 Admitted during year
In custody, March 31st, 19	11
Creeds:
Church of England		50
Baptist		33
Presbyterian		24
Mothodist		23
Methodist
Lutherans		3
Jews		2
Disciples		1
Unitarians		1
	Total	137

The general health of the convicts under my care with but two or three exceptions is good.

The department is all that could be desired, attesting to the fact that a high standard of discipline is rigidly maintained.

We have enjoyed uninterrupted services each sabbath throughout the year. The work of the chaplaincy has thoroughly entrenched itself in our sympathies, and we are not without evidences of the divine favor.

Death came very unexpectedly to one of the prisoners near the close of the fiscal year. The body was forwarded to the parents.

This report would be incomplete did I fail to mention in terms of highest appreciation the courtesy of the department in granting the writer of this report the privilege of attending the sessions of the American Prison Congress held in the city of Washington, as also the meetings of the International Prison Congress, held in conjunction with the American Association, last autumn.

The inspirations there received have been a great incentive to larger efforts, and more consecrated work.

We record our appreciation for the courtesies constantly received from the superior officers of the institution, and notably the deputy warden, and the matrons, and look to the master of eternal assemblies for direction, in the difficult but important duties of the high office we are striving to fill honorably to God, and acceptable to the department.

Respectfully submitted,

BYRON H. THOMAS,

Protestant Chaplain.

Dorchester, N.B., March 31st, 1911.

Dorchester, N.B., April 1st, 1911.

To the Deputy Warden,—

I herewith submit my twenty-third annual report for the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1911, on which date I had 117 males and 1 female, a grand total of 118 convicts.

During the course of the fiscal year I had to register one death, a female convict. Allow me to avail myself of this opportunity in order to express my deep gratifude to the department of justice to have kindly allowed me to attend the International Prison Congress held at Washington, D.C., last fall. To come in close contact with the greatest criminologists of the world was undoubtedly a marked experience in the life of a prison chaplain—and to hear them was a great school of knowledge.

To me all the deliberations of that grand congress were of a high character, and certainly all the chords constituting the diapason of the human nature were sounded, and the avenues leading to the soul scanned. Still, from my standpoint, one chord was not made to vibrate strong enough and one avenue was not searched closely enough; that was the sensitive chord of religion and the grand avenue of christianity.

No lasting reform is possible with any criminal unless you firmly ground the edifice of that moral reform on Christ the "Rock of Ages." St. Paul tells us that without the grace of God we cannot entertain even a good thought.

I again express my sense of gratification to witness the commendable behaviour of the convicts in the chapel at catechism classes, and in whatever place or occasion I have to meet them.

In conclusion I must reiterate my thanks to the entire staff for their civility and gentlemanly deportment in my intercourse with them.

Respectfully submitted,

A. D. CORMIER, Priest, Roman Catholic Chaplain.

MANITOBA.

STONEY MOUNTAIN, March 31st, 1911.

To the Warden,—

I have the honour herewith to submit my fourth annual report as protestant chaplain.

The year has passed quite uneventfully, save for the sad death of a young Englishman, who died shortly after coming to the institution.

Services have been conducted regularly and good interest maintained throughout. I have been encouraged by evidences of good being accomplished.

I take pleasure in reporting a decrease in the number on my register this year. A decrease of ten may look small in itself, but when it is considered in conjunction with the fact that we are situated at the gateway of the great west and that through this gateway hundreds of thousands annually pass it surely speaks volumes for the settlers of the west.

In connection with this decrease in protestants, I would draw your attention to the heavier penalties imposed. The duration of the average term is lengthening. This may somewhat account for the decrease, as longer sentences have a decided tendency to reduce crime. This, with our parole system intelligently applied, is a step towards the indeterminate sentence.

I much regret the number of our youthful prisoners. I shall hail with delight the day when this younger element shall be classified and as far as possible saved to the nation.

The following has been the movement of convicts during the year:—

STONEY MOUNTAIN, 9th April, 1911.

To the Warden,-

Please find herewith my annual report for the year now elapsed. I have nothing particular to bring to the attention of the authorities of this institution concerning my ministry amongst the prisoners. I presume it is useless to call the attention of the department to the enormous proportion of the foreign element in this institution. The reasons for this state of things are obvious to the eye, so that it is useless for me to insist.

Respectfully submitted,

ARTHUR BELIVEAU, Ptre.
Roman Catholic Chaplain.

During the year the population of the prison has increased to such an extent that the seating capacity of the chapel was largely overtaxed, and it became necessary to exempt a number of the men from attendance.

Arrangements are now being made whereby the upper storey of the executive wing will be turned into a temporary chapel which will provide seating accommodation for about 250.

Beyond the notable increase in population there is nothing of an unusual nature to report. My work has been much the same as in the past.

The services have been held regularly. The behaviour of the men in chapel is all that could be desired.

The sacrament of the Lord's supper was dispensed once during the year.

The choir under the care of Mr. Sampson continues to be very helpful in division.

The choir under the care of Mr. Sampson continues to be very helpful in divine service.

The sick have been regularly visited and the ministrations of the chaplain have been gratefully received.

I am pleased to be able once again to report that I have not been called upon to register a death.

I have to thank you and the officers generally for courtesy and kindness extended to me in the discharge of my duties.

Yours respectfully,

ALBERT EDWARD VERT,

Protestant Chaplain.

NEW WESTMINSTER, April 16th, 1911.

To the Warden,-

I herewith submit the report for the year ending March 31st, 1911. At the beginning of the year there were 85 catholics enrolled among the convicts; at the end of the year there are 97. During the year 37 left the institution; 48 were admitted of whom 2 were returned for breach of parole. Of the 48 admitted 4 acknowledged that they had never received the sacraments of penance or eucharist; eleven had not received these sacraments from ten to thirty-two years; seven had neglected from five to ten years; twenty had not been to the sacraments from one to five years; six only had gone to confession and communion within the year preceding their conviction.

Of the 48 newcomers but 3 have good knowledge of their religion; 3 others show a fair knowledge of their religion; the remaining 42 are very imperfectly grounded in the teachings of the catholic faith.

Yours respectfully,

W. F. McCULLOUGH, O.M.I.

For the Roman Catholic Chaplain.

ALBERTA.

To the Warden,-

I have the honor as protestant chaplain to submit to you my annual report for the year ending March 31st, 1911.

Regular services have been conducted every sunday morning and visits have been made whenever required or requested during the week.

A choir practice is held every Saturday afternoon, and in this as well as in the regular services we have been greatly helped by the gratuitous assistance of guard Maddison acting as organist.

I thank you as warden and all your officials for your uniform kindness and consideration.

Yours respectfully,

D. G. McQUEEN, Protestant Chaptain.

Edmonton, April 1st, 1911.

To the Warden,—

I beg herewith to present to you my report as catholic chaplain, for the year ending March 31st, 1911.

During the twelve months I have been in faithful attendance at the penitentiary, and had constant association with its inmates in the discharge of my duties. If not all, at least a great number of the prisoners under my charge, show signs of amendment, and will, I hope, with God's help, on leaving this institution, lead a better life. I am glad to be able to lay down to the credit of our men their good behaviour in the chapel. The divine services are followed with more piety and devotion, and the sacraments are frequently received.

The singing during divine services has been greatly improved, this chiefly owing to the fact that Mr. Maddison, one of the officers of the institution, has kindly volunteered his services as organist and has been now for nearly a year playing every Sunday for both the protestant and catholic services.

In concluding my report I wish to tender to you, as warden, and to the deputy warden, my sincere thanks for the kind assistance you have rendered me in the discharge of my duties. I must in fact state here that the entire staff of officers have been a source of great aid to me, for which I am exceeding grateful.

Respectfully submitted,

P. COZANET, Roman Catholic Chaplain.

To the Warden,-

I herewith submit the annual farm statement for the year ending March 31st, 1911. The season although cold at first was very favourable for the growth of crops, particularly hay and grain, which on upland yielded a splendid crop. The acreage however was limited on account of not having sufficient ploughing done the previous fall. A great part of the fall ploughing was done on the marsh, but owing to the dykes breaking, this land was under water until nearly the middle of June. It is unnecessary to state that the crop there, was a failure.

The eattle were turned out to pasture in very fair condition, and did well until mid-summer, when owing to drought and the large number grazing together, the pasture became exhausted, and the cattle got thin. The milch cows were fed in the barn morning and night with green corn fodder, and mixed grain cut green, from the first of August; and later this fodder was carried to the pasture and fed to the young cattle, until early in September, when they were all taken to the barn and fed full rations.

The fall was dry and suitable for all kinds of farm work. A gang of men were kept at work ditching on the marsh, some 2,500 rods were cut before being stopped by the frost. We also got a good deal of ploughing done including about 32 acres of marsh, besides the usual amount of upland, and started to break in a rough field of 25 acres, which we hope to get finished and under crop this spring.

BRITISH COLUMBIA,

To the Warden:-

I have the honour to submit my report as farm instructor of this penitentiary, for the year ended March 31st, 1911.

Owing to the dry weather in the months of June, July and August, and part of September, of last year, the crops on the farm did not mature as they should have done, especially the root and potato crops, the latter being practically a failure. This is the first year for some time that we did not grow enough potatoes for our own use.

The piggery has been re-stocked since the attack of hog cholera which compelled us last year to kill our whole herd of pigs. We have now on hand a good supply of healthy young pigs and more sows coming in, which will give us from now on, sufficient pork for the prison consumption.

The new piece of land adjoining the deputy-warden's residence has been cleared and a wire fence put around it. It is now under cultivation and should produce a good crop.

The farm being on the hill side and the soil of a sandy nature, requires a good deal of manure, and some means should be provided to procure more than we are getting. I think it would be advisable, as soon as possible, to clear, drain and fence one of the blocks of land belonging to the penitentiary, at the back of the present fence, so as to be able to put it under cultivation, as owing to the rapid increase in the prison population, I am afraid that we shall not be able in the near future to produce enough crop from the present cleared portion of the farm for our own use.

Your obedient servant,

R. DYNES. Farm Instructor.

ANNUAL REPORT

THE MILITIA COUNCIL

Year Ending March 31, 1911.

1. The Militia Council present, herewith, their report on the work of the Militia during the twelve months ended March 31, 1911.

2. The report on the training during the period under review, which was published a few months ago as an Interim Report, is appended hereto for purposes of reference. (Appendix E.)

MILITARY POLICY.

INTERDEPARTMENTAL COMMITTEE.

3. The Interdepartmental Committee continues to fulfil its functions. With the development of the Canadian Navy, and the necessity for the closest co-operation between the two services, it is anticipated that the scope of the work of this Committee must tend to increase.

EDUCATION OF OFFICERS.

CANADIAN UNIVERSITIES REGIMENT.

4. During the year a scheme was prepared in order to provide students at universities and colleges with an opportunity of acquiring an elementary military training, with a view to their eventually applying for commissions in the Canadiar Militia. It was proposed to form an Infantry unit to be known as the "Canadian Universities Regiment," which would include all military organizationat universities and colleges. This scheme was circulated to the Principals of twenty-three universities and colleges, and although the replies received were, on the whole, favourable to the project, discussions are still proceeding in respect to matters of detail; these are principally of a financial nature and have, so far, prevented any definite acceptance of the proposal. It is still hoped, however, that a mutual agreement may be arrived at, and that the example of one or two of the leading institutions may yet prove the means of inducing other to co-operate in so patriotic an undertaking.

MOBILIZATION AND DEFENCE.

6. The Mobilization Committee at Herdquarters completed Provisional War Establishments for units of the Field Army. These have been printed in proof form, and the final amendments are now under consideration. It is hoped to issue these establishments during the course of the coming year.

7. The general scheme of defence has been amended in accordance with the scheme for the re-organization of Command in Lastern Canad.

ORGANIZATION.

8. In accordance with recommendations made by General Sir John French, G.C.B., G.C.V.O., K.C.M.G., Inspector-General of H.M. Imperial Forces, after his recent visit to the Dominion, a scheme has been framed whereby the organization of the Militia in Eastern Canada will be the same in peace as it would be in war.

9. The units hitherto included in ten of the Military Districts comprised within the four higher Commands in Eastern Canada will be grouped into six Divisions and four Cavalry Brigades.

10. A Commander, with a Divisional Staff, will be appointed to each of the six Divisions and will also command any other troops serving within the limits of the Divisional Areas which will be prescribed.

11. A certain number of administrative officers will also be attached to each divisional staff to administer the Services and Departments.

12. Each Divisional Commander will be directly under Militia Headquarters, thereby eliminating the delays necessarily occurring under the old system of correspondence through the Command offices with the various Military Districts.

13. The three Military Districts in the West will remain, at present, unchanged.

14. The new scheme will come into effect on May 1, 1911.

TRAINING.

15. The Interim Report on Training, dated March 1, 1911, deals with the training earried out during the season of 1910.

16. The scheme of training for 1911 is now under preparation, and it is the intention to draw up a programme laying greater stress on the field training of all units. It is also necessary that more attention be paid to the grounding in their field duties of the smaller units—such as troops, companies, squadrons, &c., before proceeding with the training of higher formations, such as regiments, brigades, &c.

17. It is further the intention to divide the larger camps of training into two separate camps, as it is hoped by this means to relieve the congestion of the training areas, which are already too limited, and also to obtain greater supervision over musketry.

INSTRUCTION AT LOCAL HEADQUARTERS.

18. Steps are now being taken whereby it is hoped that during 1911 a system will be established which will enable instruction during the non-training period to be brought to the doors of units.

19. A revision of the Syllabi of Instruction at the various Schools of Instruction is also under consideration.

INTELLIGENCE AND CORPS OF GUIDES.

20. The work of the Intelligence Division continues to be satisfactory.

21. Instructional rides for officers of the Corps of Guides were held in connection with the camps at Niagara, Farnham and Aldershot. Results were sufficiently encouraging to warrant this form of instruction in future years.

22. The organization of the Corps of Guides has recently been amended with a view to its increased efficiency in peace, and to give it a definite status under the scheme referred to in paragraphs 8-14.

SURVEYS.

23. In the field the work of the Survey Division consisted of topography and the running of transit traverse, railway traverse and level lines for the use of the topographers. The work in the office consisted of the reduction and plotting of field notes, the compilation and preparation of sheets of the regular one-inch series, and the preparation and lithographing of various maps for field-days, manceuvres, &c.

24. The field work was commenced on May 1 and continued until November 28, 1910. Two transit parties were employed during the season, the total period of employment being equivalent to one party for thirty-nine weeks. These parties ran 1,392 miles of transit traverse cheaply and expeditiously. In addition to the transit work, 139 miles of railway were traversed by a party of two who were employed for three and a half weeks during the summer. 138 miles of road were traversed by a party of three, employed for nine weeks, with a transit and bieyeles.

25. Four level parties were employed at different times throughout the season. They ran 5.172 miles of levels, the greater portion of which was in very rough country.

26. The work of the transit, traverse and level parties completed the necessary preliminary work in about 3,200 square miles of country, which is now ready to be topographically surveyed at any time.

27. The topography, which was practically all in the Eastern Townships, covered an area of 2,262 miles, and completed the field work of four sheets of the regular series, while several other sheets were partly done. The work was carried out by three permanent employees, four non-commissioned officers of the Royal Canadian Engineers, and one temporary employee. This branch of the work was in charge of a staff officer, with headquarters at Farnham, P.Q. During the coming summer an effort will be made to further increase the accuracy of the topography by having the field-sheets carefully examined.

28. Two men, employed on revision for twenty-five weeks, completed 573 square miles of the Grimsby and Welland sheets.

29. A special party, under a staff officer, was employed upon a survey of the Petawawa Training Area. Owing to the dense bush the work was found to be very difficult and special methods had to be employed. An effort will be made to complete the survey of this sheet during the coming summer.

30. During the year, fourteen topographical sheets of the regular series were prepared for lithographing, and three were issued.

31. In all, 58 sheets, at one inch to one mile, covering 18,586 square miles have now been surveyed; 24 have been published, 25 are in the hands of the lithographers, and the remaining nine are in course of preparation.

MUSKETRY

32. Special attention was paid to the preliminary training of recruits and poor shots, and, while there is still room for improvement, the results of the musketry training are on the whole satisfactory.

ACTIVE MILITIA (OTHER THAN PERMANENT FORCE).

39. There has been a steady increase in the Militia during the past year.

40. The nucleus of the Canadian Army Veterinary Service has been organized.

41. Arrangements are being made for the formation of Detachments of Non-permanent Canadian Ordnance Corps, which it is hoped will not only be of material assistance to the Permanent Detachments at Camps of Instruction, but will become a good recruiting field and a nucleus for increasing the Canadian Ordnance Corps for mobilization purposes.

42. The following new Corps and changes were authorized in the several Commands and Districts:-

Western Ontario Command.

1st Field Company, Canadian Engineers.

INSTRUCTION.

GENERALLY.

45. The attendance of officers of the Active Militia, other than the Permanent Force, at the Royal Schools of Instruction has, on the whole, been satisfactory, but the percentage of unqualified officers is still, as mentioned in last year's report, too large.

46. Provisional Schools of Instruction were held as under:—

Artillery.—Cobourg, Out.; Montreal, P.Q. (Field and Garrison); St. John. N.B.

Infantry.—Brantford, Ont.; Kenora, Ont.; Kingston, Ont.; Ottawa, Ont.; Montreal, P.Q.; St. Hyacinthe, P.Q.; St. John, N.B.; Truro, N.S.; Westville, N.S.; Brandon, Man.; Calgary, Alta., and Edmonton, Alta.; also Calgary for Public School Teachers.

Signalling.—London, Ont.; Toronto, Ont.; Kingston, Ont.; Windsor, Ont.: Port Arthur, Ont.; Montreal, P.Q.; Halifax, N.S.; Winnipeg, Man.; Victoria. B.C., and Calgary, Alta.

47. Four officers attended that portion of the Long Course required to be taken at the Royal Military College, in the spring of 1910, all of whom passed. In the autumn a similar number presented themselves and all were equally successful.

48. Eleven officers of the Active Militia were attached to units of the Permanent Force for duty and a long course, with a view to qualifying for commissions in the Permanent Force.

49. The results of the promotion examinations of the Imperial Army held in May and December, 1910, were as follows:—At the May examination, twenty-four officers of the Permanent Force presented themselves, of whom eighteen passed and six failed (four in one subject and two in more than one subject). One officer of the Royal Canadian Artillery wrote on the Artillery subject "e" but failed.

50. At the December examination, eleven officers presented themselves all of whom passed; two officers of the Royal Canadian Artillery wrote on subject "e", both of whom passed. Thirty-one officers presented themselves for the promotion examination in "e" practical work in 1910, twenty-seven of whom passed.

51. Six officers of the Permanent Force presented themselves for examination in Tactical Fitness for Command, of whom five passed. At the same time, one officer of the Active Militia was examined for the rank of colonel and passed.

52. Four candidates presented themselves for the Literary Examination for appointment to the Permaneut Force held in May, 1910, of whom one passed.

53. Six officers attended the Artillery Staff Course, of whom four passed.

ROYAL MILITARY COLLEGE.

55. Fifty-six candidates presented themselves for the entrance examination to the Royal Military College in May, 1910, forty-two of whom were successful in passing the same.

CANADIAN SCHOOL OF MUSKETRY.

56. Two courses at this School were held during 1910, one special at Long Branch, Toronto, commencing on July 7, and the regular autumn course at Rockliffe, on September 8.

57. The special course held at Long Branch Ranges extended over a period of three weeks, and was designed to impart such instruction as is considered necessary for the preliminary training of recruits, and the proper carrying out of musketry practices. No certificates were granted at this school, but the names of successful candidates were published in Militia Orders as qualified Musketry Instructors.

58. By Militia Order No. 222, dated June, 1910, authority was granted for the admission to the School of Musketry of school teachers who had attended a school of military instruction, and had obtained certificates of qualification as eadet instructors. It will be noted that a number of teachers have already availed themselves of this privilege and qualified as musketry instructors. It is believed that the extra expense involved will be fully justified by the results in the training of cadets.

59. In addition to the courses above mentioned, a special course was organized at Toronto, under Captain W. P. Butcher. The lectures and other instruction were given in the Toronto Armouries and the officers and non-commissioned officers attended without expense to the public. Range practices were carried out at Long Branch when weather conditions permitted, and at the conclusion of the course an examination was held. This arrangement worked most satisfactorily, and it is hoped that similar courses may be organized during the coming winter wherever possible.

60. It is most gratifying to note that certificates obtained at the Canadian School of Musketry will, in future, be accepted as equivalent to qualifying at the School of Musketry, Hythe, or at one of the Schools of Musketry in India.

61. The following return shows the numbers attending each of the above courses, together with the results.

COMMISSIONS AND WARRANTS.

63. The number of commissions in the Active Militia issued during the period under review was 745, and warrants issued during the same period 76.

MEDALS

64. The number and description of medals issued from April 1, 1910, to March 31, 1911, were as follows:—

Colonial Auxiliary Forces Officers' Decoration	18
Long Service Medal	162
Long Service and Good Conduct Medal (Permanent Force)	30
General Service Medal	95

CADET CORPS.

65. The number of Cadet Corps supervised by the Department has increased very materially during the past year in almost all the Provinces. On March 31, 1911, there were 263 gazetted Cadet Corps, composed of 442 Cadet Companies, with a membership of almost 18,000 boys. The distribution of these Cadet Corps by Provinces was as follows:—

Province of	Ontario	89 Cadet	Units with	129 (	Cadet Companies.
44	Quebec		h +	170	44
44	Nova Scotia	45	44	50	6.6

66	British Columbia	6	6.6	9	**

		263		442

66. There were 4 Cadet Corps with 20 companies disbanded in the Province of Quebec; one Corps of one company in New Brunswick and 2 Corps of one company each in the Province of Alberta. The increase over the previous year was 48 Cadet Corps, comprising 80 Cadet Companies with a membership of over 3,000.

67. Courses of instruction for the qualification of school teachers as Cadet Instructors were again held during the year in the Maritime Provinces and at Stanley and Wolseley Barracks. So far 214 teachers have qualified as Cadet Instructors, of whom 41 have been gazetted Lieutenants in the Corps of School Cadet Instructors. These 41 Cadet Instructors have been appointed as follows:—Western Ontario Command, eight; Eastern Ontario Command, five; Maritime Provinces Command, twenty-three; Military District No. 11, four; and Military District No. 13, one.

68. In addition to the Ross Rifles, Mark I, issued to Cadet Corps for drill and miniature target-practice with gallery ammunition, and the Ross rifle, Mark II, issued for drill purposes and target practice with the .303 service ammunition and sub-target guns, an issue of brown leather waist-belts and soft brown felt hats has been authorized.

69. The reports of the inspecting officers on the Cadet Corps for the past year have been generally satisfactory and show that greater efficiency has been attained.

70. The Challenge Trophy, so generously donated by His Excellency Earl Grey, Governor-General of Canada, was won by the Municipality of Stratheona, Alberta, with a percentage of 2.38 gazetted Cadets in proportion to its population. The three Cadet Corps in Strathcona competed for the trophy which was awarded to No. 179, The Duggan Street School Cadet Company.

71. The Imperial Cadet Association of London, England, again extended a kind invitation for a Canadian Cadet Team to compete at Bisley, 1910, in rifle competitions with the Cadets of the Mother Country on "Empire Day". Four Cadets representing Canada were sent over, viz:—Cadet J. F. Bates, Hamilton Collegiate Institute; Cadet Sergeant Tidswell, Hamilton Collegiate Institute; Cadet Liddy, High School, Dundas, Ont., and Cadet Captain Crawford, High School, Quebec, P.Q. The showing made by them was very creditable as will be seen from the following:—In Match IV, "The Booysen's Cup", (Transvaal, S. A.) an individual contest at figure target, Cadet Liddy won the second prize with a score of 88 out of 100 points. The first prize was won by an English Cadet with 90 points. In Match V, "The Toowang Cup", (Australia), the third prize in class 2 was won by Cadet Captain Crawford with a score of 42 points. The top score was 48. In Match VI, "The Polhill Gully Cup", (New Zealand), a contest of best rate of fire in 90 seconds; the third prize in class I was won by Cadet Liddy with 58 points. The highest score was 66. In Match VII, "The Rockliffe Cup", (Canada), the cup, gold medal and £1.10, was won by Cadet Liddy with a score of 46 out of a possible 50 points. In Match VIII, "The Grand Aggregate", Cadet Liddy took second place, with 220 points, winning the "Inglis" silver medal and a match rifle. The top score was 228. Cadet Bates took 17th place with 150 points and Cadet Tidswell 19th place with 147 points. In Match IX, "The Clementine Fesendum Cup", a competition to test the best rate of fire in 45 seconds, the third place was won by Cadet Liddy, with 35 points, the 12th place by Cadet Tidswell, with 30 points and the 15th place by Cadet Crawford, with 30 points. The Cadets were entertained by the Lord Mayor of London, the Earl of Buckingham, Sir Lauder Brunton and Sir Reginald Hennell, and also at Harrow and Eton. They visited the United Service College at Windsor, and went to Brussels, Waterloo and Plymouth, and were much indebted to Dr. R. J. E. Hanson, Esq., M.A., R.N.V.R., Hony. Secretary of the Imperial Cadet Association, for many of the courtesies extended to them and the personal interest he took in them. An invitation has again been received from the Executive of the Imperial Cadet Association for a Canadian Cadet Team to attend the "Boys" Bisley, 1911, and the sending of a team which will uphold the reputation of Canadian boy marksmen is contemplated.

72. A Team of twelve Cadets representing the Imperial Cadet Alliance, London, England, attended the last meeting of the Dominion Rifle Association at Rockliffe, and were accorded free entry to all the matches and provided with accommodation on the grounds. Major McCallum, of the Irish Guards, was in Command of the visitors. At his suggestion, a special team match was arranged between the Imperial and Canadian Cadets; the cup donated by the Canadian Rifle League, was won by the Overseas Cadets, and the gold medal given by Principal Hagarty, of the Harbord Collegiate Institute, Toronto, by Private V. Wormald, King's Royal Rifles.

ORDNANCE STORES.

MAGAZINES AND EXPLOSIVE STORES.

73. Some progress has been made with the provision of suitable magazines and explosive stores, but much yet is wanted.

74. At present suitable buildings exist at Halifax and Esquimalt (transferred from the British Government); and at Ottawa (just erected) and Toronto (only partially erected).

- 75. Arrangements have been made:
- I. To transform No. 1 Fort, Lévis, into a magazine and explosive store for Military District No. 7, Quebec.
- II. For the erection of the two buildings (i.e. a magazine and an explosive store) at Montreal, where they are urgently wanted owing to the storage of the ammunition at present on St. Helen's Island;
  - III. For the two buildings at Winnipeg and at London.

76. The necessities of other districts are also being attended to, and it is anticipated that within the next few years, the stock of gun and small-arm ammunition will be completely and satisfactorily decentralized.

77. This decentralization is being proceeded with as fast as accommodation will allow, but there is still a serious congestion at Halifax and Quebec, and the storage on St. Helen's Island of all Montreal's explosives leaves much to be desired.

STOREHOUSES.

78. The old storehouse at Quebec (Citadel) has been remodelled and rebuilt, and is now as satisfactory as it can be made: plans have been passed for the erection of another storehouse there, and when it is completed ample storage accommodation should follow.

79. Plans have been approved for another complete Ordnance depôt at Montreal, at which station the accommodation is very deficient and altogether unsuitable. It is hoped this service will be proceeded with and pushed forward at an early date.

80. At other stations the accommodation is in some cases satisfactory, but in others, notably at Winnipeg, Calgary and Toronto, it is very unsuitable and insufficient. Attention has been drawn to the necessity for the improvement of these stations as soon as circumstances allow.

81. The depôt at Charlottetown has been transformed from a "District" depôt to one for camp and reserve purposes, only a sufficient personnel being left there for the care of the property stored.

DECENTRALIZATION.

82. The decentralization of stores and clothing has been proceeded with as fast as possible and all depôts are now in a satisfactory condition in this respect, being, generally speaking, able to meet the local wants from their own stocks of general stores and clothing: comment has already been made respecting the decentralization of gun and small-arm ammunition.

STOCK OF STORES AND CLOTHING.

83. The stock of general stores and of clothing is now satisfactory, but as funds are somewhat restricted little more can be made than to meet the annual provision for waste, and for the additions which are made to the Militia: there is sufficient camp equipment now in hand for "Peace" purposes for about 50,000, but for war it would be enough for a much larger number.

84. The annual demand for tents and blankets for cities and districtvisited by bush fires is a serious drain on the department. The stock of clothing is increasing, but this is somewhat slow on account of the number of "sizes" which have to be stored to meet eventualities: probably the existing stock would clothe about 30,000 men, additional to the present force.

85. Very few complaints have been received during the year as to the quality or patterns of stores and clothing, and they were of small importance and were promptly attended to.

NAVAL SERVICES.

86. Arrangements have been made at Halifax and Esquimalt to accommodate the ammunition and explosives of the Navy, when required to do so, as the Naval Services have no magazines for the purpose.

87. This ammunition will also be examined annually by the Inspecting Ordnance Officer in the same manner as governs the Explosives of the Militia Department. These two services, however, add very much to the duties of the Canadian Ordnance Corps at the two stations.

ARMAMENT.

FIELD ARTILLERY.

88. Seven more batteries of Q. F. 18-pr. equipment have lately been received and will be issued in continuation of the rearmament of the Field Artillery.

HEAVY ARTILLERY.

89. Four batteries of B. L. 60-pr. equipment have been issued to units during the past year; this completes the armament of the Heavy Artillery.

SMALL ARMS AND SMALL-ARM AMMUNITION.

90. The output of rifles and bayonets has been maintained in accordance with the requirements of the Militia

91. Preliminary work in connection with the manufacture of the Mark III Ross Rifle is in progress. This pattern will embody the improvements recommended by the Sub-Committee of the Standing Committee on Small Arms, to which reference was made in last year's report.

92. An improved pattern Sutherland Sight (Mark II) has been provided, and a considerable number of rifles have already been fitted therewith.

93. By the courtesy of the United States Government, members of the Sub-Committee of the Standing Committee on Small Arms were afforded an opportunity of visiting the Springfield Armoury and viewing the manufacture of the United States rifle.

94. A new pattern .303" cartridge (Mark VII) has been adopted in the British Service and preparations are now under way for its manufacture at the Dominion Arsenal.

CORDITE FACTORY.

95. It is satisfactory to note that the well known firm of Nobel's Limited, which supplies a large quantity of the cordite required by the War Office and Admiralty, is about to establish a branch factory in Canada. This will tend further towards making the country self-contained as regards the manufacture of war matériel.

ENGINEER SERVICES.

GENERALLY.

96. Work in the various Commands and Districts, connected with the construction of rifle ranges, water supply, drainage, fortifications, barrack repairs, &c., was carried out satisfactorily during the year.

PUBLIC WORKS, MILITARY BUILDINGS.

97. The suggestion made last year of having the smaller Armouries costing under $15,000 constructed by this Department is now being carried out and will result in the Department of Public Works being able to give more time to the larger works. It, however, places a great deal of additional work upon the Engineer Branch of the Department of Militia and Defence.

PETAWAWA CAMP.

98. Efficient work was earried out by the Camp Engineer at Petawawa Camp during the year. The principal services executed were:—(a) The continuation of the construction of permanent roads. These roads when finished will be 15 feet wide, and from the action of two winters, on the first pieces constructed, no effects from frost have appeared, but, on the contrary the roads are improving with traffic. The total amount completed to March 31, 1911, is about 3 miles. (b) The installation of a complete new scheme of distribution of water.

RIFLE RANGES.

99. The important work of construction of rifle ranges still continues. The new range at Winnipeg of 45 targets will, when finished, be one of the best ranges in the country.

100. An 18-target range is, also, under construction at Farnham Camp, and one of 6 targets is nearly completed at Belleville.

101. A new target-frame modelled upon the War Office design, but manufactured in Canada, has been adopted.

FIELD TELEGRAPH SERVICES.

102. Provisional Schools of Instruction were held at the headquarters of Telegraph Detachments, Canadian Engineers, and with the limited Instructional Staff available, much useful work was done. A Field Telegraph Unit however is much required in the Royal Canadian Engineers to give instruction to the Telegraph detachments of the Canadian Engineers.

103. Wireless detachments are now being organized and two portable sets of equipment have been purchased for instruction during 1911-12 training.

LANDS ACQUIRED.

104. The following lands were acquired during the period under review:—

Winnipeg, Man.—The old range was sold by public sale and a new site comprising some 1,120 acres acquired.

Pincher Creek, Alta.—A site for an armoury was granted by the Department of the Interior.

Farnham, P.Q.—A camp site comprising some 1,500 acres was acquired.

Parry Sound, Ont.—A site for an Armoury was donated to the Crown by the Town authorities.

Morinville, Alta.—A site for an armoury was donated to the Crown by the Town authorities.

Kingston, Ont.—The Ordnance property known as the "Old Wooden Stables" and land adjacent thereto was retransferred to this Department by the Department of the Interior.

Kingston, Ont.—An acre of land adjoining the Essford House was acquired.

Montreal, P.Q.—The site of the Armoury for the 65th Regiment was transferred to the Crown by the Regiment in consideration of a grant towards the cost of the erection of the Armoury.

Petawawa Camp—Nine additional properties comprising some 1,573 acres were acquired during the year, making the number of properties belonging to settlers, acquired up to March 31, 1911, 150, comprising an area of 22,430 acres.

Belleville, Ont.—A site for a rifle range was selected and a portion of the land required purchased. Negotiations for the acquisition of the remainder are now in progress.

Nelson, B.C.—Some 160 additional acres were acquired in the rear of the range in order to ensure absolute safety.

Nictaux (Middleton), N.S.—Some 350 acres were acquired as a site for a rifle range.

105. In addition to the above the Department of Public Works purchased in each of the following places a site for an armoury:—Canning, N.S., Sarnia, Ont., Paris, Ont.

(b) Including $21,600 statutory.
(a) $1,300,000 was voted in Main and $72,482.19 in Supplementary Estimates, $123,000 was received. from sale of Winnipeg Rifle Range and placed to the credit of this Vote, and $17,500 was transferred from Public Works Department.

<sup>107.</sup> Compared with 1909-10 there was an increase of $1,128,397.37 in the expenditure, exclusive of Pensions, Aid to Civil Power, and Construction of Toronto Barracks, the latter being proceeded with out of a fund of $301,909.98 obtained through exchange of properties at Toronto.

- 108. The statement preceding shows the increase under each Vote, the heaviest being in Annual Drill, Customs, and Equipment Votes.
- 109. The expenditure under Annual Drill was practically the same as in 1907-08 and 1908-09, excluding Review at Quebec. In 1909-10 many of the rural Corps trained at their local headquarters in Regimental Camps instead of in District Camps. Owing to this and also to the fact that the majority of Corps trained much under strength, the expenditure for 1909-10 was smaller than for either 1907-08, 1908-09 or 1910-11 by approximately $300,000. The attendance at Camps for 1910-11 was smaller also than anticipated, hence the Vote for training was not fully expended, by $85,306.
- 110. The large expenditure under Customs Vote was due to heavy deliveries of guns, ammunition and warlike stores from contractors in England.
- 111. The Vote for Arms, Lands and Equipment is usually $1,300,000, but in 1910 the old rifle range at Winnipeg was sold for $123,000 and the money placed to the credit of this Vote towards payment of a new range. A supplementary vote of $72.482.19 was also obtained for the same purpose. In addition $17,500 of funds voted for Public Works Department was transferred for purchase of an Armoury at Pointe St. Charles. Montreal, for No. 4 Co. of Engineers. Consequently, besides the usual $1,300,000, there was $212,982.19 for expenditure under this head. The following details show how the money was used:—

$1,512,905 09

112. The Permanent Force cost $87,381 more than it did in the previous year owing principally to its strength having been kept at a higher level. The maximum recruiting establishment was 3,300 all ranks. On March 31, 1910, there were 2,854 exclusive of civilians, and on March 31, 1911, 3,069.

113. Grants to Regimental Armouries account for $65,000 of the increased expenditure over 1909-10 as there was no such expenditure in that year. Of this amount $50,000 went towards the cost of an Armoury for the 65th Regiment, Montreal. The ground and building cost the Regiment $100,000. The property has been handed over to the Department. The balance $15,000 went to the 5th Royal Highlanders Armoury towards the cost of which $40,000 was given in 1905-06 and 1906-07. It also cost $100,000 and upwards.

114. Engineer Services shows an increase of $79,159. Hitherto this Vote has been used wholly for repairs and alterations, but the construction of small armouries and buildings has now been undertaken by the Militia Department, and $54,235 was transferred by Public Works to this Department for that purpose. In the Main Estimates for 1911-12 $330,500 is included for construction of such buildings by the Militia Department. Particulars of the works carried out by the Engineer Branch will be found elsewhere.

115. Salaries and Wages Vote shows an increase in expenditure of $73,196, due to a large number of civilian employees, principally at Halifax, hitherto paid as soldiers, having been struck off the Permanent Force paylists and paid as civilian employees out of this Vote; also to the transfer of twenty caretakers of military buildings from Public Works Department to this. The average rate of wages paid is $1.50 p. d. There are a number of caretakers in receipt of free quarters and fuel in addition to this rate.

116. The Royal Military College shows an increased expenditure of $31,102. This was due to approximately $10,000 of unpaid accounts from 1909-10 having been carried forward and paid out of 1910-11, to a larger number of Cadets in attendance and to the addition of riding-instructors to the Staff.

117. Allowances to Active Militia show an increase of $37,880. There were more troops trained during 1910 than in 1909, consequently Officers Commanding were entitled to larger sums for drill instruction. All claims were settled to the end of the year including many pertaining to the previous year.

118. There was a larger attendance at Schools of Instruction than usual, the total reaching 1,324, consequently a heavier expenditure; 225 school teachers, included in the above number, obtained certificates as Instructors of Cadets.

119. While the expenditure at the Dominion Arsenal was $20,510 more than in the preceding year, yet it was practically the same as in 1908-09, and $136,000 less than in 1907-08. For particulars of expenditure and output, see the report of the Superintendent. (Page 69.)

120. The expenditure for Printing and Stationery shows an increase of $20,004 but covers a period of fourteen months, viz. from January 10, 1910, to February 28, 1911.

- 121. Transport and Freight shows an increase of $22,646. This is owing to a larger number attending Schools of Instruction, to more frequent transfer of troops from station to station and to an increase in the amount of stores shipped, all of which is the result of the general expansion of the Militia.
  - 122. The $5,000 for Battlefields was for a monument at Stoney Creek.

EFFICIENCY PAY, 1910-11.

The following statement shows the number of men in the Militia who received Efficiency Pay and the Amounts paid during training 1910-11.

Total numbers and cost	11,295	11,670	13,233	3,314	39,512	170, 151

This pay—Artillery, Engineers and Departmental Corps, is based on service in the Active Militia, and for Cavalry and Infantry according to scores made at Musketry Practice.

Prior to 1909, Efficiency Pay was only based on service in the Militia, but in 1909 the new conditions for Cavalry and Infantry being paid according to scores made at musketry practice were introduced.

The following statement shows the numbers qualified, &c., during last three years.

	N	umber Pai	d.	- Not	Total	Amount
	1st. rate.	2nd rate.	3rd rate.	qualified.		paid.
1908-09. 1909-10. 1910-11.		7,131 7,721 11,670	19,100 10,816 13,233	4,032	39,798 34,194 39,512	$183,942 128,590 170,151

The average amount paid to each man for Efficiency Pay in the above years was, therefore:—

Artillery, Engineers and Departmental.	Cavalry and Infantry.
1908-09       .38 ets. per diem.         1909-10       .34 ets. per diem.         1910-11       .38 ets. per diem.	.30 cts. per diem.

The percentage of men qualifying for Efficiency Pay for the several rates during the last 2 years was as follows:—

Artillery, Engineers and Departmental.	Cav	valry and Infa	ntry.
1909	1910	1909	1910
st rate	45%	36%	26%
2nd rate	16%	23%	32%
rd rate	34%	28°°c	33%
Not qualified 6%	5%	1300	9%
100%	100%	100%	100%

From the above it will be seen that there was a large increase of recruits in 1910 in the Artillery and Departmental Corps and that in the Cavalry and Infantry the standard of points obtained at musketry practice was higher in 1910 and fewer men failed to qualify.

MAJOR GENERAL SIR PERCY LAKE K.C.M.G., C.B.

123. Before concluding, the Militia Council desire to record their deep sense of the loss which they have sustained owing to the return to England, upon the expiration of the tenure of his appointment as Inspector-General of the Canadian Forces and Chief Military Adviser of the Canadian Government, of Major-General Sir Percy Lake, K.C.M.G., C.B., and their high appreciation of his able, earnest and self-sacrificing services in the interests of the Canadian Militia.

124. Major-General Lake's military service in Canada dates back to the year 1893, when, as Major Lake, he was appointed Quartermaster-General under Major-General (now Sir Ivor) Herbert. This position he filled with great distinction during the five years' term for which he was appointed. In 1904, his services were loaned, for a period of six months, by the War Office for the purpose of assisting in the organization of the Militia Council, which period was extended to four years, as Chief of the General Staff, so that he might supervise, not only the working out of the details of the new system, but also the re-arrangement of the scheme of command and administration of the Militia generally, including the consideration of the many large questions affecting the organization, establishment and training of the Militia, consequent upon Canada assuming the entire responsibility for the defence of the naval basis at Halifax and Esquimalt. In the consideration of all these matters of such vital importance to the future well-being of the Canadian Militia, the valuable knowledge of military conditions obtaining in the Dominion possessed by Major-General Lake proved to be of inestimable benefit, more particularly because he has, at all times, commanded the confidence of the Militia of all ranks.

125. Upon the expiration, in 1908, of his tenure of appointment as Chief of the General Staff, his term of service was further extended for a period of two years, and he was appointed Inspector-General and Chief Military Adviser.

The Militia Council.

APPENDICES

APPENDIX 'A'.

OTTAWA, March 31, 1911.

From the Director-General, Medical Services, Canadian Militia.

To the Adjutant-General, Canadian Militia.

Sir.—I have the honour to submit my report upon the Medical Services for the year ending March 31, 1911.

ADMINISTRATION AND ORGANIZATION.

1. The true role of the Medical Service, as part of an army in the field, has begun to be realized, not only by the medical officers, but by officers other than medical.

2. While its great function is the humanitarian care of the sick and wounded, the Medical Department has other duties of imperative nature. It must keep the army well and it must keep the army free from the encumbrance of sick and wounded.

3. This necessitates the training of the medical personnel in matters of sanitation as applied to Military affairs, and in questions of administration as well as in the principles of Strategy and Tactics.

4. Such a scheme of training has been carried out during the past year with considerable success, The idea of mobilization has ever been kept in view, all ranks have had impressed upon them the importance of regarding the camp of training as the means towards, not the end of efficiency.

5. It has been found, however, not very easy to obtain the co-operation of the non-medical officer unless he has been highly educated in his profession. It seems difficult for him to realize that there is any function pertaining to the Medical Service other than the administration of medicines, The idea of the good old family regimental doctor dies hard.

SANITATION.

6. A Central Laboratory of Military Hygiene has been established at Ottawa under the able charge of Major Lorne Drum, M.D., D.P.H., where all bacteriological and chemical work for the Militia can now be done. During the terrible epidemic of Enteric Fever in Ottawa this winter, the City authorities fell back upon this Laboratory for examinations of water. Another officer of the Permanent Army Medical Corps, Major H. M. Jacques, is now attending McGill University with a view of obtaining the Diploma in Public Health, if successful his services will be loaned at the request of that University, as Assistant-Professor of Hygiene during next session.

CONVENTION.

7. Lieut.-Colonel G. S. Rennie, Army Medical Corps, attended the Meeting of Military Surgeons of the United States at Richmond, Va., in September.

8. Major Lorne Drum, Permanent Army Medical Corps, was detailed to be present at the Annual Meeting of the American Public Health Association at Milwaukee and presented a most useful report.

9. The Annual Meeting of the Association of Medical Officers of the Militia was held in February, at Ottawa. It was a very great success and serves a most useful purpose in bringing together medical officers to discuss matters of interest connected with the Medical Service.

MEDICAL STORES.

10. Considerable work has been done in organizing this branch during the year. The Central Medical Stores at Ottawa are now in a position to supply all demands. It is hoped by next year to have the required amount of Field Medical equipment in stores to fit out the six Divisions.

MILITARY BUILDINGS.

11. I regret that I am unable to report more favourably on the public buildings used for military purposes. I have now seen all the barracks in Canada and, with the exception of the more modern ones at Winnipeg, London and Halifax, they are unsanitary and in many cases not decent.

PERSONNEL, PERMANENT ARMY MEDICAL CORPS.

12. Reference must again be made to the totally inadequate establishment of the Permanent Army Medical Corps. To enable the multifarious duties of the Corps to be carried out with any degree of efficiency, the establishment should be increased 100%. This would allow of a proper staff being detailed to the various camps of instructions without dislocating the routine work of the Military Hospitals, and would, also, permit of the senior Non-Commissioned Officers undergoing special training in order to be available to take up the duties of Instructors to the various Field Medical Units. This would relieve these units from much petty detail routine and give more time to the officers and men to acquire the knowledge for which they exist, i.e., Field Training.

13. Nursing Sisters should be detailed at each Military Hospital in order that efficient nursing would be assured and to assist the Medical Officers to give instruction in nursing duties to the Non-Commissioned Officers and men.

14. The sick from the Canadian Navy are being treated in the Military Hospitals. This involves additional work for the Permanent Army Medical Corps as no help is available from the sister service.

PHYSICAL TRAINING.

- 15. The Physical training of the soldier continues to make good progress. This branch of training is fast becoming one for the supervision of the Medical Officer.
- 16. At Halifax, the Swedish System is in force and the Medical Officer in charge of the Gymnasium (Lieut. G. Lawson, Permanent Army Medical Corps) reports that the "general appearance of the men at the end of the course is markedly improved—they are better disciplined, have better carriage, are smarter, and more active and alert." I consider that the exercises are admirably adapted to produce these desired results.

HEALTH OF TROOPS.

17. The health of the troops show continued improvement, and a very gratifying decrease will be noticed for the period under review. Although this reduction must reach a limit, it is expected that by improving the sanitary condition of the barracks, encouraging outdoor exercises and increasing the education of the soldier in personal hygiene a still further reduction in preventable diseases may be anticipated. It should be borne in mind also that these numbers include the Active Militia sent to Military Hospitals after camps.

- 18. In table 2 the figures given for the preceding five years are shown for the purpose of comparison, and to emphasize this improvement, which means increased efficiency, and a consequent saving to the Government.
- 19. The diseases shown in Table 1, invite little comment. No serious epidemic of sickness has occurred. The admissions for infective diseases includes six cases of Enteric Fever against 13 of the previous year; 288 Sporadic Cases of Influenza of a mild type, are included. Admission for Venereal disease—154 cases, show no diminution in numbers from last report, the disease being mostly confined to the garrisons of Halifax and Quebec. Rheumatic Fever caused 36 admissions, 22 cases of which occurred at Halifax. Tuberculosis has decreased from 15 for period 1909-10 to 4 admissions for the period covered by this report. Alcoholism caused 31 admissions—exactly one half of the cases treated during the previous period.

APPENDIX 'B'.

Kingston, June 24, 1911.

From the Commandant, Royal Military College,
To the Secretary Militia Council, Ottawa.

Sir,—I have the honour to submit the following report on the Royal Military College for the year 1910-11.

2. The following changes have taken place on the Staff of the College during the past year.

STAFF.

3. Captain Russel-Brown, Royal Engineers, has been succeeded by Major Wolff, Royal Engineers, as Professor of Surveying, Major Count de Bury, Royal Garrison Artillery, by Major Sedgwick, Royal Field Artillery as Professor of Tactics, Military History and Artillery.

4. I much regret that we are to lose the services of Captain Kaulbach at the commencement of next term. The post of Adjutant is one in which the officer is never off duty and also it demands more than the average amount of tact. As Musketry Instructor Captain Kaulbach has also done excellent work. I have found Captain Kaulbach a most useful Adjutant and I only hope that we shall find a worthy successor to him.

5. I also regret to say that at the end of this term we shall lose the services of Captain Blair and Lieut. Dawson who have both put in five years as assistant instructors. I take this opportunity of publicly acknowledging and thanking them for the good work they have done at the College.

6. I regret to say that Lieut. Hennessy who has been at the College practically since it opened, retired in February last.

7. In the Subordinate Staff we lose our Gymnastic Instructor Sergt.-Major Keith. Gymnastic and Infantry Drills are important branches of our training and I am glad to be able to record my thorough satisfaction with Sergt.-Major Keith's work, while he has been with us.

RIDING ESTABLISMENT.

8. The Riding Establishment has come into being. The College now possesses an establishment of 20 horses, and the necessary personnel has been found for us by the Royal Canadian Dragoons from whom we have also drawn our Riding-Instructor Sergeant-Major. (W.O.) Rhoades.

9. The supervision of the Riding Establishment has been added to the duties of the professor of Tactics and Artillery, Major Sedgwick. As would be expected there is a very marked improvement in the riding of the graduating class, but the full benefit will not be felt until two years from now, from which time every class will have received instruction throughout the three years both in horsemaship and horsemastership.

10. Stable management in all its detail which I look upon as most necessary and important, can now be thoroughly taught to the eadet.

11. We hope in due course we shall be provided with a covered Riding School. Under existing conditions most valuable time in the winter months is lost, owing to the impossibility of continuing the regular course of instruction in the manège. The out-door riding along the roads, on the ice or on the common in no way takes its place.

STRENGTH.

12. The number of cadets when the College opened last September was 112. During the year one cadet had been invalided and one withdrawn at his parents request.

13. There are 33 cadets in the present senior class. The number of competitors for entrance next term is about 90. Of these over 50 have qualified, but I regret, that owing to lack of accommodation, we shall not be able to admit them all. At present 76 cadets are sleeping two in a room.

DISCIPLINE.

14. I am glad to report that the conduct and discipline of the College as a whole have been very good.

EXAMINATIONS.

15. The result of the examinations is very satisfactory. In the junior class a few cadets are required to repeat the year's course.

16. I am glad to say that our Staff College Course last year was very successful. One candidate, Major Elmsley, Royal Canadian Dragoons, who had been prepared by Colonel Wood and Major Robertson, passed for the Imperial Staff College at the top of the Overseas Dominion candidates.

MUSKETRY.

17. We have made great strides in our rifle shooting during the past year. A miniature range was opened at the beginning of the winter, under the gymnasium, enabling us to carry on practice during the cold weather. The results have been very satisfactory. This year we have taken 3rd place in the whole of Canada in the Daily Empire Day Competition. Great credit is due to Captain Kaulbach, who was given charge of the musketry at the beginning of this term.

18. Our revolver shooting has greatly improved. We did not defeat Sandhurst this year, but we made an average of 62 as against our 49 average of last year. We hope that next year will see yet another increase and that it may take us to first place.

SPORTS.

19. In the field of sport, we have had a very successful year. We now hold the championship of the intermediate intercollegiate Rugby Union and we won every match during our week's Cricket Tour which ended last Saturday.

20. I am sorry to say that although funds have been voted two years running for our drill hall, it has not yet been commenced. It will serve a double purpose, as we shall use it for a skating rink during the winter. Until we obtain cover we are labouring under difficulties as regards our hockey. We still hope that it may be erected in time for us to use next winter.

ACCOMMODATION.

21. I am glad to report that early this year the government decided to increase our dormitory accommodation, and to carry out the very necessary repairs to the wharfs along the lake front. Each day we hope to see work commenced.

MILITARY SERVICE.

22. The number of gentlemen cadets entering the Imperial and Permanent forces this year is exceptionally large. Applications for commissions in the Active Militia for the remainder of the graduating class have already been forwarded. The following gentlemen will be recommended for commissions:—

APPENDIX 'C'.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF VISITORS, ROYAL MILITARY COLLEGE, 1911.

OTTAWA, July 7, 1911.

The Secretary,

The Militia Council.

SIR,—I have the honour to forward, herewith, report of the meeting of the Board of Visitors, Royal Military College, held in the month of May last.

I have the honour to be, sir,

Your obedient servant,

R. W. RUTHERFORD, Colonel, Acting Chairman, Board of Visitors.

REPORT.

The Board assembled at the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., at 9.30 a.m., on the 25th May, 1911.

Present.

Chairman.—In the absence of Col. S. Hughes, M.P., Railway Intelligence Officer, Headquarters' Staff, the chair was taken by Colonel R. W. Rutherford, Master-General of the Ordnance.

Members.—Lieutenant-Colonel H. S. Greenwood, R.O., Major A. H. Macdonell, D.S.O., A.A.G., 1st Division, Reverend C. P. Choquette, M.A., President of the College of St. Hyacinthe, P.Q.

Secretary.—Lieutenant-Colonel J. S. Dunbar, Assistant Adjutant-General, Headquarters.

The Board having made careful inquiry into the various departments of the institution and inspected the several buildings and grounds, beg to report as follows:—

INSTRUCTIONAL STAFF.

1. Captain Russell-Brown has been replaced by Major A. J. Wolff, R.E., as Professor of Surveying. Major Count de Bury has been succeeded by Major F. R. Sedgwick, as Professor of Tactics, Military History and Artillery.

2. The Instruction in Musketry has been handed over to Captain Kaulbach, the Staff Adjutant, and the results have been very satisfactory.

3. The Quartermaster, Honorary Lieutenant Hennessy, after a service of thirty years, retired on pension from the College Staff on the 20th of February, 1911. He had earned the respect of the successive Commandants under whom he served by the conscientious manner in which he had discharged the responsible duties of Quartermaster and Paymaster.

4. The General Staff Department has been very busily employed during the past year. Seven Militia Staff Courses were conducted, personally or by correspondence, from the College.

5. The Staff College candidate prepared at the Royal Military College passed at the top of the Overseas' Dominion Candidates last year and is now at the Imperial Staff College. Three candidates for the next Course have already been reported by Commanding Officers.

6. Major Robertson has recently been ordered to take over the duties of General Staff Officer of the 5th Division, and it is hoped he will be replaced at an early date.

7. Lieutenant-Colonel T. B. Wood conducted the Military Course at the McGill University and Captain Williams that for the Canadian Permanent Army Medical Corps at Ottawa. In addition to the above work, Officers of the Permanent Force preparing for promotion have received instruction by correspondence.

8. The Commandant reports that the service of Captain A. F. C. Williams, Indian Army, which were placed at his disposal, have been very valuable.

ATTENDANCE.

9. The attendance this year is the highest on record, 114 Cadets having joined at the commencement of the term.

10. One has since been discharged on account of ill health, and one has been withdrawn by his parents to take up a business post.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS.

11. Ninety-three candidates entered their names for the Entrance Examinations which were held early in May. The only changes in the syllabus for these examinations were small alterations in the marks allotted to the various subjects and the introduction of a paper on "General Knowledge," the questions on which were set with a view of testing the general intelligence and power of expression of the candidates, and dealt with matters of common interest and every day life with which the general education of those presenting themselves should make them conversant.

12. The subjects for the Entrance Examination and the allotment of marks this year were as follows:—

Obligatory Subjects.
	Marks.
	Max.	Min.
Mathematics (total)	.3,000	1,200
(i) Arithmetic and Mensuration	. 750	250
(ii) Algebra		250
(iii) Trigonometry		250
(iv) Euclid		250

To qualify, each candidate had to obtain 33% in each section of the above subjects and 40% of the whole.

English(total) 1,350	4.50
(i) Grammar and Composition	250
(ii) Literature 300	100
(iii) General Knowledge 300	100
Geography and History(total), 800	200
French(total), 1.000	25()
Chemistry(total), 300	75
Grand totals	2.175

To qualify, each candidate must obtain not less than 33% of the aggregate marks allotted to the above subjects.

Voluntary Subjects.

Latin(total),	1,000	250
Geometrical Drawing(total),	500	125
Freehand Drawing(total),	300	75

All the obligatory subjects must be taken up.

The voluntary subjects may be taken up at the option of the candidate; marks in them are reckoned in the aggregate and count in the competition for entry, provided that in each case the marks so gained amount to at least 25 per cent of the total allotted to the subject concerned.

SYLLABUS OF INSTRUCTION AT THE COLLEGE.

13. Acting on the suggestion of last year's Board that more time should be devoted to professional military subjects, some changes were made in the allotment of hours given to the various subjects.

14. During the present year, Tactics has been introduced in the syllabus of the Recruit class; one campaign, Jackson's Shenandoah Valley Campaign of 1862, has been studied by the 2nd Class, and time has been devoted to practical tactics out of doors by all three classes. These changes have been rendered possible by alterations in the Attendances devoted to languages, English especially. The study of Military History and Tactics, necessitating as it does, the writing of appreciations, accounts of battles, &c., gives valuable instruction in English and for this reason the Commandant considered it justifiable to reduce somewhat the number of hours devoted to that subject.

15. The Commandant has suggested that the time devoted to Military Engineering be modified, and that an alternative course in advanced Military Subjects or Civil Engineering be introduced for the final-year Cadets according to the course they elect to follow. Those proposed changes are recommended for serious consideration, the subject not only being an important one, but affecting the policy of the Department when the College was originally founded.

COURSE OF STUDIES.

16. The hours devoted to the different subjects during the past years were as follows:—

Mathematics	6991/2	hours.
Geometrical Drawing	108	44
Military Engineering	3561/2	66
Artillery	268	66
Tactics	9034	44

Stables	s 6

17. The Course of lecturing by Cadets introduced last year has been continued and again produced good results.

WAR GAME.

18. The War Game has proved very helpful both for the instruction of Cadets and Long Course Officers.

ATTACHMENT OF CADETS TO MILITIA UNITS.

19. Last year four Cadets took commissions in the Permanent Force and the remainder of the graduating class, with the exception of five who entered the Imperial Service, joined the Non-permanent Militia. The Board again recommends that graduates be attached to permanent units before serving in a training camp with the Non-permanent Corps, in order that they may gain a full knowledge of their duties, as officers, in the interior economy, discipline, &c., of a regiment or battery.

PERSONNEL.

20. The Cadets were seen at gun drill, bridge building, surveying, &c., they appeared well up in their work and presented a very good appearance.

21. The following table shows the average increase in measurements of the Cadets:-

	Height	Weight.	Chest Measurement.	Arms.
3rd Class				$1\frac{1}{4}''$
2nd Class			$1\frac{1}{2}^{\prime\prime}$	3//

2nd Class	 	 							19	66	11	6.6
1st Class.									20	44	- 6	66

EQUITATION.

22. Sixteen Cadets of the Senior Class were seen at Equitation; their riding, horsemanship and jumping were all very good. There are now twenty horses occupying the new stables, in which there is accommodation for twenty-two. In view of the size of the Classes, and the possibility that a certain number of horses will be on the sick list from time to time, the Board recommends that two more remounts be purchased.

23. The personnel of the Establishment is provided by the Royal Canadian Dragoons and the arrangement has been very satisfactory so far. Both the stables and the grooms' quarters were found clean and in good order. All Classes have been instructed in stable management and grooming at the beginning of the term, and the recruits continued to do a certain amount of grooming and stable work throughout the winter. The size of the Classes necessitates two rides to mount one Class for a single lesson. Throughout the winter, the Seniors have had eight hours and the Second Class four hours' riding a week.

The Recruits have also recently been given four hours a week. The Second Class still get four hours and the Seniors six hours obligatory, with voluntary rides, which were well attended.

24. The Board strongly recommend the early construction of a covered Riding School. At present there is but a poor open manège, which could only be used 63 times out of 144 rides during the past year.

Throughout the winter months, i.e., for the greater part of the College year, riding out of doors on frozen ground or ice, entails disadvantages which it is unnecessary to point out. The course of instruction is seriously delayed in consequence, and the results will continue comparatively poor until a riding school is provided.

DISCIPLINE.

25. The Commandant reported that the discipline of the Cadets had been very good and that he had no serious case of misconduct to report. The relations between the three classes appeared to be as harmonious as could be desired.

MESSING.

26. The messing arrangements carried out by the Canadian Permanent Army Service Corps continue to give every satisfaction. The dinner of the Cadets the day of the Board's visit was sampled and found to be wholesome, of good quality, well cooked and served. The ice supply is now also attended to by this Corps, with good results.

CLOTHING.

27. With the exception of the blue serge undress for drill purposes, the clothing supplied the Cadets gives satisfaction. The question of using khaki is understood to be under consideration.

28. The soft felt hats issued this year to the Cadets for wear when surveying have been much appreciated.

29. The complaint regarding boots which was made last year was at once investigated and it was found that the desire was to substitute Wellingtons for lace boots for walking out. As this would necessitate overalls of a somewhat different cut, and as the boots themselves would be more expensive, no change was made. Brown boots as supplied to the Permanent Force have been introduced and are worn for stables and riding.

30. The Commandant stated that he is led to think that satisfactory results would not follow the starting of a Master Tailor's shop at the College. At the beginning of the year the Contracting Tailor made a demand for higher payments for certain articles of clothing. The matter was gone into and an agree-

MUSKETRY.

31. A Miniature Range was set up last fall under the Gymnasium, with most satisfactory results. The improvement in musketry is already very marked. Two sub-target guns have also been made good use of and more would be beneficial. The Board recommend that the present allowance of 50 rounds of gallery ammunition per Cadet be increased.

32. The following table gives the Classification of Musketry for 1910-1911,

Trained Soldiers' Course:—

A score of 103 up the range was recently made by Cadet Mclvor.

33. The Board recommend that a special revolver-range be installed and that a revolver course be given all Cadets each year. At present but very little revolver-shooting is done, and then only by the graduating class.

RECREATION.

34. The Board regret that the erection of the covered skating rink and drill hall for which it is understood provision has been made, has not been proceeded with. The Cadets should be afforded every opportunity for getting plenty of hard exercise throughout the year.

35. The boat-houses and wharfs still continue to be in the same dilapidated and pitiable condition. As regards the boats themselves, the Board recommend that a special grant be given for the purchase of suitable ones. At present there are no row-boats at the College. The old lugger is completely worn out. She has been a general utility boat, used by the Military Engineering and Artillery Departments and has done good service. She should be replaced by another of the same size as either of the other two boats and four row-boats, four-oar, &c., purchased for the use of the College.

36. The Squash Racquet-Court presented by some Montreal friends has been much patronized.

37. A proper recreation room and a reading-room is badly needed. 38. The present billiard tables are worn out and should be replaced.

GYMNASIUM.

39. Forty-eight Cadets were seen at free gymnastics and performed the several exercises in a manner which can hardly be excelled. The good physique of the Cadets generally is doubtless due in a great measure to the thorough course provided in gymnastics.

FIRE DRILL.

40. A few days previous to the visit of the Board the fire alarm was accidentally sounded at 11.45 p.m. and within three minutes all the Cadets had responded and assembled properly equipped at a building some 300 yards away.

HEALTH AND SANITATION.

41. At the date of the Board's visit the health of the Cadets was found to be very satisfactory and there were no patients in the hospital. All Cadets were vaccinated during the year.

42. The attention of the Board was called to the want of proper ventila-

42. The attention of the Board was called to the want of proper ventilation in the class rooms during the winter months, and it is recommended that early steps be taken to remedy it.

43. The pumping and filtration plants continue to give satisfaction, as also the sterilizing plant at the hospital. The water supply continues to be analysed twice a week.

44. The bath rooms and sanitary arrangements generally appeared to be good and adequate.

HOSPITAL.

45. The hospital was in perfect order and very clean, and provides sufficient accommodation for all ordinary cases.

WORKSHOP.

46. The workshop was visited and found in good order. The new combustion engine which furnishes the motor power continues to work satisfactorily.

KITCHENS.

47. The kitchens and pantries in the main building, hospital and groome quarters were clean, tidy and well kept.

RIFLE RANGE.

48. The present Rifle Range does not comply with the regulations as regards safety and should, it is considered, be abandoned, and, if feasible, a new range built on the College Grounds, or other arrangements made for carrying out the musketry training.

LIBRARY.

49. It was ascertained that the supply of text books, especially in Civil Engineering, was inadequate, there being none for some of the subjects, thus compelling the student to depend on his notes and depriving him of the advantage of working out problems and making further research.

50. The library itself should be enlarged and a map room provided. The small printing press recommended last year has not yet been authorized.

LABORATORY.

51. Owing to the present restricted laboratory, practical experiments can only be done by the Professors and not by the Cadets. The apparati and appliances might easily be improved upon.

LANDS AND GROUNDS.

52. The grounds, including the Tennis Court, were well kept and clean. The grounds near the new stables, servants' and grooms' quarters are still badly and urgently in need of levelling and grading. Ash pits for the servants' quarters are required.

53. The Board suggest that the present wooden sidewalks, which are constantly in need of repair, be replaced by concrete ones.

HOLIDAYS.

54. The Cadets are given two weeks' leave at Christmas, four days at Easter and a little over two months in summer.

GUN PRACTICE.

55. The Board recommend that arrangements be made whereby the 1st Class Cadets may attend the Petawawa Camp towards the end of August, to take part in gun practice. Such an arrangement would be most beneficial.

ACCOMMODATION.

56. If the Royal Military College is to be able to meet the increasing demands upon it for admission, which are growing greater from year to year in proportion to the development of the country, the present deficiency in the necessary number of dormitories should be remedied as soon as possible. At present the College is suffering very much from lack of accommodation, as many as 78 Cadets having to sleep two in a room this year, which must necessarily curtail opportunity for private study and prevent the best advantage from the thorough course of study provided at the College being obtained. It is understood that plans for a new dormitory building are completed and it is hoped that work on it will be started without delay. The accommodation to be provided, however, will only house about 60 Cadets.

to be provided, however, will only house about 60 Cadets.

57. The Board inspected the Main and Educational buildings and were impressed with the fact that, in addition to the increased dormitory accommodation required elsewhere, a suitable and larger dining-hall, a draughting room, a library, laboratory and general lecture-room are urgently needed. The physics lecture room is not large enough for the present classes. Plans have been drawn out for the model shed to replace the existing structure, which has been condemned as dangerous.

58. Test pits were sunk last year for the drill shed, but that building has not yet been commenced. It is hoped that it will be erected during the present summer and be ready for use next winter.

59. The Board repeat their recommendation of last year, that accommodation for the Instructional Staff be provided within the College Grounds. Officers attending Staff College and Long Courses would also greatly benefit if they were quartered close to the College. It is understood these Courses will be lengthened and be practically simultaneous with the Cadets' terms. The cost of extra accommodation would be met to a great extent by the diminution in the lodging list allowance.

PAY OF COMMANDANT AND STAFF.

60. The Board desire to again draw the attention to inadequacy of the pay and emoluments of the Commandant and to strongly recommend that this be remedied at an early date.

61. The Board suggest that the Civil Staff be put on the same footing as the Civil Service as regards salary and increases and that they be graded according to the importance of the subjects they deal with. The Board also recommend that in the event of superannuation being restored for the Civil Service, it be made to apply to the Civil Staff of the College.

REPORT OF BOARD OF VISITORS.

62. The Board trust that the printing in pamphlet form of its report and the distribution of it to all Colleges and Schools at which candidates are prepared for the Entrance Examinations, and to Schools and Members of Parliament, will be continued. It should also be published in French.

VISITORS.

63. During the past year the College has been visited and inspected by General Sir John French, Majors-General Sir Percy Lake, Godley and Kelly, Vice-Admiral Kingsmill, Commanders Roper and Ling and Mr. Hartly of the Naval College.

64. In conclusion, the Chairman and Members of the Board desire to express their thanks to the Commandant and Staff for the assistance so readily given them.

EMPLOYEES AND PAY ROLL.

2. Average number of employees, 333. Total amount of salaries and wages paid, $142,081.27.

COST OF PRODUCTION.

3. The cost of .303" ball cartridges, which are the largest item of production, has been reduced by 13% as compared with last year; that of blank is slightly increased, but is still less than cost of importing. All tools manufactured and purchased during the year have been charged to production, and a small balance remaining has been written off, leaving the book value of all tools on hand at the nominal sum of 25 cents.

PROFIT AND LOSS.

4. The estimated profit on the year's work, as compared with the cost of importing, amounts to $67,276.50, which is equivalent to 11 8% on gross capital, being an increase of 4.3% over last year.

RATES OF PAY.

5. Wages have been paid in accordance with rates fixed by the Department of Labour. The earnings of employees, the majority of whom are paid by piece-work, have increased by 1 9%.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

6. In consequence of grant made to the National Battlefields Commission, of the Cove Fields, at present occupied by our Danger Buildings and small arms proof range, it has become necessary to remove these establishments, and the selection of a suitable site is under consideration. The Ordnance store building in the upper Artillery park has been transferred to Arsenal charge, and will provide accommodation which was greatly needed. Manufacturing operations are much hampered by lack of space, and the provision of enlarged premises cannot be delayed much longer.

STATEMENTS.

7. The following statements are submitted:—

Balance-sheet.

Capital account.

Statement of indirect expenditure.

Statement of liabilities and assets.

INTERIM REPORT OF THE MILITIA COUNCIL FOR THE DOM-INION OF CANADA ON THE TRAINING OF THE MILITIA DURING THE SEASON OF 1910.

To His Excellency the Right Honourable Sir Albert Henry George, Earl Grey, Viscount Howick; Baron Grey of Howick, in the County of Northumberland, in the Peerage of the United Kingdom and a Baronet, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, &c., &c., Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief of the Dominion of Canada.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY:

The undersigned has the honour to present to Your Excellency an interim report on the training of the Militia of the Dominion of Canada, during the season of 1910; to be embodied at a later date in the Report of the Militia Council for the year ending March 31, 1911.

Respectfully submitted.

F. W. BORDEN, Minister of Militia and Defence.

DEPARTMENT OF MILITIA AND DEFENCE, OTTAWA, March 1, 1911.

REPORT.

1. The accompanying report briefly outlines the general scheme of training carried out by the Canadian Militia during the season of 1910, and appended will be found the report of the Inspector-General on the results of that training. (Appendix A).

Scheme of Training.

CITY AND RURAL CORPS.

2. Early in the year a memorandum outlining the training of the Canadian Militia for 1910 was prepared and promulgated. It was divided into two parts: Part I, Training, and Part II, Administration in Camps of Instruction.

3. Under Part I, detailed syllabuses for the training of each arm in camp and at local headquarters were laid down. The syllabuses, except on the case of musketry, were intended as a general guide, which might be varied at the discretion of the officer in charge of commands, independent districts or camps of training.

4. In consequence of the very short period of training, sixteen days for Artillery and twelve days for other arms, the syllabuses were arranged to provide just sufficient drill and manœuvre to enable troops to co-operate and act together in the field. Practically all ceremonial movements were eliminated, and prominence given to tactical work in the field, with special importance attached to—

Attack and defence:

Information and reconnaissance:

Orders, reports and protection.

5. Also, corps training at local headquarters were obliged to carry out one practical tactical exercise in the field in addition to their musketry and drill training.

6. The following courses of instruction were authorized and carried out in camps of training:

Tactical: Engineers; Infantry: Supply and transport; Medical: Ordnance: Signalling:

Veterinary.

7. A curriculum for each course was given, that for the practical course including practical training and tactical schemes in the field under a general staff officer specially appointed from headquarters. Special training in reconnaissance and in the work of other arms was arranged at each district camp for the Corps of Guides.

Instruction in Military Subjects at Canadian Universities.

12. The usual prescribed course of lectures in military subjects qualifying university candidates for commissions in the Regular Army and in the Canadian Permanent Force was arranged with the authorities of McGill University, and Staff Officers were detailed to lecture at McGill on the following subjects:—

Military history, military tactics, military engineering, military topography, military law and military administration.

Musketry.

13. The musketry syllabus laid down for 1910 was practically similar to that of 1908-09.

No certificates were granted, but the names of successful candidates were published in Militia Orders as being qualified as Musketry Instructors. Arrangements were made so that school teachers could take advantage of this training in musketry.

18. The certificates obtained from the Canadian School of Musketry are to be accepted in future as equivalent to a qualification at the School of Musketry, Hythe, or at one of the Schools of Musketry in India.

Signalling.

19. A detail from each unit in camp was trained in signalling, semaphore, morse flag and lamp, and in addition signalling classes were held and certificates issued as hereunder:—

E. F. JARVIS, Secretary, the Militia Council. DEPARTMENT OF MILITIA AND DEFENCE, OTTAWA, October 26, 1910

From-

The Inspector-General, Canadian Militia.

To-

The Secretary,
The Militia Council.

Sir,—I have the honour, as Inspector-General of the Militia, to submit my report upon the inspection of the Militia for 1910, so far as I have been able to complete it to date.

2. The training season for 1910 has been marked by the inspection of the Force by General Sir John French, G.C.B., G.C.V.O., K.C.M.G., Inspector-General of His Majesty's Imperial Forces, who arrived in Canada on May 20, and embarked for England on July 8, having spent the interval in reviewing the forces of the Dominion as far as was possible in the time available. His Report, containing the results of his observations and his recommendations based thereon, has been laid before the Honourable the Minister of Militia and Defence, has been printed, and is, I understand, to be presented to Parliament I accompanied him throughout his tour, and afforded him what assistance lay in my power. I may perhaps be permitted to say that I concur generally in his remarks upon the efficiency of the troops whom he saw.

3. The report which I now submit embodies the conclusions arrived at after the inspections at which I was present with him, together with the results of other inspections made outside of his visit, either by myself, or by officers acting for me when I was unable to be present.

4. In the season just past, the Militia generally has trained under much more favourable conditions than last year. The financial stringency of 1909-10 having passed away, the training vote for 1910-11 pratically equalled the figures of 1908-09. As a result, it has been possible to make a much more extended use of instructors from the permanent corps, to hold special courses of instruction for staff and other officers, to form more provisional schools, and, more than all to allow rural corps to train at their full establishments, and to assemble them in central camps, instead of the reduced establishments and local camps of last year. The result has been a marked increase in efficiency.

5. A word of warning is, however, necessary. Owing to the development of the country, new units have been established in many localities, especially in the Northwest, and the total strength of the Force has increased rapidly and considerably. This is highly desirable, but, if training is to be properly carried out next year, a decided increase to the training vote in the forthcoming Estimates for 1911-12 is absolutely necessary.

Permanent Force.

6. The Inspector-General of the Imperial Forces considers that the Permanent Force has reached a satisfactory standard of efficiency. I concur, however,  $35-6\frac{1}{2}$ with him in thinking that they have not yet attained that standard of really high field efficiency, which a force designed to instruct and be the pattern for the whole of the Active Militia ought to aim at.

7. He has mentioned the principal cause of this—the smallness of their establishments. I entirely concur. As pointed out in my previous reports, neither officers nor men can make themselves really efficient if the means be denied them. Moreover, the demands upon the Force for instructors have enormously increased of late years. The force has done its best to meet them, and, on the whole satisfactorily, though with much effort, and largely at the expense of its own efficiency.

8. There is, however, yet another drawback from which the permanent units labour. It is now three years since they were last assembled at Petawawa for field training and combined manoeuvres. Isolated units cannot train themselves in the limited areas available near their usual stations. I regard it as essential to their efficiency that they should next year be assembled at Petawawa in as great strength as possible, and be trained together.

9. As regards the Cavalry, there has been a distinct improvement in efficiency in the Royal Canadian Dragoons, while especial attention has been devoted to their instructional duties. The 'Brush-up' course for senior officers, held at Toronto in the spring, was most useful.

10. I fully concur in the high opinion formed by Sir John French of the efficiency and instructional ability displayed by the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

My remarks of last year as to Kingston Barracks still apply.

11. The Royal Canadian Garrison Artillery at Halifax and Quebec have made progress since last year, though the former hardly did themselves justice in their practice before the Imperial Inspector-General. Their instructional work has been satisfactory, especially that of the Heavy Company. The horses of the Heavy Company are of very poor stamp. They should be 'cast' and replaced. Want of funds has prevented the inspection of the company at Esquimalt by the Inspector of Artillery or any senior officer this year. This is to be regretted.

12. The Royal Canadian Engineers are still too weak for the proper performance of the duties devolving on them.

13. The Royal Canadian Regiment has not yet recovered from the effects of last year's strike at Glace Bay. As a result of the discomforts of their stay at that place, very few of these men, whose term of service expired last winter and spring, re-engaged. To fill their places takes time, and, in consequence, the regiment is still seriously below its establishment. As far as can be judged from the restricted opportunities available for testing its field efficiency, it is in good order.

14. The Departmental Corps continue to do well in spite of the handicap of inadequate numbers, especially in the Canadian Ordnance Corps. There is still, however, room for improvement in certain directions.

15. To sum up, the Permanent Force, if it is to be really efficient, judged by field service standards, requires (a) increased establishments; (b) frequent practice in combined field training.

Active Militia.

GENERAL.

16. The Annual Camps of 1910 have been marked, in some cases but not in all, by a falling off in the number of men attending them. Many explanations have been offered—the smallness of the pay, the exaction of a certain standard in musketry in order to qualify for efficiency pay (but this would only affect cavalry and infantry, whereas the falling off—was general), the amount of work now done and expected in camp, &c., &c.—All may have some influence, but the most probable cause appears to be the general demand for labour of all kinds throughout the country, coupled, in Eastern Canada at any rate, with the continued movement of the younger portion of the male population towards the Northwest.

17. The weakness of many corps in qualified officers, and of nearly all corps in qualified non-commissioned officers, remains, as stated in my last year's report, one of the most serious defects of the Force. Concurrently with this, another highly unsatisfactory feature may be noticed, viz., the large number of officers who absent themselves without leave from annual training. The fact that leave is always granted when any valid reason is adduced makes this dereliction of duty the more discreditable.

18. The Imperial Inspector-General has recorded his opinion that sixteen days' training in the year is necessary for the Cavalry as well as the Artillery. I venture to adhere to the opinion expressed in my last year's report (paragraph 153) that at least sixteen day's training is required for all branches of the Force.

19. There has been noticed—and more this year than usual—a tendency on the part of many officers to turn out for drill in various kinds of out-of-date and fancy uniforms. While the matter is not of vital importance, it is, however, regrettable, for carelessness in this respect leads to like carelessness—on the part of the men, which has to be repressed; while it has the further disadvantage that it makes it very difficult for the men in the ranks (and others) to recognize who is or is not an officer—which is a matter of very decided importance. Camp uniform is not now of an expensive kind, ample time has been allowed to wear out obsolete patterns, and Camp Commandants ought to require conformity with the regulations. It should be added, however, that several corps set an excellent example in this respect.

CAVALRY.

20. The Imperial Inspector-General has so fully reported upon the Cavalry which he saw that there is little for me to add. That the Militia authorities concur in his opinion that the proper role of eavalry in Canada is that of mounted rifles, may be seen from the fact that the rifle or carbine is the only weapon with which the Cavalry is armed.

21. The Cavalry in Eastern Canada has been severely handicapped by the total inadequacy of the training grounds at its disposal as regards space in which to train or manœuvre. Reports by inspecting-officers upon those regiments in Eastern Canada, which were not seen by either Sir John French or me, indicate, however, that, in several regiments, distinct progress has been made, especially in the Maritime Provinces.

22. The great importance of increased attention to troop and squadron drill, brought to notice in several of my previous reports, has again been emphasized by the Imperial Inspector-General. Commandants of Camps are responsible that at least the amount of troop and squadron drill prescribed by the syllabus is performed. Dismounted action in particular should be practised, and the horses taught to lead properly.

23. None of the Cavalry should be permitted to train in individual regimental camps—the inspection reports on the few regiments which did so this year show how far they have fallen behind those trained in district camps.

24. The want of uniformity in armament equipment and saddlery, brought to notice in my previous reports, is now being gradually remedied, but I am not aware that any official decision has been given as to how the fire arm is to be carried or to provide the necessary equipment for it. This is a crying need.

25. There are still too many cases in which the saddlery of regiments is neglected, not only during the non-training season, but during the time in camp. Commanding officers do not do their duty in this respect. Field forges, too, should always be brought into camp and their use practised.

26. The quality of the horses brought to camp showed marked improvement in almost every regiment, though commanding officers still accept a few which are quite unfit. Part of the improvement is, no doubt, due to the increase sanctioned in the maximum sum payable by the public for horses killed or injured while in camp. There was a serious deficiency of picketing equipment at at least one camp, which led to a large increase in the number of injuries to horses and consequent compensation claims.

ARTILLERY.

27. Field Artillery units, like other troops training in camp, were seriously handicapped last year by the reduction in training establishments. This year a decided improvement was noticeable as a result of the training at full establishment, although some brigades, noticeably 1st and 6th, were regrettably weak in numbers both of officers and men.

28. The Imperial Inspector-General has accorded high praise to the field brigades which he saw at practice while at Petawawa. From the results of the efficiency competitions, it would seem that the Field Artillery arm was fortunate in its representatives on that occasion, for they are certainly above the average. At the same time, there has been, almost without exception, a distinct increase in service efficiency since last year. This improvement is naturally most marked in those five brigades (1st, 2nd, 8th, 9th and 10th) which carried out their training and gun practice concurrently at Petawawa. The results of this arrangement were most satisfactory. The large area of ground available, and the commencement of the instructional gun-practice on the fifth day of training, showed most striking results in efficiency, as compared with the unsuitability of the training areas at local camps and the separation of camp training from service gun-practice, the ultimate objective of all training.

29. Batteries which have to separate their training from their gun practice labour under many disadvantages. They not only have restricted areas and usually unsuitable ground for training, but they can seldom get together a second time for their gun practice their regular complement of officers, Nos, 1 and trained gunlayers, and their places have to be filled by less efficient substitutes; while, at best, only about one-third of the battery can witness the practice and see the results of its training.

30. The conclusion is obvious, that as many brigades and batteries as possible should put in their camp training and gun practice concurrently every year.

31. My remarks of previous years, that the Artillery arm, if it is to be used with the fullest effect, demands an exceptional amount of study and practice on the part of the officers, still hold good. It is gratifying, however, to be able to record that, while there are still too many officers who are not yet expert in the 'Application of Fire,' and who imagine, mistakenly, that their own natural intelligence will, when combined with a casual study of Field Artillery Training, be sufficient to produce satisfactory results in battle, or even at practice, yet there is evident a decided improvement in Artillery knowledge on the part of a large number of officers, who deserve much credit, not only for their own studies but also for the great advance they have brought about in their respective brigades, batteries or sections, as the case may be, by personal instruction.

32. The system of attaching officers and non-commissioned officers of the permanent Artillery to brigades and batteries as instructors proved most beneficial. Standing authority for the continuance of this system should be given. I have to repeat my recommendation of last year, that a 'Brush-up' course at the Royal School of Artillery should be held annually, to enable senior officers of Artillery to refresh their knowledge shortly before camp.

33. The attendance of detachments of batteries for the gun practice at Petawawa shows an improvement over last year, but is still not satisfactory. Only two field batteries eligible to send up detachments, the 10th (Woodstock) and 25th (Lethbridge), failed to do so, but the 6th Battery (London) was excused from training, and the 18th Battery (Antigonish) could not find sufficient officers, while the 5th (Quebec) Brigade is practically non-existent. On the other hand, nearly all the batteries which fired at Petawawa performed creditably, while the 8th Brigade deserves especial mention for efficiency throughout.

34. As regards Heavy Artillery, decided progress has been made this year in manœuvre; officers are now realizing its necessity, and, as a general rule, are anxious to frame their system of training (hitherto mostly restricted to drill-shed work) so as to include instruction in riding and driving. It is essential that heavy batteries should have some outdoor training as complete units, on field battery lines, before going to gun practice, and that the officers, and battery commander's staff, should be mounted in the future.

35. The officers of all heavy batteries show keen interest in the efficiency of their commands; but fail to realize the assistance which they would obtain in this direction if they attended at the Royal School of Artillery (Heavy) at Quebee, for instruction. Attendance here is not satisfactory, and Provisional Schools cannot provide instruction equivalent to that obtained at a 'Short Course' at the Royal School of Artillery.

36. As in 1909, in the ease of the 3rd and 4th Heavy Brigades, the practice detachments of all of the batteries of each brigade attended the gun practice at Petawawa simultaneously and with excellent results. This system is sound, and allows of the maximum of instruction. It is much to be hoped that next year the 2nd Heavy Brigade will adopt the same plan.

37. It has been brought to notice of late that the physical standard of the rank and file in the heavy batteries is not always adequate for the work of these batteries. The labour entailed in the supply of ammunition, in loading the gun, running up and traversing is severe, and requires full grown strong men. The smaller and shorter men should be detailed mainly as telephonists and signallers; drivers may be required to take their places at the guns on emergency, and should be equal to acting as gunners.

38. As in the Cavalry so in the Artillery, the stamp of horse brought to camp showed, except in Nova Scotia, a marked improvement in comparison with that of last year, and battery commanders are evidently taking pains to secure a good class of horse.

39. The supply of horses in sufficient numbers appears to present a difficulty in some brigades, notably the 1st and 6th. On the other hand, a majority of the batteries trained brought to camp a practically complete establishment of horses. It is essential that six horses per gun should continue to be allowed for 18-pr. batteries, and eight per gun for heavy batteries.

40. Signalling throughout the Artillery has improved, owing to increased attention being devoted to it during the year. But I would again urge the importance of serious consideration being given to the question of the war organization of the Field and Heavy Artillery, including the provision of a supply of horses to meet the demands of mobilization. There is a distinct danger of the need for the organization of ammunition columns—equally important for both Artillery and Infantry—being too long deferred.

41. The gun practice of the Fortress Artillery, and the reports on that practice, are not yet sufficiently complete to enable me to report adequately upon that arm. Considerable difficulty has been experienced at Halifax in carrying out gun practice, owing to the season being restricted in consequence of representations from local fishermen that firing had a tendency to frighten away the fish.

ENGINEERS.

42. Reports on the work done by the Engineer Companies in the annual camps are generally satisfactory. I am not, however, satisfied that our present training establishment is the one best suited to existing conditions. An Engineer Company may roughly be divided into its technical and non-technical branches. And it would appear that an unnecessarily large proportion of the latter are brought into camp, where it is difficult to utilize their services with advantage. An appreciable reduction in the training establishments might, in my opinion, be made without loss of efficiency.

43. The money thus saved might well be devoted to the organization of additional Engineer units, telegraph companies especially (including wireless), for which there is great need. The Militia Force is probably more deficient in the proper provision of Engineer units—of which there has been a great development in modern war—than in any other branch of the service. Railway units, mounted troops, search-light units and balloon units are all wanting

44. An annual training of only 12 days is altogether insufficient for teaching men Engineer duties, as has previously been pointed out. This applies even in the case of those who are doing work analogous to their avocations in civil life.

CORPS OF GUIDES.

45. Special courses of instruction for the officers of the Corps of Guides were held at the principal camps and were well attended, some of the work executed being highly satisfactory. The training of the officers of this corps has now reached a stage at which a definite task, in connection with their special duties, should form part of their annual drill in each District.

INFANTRY.

46. As regards Infantry, I can add little to what has been said by the Imperial Inspector-General. I have constantly urged the great importance of thorough grounding in company drill, of more practice of field movements as opposed to ceremonial, and the detrimental effect on city corps of the absence of ground on which to drill out of doors. These are all points to which he draws attention.

47. At the same time, there are evidences on the part of most city corps of increased attention being given to those portions of their training which more especially relate to effective action in the field.

48. The rural infantry is still suffering from the effects of the enforced reductions of last year, but all corps were this year authorized to train at full establishment.

49. Much care and attention was given to musketry at the annual training, with satisfactory results. Progress is apparent both at target practice and at judging distance. The militia now has the advantage of instruction from a large number of officers and non-commissioned officers who have attended the School of Musketry at Rockliffe in past years, and the result of their work is seen in the increased musketry efficiency, particularly in camps of instruction.

50. A few complaints were made that men had declined to come to camp another year because they had failed to reach the musketry standard required for them to earn efficiency pay. But the standard at present fixed for qualification for the lowest grade of efficiency pay is so easy that it may fairly be said that men who cannot reach it are little good to the Militia Force,

51. The clothing and equipment of the Infantry is, in general, of good quality, and in very fair condition. An issue of a straw hat, to be worn in uniform by troops at the summer camps, would be a great boon.

52. The arms were generally in fair condition, some corps being much better than others. The Lee-Enfield rifles are beginning to wear out. In the 16th (Toronto) Infantry Brigade there were several rifles without sights at the inspection by General Sir John French.

53. Reference may be here made to a growing tendency, noticeable mainly in Ontario and Quebec, towards the formation of small city infantry corps. As the population of the smaller towns in those provinces increases, applications, are made to the Militia Department for the establishment of small city infantry corps, the cadres of which are usually formed, in the first instance, by taking away the companies contributed by the town concerned from the local county regiment—a movement which is often followed by the disappearance in a year or two, perhaps at once, of the county regiment. After some years experience of both, I am definitely of the opinion that the four-company city battalion is seldom worth its cost to the country; it is not to be compared to the average rural battalion. It should only be sanctioned in cases where it is practically certain that the four additional companies required to form an eight-company city battalion can be raised at an early date.

ARMY SERVICE CORPS.

good, and both officers and men showed keenness. Some units are, however, very weak in qualified officers and would certainly break down in the field. The experiment of attaching instructors from the permanent branch of the Corps to Active Militia units during training has worked well and should be extended in the future. The development of our system of organization, as recommended by General Sir John French, will involve some re-arrangement of the units of the Corps.

MEDICAL SERVICES.

55. The Medical Services almost everywhere showed zeal and progress towards efficiency.

56. The system of attaching Cavalry Field Ambulances to Cavalry Brigades and encouraging them to study mobility and their duties in relation to cavalry work is having good results. The system might well be extended.

57. The experiment of working a portion of the Medical Services at Niagara camp as a General Hospital proved satisfactory and afforded useful experience.

Some excellent professional work was done here.

58. The training of the Field Ambulances was largely directed during the past summer to the part which they would more especially play in the field, namely, that of mobile medical units forming an integral part of the organized force to which they belong.

59. While mistakes were made, yet medical officers generally showed considerable aptitude for this branch of their work—in which they were usually far more at home than were the commanders of the forces, with which they were working, in knowledge of the proper manner in which to utilise them.

60. Sanitation generally, throughout the camps, was well attended to Much progress has been made in this direction of late years by all except City Corps, who are deficient in knowledge of this, as of other practical aspects of camp life.

61. There is still much room for improvement in most of the stretcher bearer organizations of corps. The money they cost might be spent with more advantage in other directions.

SIGNALLING.

62. The conditions of signalling in Canada for the year under review again show steady advancement, and, owing to the opportunities afforded by the many courses of instruction given, considerable interest has been manifested. This is especially marked in the case of the Permanent and City Corps. In the competition for the Canadian Artillery Association's prizes this year the figure of merit obtained was much higher than last, some units attaining and many verging on the possible number of points awarded

63. Officers of the Canadian Signalling Corps have now all qualified, with but one exception.

64. Day and evening classes have been held since last year at seventeen centres, covering from the Atlantic to the Pacific, being a decided increase in number and in attendance.

65. At the several camps of instruction, 41 officers and over 500 non-commissioned officers and men were trained in semaphore signalling, and at many of the eamps, men who had previous instructions took up work of a more advanced nature with good results. Officers commanding regiments are gradually seeing the value of this important branch of the service, and are lending more support to the organizing of their Signalling sections; to which my remarks of last year still largely apply.

66. The signalling efficiency of the Permanent Force shows a steady improvement, especially in the Cavalry and Artillery. While the Infantry generally still keep up a high standard, the smaller depôts find it increasingly difficult owing to a paucity of numbers. An increase to the number of permanent instructors of the Signalling Service would be advantageous.

67. The numerous courses of instruction authorized have greatly improved the Signalling in the City units. Many new sections have been formed. Montreal, London, Winnipeg and Calgary in particular have made advances. The City Corps sections are, also, being gradually better equipped.

68. Authority has been granted for the issue of flag equipment to Cadet Corps, and the fact of making such issues will undoubtedly have a good effect and bring about a steady increase in Cadet Signalling. I see no good reason why boys should not be enlisted and proceed to camp as signallers, just as buglers or trumpeters now do.

CAMPS.

69. The point to which I have frequently drawn attention in previous reports, viz., the inadequacy of the camp areas in Eastern Canada (Petawawa excepted) for the proper training of troops for the field, has been forcibly brought to notice by Sir John French in his general report.

70. In the Northwest, two areas have just been acquired from the Department of the Interior, which should prove a great boon to the troops in the prairie provinces. In British Columbia, the matter is not yet settled.

71. The recently purchased areas at Niagara should be used for eamping purposes as soon as the water supply question is solved. The infantry should then camp there, close to the rifle ranges, leaving Niagara Common altogether free for the Cavalry. This would further afford useful practice in decentralization of work.

72. The accommodation at London camp is so restricted that, if more land cannot be obtained, the camp should be removed elsewhere.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 35

73. The newly acquired camp near Farnham demands serious attention if it is to prove suitable for the training of mounted troops. A rifle range is especially required, while an additional area for training purposes will be needed, and the water supply must be attended to.

74. I do not think that full advantage is taken of the somewhat small area available at Sussex camp. The location of the Cavalry and Artillery is faulty, and more ground might be utilized for training.

75. The need for increasing the rifle range accommodation at all camps, as circumstances permit. should be kept in view.

76. I take this opportunity of again urging upon Camp Commandants and their Chief Staff Officers that the training in field work of the troops in camp is by far their most important duty, and requires their personal attention.

77. The administration of the annual camps was, on the whole, satisfactory. Some grumbling was heard from the troops at the total prohibition of the sale of alcoholic liquors in camps. Personally, I am of opinion that good results would follow the establishment of a camp canteen under the direct supervision of the camp staff, at which beer might be sold under proper supervision, as well as what are known as 'soft drinks.'

PETAWAWA CAMP.

78. The development of Petawawa Camp is proceeding satisfactorily, and its sphere of usefulness is steadily enlarging. The making of good roads within the area of the camp buildings has been a great boon to the troops. Its present need is a recreation room where the troops in camp can resort in the evenings.

79. New Artillery ranges have been opened up and more are in progress. A considerable area has been cleared of fallen trees and made available for

Cavalry training

80. The camps held at Petawawa were the Artillery training and practice camps, and the camps of the 2nd Cavalry Brigade. The camp ground was visited by General Sir John French, who expressed a high opinion of its value.

Barracks.

S1. As regards the barracks occupied by the Permanent Force and the officers and non-commissioned officers of the Active Militia attached to them, while some alterations and current repairs have been made, nearly all my remarks of last year still hold good, and are here reproduced: 'The barracks occupied by the several units of the Permanent Force are not generally in a satisfactory condition. There is no station, with the possible exception of Esquimalt, where the barracks are up to the standard of modern requirements, while the barracks at Kingston, Toronto, St. Jean and Quebec are distinctly discreditable to the Dominion. They are old and out of date; often out of repair. The men are unhealthily crowded at the two former places; the drainage is faulty, and the medical officers of the Department have frequently brought to notice the serious sanitary risks which are run.'

82. The Infantry Barracks at Quebec have no single officers' quarters or officers' mess building. As a result, 'attached' officers have to live outside and draw special allowances therefor.

83. There is a considerable deficiency of quarters for married officers and men at nearly all stations of the Permanent Corps. The result is that large sums are expended yearly in lodging allowances, which would be saved if married quarters were made available.

84. No time should be lost in providing the new barracks contemplated in the neighbourhood of Montreal, Toronto and Kingston. Stable accommodation for the horses of mounted corps is at present defective at the two last named places.

85. There is a serious deficiency throughout the Dominion of accommodation for the valuable stores held in charge by the Ordnance Department. The storehouses are everywhere congested, prompt issues are interfered with, and the stores themselves are liable to damage through fire or moth.

Armouries.

86. I have nothing to add to my remarks of last year on this subject, which are here repeated:

'The question of armouries is still an urgent one, especially in the Northwest, where few government armouries exist, and suitable buildings for storing arms, saddlery, &c., are both hard to find and expensive to hire when found. If valuable guns, wagons, arms, equipment, uniforms and saddlery are to be kept in good condition, suitable accommodation is essential. But local conditions vary so much that equitable treatment is by no means easy. The inauguration of a definite system to ensure a gradual provision of buildings for the proper care of stores and, incidentally, the reduction of the expense now entailed upon officers of the Militia, is a pressing need.'

87. Some progress has, however, been made in the required direction during the current year, and more may be hoped for in the future.

Fortresses.

88. Owing to lack of funds during the past financial year, and the consequently small progress made with the St. Lawrence defences, there is little change to report from last year in the condition of the fortresses and fixed defences in the Dominion and their armament.

89. The works which comprise the fortresses of Halifax and Esquimalt, are in both cases, in an efficient condition, but it cannot be stated that the garrisons at the two places are adequate for the work they have to perform. There will be some improvement in this respect so soon as the permanent corps find themselves able to recruit up to their limited establishment again, but it must not be forgotten that, even then, that establishment represents the bare minimum with which the fortresses duties can be carried on.

ARMAMENT AND EQUIPMENT.

90. I am required by my instructions to report on the suitability and sufficiency of the armament and equipment of the Militia.

91. As regards armament, I desire to express my general concurrence in the remarks made thereon by General Sir John French in his report, but I would also draw attention to my two confidential reports, submitted in 1906 and 1908 upon the subject.

92. As regards equipment, the most pressing need is to decide in what manner the arms of the mounted men in the Cavalry are to be carried, and to issue saddlery adapted thereto. No further delay in this should be permitted.

93. The issue of a waist belt to all cavalry is very desirable. It would be necessary for field service, together with pouches to hold additional ammunition. and would add to the appearance of the uniform. Many of the leggings are still unsatisfactory in shape and quality. Field forges and saddlers' tools are much needed by all Cavalry regiments. The former are usually available for camp use, but too many regiments neglect to draw them. The present picketing gear is not satisfactory, and complaints of the pattern of head collar issued with 'Canadian' pattern saddlery were made in the west. As a rule the saddlery in use is badly cared for.

94. The complete supply of modern guns for all Field and Heavy Batteries of Artillery should be pushed on as rapidly as possible, and a full up-to-date telephone equipment should be provided without delay.

95. The harness and saddlery are generally satisfactory, though some complaints have been made of the leather used in certain portions of the harness, especially in some of the new 18-pr. breast harness. The old harness, which has now been in use with the Mark I. 12-pr. guns for several years, is getting worn out. If the force had to take the field, the 18-pr. guns would certainly require six horses to each gun team, and the heavy artillery would require at least eight. Sufficient reserve harness should be kept in store to meet this requirement and the needs of the ammunition columns.

96. The armament and equipment of the Fortress Artillery are fairly complete and up-to-date, but some reserve guns should be provided for the heavy armament of Halifax.

97. As regards Engineers, the most pressing need is that of technical equipment for telegraph and telephone work: The militia has at present no balloon equipment, and a watch should be kept on developments in aeronautics.

98. As regards personal equipment, the great need of the Infantry in the event of mobilization would be the means of earrying a proper supply of ammunition. The present Oliver equipment is in this respect quite inadequate for modern needs. It is a matter for serious consideration whether the new Web equipment, now in use by the Imperial service, and found satisfactory there, should not be adopted at an early date for the Dominion forces also. The whole question of camp equipment for the field, especially in regard to cooking utensils, requires eareful consideration.

99. The supply of signalling equipment is making progress, but is not yet nearly complete, while, as regards Medical and Army Service Corps equipment that which is in use is satisfactory, so far as it goes, though some of the Field Ambulance equipment is thought to be rather heavy, but the supply is inadequate for probable requirements on emergency, as is also such Veterinary equipment as exists.

Books.

100. I venture to draw attention to my remarks in last year's report under the heading of 'Books.' Some improvement has taken place, notably in certain units, but the general conditions remain the same in the Active Militia. The state of the books in the Permanent Force has much improved since the issue of the new King's Regulations and Orders.

101. Steady progress has been made with the codification of the regulations governing the various branches of the Militia Force. The issue of King's Regulations and Orders for the Militia, 1910, marks a great step in advance. There now exists a nearly complete series of Regulations, which cannot but conduce materially to the efficient administration of the Force. Since 1904 the following Regulations for the Militia have been issued:

King's Regulations and Orders for the Canadian Militia. 1910.

Pay and Allowance Regulations.

Equipment Regulations.

Clothing Regulations, Parts I, and II.

Regulations for Engineer Services.

Regulations for Supply, Transport and Barrack Services.

Regulations for Medical Services.

2 GEORGE V., A. 1912

Regulations for Ordnance Services. Regulations for Rifle Associations. Regulations for Cadet Corps. Dress Regulations.

In addition, a number of Training Manuals and Instructions have been drawn up, as well as Standing Orders upon various subjects. These have all conduced to efficiency and economy.

Military Training in Universities.

102. The course in military training, inaugurated at the University of McGil in 1908, was continued during the session of 1909-10, with increased attendance.

103. As stated in my report of last year, the intention of the Militia Council, in co-operating with Canadian Universities to establish these courses, is first, to develop a higher educational standard for future officers of the Permanent Force and Active Militia, by offering commissions in the former to qualified graduates of such universities; secondly, to encourage military studies among those who will probably be the leaders of the nation in the future, and, ultimately, to augment the number of persons qualified to become officers of the Militia Force in the event of emergency. The Army Council also offer a certain number of commissions in the Regular Army to successful candidates.

104. Instruction in the military subjects of the curriculum is given by officers from the Permanent Staff and from the Staff of the Royal Military College. This year, on the conclusion of the courses of lectures, a practical course in the application of the principal studies was carried out at the Royal School of Cavalry, St. Jean, Que., where the class was taught elementary equitation.

105. Three students presented themselves in May for the Military Examinations conducted by the War Office and all three passed.

General Remarks.

106. The general questions referred to in my concluding remarks of last year remain so much the same that I venture to repeat them nearly verbatim.

107. My report of last year stated that it would be a mere truism to say that the Militia Force was not at present really efficient or ready to take the field. No force with only twelve days' training in the year can be so.

108. When it is remembered that in Germany, with every inducement to shorten the term of service in the army as much as possible, and with every advantage in the way of highly trained and experienced officers and non-commissioned officers, the authorities think it impracticable to turn out a properly trained soldier of the Cavalry or Artillery in less than three years of incessant work, or a soldier of the Infantry and other arms in less than two years, it will be evident that, good as is the material in Canada, a training of twelve days only cannot be enough to make efficient soldiers of either officers or men. A few of the best corps do some extra exercises outside of the Annual Training, but only a few.

109. The extension of the term of training of the Artillery to sixteen days, though even this term is too short, has greatly improved that arm. To extend the training for all branches of the service to sixteen days would probably not add more than about $175,000 (if so much) to the present training vote. Sir John French was of opinion that such an extension was absolutely necessary for the Cavalry, at any rate. I hold that it is equally necessary for all arms.

110. It is further essential, if our partially trained troops are to take the field with any hope of success, that they should be fully provided with efficient officers and non-commissioned officers. So far, our system has largely failed to provide them.

111. A reference to the Militia List will show how few Active Militia Corps are even moderately well supplied with qualified officers. The case is even worse with non-commissioned officers, except in City Corps, which usually require some qualification before appointment.

112. The matter is so important that no apology is perhaps needed for quoting what was said last year: "The remedy can only lie in (1) making the position of the officer more attractive by relieving him of expense—his pay and allowances never cover his expenses, those at his first camp do not even pay customs duty on his uniform—and of all avoidable clerical labour and demands upon his time outside of annual drill; (2) in making the courses at the schools of instruction as attractive as possible, by studying the officer's convenience and imparting only such instruction as is essential, and that in as practical a shape as possible; (3) in bringing instruction to the individuals concerned, in those cases where a sufficient number of officers to be instructed can be assembled at any one time and place.' The second and third of these measures are equally applicable to the case of non-commissioned officers. To the foregoing a fourth suggestion may perhaps be added, viz., the organization of a small permanent staff.

113. It has for some time been apparent that very considerable demands are made upon the time of officers commanding by their official correspondence. While I am of opinion that in the future correspondence is likely to decrease rather than increase—the bulk of it is due to the laxness of former days when there were few or no regulations showing how work was to be done, or stores were to be kept and accounted for—yet there must always be a considerable amount of correspondence if proper supervision is to be maintained and the public pro-teeted from loss.

114. In my opinion, the time has come when a small permanent staff for Active Militia units might with advantage be organized, the members of which would take the bulk of the work of correspondence off the shoulders of Commanding Officers, would act also as instructors during the training season, and would do a variety of useful work for the corps at other times.

115. There has been a remarkable development in Cadet Corps and their membership during the past year, and a great part of their success has, no doubt, been due to the encouragement afforded them by the Strathcona Trust, which owes its existence to the munificence of Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal. These corps deserve every encouragement, and will amply repay the country for any expense incurred on their behalf.

116. The best hope for the future efficiency of the Militia Force, the army of the Dominion, lies, in my judgment, in the success of the cadet movement, an increased period of annual training and, above all, in the adoption of suitable measures for increasing the supply of qualified officers and non-commissioned officers.
