- June 3. The President of the Navy Board to MM. Duquesne and Bigot. Will examine on what the distinction made by the Religieuses de l'Hotel Dieu of Quebec of the funds of the poor from those of the communauté is based. Will ascertain whether, on their total revenue, without distinction, they can provide for the expense of a new sick ward. If they can, they must be compelled to do so, and if not, the King will supply one. It must be sufficient, for they ask permission to buy the land of M. Bégon, bordering on the river. That permission has been granted to them. Sends letters patent for this object. Folio 14, 2 pages.
- June 3. Letters patent stated below. Folio 14½, 1 page.
- June 8. The President of the Navy Board to MM. Duquesne and Bigot. On the grants to be given in the colony. The principal object must be agriculture. Sends the warrants of ratification asked for the Srs. Dumont, de St Ours, de Beaujeu, de Muy, Péan et Bédon. Reasons why those of the Srs. Estèbe, Boisseau, Levasseur and Joubert, for sites in Quebec, were not sent. That asked by M. de Longueuil above Montreal is not granted, on account of the inconveniences that would result from it. Will see if that of M. de Rigaud does not give rise to any abuses. Folio 15, 4 pages.
- June 1. Warrant of ratification of grant for the Sr. de Beaujeu. Folio 17, 1½ pages.
- June 1. Warrant, id, for the Sr. Dumont. Folio 18, 2 pages.

- June 8. The same to the same. Will do all in his power to help the Sr. Panet, who acts as Attorney and Notary at Quebec. Folio 24 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- June 8. The same to MM. Duquesne and Bigot. Their observations concerning the establishment of an office for letters have been approved. Is pleased to learn that the abuses in the islands, about which there are complaints, do not occur in Canada. Will examine as to the best means for the preservation of timber. Will grant their protection to the Sr. Martin in his timber trade and other trades he has in view. Men of his stamp must be encouraged. Folio 25, 1 $\frac{1}{4}$ pages.
- June 8. The same to M. Bigot. The place of Chief Road Commissioner is granted to M. Du Linot. The Sr. Levasseur's salary as inspector of timber. Has obtained a warrant as scrivener for the Sr. D'Hauterive. Has given the Sr. Bazagier the preference over the Sr. Bouron for another scrivener's warrant. In spite of the explanation he gives him on the Sr. Bréard's conduct, he is not sufficiently convinced to promote him, although he knows him to be industrious and intelligent. Notwithstanding his favourable testimonials about the Sr. Varin, he cannot have him appointed intendant commissary general, and if he intends to come to France to solicit this appointment, he had better spare himself the trouble and expense. Folio 26, 2 pages.
- June 1. Certificate of naturalization for the Sr. Claude Thomas, an Englishman. Folio 27, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.

- June 8. The same to the same. Observations on the posts of La Presentation and Detroit. Abuses occasioning an enormous increase of expenses in the posts. Folio 30, 2 pages.
- June 8. The same to M. Bigot. Is well satisfied with the order he has established in the accounts of the Treasurers and with the explanations necessary for his knowledge of the state of the finances of the colony, but sees with regret the excessive expenditure. Had reason to believe that his repeated observations would have brought results, but far from that the expenditure is increasing every year. Folio 31, 4 pages.
- June 8. The same to MM. Duquesne and Bigot. On the representations of the merchants of Canada, of which the Sr. Taché had charge. Observations on that subject. Folio 33, 2 pages.
- June 8. The same to the same. M. Franquet having passed the winter in Canada and not having sent him the plans he has made for the fortifications, he awaits his return from Ile Royale to take the King's orders in this matter. Is pleased to see that this engineer has visited Montreal and Fort St. Frédéric. Gives them communication of a letter from M. de Léry, who not only disapproves of the plans of M. Franquet for the fortifications of Quebec, without giving his reasons for it, but also says that if they are adopted he cannot take charge of their execution. Although this letter is very inopportune, he has answered it without drawing his attention to his other 1753. letters, having regard to his long services. Will examine what it will be expedient to do if he persists in his ill-humor. The Sr. de Lotbinière, who returns to Canada, can be very useful for those works. However, he will not be able to do anything to the fortifications if the funds of the Navy are not relieved by a considerable decrease in the expenditure. Folio 34, 1 page.

- June 8. The same to Madame de St. Joachim. The King will supply the deficit in the revenue of the Hôtel-Dieu for the construction of a new ward for the sick. Permission has been given to her to buy the land belonging to M. Bégon's estate, on condition that she sells the Seigniorship of Ile aux Oies. Will apply to MM. Duquesne and Bigot for the lots and sales of part of the land that formerly belonged to the Hôtel-Dieu and about the burial of soldiers who die in that hospital. Folio 35, 1 page.
- June 8. The same to M. de Léry. Will make known to MM. Duquesne and Bigot the King's intentions concerning the fortifications. Folio 35½, ¼ page.

- June 8. The same to M. le Baron de Longueuil. Could not obtain for his son the company he asked for him. Has granted him the reversion for the first one vacant. Folio 36, ½ page.
- June 8. The same to M. Rigaud de Vaudreuil. It is not expedient to grant to the Sr. De Chambault the brevet of colonel general of the militia which he asked for himself, this rank not being compatible with the general rules of the militia service. Folio 36½, ½ page.
- June 1. Decree of the State Council imposing a tax for the maintenance of the Quebec barracks. Folio 37, 1½ pages.
- June 15. The President of the Navy Board to MM. Duquesne and Bigot. Sends a copy of the decree imposing a tax for the maintenance of the Quebec barracks. This tax will serve as a preparation for a general taxation on the colony, either by a real land tax or by a poll tax. Considerations on this subject. Folio 37½, 2 pages.
- June 15. The same to the same. They have no right to claim payment of their gratuities on the profits of the beaver trade in proportion to the present price. Complaints of the Company on this point. Folio 38, 1 page.
- June 15. The same to M. Bigot. To restore the equilibrium in the Finances of the Navy the payment of drafts must be distributed over 2 or 3 years, &c. Folio 39, 1½ pages.
- The same to the same. It is because he trusted the righteousness of his motives that he has not made known to him the numerous complaints against him. However, he thinks it necessary to apprise him of them, so as to warn him against those who might abuse his trust. The only means to silence all complaints about the purchases of flour on the King's account, is that he has adopted in having these purchases made by public tender, but he must not confine himself to that, the same must be done for all supplies and even charterings. Folio 40, 2 pages.
- June 18. The same to the same. Recommends to him the Sr. Cantin to whom he has granted a passage to Canada. He belongs to a family attached to his estate of Joüy. They will enable him to exercise his trade of miller. Folio 40½, ¼ page.
- June 30. The same to M. Duquesne. Has given his approval to all the operations in general of which he has given him the details, but he would have desired that his expedition in the direction of the river Oyo had been less expen-

1753. sive. Whatever may be the success of that expedition he hopes it will not be necessary to erect the 3 forts he has planned at the portage of Chatacoïn, at the village of Chinengué and at Sinhioto. It would be paying very dear for the advantages of that success. Suspects those who have advised him to erect those forts of being interested. If the Iroquois have sold the territory of Belle Rivière, they have sold what did not belong to them. Folio 41, 2 pages.

The same to the same. Has not been surprised to learn that the Delles Desauniers had abused the permission granted them by the Baron de Longueuil to return to Sault St. Louis for 24 hours only. Has done well to expel them. Has received no demands for the return of Father Tournois to Canada. He had the gift of managing the Indians, and it is unfortunate that he did not make good use of it. It is to be regretted that the Superior of the Jesuits has not given Father Tournois a successor. Has done well to see to it. Will consult with the Superior. Folio 42, 1½ pages.

June 30. The same to the same. The King is willing to place the colony on a good footing of defence, but the expenditure must be decreased. Cannot increase the troops. Folio 43, 2 pages.

June 30. The same to the same. Is satisfied with the understanding between him and M. Bigot. The reports he had received about the latter had made no impression on him; he is nevertheless pleased at having his good opinion confirmed by his testimony. Folio 44, 1½ pages.

June 30. The same to the same. The behaviour of the Sr. D'Eyma, captain, towards M. de Rigaud, Governor of Three Rivers, deserved a trial with the full rigour of the ordinances. Has learnt that the Sr. d'Eyma, after his escape from prison, had taken refuge at New York. The King has disposed of his company. Has finally decided to give the post of La Baye to M. de Rigaud to compensate him for the expenses he has to incur in his government. May have a privilege for 2 years. Remarks concerning the management of posts and the means to prevent abuses. Folio 45, 2 pages.

June 30. The same to M. Bigot. The agreement made with M. Prévost for the payment of the troops while in movement, is very proper. The most necessary posts only must be maintained. Forges of St. Maurice. It would be desirable to find a company who could take charge of and work them. Folio 46, 2 pages.

June 30. The same to the same. Has given his approval to the measures taken to decrease the expenditure of the Domaine. It had been rightly thought that the Sr. Cugnet would leave enough to meet his liabilities. Will levy the 3^d duty imposed by the edict of 1748. Cannot take into account the remonstrances of the merchants on this subject. Is satisfied of the testimonials given to the Sr. Daine. Has approved his having appointed the Sr. Bénard, his son-in-law, as receiver, on the resignation of the Sr. de Lanouiller. Awaits the accounts of this receiver. Folio 47, 2 pages.

June 30. The same to the same. It has been decided, by a decree of the Council of State, that the loss of the Sr. Taché's ship, chartered to convey supplies to the posts on the frontiers of Acadia, and which has been diverted from its voyage by M. de la Jonquière, must be borne by the King. It is otherwise for that of the Sr. Larcher. Must be attentive to the choice of chartered vessels and of captains. Folio 48, 1½ pages.

June 30. The same to the same. Will indicate the state in which the supplies were sent from Rochefort. Provision has been made for those demanded for 1753. Remarks on the provisions, ammunition and goods which were in the stores in September last. He must have received through Bordeaux the printed papers required and 6,000 livres in marked sols. Chimney-sweeps will be sent next spring. Folio 49, 2 pages.

June 30. The same to the same. Since he thinks it is more convenient to continue to send from Quebec the supplies for the posts on the frontiers of Acadia,

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

1753. rather than to furnish them directly from Ile Royale, there can be no question of that change. Has reason to believe that the instructions sent to the Sr. Almain for the management of the stores will be better followed. The Abbé Le Loutre, who has spent several months in France, has made explanations on this subject. If the Sr. Almain does not give entire satisfaction in his management, he must be replaced. The Abbé Le Loutre has advocated the advantage of money payments for the expenses of those posts and the establishment of a currency. Has led the said Abbé to hope that next year he would send 50 or 60,000 francs. Hopes to curtail the expenses by ceasing to aid the people. Folio 50, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- June 30. The same to the same. Respecting the wheat and flour sent from France, as well as from Ile Royale. Remarks on the excessive expenses and the impossibility to provide for the payment of drafts. Folio 51, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- June 30. The same to the Bishop of Quebec. The grant of the seignior of La Présentation to the Seminary of St. Sulpice is out of the question. The King does not seem disposed to listen to his representations in order to improve his situation. Has informed M. de Mirepoix of the fact. Will send a memorandum of his pretensions against the Seminary. They could be settled out of courts. Is disposed to induce the King to help the Religieuses of Trois-Rivières. Folio 52.
- June 30. The same to M. Levasseur. On the fitting out of L'Algonkin and the dismantling of Le Tigre. M. Duquesne will regulate his duties of inspector of woods and forests. Something will be done for his son when he is old enough to enter the service. Folio 53, 1 page.
- June 30. The same to M. Rigaud. Was sorry to hear of the two fires at Trois-Rivières, and especially of the loss suffered by the nuns. Has approved his conduct towards the Sr. D'Eyma. Has given him the post of La Baye. Folio 53 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- June 30. The same to M. Martin. Could not approve his plan for creating general stores in the colony. M. Duquesne as been instructed to assist him in establishing other branches of trade. Folio 53 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- April 13. The same to MM. de Raymond and Révol. Will send a memorandum on the present state of the civil buildings. Will attend to repairs only. Folio 6, 1 page.

Folio 8, 1½ pages.

- July 11. The same to M. de Raymond. The majority of Louisbourg has been awarded to the Sr. Du Hayet. Has approved the creation of an assistant-majority at Ile St. Jean in favour of the Sr. de la Bregeonniere. Transmission of a warrant as retired captain for the Sr. de Thorigny. The vacancies in the other military offices have not been filled this year on account of his not having indicated the officers who were entitled to them. The King does not concede to a governor the right of filling vacancies. Folio 11, 2½ pages.
- July 13. The same to the same. Nothing has resulted from the remarks which he says have been circulated on his account. His disputes with MM. Prévost and Duquesne should cease. Folio 12½, ½ page.
- July 13. The same to M. de Raymond. Sends him the permission he solicits to return to France. M. D'Aillebout is to take command of the colony when he leaves. - July 13. The President of the Navy Board to MM. de Raymond and Prévost. The King has not judged proper to approve the increase of pay they have asked for the officers, but he has applied a sum of 6,000 livres to be distributed to those most in need. The inhabitants have been excused repayment for the assistance furnished them in 1749. M. Prévost will 1753. see to the refund of those given in 1750. By the means taken this year, we hope that the ships freighted to transport supplies will not be obliged to put into port. Folio 14, 2 pages.

- July 13. The same to the same. Respecting the dues exacted from the masters of vessels by the captain of the port of Louisbourg. Will give orders to the commanders of the King's vessels to provide the Sr. Dolabarats with the sailors and other equipments needed to cleanse the port. Sends a brevet of lieutenant of port to the Sr. Dolabarats, junior. Folio 15, 2 pages.
- July 13. The same to M. de Raymond. Cannot get the red ribbon for him. Is sorry. The ratification of the purchase of the property which belonged to M. de St. Ovide, will be sent to him with the increase he asks, but without seigniority or title of comte, the property being too small, besides the King has decided not to grant any seigniorial titles in the colony. Well disposed to do something for the Sr. Pichon, secretary. Will take proper measures if he is willing to settle in the colony. Folio 16, 2 pages.
- July 13. The same to M. D'Aillebout. Respecting divers matters to be examined whilst holding the command of Ile Royale. Will send a list of those subjects who are to share in the filling of vacancies. Folio 17, 1½ pages.
- July 18. The same to MM. Raymond and Prevost. Remarks on the statement of the cargoes of English vessels which have entered Louisbourg, Should have been more explicit. This toleration can only apply to those articles of which he has a pressing need. On the suggestions respecting taverns. Folio 18, 2 pages.
- July 17. The same to the same. Relief to the Acadians who have retired near Beauséjour. The Abbé Le Loutre warrants that an expenditure of 50,000 livres abboiteaux could be constructed that would provide fertile lands to a large number of these inhabitants; they will build their own houses. Will have an estimate made for these works by the Sr. Jacau de Tiedmont, and if they do not exceed 50,000 livres, the King will grant them in spite of the cramped state of his finances. Cannot establish a mint in these quarters, as proposed by the Abbé Le Loutre. Folio 19, 1½ pages.
- July 17. The same to M. de Raymond. Among the suggestions for the development of Ile Royale, some are very interesting, but the King cannot do more, on account of the state of his finances. Has approved the arrangement made for the instruction of the officers. Folio 20, 2 pages.
- July 17. The same to the same. Has no doubt expected that the English would not fail to mention in their newspapers the peace, they had concluded with the Indians of Acadia. Did not believe that that peace was general, and has advised the King, that such as it was, it was nothing else but the price of presents lavished on a few individuals, anyway it would not last long. Was not surprised to learn the events which followed; much less so at the excitement caused throughout the Micmacks by the massacre of 2 families of that nation by the English. At the most the English alone will be to blame for the consequences of this adventure. Will recommend the officers who are near those Indians and to the missionaries to avoid doing anything that would compromise them in that respect. The King desires that no just cause of complaint be given to the English. Is aware of the views of the English on the capture of Louisbourg, as expressed in the printed paper, an extract of which has been sent to him. The main point to keep in mind, is to put that place in a good state of defence. Has noticed the exaggeration in the English paper of the trading advantages of Ile Royale. He has never touched the point attributed to him by the writer of that paper. Folio 21, 1½ pages.
- July 11. The same to M. D'Arrignand. Is willing to give him passage to Ile Royale, with 2 servants. Folio 21½, ¼ page.

July 17. The same to MM. de Raymond and Prévost. Respecting the Sr. D'Arrignand, and his concession at the barachois of Plédieu. Folio 21 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- July 17. The same to M. Prévost. Has looked upon the peace concluded between the English and the Micmacs as the result of presents lavished on a few individuals. Was satisfied that it would not be adopted by the nation; it seems, however, that the English themselves struck the first blow. For all that, if the orders which the King of England says he has given, are carried out, everything will pass quietly between the 2 nations, pending the settlement of the boundaries. We work as much as possible for the consummation of that settlement. The questions relating thereto are sufficiently elucidated. It suffices to adopt them; but that matter is all the more difficult because the inquiry was not favourable to the pretensions of the English. However we must hope that an understanding will be reached. Folio 22, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- July 17. The same to the same. Do not blame him since he has judged proper to remove the Sr. Lartigue from his office of store-keeper but disapproves his having appointed in his stead the Sr. Morin whose reputation is doubtful. Will have to put some one else in his place. Hopes he will be able to give other employment to the Sr. Lartigue. Folio 24, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- July 17. The same to the same. Was sorry to see the decrease of trade for the year 1752 compared to that for 1751. As the reasons he gives are accidental, he hopes that the fishery will succeed better. Remarks on the imports and exports. Folio 25, 2 pages.
- July 17. The same to the same. Has approved the agreement entered into with the contractor for the supply of coal on account of the fires in the mines, and that he has made good to the officers and men the clothing they had lost in that fire. Believes with him, that if the establishment of a brick yard and lime-kilns in the Baie des Espagnols, is a success, it will be necessary to make new arrangements with the lessee for working and supplying on the spot the coal needed. Will confer with M. D'Aillebout about the vacancy in the Superior Council, if he cannot come to an understanding with M. de Raymond before his departure. Folio 26, 2 pages.
- July 17. The same to M. Seguin. Respecting his duties as comptroller. Folio 26 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- July 17. The same to M. Prevost. Remarks on his proposal to use the 260,000 livres due by Canada to Ile Royale, to purchase flour from New England for provisioning the stores of Louisbourg. May buy to the amount of 100,000 livres. Folio 27, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- July 17. The same to the same. Knew that the ship La Marie Anne bound for Ile Royale had been obliged to put in at San Domingo. Is satisfied with the various statements and balances sent by him. Is pleased also to see his care in provisioning the posts on the boundary of Acadia. Folio 28, 2 pages.
- July 17. The same to the same. Will examine with M. D'Aillebout what are the establishments deserving support, and whether others could be started as the population increases. Is convinced that his disputes with M. de Raymond have had the effect of paralysing the development of the colony. Folio 29, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- July 19. The same to the same. The Abbé Le Loutre has been reimbursed of the 2438 livres for wheat and flour bought by him for the garrison of Louisbourg. Will require M. Bigot to make due settlement of that expense. Will give his opinion on 2 bills presented by this missionary, one from Joseph Le Blanc dit LeMayre, an old inhabitant of Acadia, who claims payment for supplies furnished on the King's account, the other from Sr. Faribault for compensation when his schooner La Maria was freighted. Will arrange with M. Bigot for payment of the expenses incurred on the boundaries of Acadia. They are so large that there must be abuses. This 1753. intendant is not pleased with the Sr. Almain, who is instructed with that duty. Folio 30, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.

- August 6. The same to the same. Has learnt with pleasure the arrival at Louisbourg of the flute Le Rhinoceros, of the vessel Le Bizarre, and of the frigate La Thétis. Anxious to hear of the arrival of M. Franquet at Ile Royale to arrange concerning the fortifications. It would be a pity if M. Boucher was not fit to work on them. Everything tends to show the Indians of Acadia will not give the English much peace but we must not give them any cause to complain. Folio 31, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.

Will be well pleased if he could give him some special employment, if he has the chance, as he is strongly recommended by persons of high standing. Folio 1, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

Duquesne has caused to be seized. Will decide if it is proper to grant to the Sr. Taché the fishing privilege at Gros Mékatinat now held by the widow Pomereau. Folio 2, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- May 24. The same to the same. The Religieuses of the Hôtel-Dieu having been unable to purchase the property of M. Bégon, which sold for too high a price, asks leave to buy the property belonging to the heirs of the Sr. Sarrazin. Will decide if this permission ought to be given. Folio 2 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- May 20. The same to M. Duquesne. The lieutenancy of Trois-Rivières has been given to M. D'Aillebout, King's lieutenant at Ile Royale. Awaits the result of the expedition to Belle Rivière before providing substitutes for officers. The Cross of St. Louis has been conferred on the Srs. de Musy and de St. Vincent. That favour must not be too frequent. Folio 3, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.

- May 26. The same to MM. Duquesne and Bigot. Sends the patents of councillor for the Srs. Hiché and Joubert, and those of procureur du roi of the Jurisdiction and of Admiralty for the Sr. Perthuis. Folio 4, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

May 30. The same to MM. Duquesne and Bigot. Has already informed them of the complaints that have reached the King concerning the increasing number of Protestants who have settled in Canada these last few years. Their conduct becoming more dangerous, it is proper to take measures regarding them. Will ascertain their number, their names, their professions, the state of their families, the length of their residence, and their conduct, Will send out of the country all those who are of foreign origin, and confer with the Bishop as to what is to be done with those who are French. Folio 5, 1 page.
- May 30. The same to the same. The lands of Sault St. Louis have been conceded subject to the condition that they would revert to the King when vacated by the Iroquois. The Jesuits are wrong in their contention that they own the property and have the power to dispose of it. Folio 5, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- May 30. The same to the same. New explanations concerned the imposition of the poll-tax. Folio 6, 2 pages.
- May 30. The same to the same. Precautions to be taken to avoid famine in the colony. The exports should be regulated by the amount of the crop. It is well also to buy provisions in the year of abundance, in case of a famine. Folio 7, 2 pages.
- May 3. The same to the same. Remarks on the several concessions made in Canada. Folio 8, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- May 30. The same to the same. There cannot be any question of confirming to Delle Reygaillard the three fiefs she claims in the Baie des Chaleurs on the plea that they were granted to her parents, considering that they were granted over 50 years ago and that nothing has been done to improve them. Will ask the Religieuses of the Hôtel Dieu of Quebec to explain how they distinguish the property which they hold for the poor from that of their community. Folio 9, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- May 30. The same to the same. On representations from merchants of Quebec. It is not convenient to exclude the trade of pedlars. They are useful to the farmers on account of their being far from established trading posts. Captains of militia should not be excused from the barrack tax more than others. Folio 10, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- May 31. The same to Mr. Bigot. Should be very pleased if he will do something for the Sr. Saillant who came to Canada some years ago and acted as notary. Folio 10 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- May 31. The same to Messrs. Duquesne and Bigot. Is sending 5 warrants in confirmation of grants to Srs. de Contrecoeur, Quindre, Perthuis, d'Ailleboud de Céry et Marsal. Folio 11, $1\frac{1}{2}$ page.

Id. to the Sr. Philippe d'Ailleboud de Céry, captain of the harbour of Quebec, for a fishing privilege at a place called St. Augustin, on Labrador Coast. Id. for a fishing privilege to the Sr. Antoine Marsal, merchant of Quebec, at Cape Charles, Labrador Coast. Id. for a grant of a seigniorship to Sr. Joseph Perthuis, in rear of that of Port-neuf. Folio 12, 7 pages.
- May 31. The President of the Navy Board to MM. Duquesne and Bigot. Is sending the King's estimates. Remarks as to expenses and means to reduce them. Folio 16, 2 pages.
- May 31. The same to the same. Two missionaries have been given to Abbé Piquet for the post of La Présentation. No other expenses should be asked for. Remarks on the Detroit post and on the cancellation of certificates and even posts which are not absolutely necessary. Folio 17, 2 pages.
- May 31. The same to Mr. Duquesne. The King gives him permission to accept or refuse the cartel which was proposed to him by the Sr. Hopson, governor of Acadia, for the mutual exchange of deserters. It is certain that they 1754. are more numerous on the English side, and that it desorganizes thier army, nevertheless, he shall do as he thinks proper. Folio 18, 1½ page.

- May 31. The same to the same. Regarding training of troops. Prays him to send a list of officers with explanatory note. Militia must be treated with deference on account of their expeditions on the frontier of Acadia and on la Belle-Rivière, which are very burdensome to them. Folio 19, 2 pages.
- May 31. The same to the same. Representations regarding posts and certificates suppressed. Presents to Indians by certificates were a cause of abuses. Shall send a statement showing the posts which remained after the last war, those established during war and those actually existing. Shall receive a proposition regarding free trade at all the posts. Expenses must be cut down to the same amount as they were some years ago, otherwise we shall be forced to give up the Colony. Folio 20, 3 pages.
- May 31. The same to the same. Wishes to confer on him every gift possible but cannot grant him the post of Temiscamingue on account of the great consequences which may result and the prospect of making trade free at all the posts. Folio 21½, 1 page.
- May 31. The same to the same. Learned with pleasure of the care taken by M. de La Villéon in the laying up of Le Tigre and equipping L'Algonkin. Is waiting his report on the success of the trial he made to winter his ships at Rivière Chaudière. If, as he says, the transportation of the troops from Ile Royale to Canada and inversely, do not give results proportionate to expenses, it will be necessary to stop it. M. de Drucour has been appointed governor of Ile Royale. Time has not come for the nomination of Sr. Aubert, as captain of the gates of Quebec. Fol. 22, 2 pages.
- May 31. The same to the same. About the claims of the Sr. Fauchier concerning the Baie de Phelypeaux. If the Srs. Pascaud do not work their concession upon the Ile de la Magdeleine, it shall be cancelled and may be transferred to the Sr. Armour, whom he recommends. Fol. 23, 2 pages.
- May 31. The same to the same. Is sorry to learn that Captain Marin has been obliged to postpone his expedition to river Oyo on account of the water level being too low in Rivière aux Bœufs. Should have known that before going too far. The advance of this detachment has made great noise in the English colonies, especially in Virginia. If we can rely upon the news, the governor of that province has asked for assistance from surrounding colonies to march upon Belle Rivière. It is anything but probable, however, that he will obtain the consent of the English Government. If he should obtain it, it would be sufficient to oppose force to force. Folio 24, 3 pages.
- May 31. The same to the same. About what he mentioned regarding his return next year, M. de Vaudreuil will start next spring to take his place. Folio 25, ½ page.
- June 1. The same to M. Bigot. Observations regarding expenses and the necessity to curtail them. Is very pleased with his punctuality. Could not say so much on the matter of expense since his administration. Impressions against him here are most unfavorable. All resources are exhausted and this state of affairs is due to excess of expenses in Canada during 4 or 5 years. Warns him that if we have to choose between the trade of Canada and other things, it has been decided to let the trade fail at all risks. Fol. 26, 3 pages.
- June 1. The same to the same. It is said that the excess of expenditure is due to everything being under the control of a party. "The Sr. Beard is "quoted for all charterings for the king, the Sr. Péan for the supplies of flour "and vegetables, the Sr. Claverie for all other supplies for the store at "Quebec, and one Calot for those at the slaughter house. The same disorder "is said to exist even in Montreal where the Sr. Martel, store-keeper, furnishes supplies of all kinds with his assistant one ——. Furthermore 1754. "that they have taken possession of all the trade at Detroit, and it is even "stated that M. Varin is implicated in those dealings. These are not secret "reports but from rumors widely spread coupled with circumstances "calculated to make a deep impression." This cannot be ignored and must be verified. Folio 27, 1 page.

- June 1. The same to the same. Is satisfied that the dismantling of Le Tigre has been postponed in order to use her to test the basin of Sault de la Chaudière as a wintering place for vessels of heavy tonnage. Is satisfied that he has obliged the Sr. Taché to pay the value of his ship lost at Louisbourg in 1751. Regarding Sr. Langlais, mast maker, and Georges Trévoux, armorer sergeant: Is sending 2 public scrivener's commissions to the Srs. Brown and Sermet. Folio 28, 2 pages.
- June 1. The same to Mr. Duquesne. His complaints against the Sr. de Macarthy, who is in command of the Illinois, do not agree with testimonials received from Louisiana. The diary of the Sr. de St. Pierre on the occasion of his voyage to the posts of the Western sea, is not calculated to do away with the idea that those making such voyages are more intent on trade than the discovery of the sea. Nevertheless, he has confidence in that officer and he did well to intrust him with the expedition to the river Oyo, in the absence of M. Marin, who was sick. Has been very pleased to learn that the Hurons at Detroit returned to their village, and that with the Saulteux and Ontaouais, they have sent detachments against the Chicachas and Têtes Plates. It is believed that everything will stay quiet at Acadia on account of the orders which were given by the English Government to its officers.
The establishment of a post at Gaspereaux, for the landing of goods for Fort Beauséjour, was very convenient. Folio 29, 2 pages.
- June 5. The same to M. Bigot. Shall concert with M. Duquesne on his proposal to release forts Niagara, Frontenac and Rouillé to dealers for the trade.
Folio 30, 2 pages.
- June 5. The same to the same. Awaits his return to promote the Sr.
Bréard to the position of store-keeper at Quebec and the retirement of the Sr.
Estébe, who is obliged to give up his position on account of bad health.
The concession granted to the Sr. Fortier, would be detrimental to the establishment of the Baie Phélypeaux, so it is out of the question. When the Sr. Foucault is in the Council long enough, something may be done for him. Grant of 7,000 livres to the Ursulines. Folio 31, 2 pages.
- June 5. The same to the same. Did well to grant to the Abbé Piquet the passage for 3 Indians that he wanted to take with him to France, since Mr. Duquesne had given him permission to do so. Has granted an extra gratuity of 3,000 livres to the Abbé Piquet as a proof of his satisfaction with his zeal.
Is sending the 3 Canadians who were on board L'Algonkin to Ile Royale.
Folio 32, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- June 5. The same to M. Duquesne. Is sending medals for the Indians. Folio 32 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- June 5. The same to M. Varin. Regarding his duties as acting Intendant during the absence of Mr. Bigot. Folio 33, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- June 5. The same to the Bishop of Quebec. Assistance given to the Ursulines of Trois-Rivières. The King is well disposed towards him. Can but congratulate him on account of his moderation on the subject of the parish of Quebec as well as his claims against the Seminary. Folio 34, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- June 5. The same to MM. Duquesne and Bigot. It is proposed to establish free trade at the posts. Thinks that the post of Temiscamingue should be annexed to that of Tadousac to be farmed out as being in the King's domain. Folio 34, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- June 6. The same to M. Chaussegros de Léry. On the same subject. Folio 35 $\frac{1}{2}$,

- Versailles.
August 19. The same to M. Duquesne. The King has been sorry to learn the adventure which befel M. de Jumonville. This matter may not end as he expects. The views expressed by the King of England would not lead anyone to suppose that he has authorized the movements of the English troops on Belle-Rivière or elsewhere. SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

1754.
July 1. The same to M. de Drucourt. Has seen with pleasure that the crops look promising at Ile St. Jean. Without admitting the prejudice entertained against farming at Ile Royale, or adopting the optimistic ideas of M. de Raymond, he believes that good results might be obtained from agriculture. Respecting the officers Bagard de la Noue and du Séché who were imprisoned by order of M. D'Aillebout. He is afraid that the latter is not right in his mind. Respecting the conduct of the Sr. Meyracq, lieutenant of admiralty. Folio 24, 2 pages.
- July 1. The same to the same. Will give his opinion on the usefulness of the school of mathematics for young officers and cadets established by M. de Raymond. Respecting a vote for aid to officers, proposed by M. de Raymond. Folio 25, 1½ pages.
- July 1. The same to MM. de Drucourt and Prévost. Nothing could be more irregular and dangerous than the marriage of the Sr. de Bogard de la Noue. M. D'Aillebout has done well to have him arrested and the King will approve his being sent back to France. The daughter and family of Paul Grivois may be sent to Canada. It is important that the missionary who celebrated that marriage should be sent back to France, and it is advisable that the courts should pronounce null a marriage contrary to every rule. The misunderstanding between MM. de Raymond and Prevost has delayed the filling of vacancies in the Superior Council. Folio 26, 1½ pages.
- July 1. The same to the same. Concerning the great economy that can be realized by using coal instead of wood in the barracks. Folio 27, 2 pages.
- July 1. The same to the same. Complaint is made that the English are trading on a large scale at Ile Royale and that they accept but little merchandise in return, thus carrying off a large portion of the money of the colony. Must not forget that by the Letters Patent of 1727, foreigners are allowed to bring into the colony only that which France and her colonies cannot supply. Coasting at the Windward Islands may be very profitable for the colony, but it must not serve as a pretext for foreign trade. Folio 28, 3 pages.
- July 1. The same to M. Prévost. Has been pleased to learn that fishing has been more abundant than in previous years. He sees by the trade reports that the transactions with Canada have been null on the part of that colony. The trade with the southern islands seems to increase every year. It is to be hoped that, with good crops, the trade of Canada will resume its normal course. Folio 29, 2 pages.
- July 1. The same to M. Prévost. Has obtained for the Sr. Barbudeau, surgeon of the troops, the commission he asked for him. It is impossible to grant promotion to his brother at present. Concerning the Srs. Martissans, Préville, le Roy and Séguin. Complaints made against him. Folio 30, 2 pages.
- July 1. The same to the same. Is far from approving the behaviour of the Sr. Lartigue, former store-keeper towards him. There can be no further work for him, but it would be expedient that the Sr. Marin, whom he had appointed to succeed the Sr. Lartigue, be sent elsewhere. Awaits M. Bigot to consult with him about the abuses committed in connection with the stores on the frontiers of Acadia. Folio 31, 2 pages.
- July 1. The same to the same. Concerning the cultivated lands, at Ile St. Jean and Ile Royale, of the Sr. Bertin, surgeon-major, dangerously sick. Folio 32, 1½ pages.
- July 1. The same to the same. Has examined the various statements and accounts concerning the King's finances and stores. Folio 33, 1½ pages.
- Compiègne.
July 12. The same to M. Séguin. It is impossible to grant him the appointment of Commissioner, or leave to come to France this year. Folio 33½, ½ page.

- June 30. The same to the same. Learns with regret the obstacle opposed to the success of his request for the Abbé Le Loutre's brother, because, independently of the services rendered by that Abbé on the frontiers of Acadia, his disinterestedness in what concerns him personally is such as is seldom seen. ORDERS OF THE KING AND DESPATCHES.

March 2. The President of the Navy Board to MM. Duquesne and Bigot. Will give their protection to the Srs. Daragarry, merchants and ship-owners of St. Jean de Luz, who have obtained the whaling privilege in river St. Lawrence. Folio 17, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- March 22. The same to the same. Sends them the memorandum from the woman Braquesnard, midwife at Quebec, in which she states that she and her companion cannot attend to all the accouchements in the colony. - March 22. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Sends him his appointment as Lieutenant-governor General of New France with the the King's instructions. Folio 1, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

Will not grant leave to the soldiers to settle in the colony, except to those whose disability shall be well proved. Respective duties and prerogatives. Agriculture, commerce, ship building, St. Maurice forges. Folio 2, 6 pages. Say 9 pp.
- March 22. Memorandum from the King to serve as instructions to the Sr. de Vaudreuil. Importance of agriculture for the development of the colony. It was decided, during M. de Beauharnois' government, to make all the cures permanent. Desires to know what has been done in that respect, and will consult with the Bishop. Collection of the tithes. Communautés religieuses. Militia. Fortifications. Posts. Government of the Indians. Rather than leave the Indian nations to exterminate each other, it is proper, just and humane, to assume the part of protector and pacifier. Efforts have been made, in the interest of commerce, to bring the Indians to settle near the French posts. Except for special reasons other than the above, the Indians must be left at liberty to settle where they wish, to roam and wander at will in the lands of the colony. For some years those Indians have made it a game to receive English necklaces and flags and to take them afterwards to the French and exchange them for presents. All this is very costly, and moreover improper. It is not proper to be the dupes of such manœuvres. Will strive to help the missionaries in the exercise of their duty, but he will see that they do not abuse their ministry to injure the French, or the influence they may acquire over the minds of the Indians to make themselves masters of the position. Folio 3, 9 pages. Say 15 pp.

July 15. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Wishes to be informed on the acts of the protestants settled in Canada. On one hand the Bishop 1755. pretends that the behaviour of some of them is suspicious and dangerous, and on the other, MM. Duquesne and Bigot maintain that no complaints have been made against them, that they have always been obedient to laws and the police, that they have no meetings, that they have 14 houses which carry on three parts of the trade of the country and that, if they were driven out, the colony would greatly suffer by it, the Canadian merchants not being numerous enough, nor sufficiently rich, to meet all requirements. Wishes them to consult with the Bishops to verify his suspicions. Will make a list of the protestants of foreign nationality, if he finds any. Folio 15, 1½ pages.

- July 15. The same to the same. On the building of ships. Is grieved that the results obtained do not permit him to continue the building of big ships at Quebec, at least for the present. The timber used in the construction of Le Caribou and Le St. Laurent has been found to be of poor quality. The opinion entertained about L'Algonkin, at Brest, is not very high. In any case, no others will be built before a trial is made of the 2 frigates already ordered. Will continue to seek for timber of all kinds particularly that suited for masts. Will encourage the construction of merchant ships by private persons, as was done before the war. Folio 16, 2 pages.
- July 15. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. May extend to 2 years more the privilege of the post of the Baie enjoyed by M. de Rigaud, but there can be no question of a renewal after that date. Folio 17, ½ page.
- July 15. The same to M. de Rigaud. Same subject. Folio 17, ½ page.
- July 15. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Was prepared to grant the post of Gros Mékatina to the Sr. Taché, merchant at Quebec, but as M. Hocquart has asked to exchange his post of St. Modet for that of Gros Mékatina, the Sr. Taché may have that of St. Modet, if he should desire it. Folio 17½, ½ page.
- July 15. The same to the Bishop of Quebec. The King has thought it proper for him to consult with MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot concerning the protestants settled in the country to prove if the suspicions he entertains about their behaviour are founded, and those against whom they were true would, in that case, be sent to France, the proper caution being observed not to cause too great an injury to their trade. Folio 18, 1 page.
- July 15. The same to M. Bigot. Sends the Commissions as scribes granted to the Srs. Mélis, Tourton and Fayolles. Cautions him against a too great number of these commissions. Folio 18, ½ page.
- Versailles, September 5. The same to the same. Has heard of the capture of L'Alcide and of Le Lys long before having news of the arrival of the rest of the squadron in Canada. The English have taken care to publish also the success of their attacks on the frontiers of Acadia and their preparations against our posts on the lakes and at Belle Rivière. But no war has been declared as yet. The English squadrons have been content with searching our merchantmen without retaining them. Whatever be the consequences of their hostilities in America, the King has approved the measures taken by M. de Vaudreuil for the defence of the colony. All abuses in the expenditure must be repressed. Has approved his decision to send to Louisbourg the victuals he intended for the posts on the frontiers of Acadia. Is impatiently expecting M. Dubois de Lamotte's ships. Folio 19, 1½ pages.
- September 5. The same to M. le Baron de Dieskau. Heard that he had gone to Montreal and was preparing for his advance. Knows of the conflict at Belle Rivière only by reports which came from England. Has no doubt but that the success achieved by our troops will inspire them with courage and emulation, and that he will know how to profit by it. Folio 20, ½ page.
- September. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Has received no other letters from him than those of July 2 and 10. Presumes that there were several in the 1755. package which the captain of the ship Pierre Alexandre declared he threw into the sea on his meeting with an English frigate that searched his ship on August 17, abreast of L'Isle-Dieu. Had already learned through English sources of the capture by the English of the posts of Beauséjour and Gasperaux, the advance of the English against the fort of river St. Jean, and those of St. Frédéric, Niagara and Belle Rivière. Has done well in deciding to send M. Dieskau to St. Frédéric to preserve this post or recover it. It is with sorrow that the King sees himself obliged, by these hostilities, to take measures opposed to his love of peace. The English do not conceal their intention of seizing all ships carrying provisions or ammunition. The news from England, concerning General Braddock's defeat, increases the King's confidence. According to private information and to what the English themselves have published, the forts of Beauséjour and Gasperaux have been very badly defended. An inquest will have to be made into the conduct of the officers who were commanding there, Folio 20, 2 pages.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

February 17. The same to M. Duquesne (in cipher). The operations of last year, in the direction of Belle Rivière, have made much noise in Europe, and the Sr. Villier's expedition has given rise to particular ferment in England, so that the British Court has decided to send 2 regiments of regular troops, to Virginia with officers and arms to levy 2 others. This reinforcement sailed on the 13th of last month from the ports of Ireland. The Court of England has however given the most positive assurances that they desire the maintenance of peace, and that in sending troops to Virginia their only object is to quiet the fears of that colony and its neighbours on account of attempts with which they think they are threatened. The King is, in fact, persuaded that His Britannic Majesty has no intention of effecting a rupture, and he does not lose all hope that those operations may lead to some conciliation; but he is prepared, at the same time, to take all possible measures not to be taken unawares. For that object it has been decided to send to Canada a troop of 3,000 men, commanded by a major-general who will be under the Governor General's orders. These troops will be convoyed by a squadron. Hopes he will sail from Brest about the beginning of April. Has equipped La Diane et La Fidèle to precede him. This letter will be carried by La Diane, commanded by M. Froger de l'Equille, who will immediately set sail from Rochefort. La Fidèle, commanded by M. de la Jonquière, lieutenant, and on which M. Bigot is to return to the colony, will set sail from the 15th to the 20th of next month. M. de Vaudreuil will sail later on with the commander of the squadron. The troops which the English have sent to Virginia will reach port in time to operate before the arrival of our troops at Quebec. It must be expected that those troops will start operations, for such are the pretensions of the English that they will serve as a pretext to consider their attacks as defensive measures. Believes, however, that they will be confined to Belle Rivière. Must not be the aggressor. Divers observations on the measures to be adopted. Folio 21, 5 pages. Say 8 pp.

February 17. The same to M. Varin. Pending M. Bigot's arrival in Quebec, he will make active arrangements for the arrival of the coming troops. Folio 23, 3 pages.

March 17. The same to M. Duquesne. Since his last letter, the King has decided to send direct to Louisbourg, two of the six battalions, which were intended for Canada. This change is to be known to no one in Brest when the fleet leaves: it will be only when sealed orders are opened at the Grand Bank, that M. Dubois de Lamothe will pick out the vessels Le Défenseur, Le Dauphin Royal, L'Espérance and L'Aquilon, to carry the two battalions and their provisions to Louisbourg under the escort of a cruiser and a frigate. Folio 25, 1 page.

March 25.

The same to M. Bigot. M. de la Jonquière has orders to stop at Louisbourg. Has two reasons, first to leave his goods; the second, to permit him (M. Bigot) who knows the colony well, to have time to come to some understanding with M. Prévost on pressing matters. Reckons that two or three days in Louisbourg will suffice for that. Folio 25½, 1½ pages.

The same to M. de Dieskau. Is sending him the King's instructions as to how he shall conduct the campaign with which he is charged. Folio 27, 1 page.

March 25.

Orders of the King to the Baron de Dieskau. His military operations, just now, must only have for object, the defence of the rights and possessions of His Majesty against usurpers. Will be under the orders of the Governor in the exercise of his duties, who will of his own will decide all details, without any council of war and without previous communications. Folio 28, 3½ pages.

April 1.

The same to M. Duquesne. Is sending him the permission he asked to return to France in order to resume his service in the navy. The King grants him liberty to sail with M. Dubois de Lamothe after the landing of the troops, but he hopes he will not abuse this liberty so that he may have time to give M. de Vaudreuil all necessary explanations. It is for this reason that M. Hocquart, who is in command of L'Alcide has orders to wait for him. Folio 30, 1 page.

April 1.

The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Is sending him two special orders from the King, one as to the service of the troops on land, and the other concerning the disturbances in the colony for some time past and as to the pretexts of the English who have caused them. The small success, so far, of the negotiations begun with the English, on their most excessive and unjust pretensions, and the great preparations they are always making, no longer permit the thought that their aims are so peaceful as the British Court had, at first, pretended. If their intention is not to come to an open rupture, it is at least to be expected they will neglect nothing in order to maintain their proposed usurpations in Canada. The King explains his intentions. Folio 31, 2 pages.

April 1.

Instructions to M. de Vaudreuil concerning the land forces. The Baron Dieskau will have under him the Chev. de Rostaing, employed as a colonel of infantry and the Chev. de Montreuil as assistant major general. The King's intentions are to leave to M. de Dieskau, all the details of the command, discipline, police and good of the interior service of the army, giving him a statement of everything that he will do. Various observations. Folio 32, 8 pages.

March 25.

Ordinance concerning the duties and the discipline of the troops sent to Canada. Folio 36, 4½ pages.

March 25.

Order of the King providing that the soldiers sent to Canada will receive a certain sum on account of their not being able to profit by the two full discharges granted, by the King every year, throughout the infantry. Folio 39, 1 page.

April 1.

Special instructions for M. de Vaudreuil on the line of conduct he will hold towards the English. History of the boundary question between the two countries. Claims of the English and discussion of the facts. Folio 40, 12 pages.

April 1.

The President of the Navy Board to M. Bigot. In relation to the instructions which have been forwarded to him concerning the payment of the land forces and the accounting for the expenses in connection therewith. Distinction to be made in these expenses. Concerning the drawing of bills of exchange. Sum of money which is intended for Canada to prevent the high prices of everything. Statement of facts concerning the situation of the colony and its wants, to be sent. Folio 46, 3 pages.

5-6 EDWARD VII., A. 1906

June 22. The same to M. de Drucourt. The situation is almost the same as when the fleet sailed. Is waiting for news with impatience. Folio 6 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- June 22. The same to M. Franquet. Is sending 120,000 livres to Louisbourg, instead of 60,000 asked for, on account of the works to be done. The two engineers of whom he had informed him are sailing for Ile Royale on L'Outarde. Folio 6 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- Compiègne.
July 15. The same to MM. de Drucourt and Prévost. The King has granted another sum of 6,000 livres to be distributed to those officers who are most needy. This favour will be abolished next year. Folio 7, 1 page.
- July 15. The same to M. de Drucourt. The King has not deemed it proper to increase his salary which is higher than that of his predecessors before M. de Raymond and higher also than those of the different governors of the other colonies. Will make further representations in his favour next year, taking as a basis the increase of the garrison. Folio 7, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- July 21. The same to the same. Has learned by way of England and La Henriette, on which vessel M. Loppinot has mailed a letter for him, of the taking of L'Alcide and Le Lys. Hopes that the remainder of the fleet has been able to reach Quebec and Louisbourg. Does not know whether the English have carried hostilities so far as to stop French vessels. Folio 7 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- July 29. The same to MM. de Drucourt and Prévost. The King has learned with much pleasure of the arrival at Louisbourg of that portion of the fleet of M. Périer de Salvert, intended for that place. On receipt of the news of the capture of L'Alcide and of Le Lys by Admiral Boscawen, the King immediately recalled his Ambassador in London and his Minister at Hanover, to return at once without their taking leave. Preparations to put Louisbourg in a good state of defence. Folio 8, 2 pages.
- The same to M. Franquet. Has received his letters by L'Espérance. He leaves it to himself and M. de Drucourt what work shall be done this year. Folio 9, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- July 29. The same to M. Périer. Is writing him at Louisbourg although he thinks that he has already left for home. Has learned with pleasure the arrival of all his squadron in that port. Folio 9, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- August 7. The same to MM. de Drucourt and Prévost. To warn the Sr. Dolabarats, captain of the Port of Louisburg, that he must no longer delay the payment of his debts to Sr. Sonolet, merchant of Rochefort. Folio 9 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- September 5. The same to M. de Drucourt. Admits that the situation is embarrassing, on account of the unexpected movements of the English. Hopes that the English will not be more successful in their operations in the lake district than on the Oyo, if they have attempted anything in that direction. All the same it is vexatious that the English have captured the posts on the boundaries of Acadia. It is stated that they found it easier than had been expected. Is ignorant of all the details, and has received no reports from Sr. de Vergor. The Sr. Drouilly, of whom he had informed him, did not present himself. SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

September 5. The same to MM. de Drucourt and Prévost. Is sending the frigate La Valeur, commanded by the Sr. Macarty, to Louisbourg. There is no declaration of war, and the English are not seizing our merchantmen any longer, but it necessary to watch them closely. Trusts M. de Drucourt to judge if he keep the frigate or not. Is expecting M. de Salvert with great impatience and is surprised that he has not yet returned from Louisbourg. There is a rumor in England, since the taking of Beauséjour, that the English have also taken the fort on the river St. John and that on Pointe à la Chevelure. The defeat of General Braddock is generally admitted in England. Louisbourg requires the greatest attention. Folio 13, 2 pages.
- Fontaine-bleau.
October 1. The same to the same. The frigate La Comète commanded by M. de Ruis, has arrived at Brest. It is true that M. de Salvert's prolonged stay at Louisbourg has greatly assisted the putting this place in a state of defence, but it prevented his leaving any large amount of provisions. The arrival of L'Outarde at Louisbourg gave him much satisfaction. Has given orders to despatch from Brest La Mutine and La Fauvette with supplies. Folio 14, 1 page.
- The same to M. Prévost. Has received by La Comité his letter of the 31st August. Folio 14½, ¼ page.
- The same to MM. Drucourt and Prévost. Sends Le Rhinocéros freighted with flour and pork. Folio 14½, 1 page.
- The same to M. Drucourt. Was pleased to learn the arrival of L'Outarde at Louisbourg. Was not without anxiety, because she had on board two engineers and a great sum of money. According to news from England, Admirals Boscawen and Mostyn were at Halifax with 17 vessels, at the beginning of August. This left on the coast of Ile Royale, only Admiral Holburn with 5 or 6 ships, and Admiral Boscawen was preparing to return to Europe. M. Dubois de Lamotte has returned with all his fleet. Matters are almost stationary except that the English have captured several merchantmen on the coast of France. Folio 14 bis, 1½ pages.
- October 1. The same to M. Franquet. Is waiting for the details of the work on the fortifications. The arrival of Srs. de Pontleroy and Paisley, engineers, should facilitate his work. Folio 14 bis, ½ page.
- Arnauldville.

- Versailles.
October 29. The same to M. de St. Juhien. Concerning two battalions stationed at Louisbourg. Instructions in that regard. Folio 15, 4 pages.
- October 29. The same to MM. de Drucourt and Prévost. Concerning the representations made by M. de St. Juhien. Importance of preserving good relations between the troops of the two battalions and those of the colony. Folio 16½, ½ page.
- October 29. The same to the same. Will despatch four ships, laden with provisions, from St. Malo, at intervals of 20 to 30 days. If all these vessels arrive safely, there will be plenty in the colony. It is the Sr. De Lalande de Magon who is sending them on the King's account. Folio 17, 1 page.
- October 29. The same to M. Prévost. Concerning the review of the two battalions. Folio 17½, 1 page.
- November —. The same to MM. de Drucourt and Prévost. Was surprised at not receiving any letters by L'Aguillon which arrived at La Rochelle on the 10th of that month. It is true that M. de Bourville, in command of L'Espérance, was then on the point of leaving Louisbourg, but they must not neglect to give copies in triplicate of their letters to all the ships sailing. It is the way he does himself when any ship sails. The English capture every French ship they meet and they seem to place no limit on their ambition. Fears that the three vessels sent from Bordeaux have been captured. Folio 18, 1½ pages.

1755. The same to the same. L'Espérance was captured and sent to England December —. As they neglected sending their letters by the vessel preceding L'Espérance, he is without news of the colony. Folio 18½, ½ page.
- January 9. The same to the same. Concerning a plot to smuggle goods. Folio 19, 1½ pages.
- February 15. The same to M. de Drucourt. General instructions. Folio 20, 2 pages.
- February 15. The same to M. Franquet. The packets from Ile Royale have not yet reached him. Fears they have met with an accident. Folio 20½, 1 page.
- February 15. The same to M. Prévost. Will, obtain provisions from the English colonies, under the circumstances, if he can do so advantageously. Folio
- March 17. The same to M. de Drucourt. The King has decided to send two bat-tallions to Ile Royale. Various instructions. Folio 22, 1½ pages.
- March 17. The same to M. Prévost. Same subject. La Diane is bringing 30,000 livres in specie. Gives orders to ship 40,000 livres on La Fidèle. The ships on which the troops will sail will carry their pay for 19 months. Other funds. Folio 22½, 1 page.
- March 17. The same to M. Franquet. Concerning the works of defence. Folio 23, 1 page.
- April 10. The same to M. de Drucourt. Forwards the King's orders, with regard to his administration of the two battalions which are coming to Ile Royale. Does not know yet the name of the officer who will command them. That officer will be under his orders. Folio 24, 1½ pages.
- April 10. Memorandum of the King to serve as orders to Chev. de Drucourt in relation to the land force which the King is sending to l'Ile Royale. Folio 25, 4 pages.
- April 10. Order of the King for MM. de Vaudreuil and Dieskau, Drucourt and the commanding officer of the two battalions sent to Ile Royale, to carry out the ordinance of the 25th of March last concerning the service of the land and naval forces in Canada and at Ile Royale. Folio 26 bis, 1 page.
- April 10. Order of the King in relation to the furloughs and the pay of the 6 battalions. Folio 27, ½ page.
- April 10. The same to M. Prévost. Is sending him an order concerning the payment of the soldiers of the two battalions sent to Ile Royale and the keeping of accounts. Is sending him a commission as Commissary for him to act, pending the appointment of another. Instructions in accountantship. M. Dorcil will send him special memoranda concerning the inspection of the troops of the two battalions before their sailing.
The Sr. Pourtrait, scrivener, sailing on Le Bizarre, will stay at Ile Royale until the following year to assist him. M. de Salvert has orders to leave all the provisions he will not need for his return at Louisbourg. Folio 27 bis, 2 pages.
- April 16. Instructions for the Sr. Prévost, naval supply officer at Ile Royale, in relation to the pay of the two battalions of land forces which the King is sending to that colony, and the keeping account of their expenses. Folio 28, 4 pages.
- April 10. The same to MM. de Drucourt and Prevost. Two things have decided the King to send the two battalions to Louisbourg; the defence of that place and the hurrying of the fortification works. Will consult with the officer commanding these two battalions and M. Franquet as to the distribution of the work to be done by them and by the ordinary garrison of the colony. This increase of workingmen must naturally diminish the cost of the works, whether they be let by contract or be done by day labour. Folio 30, 1 page.
- September 1. Patent appointing the Sr. de St-Julien commandant of Ile Royale in case of the death or absence of Chev. de Drucourt. Folio 31, 1 page.

Versailles.
February 5. The President of the Navy Board to M. Rostan. Will advise ship-owners that when their ships sail for Canada they will have to take with them provisions sufficient for the whole trip, because their victualling in Canada is prohibited. Folio 8½, ½ page.
- February 5. The same to the former Bishop of Mirapoix. He repeats M. de Rouillé's representations, in relation to the Bishop of Quebec. His sole revenue consists of a pension of 9,000 livres charged against the bursary; a grant of 1,200 to 1,500 livres, which the French clergy give him, and about 1,300 livres annuity left by one of his predecessors on the Hotel de Ville de Paris. He has not even enough to live with proper decorum. The King was concerned in the matter, and until he can make some lasting arrangement, he has been pleased to grant him an extra sum of 6,000 livres of the funds of the Royal Treasury. Hopes he will take the first favourable opportunity of allowing the King to arrange the matter in a proper manner. Folio 9, 1 page.
- March 2. Letter of the King to the Admiral. In relation to the whale fishing privilege in the St. Lawrence river, granted to Srs. Darajorry. Folio 15, 1½ pages.

Of all the ships sent to Ile Royale, when the frigate La Comète sailed, only L'Outarde had arrived. ORDERS OF THE KING AND DESPATCHES.

Versailles.
January 17.

(Cipher dispatch). The President of the Navy Board to M. de Vaudreuil de Cavagnal. As there is, so far, no declaration of war it is probable that the English will make new efforts this year to have better success than they had last in their designs on Canada. Does not know yet if they are going to send regular troops to their colonies. It appears that they will be satisfied with merely sending moneys to levy troops and for munitions of war. It is claimed also, that they are making preparations at Boston and Halifax, for a campaign against Quebec. Possibly the campaign against Quebec may not be serious, and it may be solely for the purpose of keeping our troops far from the frontier. It may be also that they wish to capture the Baie de Gaspé and thence annoy our ships. If they reach Quebec it will be without their big ships and their landing will be made at the Cap Tourmente. Folio 1, 1½ pages.

January 17.

(Cipher message). The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Will reply at length a little later, to all their letters forwarded by the fleet of the Comte Dubois de La Motte and La Fidèle and La Sirène. Is taking advantage of the sailing of some ships for Louisbourg to inform them of the arrangements made concerning the increase in the troops. Has obtained two battalions, and hopes they will sail from Brest at the end of March or the beginning of April. The present companies will be brought up to 65 men, by recruiting. Provisions. Folio 1½, 1 page.

February 20.

The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The various reports concerning the defence of the forts Beauséjour and Gaspéreaux, made to the King, tend to show that it was not what it should have been. The English themselves do not hide the facility with which they captured them. The facts must be investigated and those who deserve it punished, a severe example being indispensable. Not only must an investigation be made, but also the two officers who commanded the forts and the garrisons will be tried by a formal court-martial. Before making any outcry, he will take precautions necessary to discover and establish the facts. Pending that he will keep everything secret. Will ask M. de Drucourt beforehand to send to Quebec the officers required to compose the court. M. de Drucourt has been advised. Will compose the court-martial from the officers of the staff of the colony together with a few from the land forces. Folio 2, 1½ pages.

February 20.

The President of the Navy Board to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Matters with the English continue in the same condition although war 1756. has not been declared. Preparations are being continued on both sides especially for North America. Hopes that the re-inforcements he has prepared will start at the time appointed. Folio 3, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- February 20. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Since the receipt of his letter of the 17th January, he has learned that the English will not satisfy themselves by sending money to make new levies of troops but they will send three regiments of regular troops in command of Lord Loudon, who will succeed General Braddock. Thinks that these regiments will number 600 to 700 men each and that they will sail next month. Although the King has great confidence in him and in the officers in Canada, it has nevertheless been deemed necessary to replace MM. de Dieskau and de Rostaing in command of the troops by the Marquis de Montcalm and the Chev. de Lévis, and the Chev. de Bourlamarque is added as third in command. Informs him that M. de Montcalm will have only the same powers as M. de Dieskau, on which the King will express himself very clearly. M. de Montcalm and the two other officers are known to be of such character that they will be glad at the way in which they will be treated by them. Folio 3, 1 page.
- February 21. The same to M. Bigot. Has decided to send Sr. de Villiers for service in Canada. Will employ him in the capacity of chief clerk. Independently of his general knowledge obtained at the Colonial office in 10 years service, he has acquired special knowledge of the administration of Canada at the Bureau des Comptes. Folio 3 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page.
- March 3. Pardon granted to one Pierre Charvier dit la Victoire, a soldier in the troops in Canada. Folio 4, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 3. The President of the Navy Board to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. The Sr. de Cologne, has been appointed a cadet à l'aiguillette in the troops in Canada. Folio 4 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- March 14. The same to the same. The ships and frigates intended for the transport of the two battalions of land troops to Canada, are Le Héros and La Sirène, commanded by MM. de Beaussier de L'Isle and de la Rigaudière's L'Illustre and La Sauvage, commanded by M. de Montalais and Chev. de Tourville; Le Léopard and La Licorne commanded by MM. Gomain and Brengnon. They will sail in couples in the above order. Will dispatch the Sr. de Tourville to bring back the reports concerning the landing. Le Léopard will be disarmed in Quebec and after broken up. The frigate L'Abénakise, built in Quebec, can be armed at once and the command of it can be given to M. Gomain. M. Beaussier will have under his orders, after the sailing of M. de Tourville, the ship L'Illustre and the three frigates La Sirène and L'Abénakise. M. de Vaudreuil will keep one of the frigates late in the season, in order to send his report of what has been going on up to that time. M. de Beaussier will keep all the provisions he can for his new destination after leaving Quebec. Folio 5, 2 pages.
- March 14. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Reasons why he reinforces the companies instead of increasing their number. How the infantry and the naval forces will be distributed. Folio 6, 2 pages.
- March 14. The same to the Marquis de Montcalm. Is already aware of the intentions of the King regarding his duties in connection with the command entrusted to him. It has two objects: one, the police, discipline and the daily routine of the infantry; the other the operations in which they can be employed. Has received from M. d'Argenson his orders for the first, and hands him the King's orders for the second. Although subordinate in all things to M. de Vaudreuil, he will not lack opportunity showing his zeal, talents and experience. Will find M. de Vaudreuil well disposed towards him. Folio 6bis, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- March 14. Memorandum of the King to serve as orders to the Marquis de Montcalm, Brigadier General. Will do and cause to be done by the troops under 1756. his command, all that is ordered by the Governor General. When a campaign is in progress, the Governor General will direct its operations on his own authority without any council of war or any other previous communication, but, even if he calls a Council of war it will be because he wishes to consult it on more particular points rather than decide them himself; in every case he will obey the orders and instructions which the Governor General will give him, either to move the troops or himself to command some expedition. He will not deviate from what he has been told, unless the Governor permits, or, in unexpected and urgent cases, by making an immediate report of the changes required and of the motives which decided him. The Governor will, even send new orders during the progress of the expedition and, if he wishes, he can proceed himself to the spot to take the chief command and finish the expedition or undertake others. Folio 7, 2 pages.

5-6 EDWARD VII., A. 1906

- March 14. Order of the King concerning the increase in the company of bombardiers. Folio 7bis, 1 page.
- March 14. Order for the increase of the number of soldiers in the companies of Canada. Folio 7 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page.
- The President of the Navy Board to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. In relation to the arrangements for sending re-inforcements in men, artillery, munitions, provisions, etc., which they had asked. Folio 8, 3 pages.
- March 15. The same to the same. The King, to replace the 3 engineers, captured on L'Alcide and still detained in England, where they have been transferred from Halifax, has deemed it expedient to send two others, the Srs. Lombard de Combes and Desandrouins, who will sail from Brest for Quebec. Folio 9 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page.
- March 15. The same to M. Bigot. The cash sent amounts to 1,266,897 livres. It has been put in 18 casks to be distributed among the three vessels and the 3 frigates which will sail from Brest. Will send 246,610 livres to Louisbourg, being two years pay for the two regiments which are at Ile Royale. M. Beaussier will have charge of this shipment. Folio 10, 2 pages.
- March 15. The same to the same. On the arrangements in relation to the breaking up of Le Léopard, the distribution of its guns and rigging, the armament of L'Abénakise and the other frigate in course of construction, etc. Folio 11, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- March 15. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. On the favourable reports received from all points as to the zeal, intelligence and services of the Sr. Pellegrin, he has granted him a sum of money to indemnify him for expenses of his trip, and for the special work he has done at the Bureau des Dépôt des Cartes et Plans de la Marine. Moreover, he has been appointed assistant port captain of Quebec. He will endeavour to educate pupils for the navigation of the river. Has appointed his son assistant port warden at Quebec. Folio 12, 1 page.
- March 15. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Concerning the instructions which he gave to M. de Montcalm who succeeds M. de Dieskau. Folio 12 bis, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- March 15. The same to the same. Will judge if it is proper to give M. de Montcalm the command of the troops and militia of the colony, at the same time as that of the land forces. The matter is left to his discretion, in order to allow to show his confidence in M. de Montcalm, which will flatter him. M. de him Montcalm does not know of this suggestion, so that his liberty will not be in any way impaired. Folio 13, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- March 15. Order of the King to give command of the troops and militia of the colony to M. de Montcalm. Folio 13 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 17. The President of the Navy Board to M. Doreil. Has granted him 12,000 livres to indemnify him for his loss on L'Alcide. Is sending him two new regiments to Canada, that of La Sarre, and the Royal Roussillon. Is 1756. sending the entire pay of these two regiments and that of the first four, from the 1st October, 1756, to the 1st October, 1757. Provisions. Folio 13 bis., 2 pages.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

- March 15. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Is sending a packet containing copy of the instructions to M. de Montcalm, for M. de Lévis or in his stead M. de Bourlamarque, in case, for any reason M. de Montcalm cannot take command. Folio 14, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 15. The same to M. de Lévis, same subject. Same thing to M. de Bourlamarque. Folio 14, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 17. The same to the Chev. de Tourville. M. de Vaudreuil has orders to send him promptly back to France. Folio 14 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 15. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Concerning the return of M. de Tourville. Folio 14 bis, 1 page.
- March 17. The same to the same. Has not deemed it advisable this year to appoint a successor to the Governorship of Montreal, rendered vacant by the death of M. de Longueuil. If M. de Lantagnac, King's lieutenant at Montreal, is too old to allow him to discharge the details of government with due punctuality pending the appointment of a new governor, he will intrust the duties of this office to M. D'Aillebout, King's lieutenant at Three Rivers. Has provided for the vacancies. Folio 14 bis, 1 page.
- March 31. The same to the same. M. de Noyan, major of Montreal, has been appointed to succeed M. D'Aillebout at Three Rivers. The four vacancies in the companies caused by the death of MM. de Beaujeu, St. Pierre and Longueuil and by the promotion of Sr. Duplessis Faber, have been given to the Srs. de la Perrière, Croizille de Courtemanche, de Boishébert and de Gaspé. Other promotions. Folio 15, 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- March 31. The same to the same. The Cross of St. Louis for the Srs. de Contrecoeur, Dumas, de Lignerles, captains, and Péan brevet-major. Folio 16 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- March 31. The same to the same. On his report concerning the two English hostages given to Sr. De Villiers, as surety for the capitulation he had granted Major Washington, and which has been entirely violated by the Governor of Virginia, the King has decided that it was not sufficient to keep them in prison to prevent them from abusing the liberty which has been so wrongly granted them. They must be tried before a court-martial for what they have done. Nevertheless will delay the carrying out of the sentence until further orders. Folio 16 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 31. The same to M. Bigot concerning the supplies. It is expedient to stop abuses which have arisen immediately. Is willing to let him make a bargain with the Sr. Cadet, for all supplies, as soon as he is able and has the necessary means to carry out his bargain. The bargain must be made in such a way as the Sr. Cadet cannot abuse it to the detriment of the King and the public. Will discuss that point with M. de Vaudreuil, and, perhaps it might be well to tell the Bishop of the proposed arrangement. Folio 17, 3 pages.
- April 1. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Would be very glad if he could do any thing for the Sr. de Raymond, who has been strongly recommended to him by respectable persons. Folio 18, 1 page.
- April 1. The same to the same. Would be very glad if he could do anything for Sr. Hurault de L'Hopital, officer commanding the Bearn regiment.
- April 1. The same to M. D'Aillebout. Will succeed M. de Lantagnac as King's lieutenant at Montreal. This promotion is a special mark of confidence, as the Government of Montreal will be without an incumbent this year. The same to MM. de Noyan, Duplessis Faber, Contrecoeur, Dumas, de Lignerles and Péan on their promotion. Folio 19, 3 pages.
- April 1. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Sends him a special cipher code for to use when he has an important report to make. Folio 20, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.

- April 9. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. On account of the loss he sustained of a portion of the furniture he had had shipped for Quebec and the extraordinary expenses occasioned by the situation of the colony, the King has granted him 15,000 livres taken from the Royal Treasury. Folio 21, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- April 9. The same to M. de Rigaud. On account of the loss he sustained on L'Alcide and the expenses occasioned by his detention among the English, the King has made him a grant of 800 livres. Folio 21, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- April 9. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King has granted a pension of 300 livres to the widow of the Sr. de Beaujeu, killed in the battle against General Braddock; one of 200 livres to the widow of the Sr. de St. Pierre, killed in the action of M. de Dieskau and one of 150 livres to the widow of the Sr. de Carquerille, killed in the same battle as M. de Beaujeu. Has made a grant of 200 livres to the Sr. La Borgne and one of 150 to the Sr. de Montmedy wounded in the battle against General Braddock. Folio 21 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page.
- April 9. The same to the same. On his report on the condition of the children of the Baron de Longueuil, deceased, there has been granted, in consideration of the services rendered by their father and his family, a pension of 200 livres to each of his four daughters. Folio 21 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- April 9. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. On the necessity of practising economy. Observations on that point. Folio 22, 3 pages.

- April 12. The same to the same. Informing them that the Sr. De Crécy, cadet à l'aiguillette in the troops in Louisiana is going to Canada. Folio 23 $\frac{1}{4}$, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- April 12. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Wishes to explain the reasons which have prevented the King from appointing his brother as Governor of Montreal. The King fully acknowledges the zeal and high sense of honour and honesty of his brother, M. de Rigaud. He knows he has conducted himself with valour during the last war, but are these advantages enough to enable the King to entrust him with the government of Montreal if that position became suddenly vacant? He does not think so. To fitly fulfil the duties of this position, a certain amount of knowledge and ability is required, which nature does not give to everybody, and which the utmost willingness can not procure. The King has thought it better to appoint, as Governor of Montreal, an officer who could succeed him if occasion arose. Knows too well, the importance of the duties of Governor General and all the qualities required, not to feel the necessity for this arrangement, and at the same time, is too good a servant not to concur in it. Will not advise the appointment of Governor of Montreal until he has received his answer. Folio 24, 2 pages.
- April 19. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. In relation to the Sr. Soumbroun, merchant of La Rochelle, who complains of M. Amiot, his clerk in Quebec. Folio 24, bis, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- April 19. Order of the King to arrest the Sr. Amiot. Folio 24 $\frac{1}{2}$, bis, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- The President of the Navy Board to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Although there has been no formal declaration of war with the English, and matters continue about the same, the King has been obliged, for many reasons, to put a stop to his moderation and to take necessary measures to obtain satisfaction from the acts of piracy and violence which the English have been committing for some time, in contempt of all the laws and to the scandal of all the nations. It is in view of this that the King sent a body of troops in command of the Maréchal de Richelieu, to capture Minorque. The ships carrying the troops were convoyed by a 1756. squadron in command of M. de la Galissonnière. Ile de St. Philippe has been captured with the exception of the fortress which defends the port. It is on this account also, that warrants are given to ship-owners, to whom great encouragement has been given, to intercept all English vessels. Quebec not being favourably situated in this regard, they will judge what to do. Folio 25, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

- May 20. The same to the same. On the proposal made to him to employ, for the carrying of despatches to the colonies, a kind of small ship, known at Dunkirk under the name of lugger, he has sent one La Légère to Quebec, in command of Captain Jean Haring, who will hand them this letter. Will send him back without delay with their despatches. Will give their views of what they think of the qualities of that vessel. Hopes that the fleet from Brest has arrived at Quebec. A good many ships have sailed, loaded with provisions for Quebec, from the ports of Bordeaux and Rochefort. The rest of the shipments is on L'Outarde and L'Anna Sophia. If all these ships which have sailed or are sailing reach their destination, the colony will be amply provided for. Folio 26, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- June 19. The same to the same. Circular to give them notice of the declaration of war with England. Folio 26 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.

- June 30. The President of the Navy Board to M. de Vaudreuil concerning the above pardons. Folio 27 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- Fontaine-bleau. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Sends them copies of a pamphlet, that he had published in France, on the occasion of the expedition to Choueguen. The inhabitants of the colony will acknowledge that the King does justice to their zeal and their conduct. Folio 28, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

January 14. The President of the Navy Board to MM. de Drucourt and Prévôt. Has already informed them of the return to France, not only of the vessels of the squadron of M. de Salvert, with the exception of L'Espérance taken and burned by the English, and of La Mutine and L'Outarde. Gives them notice that Le Rhinocéros has already arrived at Rochefort on the 8th of that month. Matters with the English are yet in the same state, that is to say, they continue hostilities and they are always making war preparations. Is preparing new provisions. Folio 1, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.

Vergor and Villereau, and the other officers who were at the forts of Beauséjour and Gaspareaux. 5-6 EDWARD VII., A. 1906

March 15. The same to M. Prévost. Will send him direct from Rochefort, 60 to 80,000 livres in specie. Folio 3, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 26. The same to same. On his recommendation he has decided to appoint a Commissary for Louisbourg. The Sr. de la Grise has been chosen to fill the post. He goes to the colony on L'Arc-en-Ciel. Folio 3 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 26. The same to M. de Drucourt. Is sending him medals for the Indian chiefs. Folio 3 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- March 26. The same to MM. de Drucourt & Prévost. The English are carrying things so far that the King ordered his ships and frigates to attack and capture all English warships and merchantmen which they meet. Privateering has not yet been authorized; the English employing so far only warships for that purpose. As the English keep their prizes or sell them in order to deposit the products of the sale without confiscating them and as they are keeping the crews prisoners, we shall do the same. If they are perfectly sure that the English confiscate the ships they seize they can do the same. Folio 4, 2 pages.
- March 26. Form of return to be made by MM. de Drucourt and Prévost concerning the prizes captured. Folio 4 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 26. The same to M. Prévost. Is sending him the funds mentioned in another letter. Folio 5, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 26. The same to MM. de Drucourt & Prévost. L'Arc-en-Ciel and L'Concorde will sail forthwith from Brest for Ile Royale under the command of Chev. de Bellingant. Folio 5, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 26. The same to M. de Drucourt. Is sending him the King's orders to M. de Bellingant and also to M. Beaussier de L'Ile. Thinks he had better employ the three vessels and the 3 frigates which are at Louisbourg, to capture ships from the English. Does not yet know the English intentions concerning Louisbourg, but does not think they will be in a position to attempt anything in that direction this year. Folio 5 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page.
- March 26. The same to same. The two companies of Srs. Thierry and Chabot, deceased, have been given to Srs. Chabot de Brillon and de Mézillac. They will await the judgment of the court-martial before disposing that of Sr. de Villeray. Other promotions. Folio 6, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.

- March 26. The same to M. de la Grive. Instructions concerning his duties. Folio 10, 2 pages.
- April 19. The same to M. de Drucourt. The King grants him a sum of 4,000 livres in consideration of the extraordinary expenses occasioned by the situation. Folio 11, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- April 19. The same to M. Prévost. Cannot yet look into the question of his promotion. Has granted him a sum of 2,000 livres. Folio 11, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- April 19. The same to MM. de Drucourt and M. Prévost. The King does not approve their proposal to grant daily rations to the officers but he has caused an extraordinary aid of 5,000 livres to be distributed according to their wants. Folio 11 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- April 19. The same to the same. Is sending them the King's estimate of the expenses for the year at Ile Royale amounting to 887,211 livres. Has accepted the proposals of M. Prévost without cutting off anything, but he cannot but notice with surprise, notwithstanding their pressing recommendations, the absence of detailed statements of expenses for the different branches of the service and the retrenchment which was possible, because after all, it is not possible that the administration of the colony

1756. always requires increases in the expenses, without being able to cut down some of them, since there are extraordinary expenses which must only occasionally arise and others which are not altogether necessary. A different course of action will be required for next year's estimates. Folio 12, 1½ pages.
- April 19. The same to M. de Drucourt. Has granted the Cross of St. Louis to Sr. de la Vallière, but has not been able to do the same for Sr. Du Fresne. Has procured the rank of post captain to Sr. de Couagne, engineer. Folio 13, ½ page.

- May 20. Circular letter from the King to the same. Concerning the sale of the prizes, the settlement and the division of the moneys. Folio 13½, ¼ page.
- May 20. The President of the Navy Board to the same. Concerning the conditions existing between France and England. The position of Louisbourg is well adapted for privateering, but the actual state of the colony will not likely furnish many privateers. There might be some coming from the Isles and even from France. In that case, they will give them every facilities to bring their prizes to Louisbourg. These seizures will be adjudged by the Admiralty officers of the place. Folio 14, 4 pages.
- May 20. The same to the same. Concerning the use of "luggers" for the carrying of despatches to the colonies during the war. Folio 16, 2 pages.

- April 1. The same to M. Bigot. It would be very difficult to grant him leave of absence at the present conjuncture. Grants the Sr. Varin the leave he has asked for, but hopes he will not make use of it unless the good of his health renders it indispensable. Consents to the Sr. De Villers, chief King's scrivener, replacing the Sr. Bréard as Councillor, but gives him the appointment only on the condition that he discharges his duties faithfully. Approves the choice of Sr. de Vienne for the position of storekeeper at Quebec. Folio 12, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- April 1. The same to M. de Villers. On his appointment to the position of Councillor. Id. Order of the King as above. Folio 12 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page.
- April 9. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. The King has designated the Sr. de Pontleroy to be chief engineer in the place of the Sr. de Léry, deceased. He is a land engineer who was sent last year to Louisbourg, and whose reputation is well established. M. Franquet will give him the necessary instructions, but, if Louisbourg is attacked before his departure, he may remain there. Folio 12, bis, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- April 9. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Did not think proper to appoint the Sr. de Lotbinière engineer in chief in Canada. It is better, under the circumstances, to appoint someone having more experience. Folio 12 $\frac{1}{2}$, bis, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- April 16. The same to the same. Would have liked to be able to appoint the Sr. Fleury Deschambault colonel of militia, but there would be a grave inconvenience in creating this title. Cannot go beyond the grade of captain, but thinks it would be well to establish detached companies and grant commissions and service letters to the officers similar to those of the regular troops. Desires his advice on this subject. Folio 13, 3 pages.
- May 12. The same to MM. Vaudreuil and Bigot. The observations of M. Bigot on the expenses, fixed and ordinary, do not entirely cover the information that M. de Machault has asked for under these headings. As these expenses are much heavier than formerly, it seems certain that most of the increases have grown insensibly in taking as ordinary expenses those allowed for extraordinary purposes only. Should make the detailed examination that M. de Machault prescribed, and which he has not done. It is on him, above all, that the reduction in the expenses, variable and extraordinary, which have been enormous, depends. The heaviest source of these expenses is the movements and operations in connection with the war. Will judge of the 1757. attention he gives to these points by the results. Various instructions. Folio 14, bis, 5 pages.

- April 28. The same to the same. Sends them the representations of the MM. of the seminary of St. Sulpice on the suppression of the gratuity of 6,000 livres that was given to them. Folio 15½, ¼ page.
- May 1. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King has granted the Cross of St. Louis to the Srs. Sermonville, de la Corne, La Columbière, De Villiers, De Repentigny and Le Mercier. Has granted a pension of 400 livres to the Srs. de Contrecoeur and de Ligneris. Has created a fund of 6,000 livres to be distributed in gratuities to the subaltern officers who distinguish themselves in war expeditions. Folio 16, bis, 1½ pages.
- May 1. The same to M. de Contrecoeur. The King has granted him a pension of 400 livres. Folio 16½, bis, ½ page.
- May 1. The same M. de Sermonville. The King has given him the Cross of St. Louis. Id. to MM. de la Corne La Columbière, De Villiers, De Repentigny, Le Mercier. Folio 17, ½ page.
- May 15. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King is too well pleased with his services to forget him. Has been made Honorary Commander of the Order of St. Louis, with a gratuity of 10,000 livres. Folio 17, 1 page.
- April 28. The same to M. Bigot. Will cause to be delivered, on his account, to the Sr. Jauge, merchant at Bordeaux, the masts in the King's storehouses, to be conveyed to St. Domingo on his vessel La Sultane. Folio 17, bis, 1 page.
- May 12. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King has been pleased to reserve two appointments for lieutenants and two for ensigns in the troops of the Windward Islands, and two lieutenancies and two ensigncies in those of St. Domingo for the young Canadians who distinguished themselves in the last campaigns. Folio 17, bis, 1 page.
- May 17. The same to the same. The King is well pleased with the zeal and emulation of the officers, but cannot give to the local Governors, King's lieutenants and town Majors the military grades similar to those granted to the officers of the land troops. Neither can the establishment of a company of cadets for the sons of officers be granted. Statement of the reasons for this. Folio 18, 2 pages.
- May 27. The same to M. le Chev. Le Mercier. Favours what he has received from the King. Folio 18½, ½ page.
- May 27. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Has adopted his suggestions for the filling of vacancies in the general staffs and in the troops in Canada. as well as in the ten substitute companies. Folio 19, 1½ pages.
- May 27. The same to M. Rigaud de Vaudreuil. Gives him the government of Montreal, vacant by the death of M. le Baron de Longueuil. Folio 19½, ½ page.
- May 27. The same to M. le Chev. de Longueuil. The King has given him the government of Three Rivers. Folio 20, ½ page.
- May 27. The King to M. de Ramezay. Has been appointed Lieutenant of the King at Quebec. Id. to M. Dumas for the majority of Quebec. Id. to M. de Mazières to proceed from Ile Royale to Canada with the rank of captain. Id. to M. de Lery, made captain for his services on various occasions. Id. to MM. de Montigny, de St. Martin, de Rouville, de Portneuf, Benoist, de Lotbinière, Croizille de Montesson. Folio 20, 2 pages.
- May 27. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King has seen with regret the details of his letter of the 23rd of October, concerning the land troops that are in Canada. The King's opinion is that these troops find themselves sufficiently well off in the colony to remain there without repugnance. Should divide the risks and fatigues between all the corps, so that each one of them will have no occasion to complain. What is also material, and 1757. it is this that the King has seen with regret, is, that the land troops do not live on good terms with the Canadians, the Indians and the troops of the colony. Will take suitable measures to remove causes for discontent and make it understood how much the Canadians and Indians merit consideration. It would not be surprising if M. de Montcalm himself had given them some cause of complaint. One cannot become accustomed at once to their ways and their character. It is necessary to know them well in order to lead and make the best of them. Experience will soon teach M. de Montcalm. It will not be long before he learns that mildness, patience and moderation are often necessary with these people. Folio 21, 2 pages.

May —. The same to M. Bigot. Has examined with particular attention the agreement he has made with the Sr. Cadet for the supply of provisions for the troops in Canada, and it is not without great surprise that he has seen the advantageous conditions he has granted. Understands the high prices following the short yield of the last harvest, but these high prices cannot last as long as the agreement. This agreement gives the high prices of war years and of bad harvests, without diminution for the years of abundance. Criticism of the various clauses. It is of the last importance that the service be assured, but if there are well founded complaints, whether on the part of the troops, the merchants or the inhabitants, not only will the contract be cancelled but the contractor will be punished. Folio 22, 3 pages.

May 27. The same to M. de Montcalm. Replies to the letter he has written to M. de Machault. The testimony he gives of the conduct of his officers agrees with that of M. de Vaudreuil. The Marquis de Paulmy has provided for filling the vacancies in the six battalions in accordance with his recommendations. If all the supplies sent arrive at their destination the colony will find itself well provided for. Has seen with pleasure the reciprocal confidence existing between him and M. de Vaudreuil. His experience in the last campaign will have made him aware of the use the Canadians and the Indians can be in the movements to be undertaken. The valour of the Canadians may be counted on with certainty, as well as their zeal and willingness, as long as they are not treated in a distasteful manner. Their situation of itself merits consideration and their character calls for it still more. Firmness is sometimes necessary with them but an enlightened mildness would be particularly successful with them. As regards the Indians, he will have perceived, that, while it is desirable not to encourage their natural presumption especially in respect of the assistance they can render us, it is at the same time important to make allowance to a certain extent for the fancies that sometimes influence them. Much patience is required to make the best of them. These remarks do not apply to him but he makes them because he has learned that certain officers have dealt in too harsh a fashion with the one and the other. Should encourage those who conduct themselves in a way to efface impressions of this description. On the subject of rations. The King is pleased with his conduct and has given him the cordon rouge. Folio 24, 5 pages.

June 3. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Approves their proposal to fill the vacancies in the Council caused by the deaths of MM. de Lanouiller and Gautier, by the Srs. Bernard and Cugnet. Has granted to the Sr. Guillemin the commission of Lieutenant of the Prévôté at Quebec. Folio 26½, ½ page.

Compiègne.
July 27. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King has been all the more satisfied to learn the details of the expedition of his brother against Fort St. George, that the enemy has referred to it in gazettes as one in which the Canadian detachment has been repulsed with considerable loss. It would have been desirable if M. de Rigaud could have captured the fort and raised it, but the advantage of having destroyed the immense supplies the English had collected there is very important. Has learned with pleasure the result of 1757. the deputation sent by the five Nations. Is aware of the tone in which the English in Europe speak of their claims on the Indians, and should judge that we can make good use of this solemn deputation. It remains to be known whether the Iroquois will keep their engagements. Is glad that he has been able to detach the Têtes Plattes and the Loups from the English. The squadron gathered at Louisbourg seemed to have impressed the enemy. Folio 27, 2 pages.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

July 27. The same to M. Bigot. Same subject. Immensity of the expenses. Folio 28, 1 page.

August 3. The same to M. de Montcalm. Has received his letter of the 24th April last by way of Ile Royale. Has heard from M. de Vaudreuil the details of the action fought with a detachment of the enemy sent to capture the convoy from Fort Frédéric to Carillon. The King is satisfied with the conduct of the land officers and troops; he has seen in it a proof of the zeal and emulation that exist in the various corps of the colony. Although some recruits were taken by the enemy, he hopes that, with those who have arrived, they will be able to carry out the arrangements that were the object of this increase in the forces. Caused all the provisions asked for to be sent, even increasing the quantity of flour. It is true that two of the vessels carrying them have fallen into the hands of the enemy. Should now be aware of the armaments the enemy has prepared to act against Canada and Ile Royale by sea. The imposing forces sent by the King to Louisbourg have arrested the execution of the project. His reflections on the marriage of officers and soldiers in the colony are very judicious. The King is much pleased with the useful remarks he has made on the accounts of MM. De Lévis and Bourlamarque. Folio 29, 1½ pages.

August 6. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The dignity with which the Iroquois have invested their delegation causes the belief that they give themselves very little trouble to please the English. This, alone, might cause us to feel confidence in their engagements, if the principles on which they have guided their conduct for so long a period are not known, but their behaviour in the past should be a warning as to the course they are likely to take, and it may well happen that they will be governed by events. Their present action has been too striking not to arouse hope that great advantages may be derived from it. Will report to him on the means to attain the objects desired, seeing that the knowledge he has acquired on everything concerning these Indians, and the consideration he enjoys, give him a choice of easier methods than anyone else commands. The most efficacious treatment is firmness. Will recall all that has been prescribed to him. Experience has shown that for a long time too much leniency has been shown to the Iroquois. Too much confidence has been placed in the reports of certain people who meant to render themselves indispensable in all negotiations with the Indians and in showing the opposite side as presenting chimerical difficulties and inconveniences. Knows all that better than anyone. The intention of the King is not to prevent him using circumspection in dealing with the Iroquois, far from that, but he should be careful to do nothing that could lead them to believe that they are feared or that their alliance is regarded as necessary. The King directs, above all that they are not to be allowed to pass certain limits impunity, with which might lead to ill consequences. Whatever the results of the agreement entered into by the deputation may be, they can always be brought forward to show the illusion of the sovereignty that the English claim to have over the Iroquois and the ridiculous pretensions they found on it in the disputes relating to the respective boundaries of the two powers. It will be well for this purpose to draw up a record setting forth the words of the delegates, the replies and what passed generally at the deputation. Will prepare similar minutes on all future occasions. And, as the Iroquois have often made 1757. public declarations of their independence and these protestations must have been entered on the registers of the law courts of Canada, begs him to have a search made and to forward the copies. Folio 30, 2 pages.

- August 6. The same to the Chev. de Lévis. Has received the letter of the 24th of April, that he had addressed to M. de Machault, Keeper of the Seals. MM. de Vaudreuil and Montcalm have not left him in ignorance of his zeal. Folio 31, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- August 6. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Has received his letters of the 18th, 19th and 24th of April last. Has given an account of them to the King. It is to be hoped that the negotiations which the Oneyouts have entered upon concerning to the inhabitants in their vicinity will have the desired success. Will soon know what to do, particularly if the news brought by the Goyogouins to the Sr. Pouchot is found correct. Is well pleased with the success he has obtained up to the present in relation to the government of the Indians. It is well to continue the raids on the enemy in the direction of Belle Rivière, without at the same time too much compromising the forces at his disposal. Is not well informed of the situation in that portion of the country. Would like to know what forts the enemy has raised in those parts not only since the commencement of the war but since they have thought proper to make claim to the lands between the Apalaches mountains and Belle Rivière. The vessel sent from Ile Royale to France for supplies for Ile St. Jean left Brest at the beginning of May. Will take measures in the spring for helping the Acadian families who have sought refuge in our territory. The English are making their greatest efforts for operations by sea. Has lately learned that General Loudon should have reached Halifax, with a considerable body of troops to join those that Admiral Holbourn has taken there from England. Has ground to hope that the forces collected at Louisbourg under the command of the Comte Dubois de Lamothé will render all these preparations useless. Folio 31, 2 pages.
- August 6. Pardon for one St. Louis, dit Valence, soldier of the troops of Canada. Id. for one Saline. Folio 32, 2 pages.
- March 6. Ordinance of the King prohibiting games of chance in the colonies. Particularly prohibits those called the "3 dés," "le Tope," "le Passe-dix," "les 2 dés," "le Ouiquenove," le Mormonique," "le hoca," "la Bassette," "le Pharaon," "le lansquenet," "le Dupe," "le Beribé," "la Roulette," "la Père ou non," "le Quinze," "les petits paquets," and other games of chance. Folio 33, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- Versailles.
October 19. The President of the Navy Board to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. The King has approved the printing of an account of the principal events of the war during the year. Proposed it to the King on the occasion of the capture of Fort George. Sends them several copies. This account has been well received here and should be still more so in Canada. The honourable testimony borne to all who contributed to the results recorded should help to excite the zeal of all. Will procure rewards for all those who distinguished themselves. Will cause the militia to share in these favours from the King. M. de Vaudreuil must act with great tact and prudence in the selection of participants. otherwise these rewards will do more harm than good. Folio 34, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- October 26. The same to the same. It is an enterprise against Rochefort that the enemy has used the armament the preparations for which for several months have been much talked of in Europe. Their fleet, composed of 120 to 130 sail, of which 18 were ships of the line, with 12,000 to 15,000 regular troops, appeared on the 21st of September before the roadsteads of La Rochelle. On the 23rd, they cannonaded the small fort on Ile D'Aix and obliged the garrison, consisting of 300 men, to surrender. They occupied the island, and that terminated their operations. The fleet left on the 1st of October. It is probable the enemy will make no further attempt on the 1757. ports of France. It is to be hoped their ill success in America will also disgust them with the continuation of the war there. In any case it must be hoped they will not be more fortunate than they have been. Folio 55, 1 page.

- October 31. The same to the same. The storeship La Fortune has happily arrived at Rochefort. Will reply in the spring to all the letters she brought. This one is sent by M. de Drucourt. Is very glad of the success obtained by the troops in their expeditions, but pained at the situation of the country with regard to food. Had taken every measure to provide against this scarcity by sending more flour than was asked for. The Sr. Riouffe, commanding La Fortune, reports having met several vessels in the St. Lawrence. Hopes that their cargoes included provisions and that the grain harvests have proved equal to the early expectations. Folio 36, 1½ pages.
- October 31. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King is satisfied with his services. Folio 37, 1 page.
- October 31. The same to M. de Montcalm. The King has learned with pleasure of the success of his expedition against Fort George. Folio 38, ½ page.
- October 31. The same to M. de Lévis. Has placed before the King the reports that MM. de Vaudreuil and de Montcalm have made, praising his zeal and his conduct at the attack on Fort George. Folio 38, ½ page.
- October 31. The same to M. Rigaud de Vaudreuil. The King has been very much pleased with his conduct, as much in the expedition with which he was charged in the month of March last, as in that of M. de Montcalm in the month of August. Folio 38½, ½ page.
- December 6. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Has given to M. Le Maizat the position of cadet à l'aiguillette in the troops of Canada. Folio 39, ¼ page.
- December 14. The same to M. Bigot. Has procured for the Sr. Druillon, ensign in the troops of Canada, the reimbursement of the sum of 3,883 livres that he expended with the English for the detachment of 19 men with whom he was made prisoner on the Oyo in the affair of the Sr. de Jumonville in 1754. Folio 39, ½ page.
- December 29. Order declaring an amnesty for deserters in Canada. Folio 39, ¼ page.

- Versailles,
March 2. The President of the Navy Board to M. de Drucourt. Knows that he had been warned of the suspicions entertained that the enemy had correspondents in Louisbourg and the environs. Relies on his having taken measures for their discovery. Folio 1, ½ page.
- March 2. The same to the same. Does not ignore the feeling of M. de Machault with regard to him. His own is the same. Folio 1, ¼ page.
- March 10. To M. de Drucourt and Prévost. Circular on the occasion of the appointment of M. de Moras as Minister of Marine.
- March 2. The President of the Navy Board to M. Prévost. Will reply very soon to the letter that he wrote to M. de Machault. Profits by the departure of two frigates to tell him he possesses his confidence. Folio 1½, ¼ page.
- March 2. The same to M. Franquet. Will shortly receive a detailed reply to the accounts he has given of the fortifications of Louisbourg. The King is satisfied with his zeal. Folio 1½, ½ page.
- March 2. The same to MM. de Drucourt and Prévost. If the new naval forces intended for the protection of Louisbourg succeed in uniting, there is ground to hope that place will be safe from the attempts of the enemy. It is un-1757. fortunate that Le Chariot Royal has been taken, as she carried large supplies of provisions. Fresh shipments. Will send funds in silver on the squadron of M. D'Aubigny. Folio 2, 1 page.

- March 31. The same to MM. de Drucourt and Prévost. Begs them to examine and to have M. Franquet examine the memorial of Abbé Maillard claiming the reimbursement of expenses defrayed by him for the construction of a church and presbytery in Ile Royale with the object of settling the Indians of his mission. He deserves to be favorably treated. Folio 2, bis, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- April 3. The same to the same. After the arrival at Louisbourg of the Sr. Magalon, who goes there as War Commissary, replacing the Sr. de la Grive, he will take advantage of the first opportunity to have the last named given passage to France. Folio 2, bis, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 31. The same to M. de Drucourt. Observations made to M. Franquet regarding the works on the fortifications. It seems very probable that the English will soon attack Canada from the sea. If the concentration of our naval forces at Louisbourg is effected soon enough, it is likely the English will not attempt anything against that place. In any event, the debarkation of the enemy must be opposed if it can be done without too great a loss. Instructions for the defence for the place. Folio 3, 3 pages.
- March 31. The same to M. Franquet. Instructions touching the defence of Louisbourg. Folio 3 $\frac{1}{2}$, 3 pages.
- April 9. The same to MM. de Drucour and Prévost. The King has chosen the Sr. de Pontleroy to fill the position of Engineer-in-Chief of Canada. Sends him his commission. Can retain him if Louisbourg is attacked before his departure. Folio 4, bis, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- April 9. The same to M. de Pontleroy. At the suggestion of M. Franquet, he has been selected for the position of Engineer-in-Chief in Canada. Folio 4, bis, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- April 9. The same to M. Franquet. Same subject. Folio 4, bis, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- April 9. The same to the same. Has been chosen to replace M. de Drucour in the command of Ile Royale in the event of the latter being unable to act. Folio 4 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- April 9. The same to M. Prévost. Will please return the package addressed to him in the year 1755 with orders to open it only in case of M. de Drucour being unable to act. Substitutes another one that he will open only on the same conditions. Folio 4 $\frac{1}{2}$, bis, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- May 3. The same to M. de Drucour. The King has granted him a gratuity of 6,000 livres in consideration of the increase in his expenses as well as to indemnify him for the loss of part of the supplies that he had ordered in France. Folio 5, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- May 3. The same to M. Prévost. Id. Gratuity of 3,000 livres. Folio 5, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- May 18. The same to the same. Despatch of a cargo of flour by the Sr. de Lalonde on the vessel Le Fils Unique. Folio 5, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- May 27. The same to MM. de Drucour and Prévost. Concerning a case taken before the Admiralty Judges relating to merchandise saved from a wreck. Folio 5, 2 pages.
- May 27. The same to M. Drucour. Has had the approval of the King to the promotions he suggested with regard to the officers of the troops. Enumeration of those who have been promoted. Folio 6, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- May 27. The same to the same. Has given the Cross of St. Louis to Sr. Defresne only. Folio 6 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- May 27. The same to M. Come de St. Aigne. Has been promoted captain. Id. for M. de Verteuil. Id. to M. Defresne for the Cross of St. Louis. Folio 7, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- June 22. The same to M. de Drucourt and Prévost. Is surprised that, far from reducing the expenses, M. Prévost proposes their increase. Understands that in a colony it is necessary to increase its expenses in proportion to its 1757. development, but cannot conceive that his administration requires continued increases in the expenditures without there ever being a question of cutting down or diminution in any one part. Is it necessary that once an expenditure is made the total shall perpetually remain. His intention is to carry out the views of M. de Machault to settle on a fixed sum and send the King's estimates in advance. That is what will be done when the war is over. For the present he forwards him the King's estimates, following the plan he has submitted to him. Folio 8, 2 pages.

- June 30. The same to M. de Drucour. Has learned with pleasure of the arrival at Louisbourg of the storeship La Fortune and of L'Appollon at Port Toulouze. Should now be at ease on the question of provisions. Has made arrangements for ensuring further supplies. Counts on the naval force for the defence of Louisbourg meeting there from the 5th to the 20th of this month. The Chev. de Beaufmont left the Cape on the 4th of May. Was surprised that M. Du Revest had not arrived by the 15th of that month, as on the 30th of April, he was within 50 or 60 leagues of the Grand Banks. M. Dubois de Lamotte left on the 3rd of that month with very favourable winds. The English squadron only left Cork on the 8th of May, and naturally the reunion of the various divisions composing the squadron of M. de Lamotte should have taken place in due season. The English squadron consists of only 14 vessels, the list of which he sent to M. de Lamotte. It took under convoy a fleet of 55 vessels conveying troops, the number of which did not exceed 7,000 men. It is probable that the enemy when he becomes aware of our forces at Louisbourg will for this year abandon the execution of his plans by sea. Folio 9, 2 pages.
- June 30. The same to M. Franquet. Belives that the English will not undertake anything against Ile Royale, if the King's naval forces have been able to unite. In any case, counts on his zeal, Folio 10, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- June 30. (In cipher.) The same to M. Dubois de Lamotte. Should have been for some time at Louisbourg, where he ought to have met the divisions of M. Du Revest and the Chev. de Beaufremont. From the news he received of the passage of the first at Gibraltar he should have arrived at Louisbourg in the first ten days of May, and yet he was not there by the 15th. Sends him the corvette Le Merlin, commanded by the Sr. de la Garde Payan, to inform him of what he knows as to the naval forces of the enemy. Concerning the squadron of Admiral Holborne. The superiority of our fleet, if it can effect a junction, causes the King to hope it will attack the enemy's fleet, whether before it attempts to undertake anything against Louisbourg or Quebec, or in case it endeavours to put into execution the plans against either the one or the other of these two places. Will approve the course he follows in pursuance of his best judgment. Despatched from Rochefort, on the 22nd of May, two vessels loaded with part of the supplementary food supplies for his squadron. The enemy are also sending a warship, with several vessels from Cork with provisions for Holborne's squadron. Folio 10, 2 pages.
- July 1. The same to M. de Drucourt and Prévost. Recapitulation of provisions in store at Louisbourg. Measures taken to complete them. Folio 11, $5\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- Compiègne.
July 27. (In cipher.) The same to the same. Has received the letters they addressed to him by the brigantine Le Charmant and the schooner Les Trois Freres. Details respecting the shipments of provisions. There have sailed for Louisbourg from various ports in France, 14 of the King's vessels laden with provisions, of which six have been taken in European waters by English ships, and the eight others, among them La Toisor D'Or and Le Mentor, should have arrived at their destination with nearly 12,000 quintals of flour. Is informed several merchant vessels have arrived at Louisbourg with provisions. Folio 14, 3 pages.

July 27.

The same to M. Franquet. Has received his letters of the 18th and 27th of June. The King appeared satisfied with the details he has given. It is to be believed the presence of his squadron would have impressed the enemy. Folio 15, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

July 27.

To M. Dubois de Lamotte. As many things might have occurred to disconcert the measures taken to assure the superiority of our fleet over the enemy, the King has learned with much satisfaction the happy arrival of his squadrons, under his orders at Louisbourg. Awaits with impatience later news, particularly of the squadron of Admiral Holborne. Is not surprised that some of the vessels that sailed from Brest under his command had sickness on board. MM. D'Aubigny and de Chavagnac having experienced a difficult and lengthened voyage from Rochefort to Brest, their crews must have suffered. Was uneasy as to his own health. As it is good, his confidence in the happy results of his operations is strengthened. There is no doubt the reunion of his forces had disconcerted the enemy. Folio 15, bis, 2 pages.

July 27.

The same to M. Drucour. Has received his letters by the schooner Les Sept Freres and the brigantine Le Charmant. Has learned with an infinitude of pleasure, the reunion of the squadrons. Under these conditions, Louisbourg, if attacked, will be able to defend itself successfully. Sends back Le Charmant. Must not neglect to forward news on every opportunity. Folio 16, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.

The same to M. Prévost. The letters he has received have removed his uneasiness as to his health. Approves the arrangement made for the transportation from Louisbourg to Quebec of the two battalions of the regiment de Berry. Powder for Quebec. Folio 17, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.

August 6.

The same to M. de Drucour. The suspicions of which he made M. de Machault aware merit more attention than ever. It seems, by the news from England, that the enemy has been exactly informed at Halifax of all that has passed at Louisbourg. When the man André arrives in France he will have him detained. Folio 17 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

July 27.

The same to M. Dubois de Lamothe. Has received by Le Charmant, arrived at Brest on the 22d. of this month, the intelligence of the reunion of all the divisions of his squadron without any accident. Will await his news with less disquietude and impatience. Does not doubt that he will be able to frustrate the plans of the enemy against Louisbourg and Quebec. By his letter of the 30th of last month, which left Brest by Le Merlin on the 8th of this, he will see that up to that time the squadron of Admiral Holborne, comprising 14 vessels, with a frigate of 20 guns, three corvettes, a bomb-ship and a fire-ship, was the only one destined for North America. The news has since spread that the English Government had sent orders to Admiral Boscawen, who sailed from Portsmouth to cruise in the Gulf of Biscay with a squadron of 8 ships, to join that of Holborne, but that does not appear probable, since Boscawen could not have sufficient provisions for directly undertaking the expedition; moreover, two of these vessels, that have three decks, cannot make the voyage; besides, Boscawen, it must be supposed, would arrive too late to act with Holborne. A more likely report is one that sends a ship of 50 guns and another of 40, from Cork to convoy 20 vessels in which the two battalions of Highlanders raised in Scotland were embarked. It would be desirable that he could meet this fleet in his cruises, and the same might be said of that of Boscawen if what has been reported to him of his destination is true. As he judged the two battalions of the regiment de Berry were not necessary at Louisbourg, he had done well to send them to Canada. Equally approves what he has done in detaching Le Bizarre and Le Célèbre for the same colony. In order to enable him to remain in America as long as the season permits, August 31. The same to the same. For two months there has been a question in England of a considerable armament prepared at the Isle of Wight for an attack on Brest. The latest news informs us that this project has been recognized as too difficult, and it has even been claimed they have abandoned all idea of attempts on the coasts of France. It is also claimed they have adopted the idea of forming a strong squadron to wait for ours on its return to Europe and that Admiral Holborne has received orders to attack it, strong or weak. This last statement does not seem very probable. In any case he should himself profit by any opportunities he may have to attack Holborne's squadron. Will send before long the squadron fitting out at Brest under the command of M. de Conflans. These preparations have been delayed by the works carried on for the defense of Brest. By the news from England, Admiral Holborne had arrived at Halifax with his fleet, where he was to be joined by General Loudon who has gone to New York with a considerable body of troops with the view of carrying into execution the plans formed against Louisbourg and Quebec. Folio 18, bis, 2 pages.

- December 24. The same to MM. Drucour and Prévost. As they cannot flatter themselves that the enemy is disheartened by the ill-success of his plans against Louisburg and Quebec, but as, on the contrary, he is actively preparing for fresh efforts next spring, hastened, on the reception of these letters by the returned squadron, to render an account to the King of all that relates to the defence of the colony. Necessity of continuing the works on the fortifications. Cannot increase the number of troops in the colony unless it be in adding to them one company of canoneers. Has ordered the sending of six mortars and of 6 guns of 6. Provisions. Folio 22, 7 pages.

- January 19. The same to Guillot. Concerning the embarkation of 800 to 900 recruits for Canada. Folio 1, 1 page.
- January 2. The same to M. Rouillé. The warning contained in the letter from M. le Comte d'Affy merits particular attention. This Pichon, the man in question, was in reality the secretary of M. le Comte de Raymond at Louisburg. It is equally certain that he was at Beauséjour at the time of the capture of that fort, and the circumstances connected with his special treatment by the English during his retention by them in Acadia, together with his present sojourn in England certainly tend to, render him an object of suspicion. The correspondence he might carry on with persons at Fort Frederic is less important than his knowledge of Louisburg and the relations he may have maintained there. The best use that the warning from M. D'Affy can be put to would be to secure his purpose and to this end to accept the offer made by the one who gave the information. It will be well to write promptly to M. D'Affy. Folio 1 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- March 30. The same to M. Rouillé. The information that M. D'Affray has supplied and his two letters, confirm what we already knew on the subject of the views of the English respecting Canada. There is no appearance, nevertheless, that the project of the Sr. Lasalle, so far as shown from the notes of M. D'Affray, has been approved. If the enemy carries out no others there is no cause for alarm. Will, however, make use of these advices by communicating them to Canada. Folio 31, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

 particularly with regard to Abbé Le Loutre. It is grievous that M. the Bishop of Quebec should have been obliged to take rigorous steps against the Capuchins of Louisiana. Is persuaded he has not acted without the very gravest reasons. In the meantime the Capuchins have neglected

September 14. The same to the same. Has just received the reply of the Capuchins of Champagne. They have the idea that the Jesuits are ambitious of being in sole charge of the service of the church in Louisiana, and for this reason, not hoping for the re-establishment of peace, they declare themselves ready to cede the territory to the Jesuits. It is easy to see that what they take most to heart is the withdrawing by the Bishop of the appointment of the Vicar General from the Capuchins and the granting of the same to the Jesuits. It is desirable that the former be allowed some compensation in this respect so that they may decide not to withdraw from the country. Begs him to conciliate matters. Folio 108, 2 pages.

CANADA. (4TH PART.)

ORDERS OF THE KING AND DESPATCHES.

1758. The President of the Navy Board to M. de Vaudreuil. Respecting the Versailles. leave-of-absence asked for the Chev. de Rosmodue, officer in the second January 18. battalion of Béarn, serving in Canada. Folio 1, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- January 18. The same to M. de Montcalm. Same subject. Folio 1 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- February 3. Warrant of Naturalization for the Sr. Feltz, Surgeon-Major of the troops at Montreal. Folio 2, 2 pages.
- February 3. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. As to the registration of the above warrant. Folio 2 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- February 10. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The amalgamation of the engineering service with the artillery service is not practicable. It would entirely upset the constitution of the service. Observations on this subject. Folio 3, 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- February 10. The same to M. de Montcalm. It is on the recommendation of M. de Vaudreuil that the second company of the cannoneer-bombardiers has been established. The six officers who are to command it have been selected in France from the corps of artillery. Is informed that his last despatches did not reach him. Is having copies sent to him at the same time as this.
Observations respecting the amalgamation of the engineering and artillery services. Folio 4, 2 pages.
- February 10. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. After mature reflection, has not considered it suitable to adopt the proposition he has made, conjointly with
M. de Montcalm, to form the regular troops of the colony in battalions unless these battalions are in temporary formation in the course of a campaign and their companies in sufficient numbers for the purpose. General observations with regard to the troops. Folio 5, 3 pages.
- February —. (In cipher). The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Has placed before the King the project with which he credits the English for surprising Quebec. Is persuaded that the English would reap very little advantage from it. Could keep informed of the plans of the English by advanced posts and scouts, on land, and on the river by the Sr. de Rivol who has established a watch at Gaspé. Has received from the Srs Pontleroy and Pellegrin separate observations on the places liable to an attack in the St.
Lawrence. May have these observations sent to him if he desires, and tell them observations of this importance should be in cipher. Folio 7, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages
- February 10. The same to M. Bigot. Has done well to oblige the victualling contractor to draw the supplies of food for the forts situated on the Ohio from Illinois.
It is regrettable that the pillage of the food that was in the Fort William Henry could not be stopped. Is touched by the misery that exists in the colony. Has done right to allow M. Varin to leave, since his health necessitated it. His demands on the Sr. Gradis for victualling will be filled.
Will receive the 150,000 printed money notes that he asked for. Has

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

1758. received the account of the Treasurer of the colony for 1755. Did well to send the English in Fort William Henry that the Indians had made prisoners promptly to Halifax. Approves the expenses he has defrayed for these English. Approves his having caused those of whom he has sent a list to embark on Le Célèbre and Le Bizarre. Folio 7, 2 pages.
- February 10. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Has learned with pleasure the good condition of the troops of the colony, but it is grievous that those from France have experienced so heavy a mortality. Has provided for the recruits. Since le Sr. Foucher, junr., has conducted himself badly, he cannot succeed his father as Procureur du Roi at Montreal if the latter retires. Concerning le Sr. Charly. Folio 8, 1½ pages.
- February 10. The same to M. de Montcalm. The Treasurers-General of the colonies ought to make an advantageous arrangement for M. de la Rochette in whom he is interested. Will take account of his representations with respect to the 8 lieutenants of the new companies of de la Reyne and of Languedoc who have left Dunkerque. Folio 8½, ½ page.
- February 10. The same to the same. Relating to the composition of the battalions of regular troops of the colony. A Staff Inspector could be appointed. Folio 9, 1½ pages.
- February 10. The same to M. le Chev. de Lévis. Has seen with pleasure the details preceding the attack and after the capture of Fort George. MM. de Vaudreuil and de Montcalm have greatly praised his zeal and activity in carrying out the operations of which he had charge. Folio 10, ½ page.
- February 10. The same to M. Desandrouins. Has received the precis he prepared of the events of the last campaign in Canada. M. de Montcalm has written that he had put him in charge of the siege operations and that he was satisfied with his conduct. Folio 10, ½ page.
- February 10. The same to M. Bougainville. Has read with pleasure his letter concerning the capture of Fort George. Folio 10, ¼ page.
- February 10. The same to M. Bigot. Relating to bills of exchange. Folio 10, ¼ page.
- February 10. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Has procured a warrant as surgeon of the King for the Sr. Alavoine, surgeon of the troops at Three Rivers. Cannot decide anything yet on the application of the Sr. Levasseur to be appointed in France as ship-builder to the King. Does not forget that he has ability, and is well disposed in his favour. Neither will he forget the Sr. Cressé, assistant ship-builder. Folio 11, ½ page.
- February 10. The same to M. de Montcalm. Respecting the Sr. de Charly. Folio 11½, ½ page.
- February 10. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Has procured their retirement on half pay for the Srs. de la Corne, Senr. and the Chev. de St. Louis, and to the Srs. de Cabanac and de Boucherville, captains, the half pay, and the Cross of St. Louis for the last two named. Folio 12, ½ page.
- The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Has given the position of captain of the gates of the town of Quebec to the Sr. Aubert; and pensions to the widows of officers deceased on service, namely, 300 livres to the widow of M. de Beaujeu; 250 to the widow of Chev. de Gannes; 200 to the daughter of the Sr. de Léry, deceased, Engineer-in-Chief, and 300 to the widow of the Sr. de Villers. Folio 12, ½ page.
- February 10. The same to the same. Gratuities have been granted to the Sr. Briault, Surgeon-Major, and to the Religieuses Hospitalières of Quebec and Montreal, for their zeal in caring for the invalid soldiers. Folio 13, ½ page.
- February 10. The same to M. the Bishop of Quebec. Same subject. Id. to the Marquis de Montcalm. Folio 13, ½ page.
- February 10. The same to M. Bigot. Efforts that he is making to provide victualling. Will not leave the King in ignorance of the zeal with which he has done everything possible for the King's service and for the inhabitants of the 1758. colony whose patience can but increase the praise due to their fidelity, and approves his having caused rice to be supplied at 10 sols the pound for which he had paid 20 to a Marseilles captain who had bought 500 quintals. Folio 14, 2 pages.

5-6 EDWARD VII., A. 1906

- February 10. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Has with pleasure sent the six blank commissions for captains of militia. Will announce to the inhabitants the King's satisfaction at the zeal and bravery of which they have given proof. Folio 15, 1 page.
- February 10. The same to the same. Approves his having permitted the Sr. Schyler, of the Jersey regiment, and Le Martin, captain of artillery, English prisoners, to return to New England there to obtain funds to enable them to live in Canada. Has done right to accept their word of honour to be at Carilon on the 10th of May next. Will nevertheless observe that the officers are more likely to inform their Government on our situation. Concerning the Sr. Deschambault. Folio 16, 1 page.
- February 11. The same to M. Doreil. May address himself to M. Bigot for the remittance to France of the 32,400 livres realised by the sale of the property of M. de Dieskau. Folio 16½, ¼ page.
- February 11. The same to M. Bigot. Same subject. Folio 16½, ¼ page.
- February 14. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Has seen the details of the raids that various parties of troops, of Canadians and of Indians, have made against the English in the midst of their colonies. The advantages we gain from this kind of warfare, though often small enough, should nevertheless weaken the English and cause them discouragement. It is very proper to harass them in this way, but at the same time he must see that these parties do not go too far, especially when they are composed of troops of the colony and Canadians, of whose blood he must be sparing. It is regrettable that Fort Duquesne is not better placed and that it was made so small. A good fort in this locality is of importance and it should be placed in a good state of defense. Is touched at the situation in the colony and the zeal that the inhabitants displayed in depriving themselves of their provisions to supply the needs of the army that marched against Fort George. Is satisfied with the results of the negotiations with the Iroquois. Hopes he will be able to withdraw the Mohawks wholly from the side of the English and is very happy to see that the efforts of the latter to secure the other Iroquois served only to make them despised. The firmness he showed in making them give up the murderers of the two Frenchmen who were killed in Missouri had a good effect. The English plan for the invasion last year that was given to the English Ambassador in Holland was badly conceived. He does well to prepare to repulse an attack on Quebec, but it is not to be believed that the English will involve themselves on the St. Lawrence as long as there is a squadron of some strength at Louisbourg. Is persuaded, by all the information he has received, that the Canadians and Indians contributed greatly to the success of the expedition against Fort George, and that they deserve all the praise he gives them for their zeal and their valour, but sees with regret that he continually makes complaints of the troops from France. Cannot believe that there is prejudice on his part, and exhorts him to treat them in such a manner as to get the best possible service from them. Neither does he question all the good he says of M. de Lévis, but, does he believe that M. de Montcalm has less zeal and talent? Believes, as he says, that he is careful to conceal from the public the trifling reproaches he considers himself bound to make to the Commandant. Would be sorry if he learned that a perfect understanding did not exist between them. Has written to M. de Montcalm on this subject, and relies that he will perceive a change in his attitude towards him. Will concert with M. de Paulmy with the view of obtaining the rank of Major General that he asks for M. de Lévis. Regrets that after

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

1758. the capitulation of Fort George, the English exposed themselves to the fury of the Indians notwithstanding the precautions that had been taken to guarantee their safety. Has conducted himself well in this affair, and from the manner in which he showed what occurred, nothing can be imputed to us in this respect, but on the contrary the English ought to land our generous behaviour. It is very regrettable that they do not imitate us and that they maltreat our prisoners, as is stated. Should make great efforts to maintain M. de Boishébert at the river St. Jean, this point being important. Approves his having stopped Le Bizarre and La Célèbre at Ile aux Coudres and sent them promptly back to France since they were short of provisions. Folio 17, 4 pages.
- February 14. The same to M. Bigot. Relating to victualling. Folio 19, 1 page.
- February 14. The same to MM. le Vaudreuil and Bigot. Has procured the favours he asked for the various Courts of Justice in the colony. Sends the appointment of Honorary Councillor in the Superior Council for the Sr. Estèbe. Folio 19, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- February 14. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Not having given the details of his action in sending back the Sr. de Villeray and de Gannes to Ile Royale, has not thought it necessary to report to the King. Folio 20, 1 page.
- February 15. The same to the same. On the details of all the good he says of the Sr. de Boishébert and the advantages he has gained over the English on various occasions, the King has granted him the Cross of St. Louis which he sends to M. Drucour. Folio 20 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- February 15. The same to M. Boishébert. Same subject. Folio 20 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- February 15. The same to M. Bigot. The Treasurers-General will give an assistant to M. Imbert, their clerk. Cannot procure a warrant for the Sr. Foucher as principal King's scrivener, as he recommends, this year. Has done right to send six masts to M. Prévost to repair the accidents from a gale sustained by M. de Lamotte's squadron at Louisbourg in the month of September. Folio 22, 1 page.
- February 19. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. M. de St. Rome, who distinguished himself at the fight of the Robuste, returns to Canada with recruits. Would be glad if he could give him a company or secure him some other advantageous position. The Marechal de Bellisle is particularly interested in him. Folio 23, 1 page.
- February 20. The same to M. Bigot. Concerning M. de St. Rome. Folio 24, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- February 24. The same to the same. The intention of M. de Paulmy is not to recall M. Dorcil before the end of the war. It is important to have a good understanding with him. Folio 24, 1 page.
- Februar 24. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Communicates to them information he has received which permits him to believe that the dearth can be, to a great extent, relieved by the culture of the potatoe. This vegetable, farinaceous and nourishing, is good alike for man and beast and is grown well in New England. It is much used in Germany and in the Messin country. Knows it gives an abundant yield and it requires little care. Will learn whether this plant exists in Canada, and in this case encourage its growth. It would be a great resource at a time of scarcity. Will nevertheless make this observation, that it is necessary to inquire, first, whether the ease with which cultivation is carried on may not tend to a diminution of that of wheat when the inhabitants are accustomed to the use of potatoes; and further, whether there may not be some danger in making this plant known to the Indians, who, scarcely equal to the care required in the cultivation of the grains, may satisfy themselves with growing potatoes, which requires no care. It is in general less their inclinations than their wants that hold them in dependance on us; and finding it so easy to subsist by the use of this vegetable, might we not find a diminution of their attachment? Begs them to weigh these reflections, for, if on the one hand some 1753. advantage can be found in this new cultivation, on the other we must endeavour not to fall into a more dangerous inconvenience, if the result should be a disinclination on the part of the inhabitants to continue the growth of the grains. Such disinclination would lead them insensibly into idleness, and it is important to keep them in the activity and at the work that have made them so brave a people as they are today.

- February 28. The same to the same. Sends them duplicates of the despatches that have not reached them, in which he asks for information in view of effecting retrenchments in certain expenses. Gratuities. Folio 25, bis., 1½ pages.
- February 28. The same to the same. Respecting the representations of M. La Tour Dupin, colonel of the regiment de Guyenne. Folio 26, 1 page.
- March 3. The same to M. Bigot. Respecting the emoluments of the Sr. de St. Rome. Folio 26, ½ page.
- March 3. The same to M. de Montcalm. Edified somewhat as he may be at the good understanding that outwardly exists between him and M. de Vaudreuil, he would gladly hope it were accompanied by all the intimacy that the good of the service requires. Knows well both are too much attached to the King's interests to allow his service to suffer in essential things, but at the same time it is very difficult to prevent a division of sentiments having an influence on operations. This is not the moment to appraise the qualities or the talents of those who direct affairs; the principal object is to make the best of everything and live in reciprocal good feeling. Will take note of the recommendations he makes in favour of some officers of the colony, but, as favours can only be granted on the application of M. de Vaudreuil, he will write to him if he defers proposing them. Desires to oblige M. de Bougainville, but can only act indirectly with respect to favours asked for. Should not question the good disposition he entertains in regard to him and it is for this reason he sends him a special cipher, so that he may give free expression to any observations he might desire to make on military operations and the administration of the colony. Folio 27, 1½ pages.
- March 3. The same to MM. Vaudreuil and Bigot. On the good reports given by M. de Vaudreuil on the talent and probity of the Sr. Pérault, has sent him the order of the King giving him the position of Clerk of the Marshalsea in Canada. Folio 28, ½ page.
- March 6. The same to M. Bigot. The captain of the vessel Le Godichon who will deliver this letter to him, takes a cargo of 2,400 barrels of flour. Folio 28, ½ page.
- March 16. The same to MM. Vaudreuil and Bigot. Sends a War Commissary to Canada to assist M. Doreil. The choice has fallen on the Sr. Bernier, who served at Quebec as aide-de-camp to the Baron de Dieskau. Will have the same emoluments as M. de Crancé. Folio 29, ½ page.
- March 20. The same to the same. Is occupied constantly with measures for increasing the shipment of supplies for Canada. Sends them instructions given him on the manner of preparing rice for the nourishment of a large number of people at small cost, and several copies which they will have distributed among the inhabitants. Will enquire if the results equal expectations. Folio 29, ½ page.
- March 23. The same to the same. Three vessels will be sent from Dunkerque carrying 400 tons of seed wheat and as much rice for the subsistence of the inhabitants. In leaving Quebec they will be convoyed by La Valeur and La Mignonne to Cape François where they are to take cargo. Folio 30, 1 page.
- March 25. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The Sr. Druillon, ensign in the troops of Canada, has asked the place of Lieutenant and it appears he deserves it for 1758. important services he has rendered. M. le Comte de la Galissonnière, a relative, particularly recommended him. Folio 31, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

- March 25. The same to M. Bigot. The Sr. Bazagier returns to Canada to resume service as a King's scrivener. His health has made him restless in the positions he has successively asked for, but he has none the less been assiduous in his work. He would like to serve in the most southern part of the colony. Will try to place him at a post in the upper country. Folio 31 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page.
- March 27. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. The vessels Le St. Pierre, La Baleine and L'Annach of Dunkerque, will be convoyed to Quebec by the frigates La Valeur and La Mignonne. Can retain these frigates if they require them. Folio 32, 1 page.

- May 9. The same to M. Bigot. Will grant the Compagnie des Indes withdrawal of the seizure of paintings it sent to Canada last year for the trade of the post of Chouéguen. Relating to the freight due by this company for 200 bales of beaver carried on the King's vessels. Folio 38, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- May 22. The same to the same. Respecting the measures taken to arrest and convict the authors of the theft from the King's chest at Montreal. Folio 39, 1 page.

Hopes that they have made port safely as well as the others that left shortly after them. Folio 40, 2 pages.
- June 24. The same to M. Bigot. If the expences, as he says, will show an increase of three or four millions over last year, he does not see how it can be met. It is only by extraordinary efforts that the bills of exchange have been paid up to the present time. Observations. Folio 41, 2 pages.

The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King has learned with pleasure the advantages gained by the parties of Canadians and Indians during the winter in all parts of the colony from Belle River to Acadia. The success of the party of the Sr. de Bellestre in punishing the Palatins, destroying their village and rasing the forts that covered them, must have given the Indians a just idea of the firmness of his sentiments and the necessity of paying attention to what he says to them. Can but praise his conduct and the bravery and activity of the Sr. de Bellestre, but sees with regret that they were unable to carry away for the subsistence of the troops the considerable stores of provisions in this village. It would seem that the 500 horses taken from the Palatins should have sufficed for transport. Fears that the insufficiency of provisions may impede their operations in the spring. The expedition of the Sr. de La Durantaye shows nevertheless that he neglects nothing that is calculated to destroy the enemy and to maintain the advantages continually gained by him up to the present. The King desires to testify by some favour his satisfaction with the Sr. de La Durantaye for the bravery and ability he displayed in deceiving Robert Rogers and leading him to leave the advantageous position that he occupied on the mountain. Will do the same for the Srs. de Richarville and de La Chevotière, who formed part of the expedition. The loss the English sustained by the defeat of Robert Rogers must have been considerable, since, in the account they have given of this expedition they claim he escaped after losing many of his officers. They have no others with the Indians except Colonel Johnson, and is glad to learn that the two Nontagués prevented him from carrying out the plan he had formed of going to their village with provisions to secure their adherence to his side. The supplies that he must have received by the vessels met near Newfoundland should place him at his ease with respect to the Indians who left him at the instigation of the English and the scarcity of supplies in our storehouses prevented his retaining. Our successes should make an impression on the Iroquois. The pillage of the village of the Palatins could but confirm that impression. Hopes that the Sr. de Boishébert would have been able to reach Ile Royale with his detachment of soldiers and Canadians before the arrival of the enemy. Does not say if he was with the 50 Acadians who after having been in the neighbourhood of Port Royal were pursued by a detachment of 200 English, of whom they killed 26, obliging the rest to retire, with a loss of two wounded only. Folio 42, 3 pages.

August 7.

The same to the same. Has seen with pleasure by his last letter the arrangements he has made to ward off the various attacks that the enemy has planned this year towards Belle Rivière and the Lakes. Notwithstanding his circumstantial reports of the forces that the English are to put in movement, does not believe they will be so considerable as stated. In any case is very glad that he was informed soon enough to send M. de Lévis in the direction of Carillon. Seems to have some disquietude as to Fort Duquesne, seeing that the convoy sent from Illinois was waited for by the English at Belle Rivière. Soon learned that this convoy arrived safely at the fort. Is likely to find resources with the Iroquois, whose disposition towards us appears to be good. The provisions sent by the Sr. Gradis, and which he should have received, ought to enable him to win their attachment and to cement the alliance with the Loups. Has learned that the neighbouring nations of Ohio, particularly the Chérais, have renounced all connection with the English. Might, at the time when he wrote (May) have thought he would be reduced to the defensive for want of food, but if he has received the greater part of what has been sent him, he should have found himself more at his ease and the confidence of the colony should have been renewed. The King has the greatest confidence in him and in the willingness of the troops and the Canadians. Awaits day by day news of

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

1758. the besieging of Louisbourg. Has learned of the arrival at Port Lajoie of Captain de Boishébert with his detachment. Counts on his having reached Louisbourg. Folio 44, 2½ pages.
- August 7. The same to M. Bigot. Has been touched by the sad picture he draws of the condition of the colony. Has ground to hope the assistance since received will have given relief. The vessels destined for Ile Royale have orders to proceed to Quebec, if they find Louisbourg blockaded, and all carry victualling. Sees with extreme pain the excessive expences caused by the operations of the war and scarcity of food. Begs him in the autumn to give him the most exact information on the situation in the colony, the condition of the storehouses and that of the finances, leaving him in ignorance of nothing relating to the administration of the colony. Folio 45, 2 pages.
- August 7. The same to M. de Montcalm. On the situation in the colony with regard to victualling. On the battalionising of the troops. Folio 46, 1½ pages.
- August 7. The same to M. de Lévis. Has been informed of the command given him in the Carillon district. Will make the most of his services with the King. P.S.—Mde. la Marec'ale, Duchesse de Mirépoix, solicits his return to France. Will do all that he thinks will be best for him. Folio 47, ½ page.
- August 7. The same to M. Doreil. The creditable accounts given of his zeal by the chiefs of the colony have inspired every confidence in him. Folio 47, ½ page.
- August 31. The same to M. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Concerning the Sr. Antoine Le Tailleur de St. Antoine, on leave in France. Folio 47½, ½ page.
- August 26. (In cipher.) The same to the same. Has received no news from Louisbourg, but the English announce its capture in so positive a manner, has thought it his duty to send them a corvette to p'ace them in possession of the observations that this grievous occurrence requires his communicating to them. The season is too advanced to allow the English to undertake anything against Quebec, but in the meantime their attention will probably be given to the establishment of posts as far as Gaspé, as much to gain the Indians as to procure safe places for their privateers to put into. Is persuaded that M. de Vaudreuil will do everything necessary to prevent that, without which it will be difficult to victual and help the colony next year, when the entrance to the St. Lawrence will be blockaded. Even this year, under less difficult circumstances, our shipments to Canada have met with heavy losses. Folio 47, bis, 2½ pages.
- August 26. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Although the season is well advanced, has had a corvette despatched to him, hoping he may gain some anchorage in the river from which the despatches she carries can be forwarded. Folio 48, 1 page.
- September 11. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. The Sr. Chomel, who had been appointed King's physician in Canada, being dead, the King has appointed in his place the Sr. Le Beau who had been presented by the Sr. Boyer. Folio 48, bis, ½ page.
- August 26. (In cipher.) The same to M. de Montcalm. There can be no doubt of the fall of Louisbourg. Will omit nothing to help with M. de Vaudreuil in keeping up the zeal and ardour of the troops. Folio 48, bis, 1 page.
- September 23. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Could not have furnished a more agreeable account to the King than that of the brilliant action fought on the 8th of July below Fort Carillon with General Abercromby. Relies on his neglecting nothing to resist the efforts that will be made to penetrate again into Canada. His joy is, however, much diminished by the details he has given of all that has passed between him and M. de Montcalm. Nothing could happen more unfortunately under existing circumstances than the 1758. diversity of opinion which exists between them, and it is with actual pain that he sees M. de Montcalm determined to demand his recall and that he desires it. In awaiting the decision of the King, recommends him to show every regard for M. de Montcalm that the good of the service permits. M. de Montcalm in his last letter appeared disposed to a reconciliation with him and to seek his confidence again. Knows that he has authorized M. Bougainville to make efforts to this effect. Hopes they will both discard all counsels and private feelings that might be an obstacle to the good understanding that ought to exist between them. Folio 49, 2 pages.

5-6 EDWARD VII., A. 1906

- September 23. (In cipher). The same to M. de Montcalm. Concerning the slight coolness that a difference of opinion has produced between him and M. de Vaudreuil. Will take counsel with M. le Maréchal de Belleisle on the subject of his demand to be recalled. Folio 50, 1 page.
- The same to M. de Lévis. M. de Montcalm has acquainted him better than his own modesty has allowed him to do, with the part he took in the days operations on the 8th of July. The King has charged him to express his satisfaction to him. Folio 50 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- September 23. The same to M. Bigot. Has received his letters by the frigate La Valeur, arrived at Brest. Relating to the victualling and the accounts of his administration. Recommends him to give his care and attention to the maintenance of harmony between MM. de Vaudreuil and de Montcalm. Folio 51, 1 page.
- September 27. The same to M. de Montcalm. Had already been made aware, by the news from England, of his victory of the 8th of July. M. Péan, major of Quebec, has confirmed it. To have repulsed and defeated an army of 25,000 men with a much inferior corps of troops, can have been due only to the valour, the activity and the zeal of the officers of the various corps, and above all to MM. de Lévis and de Bourlamarque, and to the wise dispositions that he had made. It is only with the greatest regret that he finds himself required to speak to the King of his return. Folio 51, 1 page.
- September 23. The same to M. Doreil. Profits by a small vessel sailing from Brest to acknowledge the receipt of his letter of the 28th of July. Thanks him for the details he has given of the affair of the 8th of July. Is busy with the recruiting. Folio 52, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- September 23. The same to M. de Bourlamarque. Has placed before the King the proofs of zeal he has given in his service. Has learned with sorrow that he has been dangerously wounded. Folio 52, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- September 23. (In cipher). The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Defers until later his replies to all their despatches received by La Valeur. Is unable to conceal from them the extent to which he has been struck by the excessive expenses of the colony, particularly those of this year, which M. Bigot says may reach twenty millions, besides another million expenses defrayed for the Indians of the upper country occasioned by the ravages of small-pox. It is not possible, notwithstanding the dearthness of food and the consumption caused by the war, that the expenses should rise to such an exorbitant sum unless there has been negligence or abuse. The King has shown the greatest surprise and a dissatisfaction that he knew not how to express. In fine, it cannot be denied that the expenses of Canada have grown beyond all kinds of bounds and reached a point which it is not possible any longer to provide for. Folio 53, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- September 23. The same to M. de Bougainville. Is charmed to learn of his journey to Montreal, believing that his wound was the sole motive. After the services that he rendered in the affair of the 8th of July he could do nothing better than to seek to reconcile divergent minds. His return to the army leads him to presume he has recovered from his wound. Should have received his service letters for the rank of quartermaster. Folio 54, 1 page.

September 7. Circular from M. Berryer, announcing that he succeeds M. de Marriac in the Ministry of Marine. Folio 54½ ¼ page.
- September 25. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Sends him a copy of a letter containing information that may be useful to him. Execution of the plans mentioned appears to him difficult and perhaps even impracticable, but is very glad to inform him of everything, so that he may judge better what is best to do. Folio 55, 1 page.
- September 25. The same to M. Bigot. Relating to the vessel La Toison d'Or, disarmed and condemned at Quebec. Folio 55, ½ page.

ORDERS OF THE KING AND DESPATCHES.

- Versailles,
January 11. The President of the Navy Board to MM. de Drucour and Prévost. Is sending six Religieuses for the needs of the hospital at Louisbourg, with six hospital attendants. One of them, Brother Potentien Bernand, is to replace the Superior, who is dead. Folio — 1 page.
- January 11. The same to the same. Provisions sent and to be sent. If all arrive without accident, the storehouses will be found amply provided for. Folio 2, 2 pages.
- January 14. The same to the same. M. de Beaussier, who was to command the first division bound for Ile Royale, being ill, he cannot proceed to his destination. He will be replaced by M. de La Villéon. Has learned that the frigates taking the first convoy were attacked by a squadron of the enemy 100 leagues from the coast but were able to escape pursuit and make port, but it is to be feared that two or three vessels in the convoy may have been taken. Will have the second convoy sent in two or three divisions. The enemy is making preparations to attack Louisbourg. The attack is decided on. Has no news of L'Aigle or L'Eveillé. Folio 3, 1½ pages.
- February 11. The same to M. Prévost. Awaits impatiently news of the arrival at Louisbourg of L'Aigle and L'Eveillé, the cargoes of which are important. Approves his having sent Le Charmant to Quebec. Has learned that this brigantine had been taken on returning to France, which deprives him of the despatches she would have brought. Does not approve the conduct of the officers with regard to the prizes. Relating to the damage caused to the English fleet and French vessels by the hurricane of the 25th of September. Will defer the exchange of the Sr. John Tane, first lieutenant of the vessel Le Tilbury, which is wrecked on the coast, seeing that he appears to be talented and is well acquainted with Ile Royale. Is satisfied with the details supplied with regard to Gauthier, sent by him to the vicinity of Halifax to enquire into the position of the English. Folio 7, 3 pages.
- February 11. The same to the same. Gives him a proof of his esteem by informing him of the talk more or less founded in circulation about him since the return of the squadron of M. Dubois de Lamotte to Brest. It is said that he permits games of chance in his house and that the military and civil officers lost as much as between 15,000 to 20,000 livres during the time the squadron was at Louisbourg. This is contrary to the ordinances, to good example and to good administration. Folio 8, 1 page.
- February 11. The same to the same. Relating to the account of expences. Can but approve his having taken means to send word to Quebec of the presence of the English squadron at Ile d'Aix. Folio 9, 1 page.
- February 11. The same to M. de Drucour. The King has listened favourably to the various applications he has made on behalf of the officers of the colony,

5-6 EDWARD VII., A. 1906

1758. with the exception of those for increasing their emoluments. Promotions. The Sr. Du Hayet died on his arrival in France. Folio 10, 1½ pages.
- February 11. The same to M. de La Grive. Has granted him a gratuity of 3,000 livres for the losses he sustained by the capture of the vessel in which he sailed for Ile Royale. Folio 9½, ½ page.
- February 11. The same to MM. de Drucour and Prévost. Relating to provisions. Some of the vessels sent to Ile Royale have been captured, among them Le Merlin and Le Paroli. Folio 11, 1½ pages.
- February 11. The same to M. Drucour. Has seen with pleasure the various dispositions he has made at Louisbourg and its environs to place them in a condition to repulse the English. The intention certainly was to attack Louisbourg, and it was only the superiority of M. de Lamotte's squadron that led them to give up the attempt. The King feels the necessity of maintaining a strong naval force always at the port of Louisbourg. Will inform him of the arrangements made in that direction. Is very glad that he has granted to one Gauthier an order to act as captain at Ile St. Jean, as a reward for his services as scout, but it would perhaps be more useful to continue employing him in that capacity than as captain of the port. Understands how difficult it must be to hold the Indians and make them march with so little to give them in the way of provisions and presents. Is surprised to learn that the recruits sent him are of such an inferior quality. Does well to send all suspected persons out of the colony. Folio 12, 3 pages.
- February 14. The same to MM. Drucour and Prévost. Has approved their recommendation to form a new company of cannoniers—bombardiers, as well as his having taken 40 soldiers from the squadron for artillery exercise during the winter. Will receive the ten gunners he has asked for. Folio 13½, 1 page.
- February 14. The same to the same. In accordance with their demand, the King will increase the number of troops in Ile Royale by two battalions, and he has chosen the Cambise, and the Royal of the foreign volunteers. Folio 14, 2 pages.
- February 14. The same to the same. Concerning the Srs. de Villejoin and Charly. The last named remains in Canada at the request of M. de Vaudreuil. Folio 15, 1 page.
- February 14. The same to M. de Drucour. Is disposed to grant retirement to the Sr. Dolaborats, captain of the port at Louisbourg, in view of his bad health. Folio 15½, 1 page.
- February 14. Ordinance of the King for the establishment of a second company of bombardiers at Ile Royale. Folio 16, 1½ pages.
- February 15. The President of the Navy Board to M. de Drucour. Sends him a Cross of St. Louis for M. de Boishébert, in recognition of his distinguished services. Folio 17, ½ page.
- February 18. The same to the same. Sends him 18 medals for the Indians to replace those that were taken last year on Le Merlin. Folio 17, ¼ page.
- February 18. The same to M. Prévost. Le Cerf Volant, which he sent to France with 60 convalescent sailors from M. de Lamotte's squadron, is ready to sail again, with a cargo of flour. The quarter of rice that he will give to the soldiers in place of half a pound of flour, seems to be sufficient. Is not surprised that he has had trouble to convince them the change was good for their health. Sends him his commission as Commissary General of the Navy. Folio 18, 1½ pages.
- February 18. The same to MM. de Drucour and Prévost. Is very glad to learn of the cessation of mortality among the sick left by M. Dubois de Lamotte's squadron; but it is distressing that the sickness has spread to the inhabitants. Hopes he will inform him of continued successes of the privateers. Folio 19, 1½ pages.

February 18. The same to the same. Has learned with pleasure the arrival of L'Aigle at Louisbourg. Hopes L'Eveillé will not be far behind. Will hold all the Indian corn and rice the privateers may bring to Louisbourg during the winter. Folio 20, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- February 18. The same to M. Drucour. Relating to the officers. Sees from the statement by the deserter from Annapolis Royale that the English will fortify themselves at Beausejour, which they are now call Cumberland. Folio 20 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page.
- February 20. The same to M. de Villejouin. Is occupied with sending provisions and seed to the Ile St. Jean. Should recommend the refugee inhabitants to devote themselves as much as possible to the cultivation of the land, and not to settle at too great a distance from one another. Fears the English intend to attack the island. Folio 22, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- February 20. The same to M. Prévost. Has received the record of the settlement and liquidation of the brigantine Le Descay, taken from the English by Le Bizarre. Will make use of his observations with regard to the too heavy costs of the Admiralty of Ile Royale. Relating to the Sr. Pourtrait, who asks to serve in the ports of France. Folio 23, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- February 20. The same to M. de Drucour. The vessel L'Aigle has arrived at Brest. Has received the despatches. Folio 23 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- February 20. The same to the same. Has received the memorial of the Sr. de Carvoisin, lieutenant of the troops. His affair is one of ordinary justice, and he cannot interfere. All he has to do is to employ someone for his defence in France. Folio 23 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 6. The same to M. Prévost. Le Jacques and Le Chasseur carry 240 barrels of flour to Ile Royale. Folio 24, 1 page.
- March 10. The same to the same. Approves his sending Le Jacques and Le Chasseur to Martinique for syrup and molasses, but does not approve the agreement made with the owners, as it would pay them better to be taken by the enemy than to deliver their cargo at Louisbourg. Folio 25, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- March 10. The same to the same. Desires explanations of the expences of the hospital at Louisbourg. The officers who are cared for at the hospital should not be waited on by their own servants, when there are attendants for that purpose. Folio 26, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- March 10. The same to MM. de Drucourt and Prévost. Has procured gratuities for the Srs. Dangeac and Joubert, captains. Necessity for economy. Folio 27, 1 page.
- March 10. The same to M. Prévost. Has procured a gratuity of 150 livres for the Sr L'Escalier, Surgeon-Adjutant of the second battallion de Bourgogne, for his zeal in caring for the sick of M. Dubois de Lamotte's squadron. Has procured a warrant as chief King's scrivener for his brother. Folio 27 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 11. The same to MM. de Drucour and Prévost. The necessity for sending early succour to Ile Royale, and anticipating the English, has decided him to despatch the division of the King's vessels commanded by M. Beaussier at the earliest possible time from Brest. Enumeration of the vessels to leave from various ports, to gather at Louisbourg. Cannot too strongly recommend them to reflect well on the importance of the colony. On the issue of this campaign that of the war principally depends. The English will neglect nothing to effect the conquest of the colony. Admiral Boscawen left Portsmouth with four vessels only. It is said he put in to Plymouth, and the Gazette of Holland states he sailed thence with four more ships. Is still in doubt. L'Invincible, forming part of his squadron, was lost in leaving Portsmouth. The Spanish are fitting out 18 vessels. The object is unknown to them, but the English are uneasy, as well as at the orders for fitting out 21 vessel of the line at Brest and Rochefort. Work on this will be actively carried on after the sailing of the vessels in-

- The same to the same. The Sr. Marchesseau, lieutenant of frigate, commanding La Mutine, will fill the place of Captain at Louisbourg until peace. Has procured the Cross of St. Louis for the Sr. Dolabarats. Folio 28 bis, 1 page.
- March 23. The same to the same. Has forwarded the appointment of King's Attorney to the Bailliwick and Admiralty at Louisbourg that they have asked for the Sr. Pascaud. Folio 29, ½ page.
- March 25. The same to the same. Notifies him that the convoy of frigates and storeships that sailed from Rochefort, the 9th of this month, under the protection of the vessels Le Prudent and Le Raisonnable, having been driven on Cape Ortegal, the storeship Le Messenger was lost, in collision with Le Raisonnable. The last named had to return to Port Louis, and the others continued their voyage to Ile Royale. Folio 29, 1 page.
- March 31. Order of the King confiding the command of the troops of Ile Royale under the orders of M. de Drucour to the Sr. de la Houlière. Folio 30, 1 page.
- March 28. The President of the Navy Board to M. de Drucour. Advises him of the appointment of M. de la Houlière to the command in chief of the troops of Ile Royale. Folio 30½, 1 page.
- March 30. The same to M. Franquet. Same subject. Folio 31, 1 page.
- April 4. The same to MM. de Drucour and Prévost. Has granted a gratuity of 300 livres to the Sr. de Carvoisin. Folio 30½, ¼ page.
- April 10. The same to the same. M. de Blénac is to proceed to Louisbourg in Le Formidable to command the squadron that will be collected there, to the number of nine vessels instead of thirteen, for the reason that a squadron of the enemy is before Rochefort. Fears also, for this reason, he cannot send the Cambise battalion. The battalion of the foreign volunteers has been embarked in the division of M. de Beaussier. Notwithstanding the contretemps, hopes that M. de Blénac will be in a condition to provide efficaciously for the defence of Louisbourg. Folio 31, bis, 2 pages.
- April 10. Order of the King, confiding to M. de Blénac the general command of the land troops, as well as those of the colony, in Ile Royale. Folio 32, 1 page.
- April 10. Letter from the King to M. de Blénac. Same subject. Folio 32½, 1 page.
- April 10. The President of the Navy Board to M. de la Houlière. Same subject. Folio 32, bis, ½ page.
- April 14. The same to MM. de Drucour and Prévost. Has granted to the Srs. Daubertin and Doumet warrants as engineers. Folio 32½ bis, ½ page.
- April 14. The same to the same. Sends them the estimates of the King for this year's expenses at Ile Royale. Folio 33, ½ page.
- April 14. (In cipher.) The same to the same. The presence for three days of an English squadron in the roadstead of Ile d'Aix having retarded the despatch of the vessels destined for Canada, has decided to have powder and firearms loaded at Brest on Le Bizarre, L'Echo and L'Aréthuse. Will have these munitions forwarded to Quebec on their arrival. Folio 33, ½ page.
- April 22. The same to M. Prévost. Concerning the acquittance of the bills of exchange. Folio 34, 1 page.
- April 28. The same to MM. Drucour and Prévost. Is satisfied with their administration. As they have not been able to receive all his letters, he reports what they contained: M. de Bonnaventure will continue to receive his extraordinary gratuity. Might augment the emoluments of the councillors another year. Will propose to the King a gratuity for the Sisters of the Congregation. May reimburse the Sr. Maillard for the expences he has defrayed for the construction of a church and a presbytery to settle the Indians at Ile Royale. The Sr. Marchesson should perform the functions 1758. of Captain of the Port until the Sr. Le Large can reach Ile Royale. Folio 35, 3 pages.

- April 30. The same to the same. Has taken measures to stop the lack of subordination on the part of MM. de St. Julhien and de la Grive. The Maréchal de Bellisle is to write to them on the subject. Folio 37, 1 page.
- June 24. The same to the same. Has learned with pleasure the arrival at Louisbourg of the vessels L'Apollon, Le Prudent and the storeship La Chèvre, of the division commanded by M. Beaussier, and the putting in at Port Dauphin of the frigate La Fidèle. Awaits with impatience the arrival of the other vessels bound for the same destination. Is satisfied with the disposition made for placing detachments at points open to a descent by the enemy. Has approved the decision to forward all the youthful Acadians from Ile St. Jean to Ile Royale with M. de Boishébert and his detachment of Canadians. Proposed to send back the schooner they despatched to him with their packages, but the presence of an English squadron before Brest prevents it for the present. Approves M. Prévost having sent salted meats, flour, Indian corn and codfish to Canada. Folio 39, 3 pages.
- June 30. The same to the same. Has received their letters by which they inform him of the descent of the English on the Baie de Gabarus. It is regrettable that they had not taken sufficient precautions at the point where they landed. The garrison of Louisbourg is increased by the Cambise battalion. The King approves the decision of the Council to retain in the port the six warships at anchor there. There should be no question of sending them away, unless they are in danger there or they can no longer hope to save the place. Have done well to send Le Bizarre and L'Echo to Quebec. It would have been desirable if the division commanded by M. Duchaufaud, which put in at Port Dauphin, could have entered Louisbourg. The junction with the other vessels might have allowed some advantageous operation by sea. Hopes that Le Formidable has been able to make good her entrance into Louisbourg, and that they will exhaust every resource to prevent the capture of that place. Folio 41, 2½ pages.
- June 30. The same to M. de Drucour. Exhorts him to put everything in motion to repulse the enemy. Folio 42, 1 page.
- June 30. The same to M. le Marquis Desgouttes. Has given an account of his letter to the King. It appeared to him that his proposal and that of the captains of the other vessels of the King to leave the port of Louisbourg immediately after the descent of the English by the Anse de la Cormandière, was premature and dangerous for the preservation of the place. Hopes they will compel the army of the enemy to re-embark. Folio 43, 1½ pages.
- June 30. The same to M. De la Houlière. The proofs of valour that the troops have given in the defence of the retrenchments leave no room for question as to those they will continue to give. The King regrets the loss of the two captains of the companies of grenadiers d'Artois and Bourgogne and the two lieutenants of these companies. Folio 44, 1½ pages.
- June 30. The same to M. de Blénac. Hopes he has been able to reach Louisbourg notwithstanding the descent of the English on the Baie de Gabarus. The King has approved the decision of the Council of War to hold in the port of Louisbourg, despite the opposition of M. Desgouttes, the vessels that are there. Counts much on his zeal and experience to utilize all the resources possible for defence. Folio 45, 2 pages.
- June 30. The same to M. Franquet. Has received all the details that he has given of the descent of the English at the Baie de Gabarus. Has been as much surprised that reliance could not be placed, after all the recommendations made, on the necessary precautions being taken for assurance against a descent, as that a descent should have been effected in a locality so near the

ORDERS OF THE KING AND DESPATCHES.

Versailles.
January 8. The President of the Navy Board to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. On the increase of emoluments given to the officers of the battalions, as well as to those of the colony, during winter quarters only. Extraordinary gratuities to the officers of the general staffs. Folio 1, 2½ pages.
- January 8. The same to M. de Montcalm. On the increase of emoluments to officers. Payment will be made in the money of the colony, the risk of sending specie being too great. Folio 2, 1½ pages.
- January 8. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Concerning the officers of artillery and engineers sent to Canada last year. They will continue their services in the colony without being attached there, and their pay will be the same as it was in France. Places to be filled in the company of cannoneers.
- January 8. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The filling of vacancies in the two companies of cannoneers is suspended until next year, in order that should any officers in France desire to settle in Canada they can be given the preference for said vacancies. Sends four new engineers. Order for the appointment of the Sr. Dauseville to the lieutenancy of the cannoneers, as well as of some cadets to places as subalterns. As to the account of the Sr. de Lusignan. Folio 4, 1½ pages.
- January 8. The same to M. de Montcalm. Respecting the arrangements made for the officers of artillery and engineers who have left France for Canada. Folio 5, 1½ pages.
- January 8. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. On the small number of persons composing the Superior Council, the difficulty of replacing those who are wanting and on the dislike shown by natives of the colony to taking upon themselves the condition of Councillor. Regrets the death of the Sr. Le Verrier, whom it is difficult to replace as Procureur Général. Approves the Sr. Perthius performing the duties of this office. Information required to place him in a position to make the choice in France of a person for the place. The Sr. De L'Isle can perform the functions of Procureur du Roi at Montreal in place of the Sr. Foucher who is not to return to Canada. Folio 6, 2 pages.
- January 8. The same to M. Bigot. On the various representations made by the Compagnie des Indes. Price of ecarlatines. Freight on the King's vessels. Has made known to the Company that it was useless, for want of a market, to send linen prints. Folio 7, 1 page.
- January 19. The same to the same. Has received the proces verbal of the sale of the English snow La Marie which was taken to Quebec by the frigates La Valeur and La Mignonne. Has seen with regret that he allowed certain supplies to be sold to individuals which he might have bought advantageously for the account of the King, such as bacon, salted beef, flour, candles,

5-6 EDWARD VII., A. 1906

1759. butter and biscuit. All these articles were sold at less than half the current price. Then there is worse than that still, in the sale of the cargo of the English vessel the Britannia, captured by a privateer from St. Malo and taken to Quebec, since he himself stated that the goods comprising the cargo of this vessel were sold in gross for 800,000 livres, that those who bought them would make more than two millions of profit and that he had bought to the extent of a million, Quebec price, himself. Can anything be imagined more opposed to the welfare of the colony and more injurious to the King's interests than this transaction, since he must buy the same descriptions of goods in France and transport them at heavy cost, and at great risk. Nothing excuses him for having bought at second hand what he could have purchased at the selling price. Is all the more surprised at such a method of administration when he sees the colony drained and its expences so exorbitant. Is annoyed at having to make such observations to him, but the evil has reached a point at which it is impossible not to seek the causes and apply a remedy to them. Folio 8, 3 pages.

January 19. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The enormous expences shown in the finances of Canada have led him to seek for the abuses that must be the cause of the fabulous increase. Has been able to see that those abuses come from the negligence with which the victualling is done and from the liberty given to dispose of the property of the King, whether in the warehouse or on the market. Will not conceal from M. Bigot that he knows of many abuses that are committed; that purchases have been made at the trading posts from individuals of goods and merchandize at excessive prices which are often those the King had sent to Canada; that individuals have made fortunes too rapidly not to be suspected, that abuses will never be diminished until those committing them are displaced and even made examples of. Another fact capable of producing great abuses consists in supplying the deficiency in the card money, amounting to a million in all, by the payment of the expenses by printed notes signed by the Intendant and sent to the Clerk to the Treasurers who submits them to the Controller's office and delivers to the public in proportion to the expenses. This production of notes, contrary to all law, throws into the hands of the Treasurer a prodigious amount of funds which circulates in the colony without the approval of the King and without any authority. Thereby, the Intendant becomes the manufacturer of the money and the Treasurer is the master without other security being required from him than receipts for the quantity supplied without examination as to the manner in which it is employed and without verification of its conversion into bills of exchange. He can make any use of it that he thinks best. This is so true that in the month of November when M. Bigot renders his account of the year's expences he only shows in the neighbourhood of the total they amount to. His report is relied on and the next and succeeding years there is a very heavy excess, which increases the embarrassment here. Various instructions for the better control of these printed notes until the end of the war. Folio 10, 3 pages.

January 19. The same to M. Bigot. Will not enter with him into the details of the different chapters of the expenditures contained in his estimates. It would be quite useless, since they do not cover a quarter of the expenses that are being incurred. Besides, it is not in these estimates that abuses exist; it is in the employment of the funds, it is in the hands of those who have the details that they must be looked for. Expenditure goes on without management, without order, without regard for the interests of the King. How is it possible that the small-pox among the Indians can have occasioned a million of extraordinary expenditures. By whom was this expense incurred? Was it by the officers at the trading posts, the store-keepers? Everyone, then, is free to distribute the effects of the King and all they have to do is to charge them to expenses. How can be reconcile the enormous demands he 1759. has made this year for goods on the pretext of general scarcity, when, by his other letters, in referring to the capture of Fort Frontenac, he tells him that the King lost in that fort a prodigious quantity of food and merchandise? This fort was, nevertheless, not the depot for the posts of lakes Ontario and Erie and of Belle Rivière. Besides, since the million was expended for the posts of the west, how came it there was such an accumulation in that of Frontenac. Sees with surprise that independently of the immense supplies received last year in Canada, and which would have been sufficient for all the trading posts, considerable quantities of merchandise were purchased from individuals even at the posts themselves. Must think, from the transactions, that the property of the King, sufficient to be rapidly consumed on its arrival is in reality sold back to the King at excessive prices. Is no longer astonished at the immense fortunes that are seen in Canada. Liberty to dispose of everything to suit oneself is the true cause, particularly when the certificates of presents pretended to have been made to the Indians are accepted without examination, or, when, like the Sr. Dauteville, Clerk to the Treasurer at Montreal, one is quits by retiring from the service. The legal enquiry that is to be made into his office prevents his being made an example of. His precipitate departure from the colony confirms all suspicions. Understands that he cannot be everywhere and look after all the details, but he can select men of integrity and act severely towards delinquents. Production of treasury notes. Instructions in this respect. It is certain that the colony will become an insupportable burden, if the expences continue to increase as they have done since 1755. Folio 12, 5 pages.

January 20. The same to M. De Vaudreuil. In view of his age and infirmities, the King has granted retirement to M. de Noyan, the King's Lieutenant at Three Rivers. His place has been given up to M. de Noyelle, Major of the same town. On his recommendation, the King has created a Major-General Inspector of the troops, and three adjutants. This majority has been given to the Sr. Dumas, and the three adjutancies to the Srs. Des Melaises, at Quebec, De Charly at Montreal and de Longueuil, jr., at Three Rivers. The places left vacant by the Srs. Dumas and De Noyelles have been given to the Sr. Le Verrier at Quebec and de Sabrevois at Three Rivers. Other promotions. Folio 15, 2 pages.

January 20. The same to the same. Sees, from the details of his letters, he has done all that he believes advisable to assure the fidelity of the Indians, but that events have not responded as much as he hoped to the cares he had bestowed. What he says of the Indians at the affair of Carillon shows how little they can be counted on. Knows them too well, particularly the Iroquois, not to feel assured that they will never lose sight of the principles by which they have always guided themselves. Notwithstanding that they promise much and fulfil little, that their interest alone moves them, and that they receive presents from the English as they do ours, they have not the less observed an exact neutrality. Their conduct now is the same as in the preceding war. Believes they have been treated too prodigally with presents, unless presents have been made use of as a pretext to embezzle the King's property. May discover whether these presents have really been made. It is not possible, as is frequently said, that the English treat the Indians better than we do, if it is true that the expenses we have defrayed have been equally large. Leaves all this to him but will see that the expenditures incurred for them do not serve as a pretext for embezzlement. Folio 16, 2 pages.

January 20. The same to the same. Has granted the Cross of St. Louis to the persons recommended by him, to wit: the Srs. Herbin, St. Ours, Des Chaillons, Chev. de Bonne, De Lorimier, La Pérade de La Naudière, Beaujeu de Villemonde, La Corne St. Luc, De Lery, and de Bellestre. Has granted a pension of 1,200 livres to M. de Noyan, another of 1,200 1759. to M. de Longueuil, Governor of Trois-Rivières, in consideration of his former services and numerous family, 400 to M. de la Valterie, the oldest captain of troops in Canada, and 300 to the Sr. de Raymond, who distinguished himself at Carillon. Has granted extraordinary gratuities to the Srs. de St. Ours, de Corbière, Des Melaises, De Langy and Montegron, who distinguished themselves in various actions. Folio 17, 1½ pages.

- January 20. The same to M. Bigot. Can only approve the assistance he has sent to the Acadians at Miramichi and the river St. Jean, as well as to the Micmacs in the vicinity of Acadia. The expences defrayed on their account have been enormous and without much benefit. Their continual transmigration from Acadia to the river St. Jean and the interior of Canada has only served to multiply the expences and to the loss of many persons. In the condition in which things are, too much attention cannot be paid to getting these people to settle on the shores of the river (St. Lawrence) where the largest number have taken refuge. The havoc committed by the English, both in the Gaspé district, and that of Mont Louis, makes the necessity felt of reuniting them so that they may maintain themselves by their own efforts and make a stand against the enemy. Folio 18, 1½ pages.
- January 20. The same to M. Herbin. Has granted him the Cross of St. Louis Id. to the Srs. de St. Ours, Des Chaillous, &c., &c. Folio 19, 1 page.
- January 20. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. A sum of 12,000 livres has been granted for distribution among the officers of the troops of the colony and the battalions. Folio 19½, ½ page.
- January 20. The same to the same. Will enquire whether it will suit to increase the enrolments of the Admiralty officers. Folio 20, ½ page.
- January 20. The same to the same. Will send the two statements for the expences, in conformity with their proposals Folio 20, ¼ page.
- The same to M. le Chev. Le Mercier. Has received the statement that he sent of the artillery munitions and utensils required for Canada. He should not make such demands without submitting them to M. Bigot. It would have been more pleasing if he had so communicated them before sending them to France. Folio 20½, 1 page.
- January 25. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King leaves it to him to decide as to the choice of the Major Inspector and his three aides. He will also leave to him the regulations to be made defining their functions. Some observations on the subject. Folio 21, 2 pages.
- January 26. The same to M. Bigot. Has reported to the King the discussions raised between the Directors of the Domaine in Canada, the Jesuits, the Hotel Dieu of Quebec and some individuals respecting the cens et rentes in the censive of Quebec. The King has approved the judgment he rendered on the 15th of May last. Observations. Folio 22, 1½ pages.
- January 26. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King has shown his confidence in him by accepting all his recommendations in regard to the promotions, and has no doubt he has acted without favour as without prejudice. M. D'Aillebout, Lieutenant of the King at Montreal, has represented that M. de Longueuil had been made Governor of Three Rivers to his prejudice. It is true that both have been Lieutenants since 1749, but M. Longueuil entered the service of Canada only in 1726, while M. D'Aillebout has served since 1712, and rendered services before and during the siege of Louisbourg in 1745, and since that in Canada. Does not blame him for having preferred M. de Longueuil, but wishes him to be placed in possession of M. D'Aillebout's representations. Begs him to send on information the subject. Folio 23, 1 page.
- January 26. The same to M. de Longueuil. The King has granted him a pension of 1,200 livres on the Royal Treasury. Id. to Mdes. de la Valterie and de Raymond. Folio 23½, ½ page.

January 26. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. The King is so satisfied with the services of M. de Rigaud that he has granted the request he made for the concession for life of the post of the Bay. The King, in granting him this favour, has departed from the rule that he established in the colony to have all the posts leased and to make no further grants to anyone. Folio 24, 1 page.
- January 26. The same to M. Rigaud de Vaudreuil. Same subject. Folio 24, 1 page.
- January 26. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Has examined the reasons for suppressing the gratuity of 6,000 livres that the King gave to the Seminary of St. Sulpice. When it was granted, it was to induce the priests of St. Sulpice to give education to the children of the Indians of the mission at the Lake of the Two Mountains. This cause no longer existing, the gratuity should cease. When the Seminary obtained this concession, the 27th of April, 1718, it took upon itself the care of this Mission purely and simply. If subsequently the Mission became more extensive, the concession benefitted in proportion. Folio 25, 1 page.
- January 26. The same to M. de Noyelle. Has granted him the place of Lieutenant of the King at Three Rivers. Folio 26, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- January 26. The same to M. Dumas. Has been chosen as Major General Inspector of the troops in Canada. Folio 26, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- January 26. The same to M. de Montcalm. Has made the most of his demands in favour of certain officers and widows who are in need of help, with the King. Folio 27, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- January 26. The same to the same. His first care, in coming to the ministry of marine, was to make himself acquainted with all that had occurred in Canada. Has seen with pleasure the successes he had gained, particularly on the glorious 8th of July last. Is happy to know of the harmony existing between him and M. de Vaudreuil, which M. de Bougainville has just confirmed. Folio 28, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- January 26. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Is quite disposed to grant the favours he may ask for those in whom he is interested, but there has been so little method in the manner of giving warrants to those who are employed in the colony, that before taking action in filling any more positions, desires to be minutely informed on the number of persons required in each part of the service, etc., etc. Will remember the good report he gives of the Sr. de St. Sauveur, for whom he has asked the position of inspector of store-houses. Grants a gratuity of 250 livres to the Sr. de Monrepos, Lieutenant General of the jurisdiction of Montreal. Folio 29, 1 page.

- January 26. The same to M. Bigot. Concerning the passengers and freight on the King's vessels returning to France. Observations as to the vessels that have been dismantled. Folio 31, 2 pages.
- January 26. The same to M. Bigot. Has not availed himself of his recommendations in favour of the Srs. de Vienne and Deschenaux for warrants as Chief King's scriveners, and Foucher for that of King's scrivener. Before doing so it will be well to settle the number of persons necessary for the service of the colony. Folio 32, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- January 26. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Approves his granting passage on the King's vessels to the Srs. de la Bretèche, Charmont, Lassaulx, de Frichengen, Granderin and La Houssaye, officers of the battalions serving in Canada, as well as to the Sr. Péan, adjutant of Quebec. January 26. The same to M. Bigot. Concerning the two foreign ships sent to Quebec by the Srs. Boncasse and Dufresne, merchants of La Rochelle. Folio 34, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- February 3. The same to the same. Cannot under present circumstances, accede to his reiterated requests to be allowed to return to France. Should postpone his return until next year; in the interval, he will look for a person capable of filling so important an Intendance, and make arrangements for filling the places connected with it. In the meantime he has limited himself to asking from M. Hocquart a good worker suitable for assisting at Quebec. He has recommended the Sr. Querdisien, who is to go to Quebec on the frigate La Pomone. He will be in charge of the bureau des fonds, which is the buisiest and calls most for method. Folio 34, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- February 3. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. The abuses he has pointed out are not the only ones existing. Is informed that the works on the fortifications carried on under contract are let to persons under borrowed names, and that most of the officers who by their position are expected to look after the economy and solidity of construction are nearly always the contractors. If that is so, as there can be little room to question, it is not surprising that the fortifications cost so much and last so short a time. On the one hand, the engineers, who should be the controllers, are the contractors for the works, and abuses such as those they have allowed up to the present time can only be looked for; on the other, when the works are being carried on by day labour for the King this method also becomes a still further source of abuse, by means of the certificates that the engineers deliver for payment and which are cashed on presentation. No matter how it is done in Canada they are so thoroughly accustomed to turn everything to personal profit that the King is wronged in all. Measures suitable to be taken to put an end of these abuses. Folio 35, 2 pages.
- February 3. The same to M. de Pontleroy. Relating to his emoluments. M. de Vaudreuil will acquaint him with the abuses committed in connection with the works on the fortifications, and hopes he will employ himself in causing them to cease. Folio 36, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- February 3. The same to M. Bigot. Sends him a package containing important matters which should not be opened except in case of the death of M. de Montcalm. Will deal with it as with the one the Keeper of the Seals addressed to him on the 15th of March, 1756, and will keep it secret. Folio 36 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.

- February 3. Warrant ratifying grant of land in favour of the Sr. Joseph de Guir, et Des Roziers, captain in the militia of Canada. Grant made by M. de la Jonquière, the 4th September, 1751, on the river St. Francis. Folio 38, 2 pages.

February 9. The same to M. the Bishop of Quebec. Has every ground to hope that some arrangement will be made this year by M. the Bishop of Orleans to procure him the assistance he requires. Folio 40, 1 page.
- February 9. The same to M. Bigot. The warrant as Store-Keeper at Quebec that he has asked for the Sr. de Vienne, who has performed the duties for several years was sent him, but as he has not received it, sends him a duplicate. Folio 40, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Has approved the arrangement that he made for the Sr. de St. Rome. Has granted the Cross of St. Louis for the Sr. de Boishébert. It could be wished that the detachment he took to Ile Royale had been larger. Has seen with pleasure his different expeditions towards St. George and Fort Brunswick after his return to Canada. Received his letter from the Miramichi camp announcing the sending of a memorandum and a map of Acadia. When the question of a general arrangement comes up, might give the place of Intendant Commissary at Montreal to the Sr. Martel whose probity and good conduct he praises. Folio 41, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- February 9. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. It will be well to grant supplementary pay in the form of a gratuity to the Sr. Pellegrin, second Captain of the port. Folio 41 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- February 9. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Has seen by his letters to General Abercromby and the latter's replies, that he has done all in his power to induce him not only to execute the articles of capitulation of Fort William but also the exchange of prisoners. The conduct of this general is the same as that followed by England with us in Europe, seeking to confound with the prisoners of war persons arrested before the declaration of war. Irregular as this conduct may be, it is nothing in comparison with the action of General Abercromby in annulling the capitulation of Fort William Henry. Military engagements of this description have always been observed by the nations and it is the English alone who evade the obligations they contract. The only way to constrain them would be to gain numerous advantages over them. Conduct he should observe with regard to the exchange of prisoners. Folio 42, 2 pages.
- February 9. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Will make arrangements to place the Sr. Levasseur, ship-builder, and Cressé, assistant ship-builder, in France, when they are no longer necessary in the colony. They might perhaps be useful in establishing the navy on the lakes which he in concert with M. de Montcalm, has considered it necessary to construct there. Has approved what they did in having 21,000 livres in card-money, the imprints on which were effaced, burned. Folio 43, 1 page.
- February 9. The same to M. Bigot. On the subject of the shipment of provisions. Has approved the passage to France granted to the Sr. Da Lino, Chief Commissioner of Roads. The St. Maurice forges. Folio 43, 2 pages.
- February 16. The same to M. D'Aillebout. Has written to M. de Vaudreuil respecting his representations as to the preference given to M. de Longueuil in the government of Three Rivers. Folio 45, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- February 16. (In cipher). The same to M. de Vaudreuil. General Wolfe is designated to undertake the siege of Quebec. He is to leave England with 8,000 men who are to be joined at Halifax by other English troops. Will concert with M. de Montcalm for the defence of the place. Has nothing to direct; but, in the meantime, it seems fitting that the English prisoners who are there should be sent away. Attaches a copy of the signals that are to be used this year by the vessels of the King that go to Canada. Folio 45, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.

August 29. The same to M. de Lévis. Profits by the departure of the vessels belonging to the merchants of Bordeaux to acknowledge the receipt of the letters he sent him by the schooner L'Extravagante and the vessel Le Héros. Is waiting with impatience for news. The King has seen with much satisfaction all he says of the zeal and bravery of the troops and the inhabitants of the colony. Folio 56, 1 page.
- August 29. The same to M. de Bourlamarque. Has learned with pleasure that his health is sufficiently restored to allow him to take the command that has been entrusted to him at Carillon. Folio 56 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- August 29. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Profits by the vessels that the Srs. Descloux are sending from Bordeaux to answer his letters by L'Extravagante and Le Héros. See that he has received all his despatches and that he has made all his dispositions for a good defence on the St. Lawrence as well as on the side of Belle Rivière, Lake Ontario and Lake St. Sacrement. Cannot enter into any explanation. When this despatch reaches him, the fate of Canada will have been decided. The presence of the English in the St. Lawrence has no doubt prevented his sending out any vessel to inform him of what has occurred since the month of May. As the English had at that time already made their arrangements for attacking Fort Carillon, is surprised at not having learned anything by way of England of what had been done in that direction. The King counts on his zeal and the bravery of the Canadians. Well knows that his numerous occupations prevent his closely following the question of the expenses, but hopes he will be able to do so when the operations of the year are ended. Folio 57, 2 pages.
- August 29. The same to M. de Montcalm. Is not without uneasiness as to the fate of Canada. At this moment even, it is about decided. What surprises him most is that not one English vessel has arrived with news of any action in the direction of Canada. The King has been informed of all his plans and of those of M. de Vaudreuil, and has seen with pleasure their reciprocal firmness and the confidence that the troops and inhabitants have in their concerted action. Can rely, if he effects the repulse of the English, that every measure will be taken to assist the colony in the spring. Folio 58, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- August 29. The same to M. Bigot. Has learned with pleasure of the safe arrival at Quebec of the greater part of the Commissary's vessels and the storeships L'Atalante, La Pomone, l'Amélie and La Marie. Has made him aware of the reasons that prevented his sending greater assistance. Will not reply in detail to the observations he has made to justify the excessive expences that have been incurred. His bad administration is sufficiently proved by his own letters. It is quite true that the expences are immense, that he does not know the use to which they are put, that he pays them without examination, that he follows the run of the expences so little that when they are made he is still unaware of half the amounts, and that after they are made he finds an error in his cash of 3,600,000 livres. Can greater confusion be imagined, and can it be conceived that an Intendant is ignorant of his position to such an extent? It is none the less true, and his reply confirms it, that he bought for 812,000 livres the fourth or the third of a cargo the whole of which he could have had for 800,000 and on the balance of which the Commissary, who purchased it, made more than a million. What a difference, for the King's interests, between the loss or profit on such a transaction! It is useless for him to pretend to justify, by means of trade, the fortunes that are made in Canada. Trading is prohibited to all persons in office. They are placed there only to protect it, not to carry on even the most legitimate, and for the strongest reasons should abstain from dealing in concessions and monopolies that they ought to prevent with all their power. For three or four years, has there been the slightest liberty of commerce that would render it legitimate? Has heard nothing, and seen nothing.

5-6 EDWARD VII., A. 1906

1759. ing, in the letters he has received, but continued jobbing in provisions and goods; or he who sells goods to the King, or to individuals at last hand, does so at ten times more than they cost in France. In the first case, what infidelity in the administration, by the expenses the King is made to defray! And in the second, what exactions from a people already sufficiently unfortunate through the war. Thus it is not a question, as his misplaced observation puts it, that even gentlemen may follow trade in Canada. What is certain is, that, no matter how that which has been carried on in the colony, since the war, is looked at, it can only be regarded as criminal on the part of all those who have taken part in it or those who have favoured it or even tolerated it, and above all for persons employed in the service, and it would be very grievous if the heads of the colony had given their permission or an example. There are important points in his administration, suspected, or neglected, or not perceived, and well capable of exciting regrets for all that has passed up to the present. Is sufficiently warned by the letters he has written him this year. Exhorts him, for the last time, to give them his serious attention, for they will not escape his own. Folio 59, 3 pages.

August 29. The same to M. Kanon. Is very glad to learn of his arrival at Quebec, with the greater part of the vessels of his convoy. Folio 60 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

August 29. The same to M. Bigot. Replies to his two letters of December 3, 1758, and April 15, 1759, concerning the expenses. In the first, he says that, instead of 16 millions of bills of exchange drawn to the end of 1758, they will amount to 24 millions, of which a part is for expenses of the preceeding year that were not known and paid off until 1758. In the second, he says he expects the drawing of the bills of exchange for 1759 will amount to 31 to 33 millions. Believes there has never been an example of so enormous an expenditure nor of the easy manner in which he announces it, as though he supposed such heavy sums could be had without trouble, notwithstanding the expenses of the other colonies and the multiplicity of those the King is obliged to provide for in the midst of a general war. There are, then, no limits to those of Canada, the progress of which, with the same number of persons, and the same objects of expenditures, doubles nearly every year, without appearing to attract any other attention than that of their payment. Does he think such an administration can be approved by the King and that it is sufficient to say that he has ordered 33 millions for payment to take such immense sums from the Royal Treasury, and that too for expenses incurred without sanction and often without necessity, always without economy, of which it is enough to overcharge but a small portion to make a considerable fortune, and where the matter is to him of such minor importance, that, after believing himself clear for 16 millions he find two months afterwards the total has amounted to 24 millions. Charged with the administration of Canada, in regard to the expenditures, the payment of which has been made easy for him, perhaps very much too easy in allowing him to draw bills of exchange, does he think the confusion that reigns is justified by saying that everything is dearer and prices have reached an excessive point, that it is no longer possible to meet the expenses of the trading posts, that at the least retrenchment the troops complain and the Indians menace, that most of the expenses are made without his knowledge and that there are great abuses? What measures has he taken to diminish these expenses! What representations has he made to M. de Vaudreuil for the suppression of those that might be overlooked, where are the letters written to him or his predecessors to detail the abuses, to name the authors, to indicate the means for supplying remedies? Sees in his correspondence nothing but general phrases from which much negligence and tolerance on his part can alone be inferred. Here is the evil that he suffered to exist, here is what is attributed to him, of having restrained the commerce in the 1759. free victualling of the colony, of having charged with the provisioning one individual only who, under the name of Commissary General, made himself master of all and gave to all the price he desired, of having purchased for the account of the King at second and third hand what he could have procured at first and at half the prices paid, of having made the fortunes of persons who had relations with him by the interest he gave them in those purchases or in other transactions, of having himself maintained the most splendid state, on the most extensive footing, in the midst of public misery. All the letters from the colony unite in attributing the situation to his bad administration and in taxing M. de Vaudreuil with weakness in not taking upon himself the work of reform. As it would perhaps be useless to hope for this, and as it is of the last importance to the Kingdom to put a stop to the stream of bills of exchange that he announces for the end of this year, the intention of the King, to whom he has reported, is, that he is absolutely not to draw except for the pay and subsistence of the land troops and troops of the colony and indispensable expences concerning the military service, on which the King recommends him to bring to bear the greatest economy. Will give attention to showing on the title or on the margin of the bills of exchange that he issues the nature of the expenses for which they are drawn. Warns him that in default of this precaution these bills will not be honoured in France. P.S. Begs him to reflect most seriously on the manner in which the administration confided to him has been conducted up to the present. That is more important than perhaps he thinks. Folio 61, 2½ pages.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

August 29. The same to M. de Bougainville. Nothing could be added to the diligence he has shown in reaching Quebec. Has been closely followed by the greater part of the vessels that sailed from Bordeaux, Brest and Rochefort. Is persuaded of his attention in communicating the intentions of the King for the defense of the colony to MM. de Vaudreuil and Montcalm. Their replies prove it. Folio 62, ½ page.

August 29. The same to M. de Pontleroy. Is thankful to him for his observations as to the works on the fortifications. Recommends him not only to verify exactly the certificates that have been or may be given to the workmen for their labour; and, moreover, to absolutely refuse to accept all receipts which he may find to be fraudulent. Relies also on his reporting exactly and circumstantially on all the abuses that are practiced in the colony. Must see to it. His position gives him the power and the means. Folio 63, 1 page, August 29. The same to M. Kerdisien. Has been pleased to learn of his arrival at Quebec and of his promptitude in getting to work on the matters with which he has been charged under M. Bigot. Hopes he will neglect nothing to meet his views and justify his selection for the duty. Folio 63, ½ page.

February 3. The same to M. de Montcalm. Has received his cipher letter on the situation in Canada. However trying this may be, the King counts on his doing everything, in concert with M. de Vaudreuil, to continue to defend the colony during the coming campaign, or at the least to preserve an essential part, in order later on to be able to recover the whole. Has recommended M. de Vaudreuil to consult him in all operations and believes he will not fail to do so, seeing that he had learned with pleasure there was no longer any question between them of the small misunderstandings that at first prevailed. It is a question of saving the colony and that should suffice for a general and a citizen so zealous as he is. The number of troops will be less than he asked, but it is all that circumstances allow. M. de Bougainville, who has acquitted himself well of the commission with which he was entrusted, will tell him of the impossibility of doing more. The remarkable success he has gained over an army much superior to his own, leads him to hope that with such brave troops he will be able to stop 1759. the progress of the enemy and render most of their enterprises useless. Folio 64, 1 page.

February 3. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Recommends concord with M. de Montcalm and forgetfulness of the small subjects of dispute he formerly had with him. Should not appear in the campaign except it becomes a question of a decisive operation and of marching all the militia for the general defence of the colony. Could do so, after having consulted with M. de Montcalm, if necessary to confirm the confidence that the Canadians have in him, for it is certain their courage would be greatly stimulated if they saw him at their head under difficult circumstances in which the facts of the colony were in peril. Outside such necessity, he should not quit the centre of the colony. Would do well to show himself in the country, to encourage the old men and the women to work the land. The Sr. Péan, whom he has sent with M. de Bougainville, has gone to Bordeaux to hasten the departure of the shipments of the Commissary, and M. de Bougainville will lose no time in embarking for his return to Canada, after having performed the object of his mission. He is very zealous for the colony and appears to be particularly attached to him. Folio 64¹/₂, 1 page.

February 3. The same to MM. Vaudreuil and Bigot. Has received all the cipher letters they addressed to him, to the end of the last campaign, on the necessity for succour. The King has proved by shipments of every description and by the exactitude with which he has paid the prodigious mass of the bills of exchange, drawn with such little discretion, how much he has at heart the preservation of Canada, and the relief of the faithful inhabitants and the brave troops employed in its defence. Would be disposed to send the same assistance, but the continuation of the war in Europe, the too great dangers of the sea and the necessity of uniting the naval forces, do not allow their separation and hazarding a part to procure them uncertain help that will be employed more usefully for the State and the relief of Canada in more prompt and decisive expeditions. It is for these conclusive reasons that it has been decided to reduce the outfitting of transports to be sent to Quebec this spring, to two frigates, armed as storeships, and four privately owned vessels, half from Brest and half from Rochefort, in order to divide the risks. All that these vessels can carry, in munitions, artillery, clothing, merchandize for trading and for the King's storehouses will be embarked. With regard to provisions, the supply is assured by several expeditions that will sail in February or March from various ports in the Kingdom and from foreign countries under neutral flag. Has also believed advantage should be taken of the offers of several English vessels for the same work. The correspondents of the Commissary are arranging on their part to have their vessels on the way at an early date. Counts on there being sent by these various vessels and by two of the King's frigates that merchants are fitting out on a fifth-share at Dunkerque, about 160,000 pounds of powder. Will send by the Commissary's vessels about 500 recruits. Will forward about 30 persons, engineers, designers, cannoners, miners and workmen. If the efforts made in regard to Canada are less than previously, it is because we are forced to it by larger operations in which they should acquiesce all the more willingly that they are the result of the previous efforts made to help Canada. What is proposed to be done tends to free Canada from greater part of the forces she has to fight. In this way the colony may arrive at the same results with less help. M. de Montcalm ought to be consulted not only on all operations but on all parts of the administration that relate to the defence and preservation of the colony. Folio 65, 3 pages.

February 3. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Montcalm. Should not hope for peace before the opening of the campaign, and should make every preparation 1759. to carry on the war in holding to the simplest defensive, if there is no ground for doing otherwise, to ensure the King the preservation of Canada or at least the greater portion of it. The King hopes they will concentrate their forces for the purpose of preserving the principal part. Gives them no precise instructions ; relies on them. The important point is, not to have lost the whole of the colony when the time arrives to negotiate for peace.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

February 3. The King places at their disposal the two frigates that he sent to Quebec, Could usefully employ the Srs. Levasseur, Pellegrin and Vauguelin if the English attack Quebec by the river. The last named has given proofs of bravery and intelligence at Louisbourg. If they see a prospect of any particular success by the use of spies, they are authorized to expend 200,000 livres for this purpose, and if the services of these spies should be in the nature of rendering the efforts of the enemy during the campaign useless, they might employ as much as 500,000 livres and no re. Will if the circumstances require it, march every man in a condition to bear arms. The King is occupied with more efficacious aid for them, not only by fresh succours but by operations capable of bringing about diversions that will leave them less force to cope with. The King will make more out of their services on the defensive to which they are reduced, than of successes gained under more favourable circumstances. The important point is to preserve part of the colony in order to recover the rest at the conclusion of peace. Folio 66 $\frac{1}{2}$, 3 pages.

- December 15. The same to the Abbé de L'Isle Dieu. Assistance granted to the Acadians. Learns that at Cherbourg and Calais there have been several attacks of small-pox. It will be well not to hold these people too rigorously to the degrees prohibited in marriage by the laws of the Church. Seeing their small number and that they are destined to return to America, it is proper to grant them the dispensations they may need, else they will be obliged to contract alliances with the families of the country, which would disincline them from returning to their own land. As Vicar General of the Bishopric of Quebec, it belongs to him to make the best at Rome of the reasons that should allow a relaxation of the rigours of the marriage license. Folio 33, 2 pages.

AMERICA.

ORDERS OF THE KING AND MINUTES OF LETTERS.

CANADA (3rd. PART.)

ORDERS OF THE KING AND DESPATCHES.

Versailles,
February 8.

The President of the Navy Board to M. Bigot. Was justified in making known to him, last year, the grievous consequences that would result from the financial administration of Canada. Foresaw, at that time, the necessity that would arise for suspending payment of the bills of exchange; and that course has been resolved on. The suspension is limited and the unpaid bills of exchange bear interest until they are registered. The King has restricted the objects for which the bills of exchange can be drawn, and the total is fixed at 2,400,000 livres. The bills of exchange this year, must not exceed that sum, under any pretext; or they will not be paid. On the other hand, arrangements having been made for meeting them, the King wills that the 2,400,000 livres be paid in the course of the year 1761. All the bills of exchange to be drawn should be charged to that fiscal year, the payments being spread over the last nine months. Should apply himself to calming the alarm that this suspension will create in the minds of the people. The fidelity and zeal of Canadians are too well known to him to doubt their readiness to submit to this necessity. The King reserves to himself the hearing of disputes that may arise between creditors and debtors, as the result of the suspension. Various instructions in this regard. Folio 1, 4 pages.

February 8.

The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Sends him the list of promotions that the King has accepted for filling the vacancies in the troops of Canada. Has followed nearly all his recommendations. Has left over until the end of the year the granting of pensions and gratuities to those whom he has recommended, which will be done without his having to renew the demand. The King has nevertheless granted from the present time pensions to the widows of officers who have been killed. Has accorded the Cross of St. Louis to the officers for whom he has asked it. Folio 3, 2 pages.

February 22.

The same to M. Bigot. The correspondents of the Commissary of Canada not finding themselves in a position to undertake the supply of provisions, the purchase has been made for the account of the King. The Srs. Desclaux, Bethumau and Imbert have been charged with procuring them and with furnishing the vessels necessary for the operation. Will not have to concern himself with the payment, but only with the quantity and quality of the goods received. Four hundred men, and officers to command them, will be sent over by the vessels. The Commissary will have nothing to see to in the distribution of the provisions that are to be sent. He alone will have the duty of making the distribution, and to close the door against all abuses. Folio 4, 2 pages.

5-6 EDWARD VII., A. 1906

February 22. The same to M. the Bishop of Quebec. Begs him to use all diligence and zeal, in concert with MM. de Vaudreuil, Bigot and de Lévis, to calm the uneasiness of the Canadians with regard to the suspension of the bills of exchange.
- February 22. The same to M. Bigot. Begs him to send a detailed statement of payments made on account of their pay to the officers and soldiers who returned France, after the capitulation of Quebec. Folio 6, 1 page.
- February 22. The same to M. de Boulamarque. Has not received news from him, direct, but has none the less been informed by post of the confidence he commands and of the manner in which he has carried out his orders and the intentions of M. de Vaudreuil. Exhorts him to redouble his zeal and his efforts. Folio 6½, ½ page.
- February 22. The same to M. de Lévis. M. de Vaudreuil has informed him, in the greatest detail, of the easiness he has experienced on all occasions on which he had to deal with him and on the perfect harmony existing between them. Does not doubt that this harmony, so essential in the critical circumstances of the colony, will be maintained. Folio 7, 2 pages.
- February 22. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Will not enter into any of the details of the observations contained in the letter delivered to him by the Sr. Kanon. His cipher despatch will make him acquainted with the intentions of the King respecting the operations of the present year. They form the only object with which he will have to occupy himself. Reserves his reply until next year to the various matters with which he has dealt. For the moment he will give his attention only to the suspension of payment of the bills of exchange. The Decree of the Council in this regard will enable him to understand the necessity under which they found themselves and the means that have been adopted. It only remains for him to calm the uneasiness that this measure will give birth to in the minds of the inhabitants. Various instructions. Folio 8, 2 pages.
- February 22. The same to the same. The King has granted pensions of 300 livres each to the widows of Captains de Céleron, Major of Detroit, De Lignéris, de Laperrière and de St. Ours, dead of their wounds, last year. There is a question of establishing the militia on a different footing, but the arrangement he has proposed could only be made under more favourable circumstances. In the meantime, the militia officers can do duty under the commissions that he will deliver to them and which the King will confirm. Folio 9, 1½ pages.
- February 22. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. The family of M. de Montcalm have represented that he owed somewhat considerable sums to the Treasury of Canada which made advances to him, they ask that the King, in consideration of the services rendered by M. de Montcalm and of the short time he enjoyed the emoluments allowed him last year, would be pleased to grant the remission of this indebtedness. The King is disposed to favour this family as much as circumstances permit, but before doing so desires to know the amount that M. de Montcalm owes. Folio 9½, ½ page.
- February 22. The same to M. the Bishop of Quebec. Has not lost sight of his personal situation in that of his diocese. The King has granted him a pension of 3,000 livres and 10,000 as alms for the poor. Sends him the letter that M. the Bishop of Orleans writes to him on the subject. Folio 10, ½ page.
- February 22. The same to M. de Vaudreuil. Will see by the list of officers, chosen among the troops from Ile Royale to command the 400 men who are to embark at Bordeaux, the ranks they are to have. Folio 10, ½ page.
- February 22. The same to M. Bigot. Has received his letter in which he complains of indiscretions committed by M. de Bougainville in spreading in the colony the reproaches he has made to him on the enormous expences of the colony and the fortunes made there. Has left no one in ignorance of the facts.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

1760. The complaints were too general and too well founded to avoid speaking of them and making known the intentions of the King. With regard to the reasons he gives to justify the considerable augmentation of his fortune by successful commerce that he has engaged in and which gave him more than 600,000 livres of profits in the year 1759 alone, they appear to him as singular as the assurance with which he regards such profits as legitimate, above all on the part of the Intendant. Can only defer to another time a reply to him on this point, which requires the closest attention on his part and the most serious examination in order to report specially on it to the King. Folio 10 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page.
- February 22. The same to the same. On the application of the Sr. Bernier, Commissary, three surgeon's assistants will be embarked, for duty in the hospitals, and, afterwards, with the battalions, etc. Folio 11, 1 page.
- February 22. The same to MM. de Vaudreuil and Bigot. Has just been informed by M. le Maréchal de Bellisle that on the report he has rendered to the King of the services of the battalion officers who are in Canada, His Majesty has been pleased to grant the rank of Brigadier General to M. de Roquemaure, commanding the battalion of the La Reyne regiment formerly having the rank of Lieutenant Colonel, and an order to M. le Chev. de Lapouze, Captain, Adjutant of the Guyenne regiment, to perform the duties of Assistant Quarter-Master General in Canada. Folio 11, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- August 24. The same to M. de la Marquise de la Lazerne. Greatly regrets being unable to do anything for the Abbé de Lotbinière. What could he do for a man who was only for a short time a missionary in Canada, who has been successively Récollet, Cordelièr, Ecclesiastic, who was captured going to St. Domingo for quite another object to that of the condition of life he had embraced, when he cannot procure the least help for old missionaries, who, devoted wholly to their calling, have suffered all kinds of persecutions on the part of the English rather than abandon the people committed to their care.  of June, of holding out some time longer, and his assurances that the last efforts would be put forth to sustain the honour of the King before yielding, His Majesty did not expect to learn so soon of the surrender of Montreal and of the whole colony. Granting the force of all the reasons which led to the capitulation, the King has nevertheless been considerably surprised, and less satisfied, at having to submit to conditions so little to his honour, especially in the face of the representations which have been made to him by M. de Lévis on behalf of the military corps in the colony. The King, in reading the memorandum of these representations, that he was unable to avoid placing before him, has seen in it that, notwithstanding the slight hope of success, he was still in a condition, with the diminished resources remaining to him, to attempt an attack or a defense that might have brought the English to grant a capitulation that would have been more honourable for the troops. The King leaves him at liberty to remain at Brest for the time necessary for his health. With regard to the officers who are with him, they can retire to their families or elsewhere. It will be sufficient if he is informed of their place of residence. Folio 280, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.

- December 5. The same to M. de Rostan. Has just been informed by M. de Vaudreuil, that horseflesh and putrid beef were found to form part of the provisions embarked on the vessels Le Marchault, Le Bienfaisant and Le Marquis de Malauze, which sailed this year for Canada, and that the troops for whom it was intended, being unable to eat it during the voyage, were very badly fed. Is much surprised at this, particularly as regards Le Marchault, the fitting out of which was under his direction, but there is no room to doubt it, the fact having been well proved by the commander of the troops at Restigouche. Folio 283, 1 page.

- December 19. The same to M. P. Lartigue, merchant, Bordeaux. Will be very glad to have his views in detail on Canada. Folio 295, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- December 21. The same to M. le Vicomte de Vaudreuil. Is sorry for the pain caused him by the letter he has written to his brother, but could not avoid making him aware of what the King had stated on the capitulation of Montreal, and it would not have been agreeable to his brother to have learned it from others. His letter however, contained nothing that could afflict him. Folio 296 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- December 27. The same to M. le Brun. Approves his having paid to the Sr. Sauvage,

- January 14. The same to M. the Bishop of Orleans. The distribution of the 10,000 livres, granted by the King to the poor of the diocese of Quebec, on the benefices, has been made in the colony by the Chapter. The zeal and the fidelity that the Canadians have manifested, and the misery to which most of them find they are reduced, merit the kindness and the compassion of the King. Their situation is such, that if the King had not granted them fresh assistance, they would have been in the most cruel indigence. Begg him to speak of it to the King. Folio 12, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- January 14. The same to the Abbé de L'Isle Dieu. Same subject. Folio 13, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- January 21. The same to Mde. de Rouilly, Poitiers. Has received her letter. If her son has nothing but generalities to speak of to him on the past administration of Canada, it is unnecessary for him to come to Versailles, but if he has something particular remedying, to communicate, and relating to the means and the abuses, he has only to send his observations in writing. Folio 14, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

1761.

- August 11. The same to M. Arquier, curé, at Boulogne. The King will not withdraw subsistence from the inhabitants of Ile St. Jean who are at Boulogne, except from those who can live by their own efforts, in order to substitute the poor families who recently arrived from Canada. Folio 170 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- August 11. The same to the mayor and aldermen of Boulogne. Same subject. Folio 171, 1 page.
- August 17. The same to M. de Vaudésir. Has procured 400 livres, assistance for the Sr. Manach, formerly missionary in Acadia, recently arrived from the prisons of England. Folio 175, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- August 17. The same to the Abbé de L'Isle Dieu. Has received his letter, giving him the details of what happened to M. Manach, since his removal and detention by the English. It is difficult to reconcile the statements made of the abundance in which the inhabitants of Acadia have been maintained and what is reported by this missionary. It is not the first contradiction that he has found in the administration of Canada. Folio 177, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- August 17. The same to M. Guillot. Relies on him with regard to subsistence to be furnished to the Acadians. Folio 178, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- August 21. The same to M. le Duc de Choiseul. Cannot refuse to M. Du Chambon, formerly captain in the troops of Canada, the testimony that he desires as to his services. Has nothing to say of this officer, who has served for 40 years, but to his advantage. Will be very glad if he can procure for one of his sons the place he asks in the Ecole Militaire. He is a good gentleman, of Saintonge, without the means to provide suitably for the education of his children. Folio 181, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

1761. possible. He can assure them that the King will not abandon them. Folio 216, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- September 28. The same to M. le Duc de Choiseul. Cannot pay, now, the bills of exchange drawn from Canada. Is gathering the necessary material to ascertain all that may be legitimately due on the total of these bills of exchange and those that should be reduced or rejected, so as to arrive at a definite decision on all that concerns these papers from Canada, however formidable the amount, which is about 75 millions, appears. As he has only been able to deal with all these expenses by an examination of the sources of the abuses from which they arose, he has procured from their authors sufficient information to convince him of their bad administration and the injustice of the large fortunes they have made. Folio 217, 2 pages.
- October 3. The same to M. D'Aguesseau. Relating to Mde. Des Noyelles and her children. Folio 228, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- October 3. Memorandum for Mde. la Marquise de Pompadour. The Baron Dumaine, who asks for the Cross of St. Louis, is not known in the capacity of an officer of the troops of Canada. There is every appearance that he served in that colony only as a volunteer. It is nevertheless true, from the information obtained on the subject, that he raised in Canada, with the consent of M. de Vaudreuil, a company of 60 Irish, who did not serve there and whom he brought to France. It cannot be discovered whether incorporation in the foreign regiments was effected, when war broke out, as stated by the Baron Dumaine. Folio 228 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- October 10. The same to MM. . Cross of St. Louis for the Srs. Larminat de Montmédy and Thoreau de Rouilly, formerly officers in the troops of Canada. Folio 231 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- October 17. The same to M. le Marquis d'Ossun. Relating to the affairs of Louisiana. Folio 234, 2 pages.
- October 17. The same to the same. As to an enterprise against Jamaica, projected by Spain. "It is certainly the most useful that can be attempted, at the present time, with respect to the preservation of the French and Spanish colonies." Instructions. Folio 235, 1 page.
- October 29. The same to the Controller General. On the suspension of payment of the bills of exchange and its disastrous effects. Reflections on the subject. Folio 242, 5 pages.
- The same to the same. The reductions made by the Commission in the credits of the contractors destroy confidence in the government. It is not possible to re-establish it without suppressing this Commission and without re-establishing each creditor in his former position, taking, from the present time, measures to satisfy them. Sends him a proposed decree to this effect. Folio 244, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- October 29. The same to M. de Fontanieu. Same subject. Folio 245, 2 pages.
- October 31. To M. the Archbishop of Narbonne. The King has signified to his subjects his desire to procure peace, in making public the negotiations of MM. de Bussy and Stanley. The concessions offered by the King, considerable as they were, did not prove sufficient to decide a nation so ambitious as England to accept them. For this reason, the King has determined to unite the Department of War with that of the Navy, to oppose all his resources with greater success to the unlimited views of England. The King relies on all his provinces and above all on those forming part of the State, to find the resources that he needs. Would with pleasure see Languedoc give the example, in adding to his navy a vessel of 74 pieces of cannon which would be named Le Languedoc. Begs him to communicate this idea to the Assembly of the States. Folio 246, 2 pages.
- October 31. The same to the same. Same subject. Folio 247, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- November 14. Circular respecting the King's subsistence for Acadians. Folio 256 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page.

1761. The same to M. le Duc de Gramont. Has examined the memoir that he settled in Canada. Folio 262 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- November 16. The same to M. Bentabole, rue St. Honoré. Has received his letter on the affairs of Canada. Will accept with pleasure the other papers he refers to. Folio 263 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- November 16. The same to M. the Archbishop of Narbonne. Is not surprised to see that he has understood the importance of his suggestion touching the offer that the States of Languedoc would make to the King of a war vessel.
Understands, like him, that the proposition of a considerable outlay in the present conjuncture could weaken the zeal and readiness that would be shown under other circumstances, if it were a matter of an expenditure of 1,500,000 livres, as he supposes, but as the King would himself undertake the rigging and the fitting out of this vessel, it would only be a question for the States of Languedoc of an expence of 400,000 livres. Begs him to proceed with this negotiation. Instructions on the manner of proceeding to ensure success. Folio 267, 2 pages.
- November 16. The same to M. le Duc de Fitzjames. Same subject. Folio 267 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page.
- November 16. The same to M. de St. Priest. Same subject. Folio 268, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- November 16. The same to M. the Archbishop of Toulouse. Same subject. Folio 268 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- November 24. The same to M. Perichon. Begs him to pay 240 livres to the Sr. de Ver-chères, formerly ensign in the troops of Canada. Folio 270 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.

observations in favour of the officers of the troops of Canada. Folio 273 $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- November 26. The same to M. Périchon. Begs him to pay to M. Cuxac, surgeon, employed at the Fort of Detroit, the sum of 536 livres due to him for salary, according to the certificate visé by M. Landrière, who performs the functions of Commissary of the Navy in Canada. Folio 273 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.

Havana. Folio 276, 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- December 1. The same to M. the Archbishop of Tours. Cannot, notwithstanding the interest he brings to bear, restore the Sr. Martel to liberty. Folio 282, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- December 4. The same to M. de St. Priest. Has been touched by what took place at the States General of Languedoc and the offer to the King of a vessel of 80 guns. To reward the Sr. Faget for his zeal in the name of the three orders, the King has granted him a pension of 2,000 livres and the reversion of the first vacant place in the Order of St. Michel. Folio 287, 1 page.
- December 4. The same to M. Faget. Thanks him, in the name of the King, for his

- Versailles.
January 30. The President of the Navy Board to M. de Rouis. The President of the Navy Board to M. le Chev. de Ternay. Has received by the Srs. de Courval and Blondelas the two letters that he wrote to him from St. Jean. Has informed the king of the conquest he has just procured for him. Has approved the disposition she has made for the preservation of this post, in concert with M. le Comte d'Haussonville. Has equally approved the choice of M. de Bellecombe as commandant of the fort. Will send two vessels to Newfoundland, with 80 infantry, and 50 of the artillery, and provisions, munitions and necessaries for a garrison. One of these vessels is the frigate Le Zéphir, fitted out as a storeship. She will be commanded by the Sr. de Courval, who will sail from Brest; the other will be a privateer from St. Malo, commanded by the Sr. Blondelas, whom the King has made lieutenant of frigate. If these vessels arrive safely at St. Jean, greater help will be forwarded in the spring. The Srs. de Ste. Marie and de Martigny, captains, and de Bellecourt and de Rocheblave, lieutenants, will embark on these two vessels, with all the Canadians not prisoners on parole who can be found. Folio 1, three pages.

August 14.

The same to M. de Bellecombe. Sends him the copy of the letter that he has written to the Chev. de Ternay, to keep him advised of his intentions in case the former should have left St. Jean with his vessel. The King is very pleased with his efforts to preserve the conquest for him. Sends him two vessels and some troops and provisions. The vessels will leave from two different points to avoid the relief of which he is in need being entirely lost, in case of serious accident. Can make good use of Le Zéphir to defend the entrance to the port, with the batteries that he will have prepared, in case the English should come and attack him during the winter with a squadron that they are preparing. Their gazettes speak of the despatch of the battalions, but doubts their being employed for the present in a descent towards St. Jean. It is more probable that they will have them pass to Halifax or Plaisance, to be in a better position to make their expedition against St. Jean earlier next spring. For this reason, will send relief at the end of February to reach him at the commencement of April. Folio 2, 2 pages.

August 20.

The same to M. de Bellecombe. Begs him to confer the Cross of St. Louis on the Chev. de Repentigny, captain of infantry. Folio 3½, ½ page.

It would be well, in awaiting this withdrawal, to present to the poorest of these families the idea of passing either to Cayenne or to Martinique, or Ste-Lucie, or Guadeloupe, or St. Domingo, mentioning that in such case the King would continue to grant the same assistance to them independently of some other advantages. - August 10. The same to M. de Beaussier. M. le Comte d'Estaing will hand him all the orders and instructions from the King relative to the expedition with which he is entrusted, conjointly, with him, for the conquest of Brazil. In case of difference of opinion on the operations, the advice that is the most hazardous but most prompt will be the one that will prevail. Will answer in his name for the execution of this explicit order from the King. However formidable the preparations for the defence of Rio Janeiro may be, the King wills that his squadron attempt the attack, at the risk of its entire loss, and he will show no ill-will for the loss of all his vessels, provided it be well proved they were only lost after having attempted everything humanly and more than humanly possible that could be attempted at all risks for success. Will receive as many marks of satisfaction in failure as in success. Warns him that on his return, success or failure, the King will have an account rendered him by a court-martial on the conduct of each officer and that delinquencies will be punished as severely as courage and valour will be rewarded. If it chances that peace is made after his departure, will secretly dispatch an advice-boat to instruct him, before officially sending a frigate; this first notice would be to bring away from Brazil all in his power before receiving the formal order for the suspension of hostilities.

The President of the Navy Board to MM. de Fénelon and Le Mercier de La Rivière. Is informed that there are about 300 Acadians at New York. They are in greatest misery, and only ask to be enabled to settle in a French colony. Some of them have taken advantage of the call of a French vessel returning from St. Domingo, and embarked on her. The King desires that the others be procured the satisfaction they ask, but as it would be too onerous to fit out vessels to go after them, has approved that an agreement be entered into with a merchant at Martinique to go and take 150 of them to Martinique or Ste Lucie. They will be given subsistence for one year. Folio 66, 2 pages.

February 13.

The President of the Navy Board to M. Bernier. Conditions concluded with the Acadians who are going to Cayenne. Folio 26, 1 page.

The same to M. de Fraignes, Marseilles. The King proposes to people his colony of Cayenne and to send there a large number of families to make clearings and cultivate the land. This colony being destitute of all methods of amusement, and families being dispersed and left to themselves especially at those moments when they are not occupied, it has appeared to him necessary, in order to prevent melancholy, resulting from laborious pursuits and reflections on their removal from their native country, which might cause much sickness among these new inhabitants, to procure for them some tambourine players who would have no other occupation than to divert them at the times when they would like to make use of them. This attention for these families, independently of the assistance that will be given them, can only produce a good effect. Begs him to procure six players of this instrument, with whom he will make an engagement for three years. After they have consented, will give each one 50 livres and promise them 6 sols a day, in the colony, with rations sufficient for their subsistence. Folio 40, 1½ pages.

The same to M. de Francy. Is informed that there is at Cherbourg an Englishman, disguised as a merchant, who seeks to entice the Acadian families by promising them a happy life in Acadia and that Irish priests will be sent to them. Begs him to make enquiry and discover this man, and as far as possible prevent his association with these families. Folio 43, ½ page.

February 14.

The same to M. le Duc de Penthièvre. Has received his memorandum concerning the formula of licences to be delivered to the captains engaged in the cod fishing. Existing circumstances necessitate particular attention to the clauses of this formula. The King has made a modification which does not make it differ from the old formula except by an explanation adding to the words "the length of the coasts," and the suppression of what relates to the contraband trade in furs taken from Canada, this prohibition having become useless by the cession of Canada. Formula. Clause of the Treaty. Folio 44, 3 pages.

The same to M. Turgot, formerly a captain of cavalry. Conditions on which the King will permit the Maltese to settle in Cayenne, up to a total of 10,000. Folio 54, 2 pages.

1763.
February 19. The same to the same. The King accepts the offers he has made him to go to Cayenne to establish a new colony that the King proposes to found there. Sends him the commission as Governor Lieutenant General of the old as well as the new colony. Folio 57, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- February 23. The same to M. Du Chilleau de la Roche, ensign in the navy, commanding L'Etoile at Brest. Will take on board, at St. Domingo, 700,000 pounds of sugar, coming from the plantation of M. Michel, father-in-law of M. le Marquis de Lévis. Id. to the Sr. Gasquet, ensign of the port, commanding La Barbue. Folio 60, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- February 27. The same to M. le Duc de Nivernois. Shall procure the papers and vouchers of expenses and receipts of The King's Domain in Canada which the Sr. Imbert, clerk in Canada of the Treasurer General, had placed on board Le Sauvage, at Quebec, on the 29th of October. This vessel was captured by the English and taken to Cork, Ireland. Is informed that these papers have been deposited at the Admiralty, Dublin. Folio 64, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- February 27. The same to Abbé Belliard. Begs him to procure a compilation entitled "Recapitulation de las de las Indias," which contains all the regulations for the administration of the Spanish colonies. This work is in five volumes. Will find it at Madrid or Cadiz. Folio 64, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 1. The same to M. de Lucé, Intendant at Strasbourg. Has received his letter, informing him of the great number of persons who offer to proceed to the colonies to settle. Begs him to remember it should be above all a question of foreigners fit for the cultivation of the land, and not of retired officers, and still less of French families, the intention of the King not being to people his colonies at the expense of his provinces. Folio 69, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 5. The same to M. James Ogilvy, merchant, Dunkerque. Has received the letter addressed to him from Canada by the Sr. Boisseau. Folio 73, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- March 10. Circular to the Intendants of the Navy and the Commissaries of ports. Will advertise the shipowners to let nothing prevent the sailing of vessels for the fishery in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Must respect the conventions of the treaty. In the Petit-Nord of Newfoundland they will be in the same position as before the war. Will be careful to recommend captains to avoid all discussion with the English in this part of Newfoundland, if any should happen to remain established there on their arrival. Folio 77, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.

- March 11. The same to M. le Duc de Nivernois. Instructions on the subject of taking possession of the restituted colonies. Folio 82 bis, 2 pages.
- March 11. The same to the same. Hopes he will neglect nothing that will contribute to the reassembling of the Acadians who find themselves distributed among the towns of Liverpool, Southampton, Peryn and Bristol, and to strengthen their attachment to France. The advantage that he will secure for the State, in inducing them to pass to France, will be the more agreeable to the King as he has views for them in reference to a new colony, but even if they preferred to stop in France, the King would not receive with any the less pleasure people so valued. Will consent willingly to leave him free to settle them on the Ile de Bonin, which belongs to him. Will be assisted in the same manner as those who are already in France. Folio 83, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

The King allows her to take with her 18 peasants, militiamen, to assist in forming the settlement she desires in Cayenne. Will give orders that they be subjected to her selection. Folio 86, 1 page.
- March 17. The same to M. le Duc de Nivernois. In order to hasten the departure of Acadians from England, the King authorises the payment of the debts they have contracted, amounting to 13,000 or 14,000 livres. Orders will be given for the payment of the freight on the four vessels that will be used to transport them to France. Will be very glad to be informed, before their arrival in France, of the number of those whom he has destined for the Ile de Bouin; the rest will be distributed among the ports of Brittany. Folio 89 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page.
- March 19. Order from the King, granting safe-conduct to the Sr. Dupleix Silvain, formerly a merchant in Ile Royale. Folio 91 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 19. The same to M. de Fontainieu. Has received the statement of the declarations relating to the paper of Canada, made from the 8th February to the 1st of March, amounting to 9,803,893 livres. Folio 92, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

Begs him to communicate to him the letters written by M. le Comte de Pontchartrain in 1712 and 1713, on the subjects of the cod-fishery, of the cession of Newfoundland and the limits of the coasts preserved by us on the Petit-Nord side of that island for the drying of the fish. Folio 92, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 21. The same to M. de Sartine. Has received his letter acquainting him with the arrest of the Sr. de la Borde, former clerk of the Treasurer General at Louisbourg. Order for the arrest of his son. Id. for the arrest of the Sr. D'Accarete, his son-in-law. Folio 98 $\frac{1}{2}$, 3 pages.

- April 1. The same to M. le Chev. Turgot. Will see by the letter of the Chev. Despennes that it will be difficult to procure a considerable number of colonists for Cayenne at Malta. Folio 112, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- April 4. The same to the Contrôller. The intention of the King was to have the Acadian families and those from Ile Royale passed to Cayenne, after the conclusion of peace. These people, generally, refuse that course. They represent that, having been born in a cold climate, they would not know how to support the heat of South America. They ask to be placed, in preference, in the provinces of France or given liberty to return to Acadia or Canada. As it is important not to lose these 4,000 persons, and, above all, not to allow the English to profit by them, begs him to study the best use that could be made of them, whether in the cultivation of the land or in manufactures. Folio 117, 1 page.

1763.
April 7. The same to M. D'Accarette. The King deems proper that the Sr. D'Accarette, confined in the Chateau Trompette, communicates with his wife and clerk on his business affairs. Folio 121, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- April 9. The same to M. de Sartine. Has received the proposed article to be inserted in the Gazette to inform the public that the affair of Canada is complete and that there will be no delay in judgement. Folio 123, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- April 14. The same to M. Hocquart. Has received the abstract of the sum of 28,704 livres for the pay of the Irish from Newfoundland brought to Brest by the vessels of the Chev. de Ternay. Folio 131, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- The same to M. le Duc de Nivernois. Begs him to make representations to the minister of the King of England, M. D'Egremont, on the fact that 17 French vessels, furnished with English passports, have been taken under pretext that the exergue of the seal of the passports was of George II instead of George III. This error not being our fault our people have a right to damages. Folio 132, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- April 18. The same to the Controller General. The inhabitants of the Antilles, finding themselves deprived by the cession of Canada of live stock, poultry, wood, staves, tiles, vehicles and vegetables which they received from that colony, and, at the same time, of a market for their syrups and molasses, have asked permission to draw the same products from foreign colonies and to send their syrups and molasses in exchange, which has been accepted under certain conditions and restrictions. Folio 138, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- April 18. The same to M. de Sartine. Seeing that, from the interrogations to the Sr. de La Borde, it appears that he accuses M. Prévost, former Commissary General in Ile Royale, with having taken from the treasury part of the funds forming the deficit for which he was arrested, and as the reputation of the Sr. Prévost has always been very doubtful, sends an order that the latter be arrested at La Rochelle and his papers seized, and conducted to the Bastille. Recommends a treatment of M. Prévost such as to avoid complaints of the kind made by the other prisoners who have been arrested at La Rochelle in connection with the affair of Canada. Order from the King id. Folio 139, 1 page.
- April 19. The same to M. Moreau, King's Attorney at Chatelet. Respecting the appearance at Chatelet of the prisoners detained in the Bastille in the affair of Canada. Folio 147, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- April 23. The same to M. L'Heritier. The French vessels carrying English passports in American waters have been arrested under the pretext that the passports carried the Seal of George II. They were not aware that the Seal of George III had not yet been struck, and that on the latter's accession to the Crown, a Royal order allowed the use of the Seal of George II. Has just been informed that a certain number of these vessels had been released on the claim of the Governor of St. Domingo. The only question will be that of the damages sustained by the owners. Folio 155, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- July 16. The same to the Abbé de L'Isle Dieu. The steps taken by the Abbé de la Corne, aided by M. le Chev. D'Eon, have had all the success desired. He has obtained from the King of England the promise that the Chapter of Quebec should have permission to publicly choose a Bishop. The first point, the most essential, should lead to obtaining the estates of the Catholic priests. Should abstain from writing to London on this question unless it be to solicit the freedom of Abbé Le Loutre or present the claim for the effects of the late M. Maillard, deceased in Acadia. If he writes to the priests of Canada, he should not fail to exhort the French priests to submission, and fidelity to their new sovereign. Folio 304, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.

August 15. The same to the Controller General. Sends him a letter from the Sr. Brière replying to the request of the Intendants of the Provinces for information on the possibility of settling the Acadians who are in France on the land. In this he states it would appear that the Province of Bretagne alone, of which the half is not cultivated, could furnish occupation for 4,000. Knows the importance of preserving to the King subjects whose fidelity and zeal merit his regard. Folio 367, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- Versailles.
September 3. The same to M. de Francy. Can accept the offer of the Srs. Dulongpré and Couey, merchants of Cherbourg, for conveying 100 Acadians to St. Pierre and Miquélon. Folio 390, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- September 3. The same to M. Mistral. Folio 395 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- September 2. The same to M. Ribot, Intendant of his domain (the minister's) at Amboise. There are from 3,000 to 4,000 Acadians in the various ports of France. It is desired to settle them in France, seeing they do not wish to proceed to our colonies. These families are composed of people naturally indolent, but very industrious, good cultivators, and in general fit for everything when obliged to do all for themselves in their own country; where they built their own houses, cut down and fashioned the timber and constructed their own fishing vessels. If he thinks they can be made use of and placed on his lands, he can have 200 or more sent for the purpose. Folio 405, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- September 20. The same to M. de Francy. Since the Sr. de Longpré Couey is not prepared to convey the 100 Acadian families from Cherbourg to St. Pierre Miquélon this year, he will enter into no agreement with him. Folio 422 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- September 23. The same to M. de Pénaurun Tilly, Mayor and Lieutenant General of Police at Morlaix. Is informed that the commander of La Ville de Cayes, of Nantes, forced to put into New York, refused to receive on board several Acadian families who begged him to take them to France. Folio 454, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- October 15. The same to M. Chaulaire. Has done right in refusing passports to the Acadians from Ile St. Jean who are at Boulogne. It is quite useless for them to be running about from one place to another; besides, as many of their compatriots have already gone away they would perhaps not find those they were looking for. They must remain quiet until next spring, when action will be taken to select a destination for them. Folio 454, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- October 15. The same to M. Mistral. Has received the list of Acadians living at present at Havre and Rouen, and the statement of what has been paid to the 18 persons who have gone to the colonies. Folio 454 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- October 25. Circular to the States of the Kingdom. The Germans recruited for Cayenne in order not to diminish the number of the King's subjects, present themselves in such large numbers that the resources of the navy department are insufficient. - November 22. The same to the same. M. de La Rochette has just sent him a general enumeration of Acadians dispersed in Georgia, Carolina, Maryland, New York, New England and Nova Scotia. As these persons seem desirous of settling in French colonies, means will be found to send them there, if the English government does not oppose it. Begs him to present this subject to the English minister in an indirect manner in order not to expose himself to a refusal which would prevent our arriving at the same object in taking advantage of the tolerance of the governors of the English colonies. 1764. who was Governor. He will do similarly with respect to the other 26 persons of the same colony who have an absolute repugnance to embarking for Cayenne. Would be glad to be able to send them to Miquelon, as they wish, but there is no room. Will permit those who have relatives at St. Malo to go there. Folio 110, 2 pages.

- April 10. The same to M. de Sartine. Is quite persuaded by the report he has made, that the Sr. Prevost was not an accomplice in the malversations of the Sr. La Borde, Treasurer of Ile Royale, but it cannot be denied he was wanting in vigilance, without which the Sr. La Borde would not have been in a position to commit such heavy waste. The King has granted him his liberty, but there can be no question in future of employing him in posts of confidence. As to the Sr. La Borde, he should totally abandon his property until payment of the deficit in his office is made, and awaiting this, he will be kept in prison, as well as his son and son-in-law. Folio 123, 2 pages.

- May 4. The same to M. Chaulier. Has reported to the King the repugnance of Acadians in his Department to go to Cayenne. Is surprised at their perseverance in an obstinate refusal, notwithstanding the advantageous offers made to them. Will make them understand how much out of place this obstinacy is, since the country to which it is wished to send them is excellent and their compatriots of Cherbourg, Havre and Morlaix make no difficulty in accepting these offers. There are no means of placing them elsewhere, and it will be impossible to continue their subsistence if they persist in doing nothing. Folio 153, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

Respecting the fisheries on the Newfoundland coasts. Folio 161, 3 pages.
- May 9. The same to M. D'havincourt. On the subject of the proposition of the Sr. Gibraltar to settle, in the various parts of the kingdom, 6,000 and even, 60,000 foreign families who ask this favour. The King does not think fit to accept of it, because they demand the free exercise of their religion. Folio 163, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- May 9. The same to M. de la Corée. Respecting the great number of German families who came into Franche Comté, secretly and without permission, intending to go to Guyana to settle. Folio 163, 1 page.

- May 9. The same to M. le Comte de Guérchy. Is quite astonished at the article which appeared in the "Gazetteer" of the 23rd of April last, throwing suspicion on the fitting out of L'Amphion and La Licorne. Will confer with the Minister so that he may correct this assertion in the next issue of the Gazette. Folio 164, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- May 20. The same to M. le Juge de Landivisiau. The King desires to know all the details connected with the homicide committed by the Sr. Courtin, surgeon, who, it appears, has only acted in self-defence; besides, he is related to all the Acadian families of Morlaix, who deserve the greatest consideration for their attachment to the King and to his service. Folio 174 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- May 23. The same to M. de Vaudésir. On the subject of the surrender which the Sr. De La Borde, agent of the Treasurers General at Ile Royale, consents to make, as restitution for his defalcations. Folio 178, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- June 11. The same to Abbé de L'Isle-Dieu. On the subject of the sum of 10,000 livres sent to him from Canada, as restitution. Folio 199, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- June 16. The same to M. le Duc de Praslin. The claims of the court of England with regard to the cannon at Mobile and the other posts in Louisiana, ceded to her, are indefensible. The English cannot complain as everything has been done to pacify the Illinois Indians. Folio 201, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- June 18. The same to M. Hocquart. Respecting the chartering of the vessel Le Postillon to transport the 24 Acadian families at Morlaix, going to Guyana. The decision of the Sr. Coquart, who was their missionary in Acadia, to go there may determine others to do likewise. Folio 204, 1 page.

Prays him to expedite the delivery of the judgment which he is to render in the suit of Abbé Le Loutre and other missionaries against the Seminary of Foreign Missions. Awaits this decision before employing these missionaries in the colonies. Folio 206 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- Compiègne.
June 26. The same to M. le Duc de Praslin. Forwards a letter from M. D'Abbadie and 17 documents which show that, notwithstanding the care and trouble which M. D'Abbadie has taken to assist the English in taking possession of that part of Louisiana which was ceded to them, the English officers claim that all the opposition which the Indians offer, comes from the insinuations of M. D'Abbadie and the other French officers. Shall communicate all the details contained in these documents to M. le Comte d'Hereford in order that he may be cognizant of the truth and the sincerity of our proceedings. It would be most disagreeable to the King to learn that, after having given the most positive orders to act towards the English 1764. commandants with the utmost good-will and aid them in every possible way, orders which he knows have been executed with the greatest punctuality, some petty English officers would attribute to the French commandants actions of the Indians which it is impossible for them to prevent, the ungenial character of whom England has had many opportunities to learn, even at those posts where nobody could suspect.

- May 23. The same to M. Chaulair. May proceed to fit out the vessel which he intends to transport the Acadian families at Boulogne and the Germans at Samers to Guyana. Folio 182, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- June 5. The same to M. Mistral. Same subject. Folio 193 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- June 10. The same to M. the Comptroller General. If, as he claims, it is impossible to take a sum of 56,000 livres from the royal chest, to indemnify the States General of Brittany, for the non-possession of the domain of Belle-Isle, it will be impossible to settle the Acadians on this island. This would be regrettable, as the greater part of them only came from England to France on the promise of the Duc de Nivernois, approved by the King, that they would be placed in France, and enabled to earn their subsistence. When they arrived in France, M. Bertin, his predecessor, proposed to employ them in the mines. This proposal was rejected, because it would have been cruel for people used to live well, and who have sacrificed everything through zeal and attachment for France, to submit them to such degradation. At the same time it would have been forfeiting the King's word. Has offered them to go to West Indies, but the greater part of them have a pronounced dislike for these colonies. It would be desirable to find them employment in some part of the kingdom, preferably on the islands on the sea coast, as they are experienced fishermen. These people are sober and industrious, and they cannot be left idle. Folio 195^{bis}, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- June 11. The same to M. le Marquis de Vaudreuil. The court of England has granted him one year to go to Canada to dispose of his property. Instructions have been given to the governor of Quebec. - June 28. The same to M. Hocquart. Same subject. Folio 213, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- July 20. The same to M. Hocquart. It was not necessary to supply Acadians going to Guyana with guns. Folio 249, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- July 20. The same to M. de Ramezay. Has received his memorial on his services and in connection with the surrender of Quebec where he was commandant after the death of M. de Montcalm. The permission which he asks to publish this memorial, in order to re-establish his reputation, which he claims has been tarnished, by reason of the indifferent treatment meted out to him, cannot be granted. It contains details which other officers might wish to explain or contradict, and, would cause discussion which is better avoided. The King has clearly shown his feeling in the matter, by granting him a pension of 800 livres. Folio 249, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- July 21. The same to M. de Fontanieu. Has received a new memorial from Mde Penissault. She is in the utmost poverty, owing to the bad faith of her late husband's debtors, the theft of her effects and the impossibility, where she is, of looking after her affairs. Believes that it is useless to detain the Sr. Penissault in gaol any longer and that the goods which he holds should be exchanged for cash. Folio 253 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page.

- Versailles.
August 22. The same to M. le Duc de Praslin. Will represent to the Earl of Hereford that the allowance of one-half of the face value for Canadian bills of exchange, and of one-fourth for the paper money, is equitable and liberal, learns that speculation on these papers has been enormous, and that the holders have very often paid less than one-sixth of their face value. This settlement applies to all, French, Canadian and English holders. Folio 282, 3 pages.
- August 23. The same to M. de Sartine. The Sr. de la Borde, having made an assignment of his property, may be released from the Bastille. The King will not take much out of it, as the paper money which he had confided to the care of the Sr. d'Accarette, his son-in-law, has been destroyed in a fire at Bordeaux. Folio 284, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- August 23. The same to M. de Fontanieu. Same subject. Folio 284, 1 page.

- September 11. The same to M. Guillot. The Sr. Deline, officer of the hospital who has married an Acadian is gone from Morlaix to St. Malo, with the intention of casting his lot with that of her compatriots. Will grant him the usual subsistence. Folio 299, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- September 19. The same to Abbé Le Loutre, at the Seminary of Foreign Missions, Paris. May positively assure the inhabitants of Ile St. Jean residing at Boulogne, that in proposing to them to form a settlement in Guyana, there was no intention of forcing them to go. It is true that their prejudices as to the unhealthiness of the climate of that colony are without foundation, and though M. Chaulair has combated them with persistence, the thought of forcing them to go was never entertained. The King leaves them free to choose any colony except that of St. Pierre and Miquelon which are not susceptible to receiving any more inhabitants, they may even stay in France if they prefer it. Folio 305 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page.
- September 22. The same to M. le Marquis de Vaudreuil. Has noticed that in the arrangements made at his retirement in 1756, the King had been pleased to add to his emoluments the position of Honorary Commander of the Order of St. Louis. Circumstances having prevented the King from sending him the ribbon and the cross, he takes the occasion of his return to France to ask that the King no longer delays sending the insignia of this decoration. The patent will be forwarded soon. Folio 309, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- September 23. The same to M. de Fontanieu. Respecting representations made by Dame Pénissault. Folio 310, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- September 23. The same to M. Fermensau, Mayor of Morlaix. Although he approves of the suppression of the allowance for lodging to the Acadians at Morlaix, the King being moved by their faithfulness has protected them from all molestation. Desires him, with the Commissary of the Navy, to note if this suppression will not deprive them of all means of subsistence. Folio 313, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- Fontainebleau.
October 9. The same to M. le Maréchal de Noailles. The interest which he takes in Mde. Varin is a sufficient motive to determine him to do all he can for her. Such ecclesiastics, who have sacrificed everything for the sake of religion, cannot be left thus unprovided for. It is to such men that the benefices of the church should be especially given. Prays he will suggest to the King a pension of 5 or 600 livres for each. Folio 361, 1 page.
- December 3. The same to M. de Fontanieu. Has received a memorial from the Srs. Pierre Gauthier and Armand Bugeauld, inhabitants of the Baie des Chaleurs, now at St. Pierre and Miquelon. July 12. The same to M. de La Bourdonnaye, Councillor of State. Cannot decide anything for the present. Folio 227 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- July 12. The same to the same. Moved by the representations and great poverty of Dlle Baraguel, daughter of a ship-owner of Canada, who obtained from the King in 1734, a yearly sum of 500 livres for himself and his heirs, so long as his claims against the King were not decided, the King has decided that this sum. the payment of which has been stopped since the treaty of peace should continue to be paid to her until a definite settlement is made. - August 13. The same to M. de Beaupoil St. Aulaire. Has transmitted to the King the memorial in which he asks for the pardon of the Sr. Breard, a speculator in the affair of Canada, and his re-installation in the post which he occupied before his condemnation. SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

- August 26. The same to MM. the State Commissioners of Brittany. Arrangements made with Abbé Le Loutre for the settlement of the Acadians at Belleisle. Prays he will give these people all the assistance which they may need; they deserve it for their firm attachment to France and their sacrifices. Folio 279, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- August 26. The same to M. Waren, commandant at Belleisle. Consideration he should show to the Acadians. He will make himself agreeable to the King, who has taken them under his protection. Folio 279 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

- September 15. The same to M. the Comptroller. Respecting a settlement in Landes for the Germans who were to go to Cayenne. It is said that there are near Rochefort marshes and waste lands the grantees of which have never fulfilled the conditions of the grant. They might be made very profitable by settling Acadians who would know how to improve them. Prays he will inquire into this. Folio 294, 1 page.

- September 15. The same to M. de Vaudésir. Prays he will pay to the Sr. De Vers de Vaudrey, captain in the Languedoc regiment, the 7,459 livres which he had lent to the Sr. Bigot, on the 20th of September, 1760, for the King's service. Folio 300, 1 page.

- September 19. The same to M. le Duc de Praslin. Respecting the treatment of the French on the coasts of Newfoundland. Mr. Palliser, the governor of Newfoundland, is on very good terms with M. Dangeac; if he acted with rigour, it is because Parliament thought he showed too much consideration, and he wanted it to see that he had mended his ways. With regard to the idea of the Duke of Grafton, respecting the exchange of St. Pierre and Miquelon for two other islands, such as Belleisle and another which he did not name, much might be said. His object can only be to remove us from the Gulf of St. Lawrence so that we can never return there and, by this means, prevent our keeping war ships in that region. Although the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon are a very small possession for us, they offer many advantages on account of their position. Much more useful objects would be required to decide us to make an exchange, and Belleisle is of no use to the English. Folio 307, 1 page.

August 1.

The same to MM. Dangeac and Beaudéduit. Has submitted to the King all that they wrote to him about the Acadians. It appears that, in order to escape from English rule, these inhabitants take all the means to go to their colony. Is far from blaming them for the compassion they showed them on their arrival, but, as it is impossible to keep them in a country which offers no resources, either in the cultivation of the soil which is not suited for that purpose, or in the fisheries, of which they know nothing, it is indispensable to stop the considerable expenses they occasion. The King leaves them free to return to Acadia or to come to France. If they come to France, lands and rations for one year will be granted to them. They will be treated as kindly as the other Acadians. Desires to know whether they have vessels and provisions necessary to take them to Acadia, the number of those who wish to return there, and the number of those who desire to come to France. Shall notify these people that none but fishermen can be admitted to those islands. Folio 8, 2 pages.

August 4. The same to the same. Has received a memorial from the Sr. Dumas, Colonel of Infantry, who is going to serve at Iles de France and de Bourbon. He asks to be exempted from the reduction which is made in the redemption of the paper money of Canada. This officer has served with distinction in the war of Canada, and, it appears that owing to his honest conduct in the midst of abuses and malversations the decree which reduced the value of the paper money of that colony has caused him embarrassment. Would be pleased to see his demand granted by the commissioners. Folio 287, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- August 7. The same to M. de Villevault. The Earl of Lennox has informed him that the English committee has abandoned the idea of appointing a commissioner to assist in the enquiry into the Canada paper money. The commissioners may proceed in their work. Folio 289 bis, 1 page.

- September 13. The President of the Navy Board to M. Mistral. Has received his letter and a copy of that of the Sr. Saunier, an Acadian settled in Louisiana, addressed to his father who resides at Havre. It appears that this letter which speaks in glowing terms of the soil, climate and other advantages of Louisiana, has awakened among the Acadians at Havre a desire to emigrate to that colony and that they ask to be transported there at the King's expense. It is impossible to grant that demand, as this colony no longer belongs to France; besides, the King is devising means to place in the Kingdom all the families who came from North America. This plan will soon be put into execution, and prays him to acquaint the Acadians of his department of this fact. Folio 332 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page.

ST. PIERRE ET MIQUELON. (5TH PART).

March 11.

The President of the Navy Board to MM. Dangeac and Beaudéduit. Has received their letter in which they say that the Acadians are in great consternation at the idea of going from St. Pierre et Miquelon to France ; that quite a number had built boats which will be a complete loss if they emigrate. It is only on his reiterated representation that the King has determined to send them to France, as it could not be his intention to expatriate them against their will. Those who came to France ask indemnities for the schooners and boats which they were forced to abandon, and the King can hardly refuse this. Many ask to go back and the permission has been granted them, at the King's expense, on the condition that the subsistence money shall be suppressed. Will send to France only such as cannot do without assistance. Folio 4, 1½ pages.

March 30.

The same to the same. Forwards a memoir on the utility of keeping the Acadians at St. Pierre et Miquelon. The author represents that their emigration has caused considerable loss to the trade of these islands, that every one had built a lodging and that they had engaged in the fisheries with boats that they had constructed ; that they earned quite enough to sustain themselves. SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

May 9. The same to the Abbé Le Loutre. As a reward for his services in Canada and for the expenses which he underwent in relation to the settlement of the Acadians at Belleisle, the King grants him a pension of 1200 livres to be taken from the colonial fund, until he has been provided with an equivalent benefice. Folio 154½, ½ page.

- July 15. The same to M. de Villevault. Forwards the answer of M. de Vaudreuil respecting the various supplies which the Sr. Chabert Joncaire alleges he furnished for the King's service. Folio 218, ½ page.
- Compiègne.
August 11. The same to M. de Marville. Respecting the bills of exchange which Abbé de la Corne has lost at sea. Folio 245½, 1 page.
- August 26. The same to M. the Comptroller General. Renews his earnest entreaties to see without delay to the settlement of 400 or 500 Acadian families, forming about 2,400 persons, dispersed on our coasts. Has thought proper to accede to the demand of the Srs. Rice, who ask that the forest of Brix, situated near Cherbourg, the property of the King, be granted to them. They offer to settle as many Acadians on this domain as can be placed on it. It contains about 13,000 arpents, 4,000 of which yield nothing, and the rest produce such poor wood that the entire forest does not yield 12,000 livres annually. It seems possible to settle nearly all the Acadians there, by granting this tract under a lease for a long term of years without asking either the principal or any yearly dues, but under the condition of undergoing the costs of the settlement of the Acadians, in such numbers as the extent will allow, and for such an amount as the forest and the unwooded land may be estimated to be worth. Besides rendering justice to the Acadians, the state will be discharged of the cost of their maintenance, which amounts yearly to more than 200,000 livres. The Srs. Rice, Irish Catholics, promise to introduce into France the art of beef packing by establishing a manufacture similar to that which they have just left at Cork, and bringing their best workmen. The decree which has been passed for the re-afforestation of the forest of Brix would occasion a heavy expenditure, and would only yield profits at a very distant date; besides, it is not at all sure that it would be possible to produce in a place so exposed to the winds, timber fit for the needs of the navy. All searches to find another place fit for that object have failed. This proposition deserves to be treated as an affair of state, and not as an ordinary piece of finance. Folio 272, bis, 4 pages.
- Versailles.
October 4. The same to M. de Sabrevois, major commanding the officers of the troops formerly serving in Canada, at Tours. The King has been pleased to grant to the Sr. de Clapiers, late an officer in Canada, the permission to marry the young lady in question, residing at Loudun. Folio 300, ¼ page.
- Fontaine-
bleau.
October 26. The same to M. le Duc de Choiseul. The position of governor of Désirade having been abolished, M. Rousseau de Villejoin, who held the appointment, returned to France, where he enjoys a pension of 4,000 livres. This officer who has distinguished himself very much at Ile Royale as well as in the naval battle of M. de la Jonquière, asks the rank of brigadier. Believes that this favour ought to be granted him. Folio 304, 1 page.

October 28. The same to M. d'Invault, Comptroller General. On the urgency of seeing without delay to the settlement of 400 or 500 Acadian families. Folio 314, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- November 11. The same to M. de Clugny. The King approves that the Acadians settled at Belleisle receive the allowance of 6 sols a day for subsistence until the first of January 1769 only. Folio 329, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- November 11. The same to M. the Comptroller General. The Sr. Victor Forest, Acadian of St. Malo, has been condemned to three years on the galleys for having sold tobacco without a license. As he is the father of 7 children, and was only incited to do this through poverty and the impossibility of sustaining his family, all the Acadians ask for his pardon. This poor devil has given proofs, at Ile Royale and in Canada, of his bravery and his zeal. Believes that he should be granted a pardon. Folio 331, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.

YEAR 1773.

Series B. Vol. 144.

1773.
Versailles.
January 9.

The President of the Navy Board to the Comptroller General. M. De Mesesilliere Du Chambon asks for the payment of the price of a schooner which was taken from him in 1760 by order of the King to be sunk at the entrance of port of Ristigouche, to prevent the English squadron from capturing a flute commanded by M. de la Girodais. Having presented to the memorials to the commission only without vouchers, his claim was rejected. These vouchers having been found since, it would be hard to invoke the limitation of time against him. Besides, his services, misfortunes, poverty and large family demand that an exception be made in his favour. Folio 6 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

January 9.

The same to M. Guillot. Has received his letter in which he informs him that the three Acadians who had been chosen by their compatriots to accompany Abbé Le Loutre to examine the lands on which M. de Pérusse wished to settle them, happening to be at Abbé Le Loutre's residence when he died they had taken money he had to the amount of 1968 livres; that upon your representations they had answered that this money was destined to defray the costs of their trip, and that they were justified in taking it; that these costs being paid, there remained a sum of 1296 livres, which they offered to pay back. They were right in their pretensions. Authorizes him to accept that sum, and to take from it what is necessary to pay the funeral expenses of Abbé Le Loutre. Folio 7 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

Must notify him that the Comte de La Marche has asked that 80 of these families be allowed to settle in Corsica, on an estate which has been granted to him. The King has consented to this, and has permitted them to be given one year's subsistence in advance. This sum has been ordered to be paid and it must be provided. - June 22. The same to M. Guillot. Has received his two letters concerning the Acadian settlement in Corsica. By the first he informs him of the arrangements made with the Sr. Dubois to convey part of these families, and by the second, that M. le Comte de La Marche has stopped it, having changed his mind. The Sr. Dubois must be indemnified for the loss which he will suffer by the preparations made and the provisions purchased for this voyage. M. le Comte's plan must be abandoned. M. - November 5. The same to Mde la Marquise de Vaudreuil. Forwards the letter of recommendation which she asked. Is persuaded that MM. le Chev. de Vallière and de Vaivre will do all in their power to effect a settlement of the affairs which necessitate her presence at San Domingo. Will not loose the opportunity to lay before the King a statement of the services of her husband. Folio 423, ½ page.
- Versailles. The same to M. Dupont, formerly local lieutenant of the Châtelet, at Paris.
- November 13. The Sr. de Vassan, who was implicated in the affair of Canada, has made representations to obtain the reward which he thinks he is entitled to for his thirty years' services. He says that his condition forces him to have recourse to the King's mercy. Before submitting his demand to the King, he would like to be informed as to the result of the enquiry by the commission in his case. Folio 428, 1 page.
- November 21. The same to Mde la Comtesse de Duras. Has obtained, as he had promised her, a report on the two memorials which she had recommended, one presented by Mde la Marquise and M. le Comte de Vaudreuil, respecting the suit which they have at San Domingo against M. de la Mardelle, Attorney General to the Superior Council of Port-au-Prince, and the other from M. le Marquis de Vaudreuil, who, in default of the command of San Domingo, asks for a pension and an annual gratuity in consideration of his services and those of his family. With regard to the first memorial, he has written, conformably to her desire, to MM. de Vallière and de Vaivre. As to the second, there has as yet been no question of appointing a commandant of San Domingo, as the command is at present held by M. de Vallière. Will seize every opportunity of laying his services before the King. Has assured Mde de Vaudreuil of this. Folio 430, 1½ pages.
- November 21. The same to Mde de la Boularderie, at Tours. Regrets his inability to increase her pension. Folio 432, ½ page.
- November 21. The same to Dlle de Longueuil, at Port Louis. Has had a report on her memorial asking for the reversion in her favour of the pension of 200 livres granted to each of her sisters who remained in Canada. This demand, which she had already formulated in 1770, was rejected for the reason that, when the late King granted succors to the widows and children of the Canadian officers, he had expressly denied it to those who had remained in Canada, as not needing it. This decision based on equity would have become illusive if the pensions granted to persons in Canada could have been transferred to relatives who have returned to France. However, if the late King was good enough to grant her a pension of 300 livres, on account of her situation, the present state of the finances does not warrant increaseing it. Folio 432, ½ page.
- November 21. The same to M. Prévost de la Croix. Commissary General of the Navy at Lorient. Same subject. Folio 432½, 1 page.
- November 21. The same to M. de la Chauvignerie. Knows how he is situated. Will try to obtain assistance for him. Folio 434, ½ page.
- The same to M. the Archbishop of Paris. Has received his letter together with that of Mde de Moramont, a Canadian, who asks for a pension of 200 livres. This pension was granted to the families of Ile Royale because they had lost all their property when this colony was ceded. The Canadian families, who had the liberty of selling their property, do not come under the same privilege. Folio 439, 1 page.

1774. The same to the Bishop of Lombez. Can do no more for the Sr. de Barry, formerly officer in Canada. Folio 440, 1 page.
- November 21. The same to M. de Courtemanche, at Loches. Same demand, same answer. Folio 440 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

Has received his letter in favour of one Brault, Acadian, who, not liking agriculture, wishes to become a sailor, and solicits the payment of the sums due him for his naval campaigns during the last war. Shall apply for his first demand to M. the Comptroller General who is specially charged with the settlement of the Acadians on the estates of M. le Marquis de Pérusse, after which, he may be classed. Folio 450 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page.
- December 12. The same to Mde Robineau, Rue des Moineaux, care of M. Fagard, Paris. Is moved by her sad situation, but cannot grant her, as a Canadian, the subsistence allowed to the families of Ile Royale and Acadia. Folio 473, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- December 12. The same to M. Dumas. The King has been pleased to restore his salary of 1200 livres, which was granted to him upon his return to France; he has even added an extra gratuity of 6,000 livres, this shows that the King has no bad impression of his recall from Ile de France. Folio 474 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- December 19. The same to M. de Cypières. Prays he will make a secret enquiry at Blois, concerning the Sr. de Vassan, who was implicated in the Canadian affairs, and who asks for the King's favour. Folio 486, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- December 19. The same to M. the Comptroller General. Prays he will allow the Sr. Clermont, Acadian, to settle on the lands of M. de Pérusse. His name has not been put on the list of Acadians, on account of his having gone first to the Malouines Islands and thence to Miquelon before coming to France. Folio 486 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- December 29. The same to M. Sabrevois de Sermonville. Would have been glad to procure him some aid on account of his old services and the loss which he suffered on paper money of Canada, but has been unable to do so. Folio 496, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- December 29. The same to M. D'Estimauville. Regrets his inability to increase his pension. Folio 496 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

Has examined his memorial in which he states that he has lost 80,000 livres of Canada paper money, by the wreck of the vessel on which he was coming to Europe, and that this sum was the proceeds of supplies furnished for the King's account in Canada, and praying for an indemnity. Can only pity him, as he has produced no vouchers to prove his loss. Folio 497, 1 page.

ment of Finance. The subdelegate of the Intendancy has taken care of them and has caused them to be paid 6 sols per day until the 31st of Dec.
1774. It is this interrupted allowance which these poor people have been claiming for more than one year. Prays he will apply to Abbé Terray for fuller information. Folio 91, 1 page.
- March 4. The same to M. Budet. Has received the certificates which prove that the Sr. de L'Epervanche came to France in 1761 and remained there until his death. Knew this, but the reason why he answered as he did, was to conceal the real motives of the retirem-nt of this officer without a pension :
he was condemned as a defaulter by the commission of the Canada affair, under suspicion of malversation in his capacity of commandant of fort Machault. Under these circumstances his children have no right to the King's favours. Folio 102 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page.
- March 18. The same to M. Daubenton. Will arrange for the passage to Guadeloupe of M. de Repentigny, colonel of the regiment of this colony, his wife and three servants. Folio 134, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 24. The same to M. le Comte de Vergennes. We have nothing to fear from the expedition which the Congress of the English colonies intend to make against the English fishing settlements on the coast of Newfoundland. Our rights are well enough known to prevent our fishermen being molested.
Folio 234 bis, 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- April 15. The same to M. le Marquis de Vaudreuil at Paris. Forwards the certificate of death of Mde de Rigaud which the administrators of San Domingo have sent to him. Folio 170, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- April 29. The same to M. Duprè de St. Maur. The King has granted a pension of 600 livres to the widow of the Sr. Benoist, late an officer in Canada. Folio 187 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- April 29. The same to Mde de Feltz, at the Luxembourg, Paris. Will submit her demand, to receive half of the pension which her husband enjoyed for his services in Canada, in his capacity of surgeon to the King. Folio 188, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- April 29. The same to M. Guillot, at St. Malo. Having regard to his representations in favour of certain families of North America settled in his department, the King has been pleased to put them on the list of those who are to receive allowances out of the available funds. Folio 189, 1 page.
- April 29. The same to M. Daubenton. Same subject. Folio 189 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page, List of persons from North America to whom pensions have been granted out of the funds coming from the 50,000 livres. Folio 190, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- May 24. The same to M. Daubenton. Prays he will examine the request of Joseph Devaux, an Acadian, who represents that Abbé de Lisle Dieu having taken care of him while he was young, he has never received the subsistence allowed to Acadian children. Folio 219 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- May 26. The same to M. le Comte de Vergennes. England being at war with her colonies of North America, our vessels cannot, when in the open sea, refuse the visit which the captains of the English warships may exact, and they 1776. must, for this purpose, lower their sails upon the first summons. Folio 226, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.

- May 27. The same to the same. Forwards the letters which he asked in favour of M. de Lotbiniere for the Commissary of the Navy at St. Malo and the Administrators of St. Pierre and Miquelon. Folio 228, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- May 27. The same to M. Guillot. M. de Lotbiniere desiring to return to Canada by way of St. Pierre and Miquelon, he shall procure a passage and give him all the facilities in his power. Folio 228, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- May 31. The same to MM. Doyard and de la Porte, Commissary General of the Navy, intendants at Nantes and Bordeaux. Notifies them that the King's intentions are that no munitions of war are to be supplied by his subjects to the rebels of America. Folio 234, 1 page.
- June 16. The same to M. de la Rue, Comptroller General of the Excise of Paris, Rue du Bac. Has received his letter in which he says that he refused to deliver to Father Colomban three rescripts from Rome which he found among the papers of Abbé de Lisle-Dieu, with a few memoirs against this Apostolic Prefect, which he would certainly have forwarded if he had not become sick. Folio 253 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- June 20. The same to M. de la Touche. Has received the journal of M. de Montazeaud, in which it is seen that he met, not far from San Domingo, an English fleet commanded by Admiral Parker. It is true that his presence in these regions might cause some uneasiness, but there is no doubt that this admiral was carried away to the south by incidents of his navigation and that he was really going to Virginia or Carolina, as the English officer who went on board the vessel of M. de Montazeaud declared, and there is very little to fear for San Domingo, as this fleet which had sailed from Cork only conveyed a few Irish regiments. Cannot understand how the officers of this squadron could know that 6,000 Hessians had gone into England's pay, to serve against the English colonies, as this arrangement could not be known in Ireland when this squadron sailed. Folio 259, 1 page.
- June 21. The same to M. Duplessis Fabert, formerly an officer in Canada, at Châteauneuf. Cannot make the pension which he enjoys reversible to his wife. Folio 273, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- June 28. The same to M. de Figuiery, formerly an officer of infantry at Castel Sarazin in Languedoc. Has received the memorial of his wife asking for a pension of 400 livres, as a Canadian as well as in consideration of the services of her ancestors. Her memorial does not contain the details of these services and they are not known in his office. Besides the state of the finances does not permit to grant her request. Folio 266 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- June 28. The same to M. the Comptroller General. It had been decided that the Acadians would be settled on the estates of M. de Pérusse, and that the subsistence would be continued to those unable to work. In consequence, a census has been taken of these families who number 2523 persons, the settlement, maintenance, and subsistence of whom have, on the 1st of July 1773, come under the charge of the Finance department. Has been informed that the settlements on the estates of M. de Pérusse have not been successful and that the Acadians have remained dispersed in the ports. The Finance department has only paid the subsistence until Dec. 31, 1774. These unfortunate beings do not cease to claim it from him. Could only transmit their demands to M. Turgot. Has answered that measures were being taken to restore the allowance. The representations of the Acadians are touching and well founded. Prays he will attend to this and inform him of what he shall do in their favour. Folio 267, $1\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- June 28. The same to M. Lombard. Prays he will forward him a statement of the claim of Dlle Fizel, an inhabitant of Louisbourg, who asks for a pension. Folio 273 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

1776. The same to M. de Céloron, at Tours. Has procured an extra gratuity July 5. for the Sr. de la Noue. Folio 278, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- July 5. The same to M. Le Neuf de Boisneuf, a former officer of Canada, at Rochefort. Will not miss an opportunity of placing his sons, but cannot increase the pension of his wife or that of his daughters. Folio 278, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- July 5. The same to M. the Archbishop of Paris. Cannot grant to Mde. de Courtemanche the pension of 400 livres enjoyed by her father, however sad may be her situation. But owing to his high protection, she will be recommended to the King for an extra gratuity. Folio 280 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- July 5. The same to M. D'Aguesseau. Cannot grant the pension asked for by the Sr. de Clovignac. He went to Louisbourg in 1748 simply as a settler and never was in the employ of the Marine department. Folio 281, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- July 10. The same to M. Daubenton. It has been decided by an edict of June last to establish a depot at Versailles where all the registers and deeds passed in the colonies will be deposited, and to unite that which is at Rochefort to it. Shall send all the papers of the Rochefort depot. Folio 287, 1 page.
- July 25. The same to M. Gimel. It is true that the pension of 4,000 livres granted to Mde. Varin in 1766 is reversible to her three children at the rate of 1,000 livres each, but it is not cumulative. Folio 305 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- August 4. The same to M. Meulan D'Ablois. Has received the memorial of Dlle.
 Herpin, an Acadian, in whom he is interested. Refers him to M. Dauben-ton, who is specially charged with the distribution of the fund destined for that object. Folio 325, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- August 18. The same to M. Daubenton. Sees by his letter that the papers accumulated at Rochefort form a considerable mass, the transfer of which would be very expensive. As the greater part come from Canada, Ile Royale and Louisiana, the government has no reason to transfer them to Versailles, besides, the inhabitants of these colonies having nearly all settled in the neighbourhood of Rochefort, it will be best to leave them where they are. Folio 340, 1 page.
- September 14. The same to M. de la Chauvignerie, officer from Canada, Rue St.
 Honoré, in front of the Opéra. Has granted him an extraordinary gratuity of 300 livres. Folio 381 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- September 14. The same to M. Matis, Place du Petit Marché St. Jacques, care of Widow Vernier, Paris. Has received his memorial concerning the estate of his brother, curé of Montreal, who died 4 or 5 years ago. Cannot give him any information. Folio 382, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- September 20. The same to Mde. de la Boularderie, at Tours. Has received her letter asking for a gratuity to enable her to pay her debts, and go to Normandy. Can add nothing to the favours already granted her by the King. Folio 390 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- September 28. The same to M. Daubenton. Will report whether the Dlles. Fizel who ask assistance as Acadians have a right to do so. Folio 404, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- September 28. The same to M. Doyard. Has read with interest the news given him by Captain Robert Kennedy, from Philadelphia. Folio 406 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- September 28. The same to M. Baudard de St. James, Treasurer General of Martinique and the Colonies, at Paris. The King has judged advisable to grant to the missions of Cayenne, the capital and arrears of a rent of 1,600 livres bequeathed to the Nuns of the Congregation of Louisbourg. Is authorized to call upon the widow of the Sr. du Pénil to account for the proceeds of this rent, which her husband has received for a number of years in virtue of a power of attorney from these religieuses. Folio 412, 1 page.
- Fontaine-bleau.
 October 21. The same to M. le Comte de Vergennes. Shall make vigorous representations to the Court of London and demand satisfaction for the outrage committed by the English governor in causing many French vessels to be

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

1776. seized on the African coast within the dependency of Gorée. Folio 437, 1½ pages.
- October 27. The same to the same. Same subject. Shall first demand from the Court of London the recall and punishment of the English governor of Sénégal, Mr. Macnemara, and all indemnities which are justly due. Folio 448, 2 pages.
- November 10. The same to M. Doyard. The rumours current at Nantes that four English frigates were cruising along our coasts to intercept the American vessels bound for France do not appear well founded. Folio 465, ½ pages.
- November 12. The same to M. le Comte de Vergennes. Has examined the report containing the details of the capture by the English of the vessel commanded by Louis Borelly. A voyage to New England in the present state of affairs looks very suspicious, and it is not surprising that the captain of the English frigate would not listen to the story concocted by the French captain. A judgment cannot however be based on appearances and if the report of the officers of the English frigate does not refute the facts alleged by the crew of the French vessel, the Court of London cannot refuse to restore the prize. It is best to make moderate representations. Folio 469, 1 page.
- November 12. The same to M. de Vergennes. On the subject of the capture of French vessels off the coast of Gorée. Instructions as to the manner of proceeding. Folio 469½, 2 pages.
- Versailles. The same to the same. Has learnt with pleasure that the English November 30. cabinet has disavowed the conduct of M. de Macnemara, governor of Sénégal, and has recalled him. Must seize this occasion to reach a definite understanding as to the extent of our settlements in these regions. Folio 489, 1½ pages.
- December 20. The same to M. the Comptroller General. Will see by the memorial which he forwards that the settlement of the Acadians on the estates of M. le Marquis de Pérusse has not been a success, and that these Acadians to the number of 1400 have sought a refuge at Nantes. Can grant no assistance out of the funds of his department. Can only pray him to enquire into their situation and to procure for those entitled to receive aid, that which was promised them at the time of the peace. Folio 523, 1 page.

ORDERS OF THE KING AND DESPATCHES.

Versailles.
January 4. The President of the Navy Board to M. Mistral. Has seen by his letter that a Dutch vessel has landed 20 Englishmen at Barfleur, part of the crew of four vessels captured by an Anglo-American corsair. It is fitting to facilitate the return of these people to their country. Folio 2, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- January 4. The same to M. Guillot. Will report on the demand of Jacquemine Doyer, Acadian, widow of Simon Gautier. Folio 3 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- January 10. The same to M. Daubrespy de la Farelle. Has submitted to the King his demand for a pension for his wife in consideration of her father and his ancestors in Canada. Can do nothing now, but will remember the services of the parents of his wife and his own. Folio 12 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- January 31. The same to M. Daubenton. The widow of François Bugeau, living at La Rochelle, has sent a memorial in which she represents that two of her children enjoy a pension granted to families of North America, and prays for the same favour for herself and her other three children. As a Canadian, she is not entitled to receive the assistance granted to the families of Ile Royale. Will be good enough to let her know the reason why two of her children receive assistance. Folio 36 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 page.
- February 28. Circulars to MM. Mistral, at Havre, Guillot, at St. Malo, de Chavigny, at Nantes. There is every year, owing to deaths, a fund to be distributed amongst families of Acadia and Ile Royale. Pray they will point out the most necessitous persons, but will restrain their demands within the limits of the fund. Folio 66 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- March 7. The same to Mde de Longueuil, at Calais. The situation of the finances does not permit of increasing her pension. Folio 76, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- April 11. The same to Mde de Meyrac, at Surennes. The children belonging to families of Ile Royale have a right to a pension up to the age of 18 only. Cannot extend this time in favour of her son. Folio 129, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- April 20. The same to Mde Dauterive, at Loches. Can add nothing to the pension which she enjoys in consideration of the services in Canada of her husband. Folio 141, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- April 25. The same to M. Audiffrein. Has received his memorial concerning his vessel Le Jolicœur captured by the English returning from San Domingo and taken to New York. Has forwarded representations on the subject. Folio 149, $\frac{1}{4}$ page.
- May 16. The same to M. de Voltaire. Even though the person in whom he is interested were the nephew of the Sr. Valentin, the latter's will and the condition of the estate leave no hope for his protégé. Folio 185 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- The same to M. Lombard de Sagnes. Has received both his letters, one containing the declaration of Captain Praille, who met, off the coast of Martinique, the English vessel Le Monarque flying the French flag; the other announcing the arrival at Bordeaux of the brigantine Le Pelly from Philadelphia, which met Le Falmouth which he captured after a fight of two hours. The commander of Le Pelly has sent Le Falmouth, with her cargo, 1777. estimated at 35,000 or 40,000 pounds sterling, to an American port. Folio 187, 1½ pages.

- June 6. The same to M. the Archbishop of Tours. Has obtained for the widow of the Sr. de Courtemanche, formerly officer in Canada, an extraordinary gratuity of 300 livres while waiting for a pension. Folio 214, ½ page.
- June 6. The same to Mde D'Aillebout. It is impossible to increase the pension of 1400 livres which she enjoys. Folio 214½, ½ page.
- June 14. The same to M. le Comte de Vergennes. Has received the note of the English ambassador respecting the English vessel, La Venus, captured under the American flag, said to belong to the Sr. Préjean of Martinique, and commanded by an American named Ord. Has written to the governor of that colony to keep watch on the privateers which might be fitted out at Martinique under the pretext of making French expeditions. Folio 231, ½ page.
- June 22. The same to the same. Same subject. Folio 243, 1½ pages.
- June 22. The same to the same. Respecting the capture of a French vessel by the English sloop of war La Diligence, under the pretext that she came from the English colonies, recaptured by commandant L'Archantel, commanding the frigate L'Indiscrète and taken to San Domingo. It is possible that the English will not claim this vessel captured under mere suspicion. Will communicate the information in the possession of the government of San Domingo. Folio 244, 1½ pages.
- July 4. The same to M. Lombard. On the subject of the search and capture of several French vessels returning from San Domingo, by English ships. Folio 257½, ½ page.
- July 2. Circulars to the Chambers of Commerce. Must stop alarm which may be created from rumors spread to the effect that an understanding has been reached between the Courts of France and England permitting the English to seize on the French vessels, all the goods made or grown in New England, which they may find on board, and that these cargoes and vessels will be reckoned as good prizes. This rumour is without foundation and the governor of San Domingo cannot have spoken in that strain. Folio 258 bis, 1 page.
- July 7. The same to M. le Marquis de Paulmy. Is sorry to be unable to grant Mde de Gannes's request for aid to go to Martinique, whence she is to sail for Grenada, to join one of her relatives. Folio 259½, ½ page.
- July 11. The same to M. le Comte de Chatellux. Cannot procure a pension for the Sr. Le Bé, born in Canada, now an officer in the regiment of Beaujollais, nor for his brother. Folio 260, 1 page.
- July 11. The same to M. le Prince de Beauveau. Shall submit to the King the demand of Mde Germain, for the reversion to her of the pensions of her three sisters who remained in Canada. Folio 261, ½ page.
- July 25. The same to M. D'Aguesseau, Councillor of State. Has submitted to the King the memorial of the Dles de Covignac asking for the reversion to them of the pension enjoyed by their mother out of the funds of Ile Royale. The King was pleased to grant them this favour. Folio 279½, ½ page.
- August 8. The same to Mde la Duchesse de Mailly. Has examined the memorial in which the Sr. Charles François Ferdinand Dupont du Chambon asks for a pension in consideration of his services in America. The King has granted his demand. Folio 293½, ½ page.

1777. taken to New York. There are also four other French vessels detained in New York. Folio 324 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- September 19. The same to M. de Gribauval, Inspector of Artillery. Has received the memorial of the Sr. Juchereau Duchesnay, in which he claims payment for several years of the pension of 720 livres which had been granted to his father who died in Canada in 1772. It has been decided that the pension granted to the officers of the colonies would only begin from the date of their arrival in France. Folio 392 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- September 28. The same to M. le Comte de Vergennes. Forwards a memorial from the Sr. Aussenac, of San Domingo, in which he clearly proves that his vessel, captured by the English frigate La Winchelsea, on the San Domingo coast, was on her way to Martinique; that she carried no munitions considered contraband; that she belongs to a French subject; and that her route was unequivocal. This capture is undoubtedly illegal, and no doubt that the Court of London will order the restoration and grant suitable damages. Folio 405, 1 page.
- September 28. The same to MM. Guy and Company, merchants of Marseilles. Has received the documents concerning the vessel Le Huron, which was captured on the 26th May last by two corsairs while returning from Charleston. He was not authorized to sell his cargo at Charleston nor to bring back produce from that country. The intention of the King is indeed to allow the vessels from New England to take from the ports of France cargoes of merchandise admitted, save munitions of war, but he is surprised to see intelligent merchants infer from this that it is permitted to sell and buy in the ports of New England. Folio 412, 1 page.
- October 6. The same to M. de Vergennes. On the subject of the English vessel Le Champion, captured by American corsairs near the Island of Tobago and taken, it is said, to one of the French islands. The report is very vague. Folio 421, 2 pages.
- Fontaine-
bleau.
October 13. The same to M. the Lieutenant General of the Admiralty, at Nantes. Has received his letter concerning the vessels Le Hancock and Le Boston, claimed by the English, who say that they are their property and that they are named Le Clarendon and Le Hanover Plantes. Leaves the matter in the hands of the tribunal, to restore or confiscate. Folio 424 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- October 17. The same to M. Philippe Audiffren, merchant of Marseilles. Has received his letter on the subject of his vessel Le Joliceur captured by the English and taken to Newark. His ship having been captured while on the way to a New England port, he will have to prove by the aid of documents and in a satisfactory manner, that he was forced to stop there. Folio 426 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- October 17. The same to M. le Comte d'Aranda, Ambassador of Spain. Prays he will inform him whether he has any objection to the settlement in Louisiana of two Acadian families composed of 22 persons, and whether his government would undertake to procure them a passage. They wish to join brothers and relatives who offer to help them. Folio 429, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- October 24. The same to the Chamber of Commerce of Bordeaux. Has examined the documents concerning the capture by the English of the ship Le Fier, which left Martinique for St. Pierre and Miquelon. It appears from the enquiry that the sentence was based on sufficient evidence, as it was found that her primitive name was La Betty, that she belonged to Englishmen, that she was captured by Anglo-Americans and taken to Martinique, &c., &c. If she was purchased by a Frenchman the acquisition was illegal and the English have a right to claim her, besides there is ground to believe that she has remained the property of Anglo-Americans. The government cannot meddle in such an equivocal affair. Folio 441, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

1777. The same to M. Mistral. Respecting the assistance asked in favour of October 24. Charlotte La Lime, a Canadian. Folio 541 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- October 27. The same to M. Roger, Lieutenant General of the Admiralty, at Nantes.
 Has received the sentence of the tribunal awarding the confiscation of the vessels Le Clarendon and Le Hanover Plantes with their cargoes, to the King. The King has thought fit to restore them to the English proprietors. Folio 447, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- October 27. Letters patent of donation of the above named vessels to the English proprietors, Peter Liege and Thomas Luny. Folio 447 $\frac{1}{2}$, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pages.
- November 8. The same to M. Chérin. The Sr. Hertel de Cournoyer has obtained from the Depot at Rochefort extracts of his titles of nobility. Prays he will examine them. Folio 456 $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.
- November 8. The same to M. le Marquis de Vauldreuil. The King has already

SAN DOMINGO.

Versailles.
January 10.

The President of the Navy Board to M. D'Argout. The clouds which seemed to accumulate during the summer between the Courts of France and England have dispersed. The advantage gained since by the American insurgents might bring about a change against which it is well to be prepared. Folio 6, 1½ pages.

March 20.

Circular to the governors of the Colonies of America. Notifies them that the King has concluded a treaty of peace and amity with the United States of America, who are in full possession of their independence pronounced by the Act of the 4th of July 1776. Has notified the Court of London of this treaty, declaring that no special privileges had been accorded to the French nation. Notwithstanding this declaration, which contained new proofs of the sincere dispositions of His Majesty toward peace, the English ambassador has received orders to retire without taking leave and M. le Marquis de Noailles was consequently recalled. In this state of affairs, war may be declared at any moment. If war is declared, they will open their ports to the neutrals and will retaliate against the English. Folio 39, 3 pages.

April 30.

Circulars to the governors of the French colonies in America. The King having recognized the independence of the United States of America, they will treat them with the honours due to free states. This only applies to warships, for if they were merely corsairs they would fall in the category of private ships of other nations which are not saluted. Folio 59, 1 page.

May 4.

Circular to the governors of the French colonies in America. It is the King's wish that the United States corsairs be treated with the greatest friendship. Shall tolerate, but without a formal authorization, the sale of prizes which they may bring into their ports. Folio 54, 1 page.

May 9.

The President of the Navy Board to MM. D'Argout and de Vaivre. Approves of the exact neutrality which they have observed towards the English and American ships. Can but approve of the orders they have given for the dismantling of the vessel La Liberté, carrying 16 guns which the Sr. Lavaud had fitted out under a commission from the Congress. Shall take care that such abuses do not occur again. P.S. The order of things is changed by the Treaty of Commerce and Amity concluded with the United States. Will comply with his orders on that subject. Folio 67, 1 page.

June 26.

Circular of the King to the governors of the French colonies in America. The insult offered to his flag on board of the frigate La Belle Poule, by the English; the seizure of his frigates La Licorne and La Pallas, and of his lugger Le Coureur by an English squadron in contempt of the law of nations; the seizure on the open sea and the confiscation of vessels belonging to his subjects, in contravention

- June 28. Circular Instructions on the subject of admission of neutrals respecting the troops, and the prizes. Folio 88 bis, 2 pages.
- August 6. The same to M. D'Argout. Has received his letter and that of the commandant of St. Augustine, in Florida, acquainting him of the forwarding of many French prisoners, who had been arrested by the English while going to New England. This commandant having asked him to sell the ship which conveyed the French prisoners, and to forward the proceeds to England, he did well to execute his desire. It is true that this vessel belonged to the Sr. Aguilar, that it had been seized by the English, and that, under ordinary circumstances he would have been entitled to take his property where he found it, but, as this vessel had come under a flag of truce, in good faith, to carry French prisoners, he could not do otherwise. Folio 105, 1½ pages.
- The same to the same. Has received with his letter a copy of that of the Chev. de Cuverville, commander of the frigate L'Inconstante, in which he reports the capture of the French snow La Marie Marianne by an English boat, within one league from his frigate, and near our coasts. Did well not to ask for reparation for this insult as he knew that this snow sent to Miquelon, was bound to New England, and that the Captain was in collision with the English to effect its capture. Folio 108, ½ page.
- August 18. The same to MM. D'Argout and de Vaivre. Desires that a position be procured for the Chev. de Queux, formerly captain in the navy, who distinguished himself on various occasions, particularly at the siege of Louisbourg in 1758. Folio 110, 1 page.
- August 23. The same to the same. On the subject of the insanity of the Sr. Pierre Antoine Varin. Folio 113, 1 page.
- October 13. Circular to the governors of the colonies of America. Upon the representations of the merchants of the Kingdom that they could victual the colonies during the war, it has been resolved that neutral ships will not be admitted in our colonies unless in cases of urgent necessity. They will be the judges of this necessity. Convoys shall accompany our vessels both going and returning. Folio 125, 1½ pages.
- Marly. Circular Do. Supplementary instructions. Many of our ships have been captured by the English notwithstanding the precautions taken to protect them when making land. Folio 126, 2 pages.
- October 19.
- December 19. Circular from the King to the governors of the American Colonies. The Queen, his dear wife and companion, has given him to day a great proof of her love, in giving birth to a daughter. This visible mark of the protection of Providence, leads him to hope for the accomplishment of his wishes and those of all his people: the birth of a dauphin. Instructions for a Te Deum. - March 20. The same to M. D'Arbaud. Has received the copy of his correspondence with M. Burth, Governor of Antigua, respecting the enterprises of an English frigate which ran an American vessel aground on the coast of Guadeloupe and then landed men to pursue the crew. Has transmitted to M. de Vergennes the details of this violation of territory and the conduct of the English governor. Folio 18, $\frac{1}{2}$ page.

MIQUELON.

- Versailles.
February 28. The President of the Navy Board to M. le Baron de l'Espérance. Thanks for his attention in sending information as to what happens in the United States. Is glad that he should have given proofs of his good understanding with M. de Montaigu, the English Admiral, by sending back the English prisoners whom the Americans had landed at St. Pierre. Hopes that the rupture, which the English who were released at St. Pierre, announced as near, between the two nations, will not materialize. If war is declared, he will resist as long as his means will allow, and try to obtain the best terms possible. Folio 3, 1 page.
- November 7. The same to the same. Has received his letters in which he announced that he had been obliged to capitulate and surrender to an English squadron. May remain at Lorient to regain his health, but prays he will send a detailed statement of the affair. Folio 13, 1 page.
- November 16. The same to the same. Hopes that he will soon come to Versailles to give information on the destruction of the fishing settlements and on the way the English treated the inhabitants. Is not surprised that they seized the vessels, goods, cod, and effects of the Frenchmen of Europe, but it appears that they have not treated the settlers any better, who were to keep the ownership of their movables, effects of all kinds, and particularly the cod, which could not but be considered as the crops of farmers. Did well to forward to Martinique 4,000 barrels of rice, on account of the 6,000 the exportation of which the Congress has allowed. The rest should be sent to San Domingo. The same to M. Necker. Has received a new plan from M. Rosembourg to employ a certain number of Acadian families at Guyana. Will come to a decision after he has received the reports which he has asked from persons well informed about this colony. Must know that a certain number of Acadians have settled in Louisiana and are doing well. The Court of Spain seems to be inclined to increase this settlement, and in that case it will not object to bear the cost of transportation. This emigration would put a stop to a part of the expenses incurred for these families who do not seem to be able to do anything in Europe. Folio 231, 1 page.

September 6. De Bienville to the Minister. Narrative of his expedition against the Alibamons. The Coraas who killed a missionary and three Frenchmen, have been exterminated by the Akansas, our allies. There are still several voyageurs in small bands of 7 or 8, in the Mississippi and Missouri country, and the Indians still kill some. If they took the precaution to assemble all together to trade, this would not happen. Has sent an order to them to come back and forbidding them to trade in beaver skins. They are all good men, well suited for this country. They number altogether 110, counting the 20 men at Ouabache, whom the Sr. Juchereau has assembled. The latter died last fall. They have sold about 9,000 skins of oxen and calves at the fort on the Mississippi. These voyageurs will not be able to settle here comfortably if they can not take skins. The 27 women who came here were all married on their arrival, to Canadians and others who could maintain them, a short time after their arrival. The vessel which

5-6 EDWARD VII., A. 1906

1704. came from Havana brought the plague and 45 persons have died. Ships should not stop at Havana. The want of fresh meat is the cause of much mortality, a flute should be employed to carry cattle from Havana, she could also bring here, in one trip, many settlers. The climate is as good as that of France. Two Indians who came from the Chicachas country report that four Englishmen have brought a lot of merchandise there to thwart the effect of the presents which we had given them. The fort of the Mississippi has not been transferred as d'Iberville had ordered it, as it was found after his departure that all the lands were not covered with water. M. de St. Denis is in command and has 15 Canadians with him. He is a very good officer and has much control over the Canadians, and even over the Indians. The Spaniards of Pensacola are very unhappy. They are reduced to eat Indian corn most of the time. If we had not helped them several times, they would have been obliged to abandon their settlement. The garrison is 200 strong, 100 of whom are mulatto convicts. The Apalaches have been exterminated by the English and their Indian allies. They have made 32 Spaniards of the garrison prisoners and have burnt 17 of them, including 3 Cordelier fathers. They have killed or made prisoners 6 or 7,000 Apalaches, and have captured 6,000 head of cattle, horses and sheep. After burning their fort, the Spaniards retired to St. Augustin. Only about 400 Apalaches have escaped and taken refuge on our river. 200 Chactas, who were settled near Pensacola, have also taken refuge with us. It is said that they intend going to St. Augustin to destroy that fort, after which they will come and attack Mobile. They will not have an easy victory if they come, but he doubts whether they will come. A fort is needed at Ile au Massacre, to protect Mobile. Has sent the passage boat to Vera Cruz at the solicitation of the Governor of Pensacola, and at the same time, to fetch provisions. The Sr. de Becancour died during the voyage. Two other officers have also died : The Srs. Le Vasseur and de Tonty, Canadians. Folio 47, 12 pages. Say 16 pages.

Fort of
February 25.

Report of M. D'Artaguet on what he has been able to learn concerning the instructions of the late M. de Muy, governor of fort of Louisiana. The river Mobile can only be ascended as far as the Chicachas country in small canoes. The fort the erection of which had been proposed, on the territory of that nation, was to prevent the English from going to our Indians settled further north. They receive French and English equally, and turn away those who came first when the others arrive, so as to prevent disorders. Between them and ourselves are the Chactas. The English go there daily to make slaves whom they exchange for negroes of Carolina, or sell as slaves. M. de Bienville tried to make peace between the Chactas and the Chicachas. It only lasted one year. We are not strong enough to punish those who broke the treaty. They see and speak to each other when here and kill each other when at a distance. A fort can only be erected on the Chicachas territory when we are stronger. If a tannery was built here, the skins of oxen would only cost one pistole each. The vice-roy of Mexico has written to the governor of Pensacola not to dispute our boundaries which extend to the River Verdide. Folio 53, 3 pages.

1709. Extract from the Report of the Sr. Mandeville, ensign in the company of Vauzelard in Louisiana. Respecting Louisiana. Description of the country. It would be expedient to grant peace to the Alibamons who sue for it. The other nations are friendly, and those who trade with the English are neutral. Ascending the Mississippi, many nations are met, composed of good, industrious, and peace-loving people. The soil is good. Going further up the Mississippi, one comes to the Ouabache 300 leagues from the mouth of the former. The valley of this river is very fertile, and hunting is good, especially that of oxen. It is the finest country in the world. Above this river, in the country of the Caskakias, is a mission of the Jesuits and near

1709. it is a plumbago mine which is very rich. Between this mission and the Ouabache, there are a salt mine and one of copper. Ascending further, one reaches the Missouri. Oxen are there in such abundance, that it surpasses imagination. These oxen grow hair and wool according to seasons. The Mississippi has been ascended to its source. Coming down is very easy. There is also an iron mine on the Mississippi. As nearly all the walnut trees are dead in France, those of the Mississippi might be used to make oil. They are very numerous. It is absolutely necessary to live in peace with all the Indian nations of this vast region. Folio 55, 4 pages.

1713. Memorandum in answer to the instructions sent by M. le Comte de Pontchartrain to the Sr. Duclou, Intendant Commissary of the Navy in Louisiana. Missionaries. There are no Christians among the Indians yet, except among the Apalaches, who were formerly neighbours of the Spaniards. The indigo plant grows very well, and up to now, without being cultivated. It is said that three crops can be obtained yearly. Mulberry trees are very abundant. The introduction of silk worms would be very advantageous. Believes that the inhabitants would take kindly to this industry, as the facility of gathering of the crops, which can be done in the shade, and without any fatigue, would just suit the laziness of the inhabitants. Tobacco grows very well, but there is a worm which eats it as soon as it comes out of the ground, this is due, he believes the proximity of the forest which contains all sorts of insects. The clearing of the land would overcome this difficulty, which is common to all sown crops, even Indian corn. The inhabitants are not very industrious and are consequently poor. They keep a good number of cows as they cost no trouble to nourish. Twelve girls have been sent to Bayou La Fourche. They have been sent from Port Louis by M. de Clairambault, but they are so ugly and so ill-shaped, that the inhabitants of this country, especially the Canadians, show very little eagerness for them. However, two have married. In making a choice, it would be preferable to send nice looking girls rather than virtuous ones. The Canadians and the voyageurs, who are fine men, are not scrupulous about the past of the girls they marry. Not finding them to their taste, they went back saying that they still preferred squaws. It is likely that they would have settled here if the women had appealed to their tastes. Folio 61, 18 pages.

Observations made by M. de La Mothe on the order, letter and journal handed to him by the Sr. de Richebourg sent on a mission to Rozalie with M. de Bienville. Memoir that the Sr. de Richebourg, captain of a company, sent from Tonicas by M. de Bienville, has orders from M. de Bienville to represent to M. de la Mothe Cadillac after informing him of what happened since his departure from Ile Dauphine. Observations made by M. de la Mothe on the report of the Sr. de Richebourg. Copy of the clauses of the letter of M. Derbane, clerk in the King's stores, and of the Company, who made a voyage to the country of the Natchez. 27 April 1715. Remarks by M. de la Mothe on the above clauses of the letter of the Sr. Derbane. M. de Bienville is strongly blamed for his rigour toward the Natchez who were suing for peace. Folio 73, 15 pages.
1715. Description of the River St. Louis or Mississippi and of the River Mobile, by M. de Remonville. Ends with suggestions for the peopling of the colony and citing the example of Canada:—"Canada," says he, "furnishes a fine proof with 10,000 men of splendid physique and brave as Cæsars, produced by the Carignan regiment in a country which amounted to nothing before the arrival of that regiment." Folio 81, 15 pages.

Account of a voyage of exploration to the mouths of the Mississippi, with a view to determine the depth of water in the several passages and to fix the most favourable spot to establish a battery. 1718. Narrative of the wreck and adventures of the Sr. de St. Simarde de Belle Isle, son of the doyon de l'élection de Fontenay Le Comte. Sailed from La Rochelle in 1718 on board Le Maréchal d'Estrées, bound to New Orleans, with a brevet of second lieutenant. Owing to a false manœuvre of the captain, the Sr. de Belle Isle and four other officers were obliged to escape in a boat. They landed on an uninhabited shore where all but the Sr. de Belle Isle died from hunger and fatigue. At the end of three months the Sr. de Belle Isle saw some men who kept him for 15 months as a slave, after which time he succeeded in escaping. He went, naked, to M. de Bienville, at New Orleans. He has served in the conquest of Missouri under M. de Bourmont. He is a real soldier, tall, well made, and of fine bearing. Folio 102, 2 pages.

Has taken possession of the Baie de St. Joseph, 50 leagues June 12. east of Ile Dauphine, on the Gulf of Mexico, and caused a small fort to be built. According to what his brother, the Chev. de Chateaugué, says, he does not believe that it will be easy to maintain this fort, owing to the impossibility of protecting the entrance of the bay. There is enough water, but no shelter for ships from the wind. The Spaniards had a small fort there 18 years ago. The roadstead of the Ile aux Vaisseaux appears infinitely superior and much nearer Mobile and the Mississippi. The port of Ile Dauphine is always in the same state, and he does not think that any improvement is to be expected. Has had soundings taken at the en-

- September 25. The same to the same. The Indians knowing that the Cross of St. Louis is a reward for valour, he thinks that it would be wise to grant it to MM. de Boisbriand and de Chateaugué, who deserve it by their services in Canada, France, and Louisiana. The Superior Council of Louisiana has decided that the post of Baie St. Joseph should be abandoned. Reasons in support. The title of Commandant General is very fine, but he would prefer that of Governor. His position as commandant and King's lieutenant, a position which he has filled for more than 20 years in the colony, besides his services in France in the navy, entitles him to ask for this favour. Moreover, the Spaniards will think more of this title, which may be useful at times. Folio 105, 4 pages.
1719. Articles of capitulation of Pensacola proposed by Don Juan Pedro de Matamoros de Isla. In the margin the articles which MM. de Bienville, de Strigny and Larcebause accept or refuse are marked Folio 107, 3 pages.
- May 15. De Sérigny, formerly lieutenant in the Navy, Commandant General in the province of Louisiana to His Royal Highness. . . . Since his departure from France, he has done all he could to reach Louisiana as soon as possible with the two frigates of the Compagnie d'Occident. While passing along the Island of Cuba, he met two ships full of people, which attacked him under Spanish colours. After a serious resistance, the Spaniards or pirates, took to flight. He drove them ashore, and would have captured the two vessels if the wind had not died down. Then he continued his route to Ile Dauphine, where he arrived on the 19th of April. Communicated the declaration of war against Spain and his orders. It was resolved to go and attack Pensacola, which is the finest harbour of the whole Gulf of Mexico. Took, with his brother, all the necessary precautions to get ahead of the English. Embarked 200 men of landing troops in three frigates, and his brother de Bienville followed his ships with 4 boats and 80 men. It was understood that his brother de Chateaugue would join them ashore with 3 or 400 Indians of Mobile. His brother captured the battery of the Island of Ste. Rose, which forms the entrance to that port, after which he himself entered the port without a pilot, as he knew it, having been there 21 years before. After an exchange of shots, the Spaniards lowered their flag and desired a parley. Details on this subject. Has no doubt that the Vice-Roy of Mexico will make an effort to retake this fort. As soon as the Spanish garrison has left for Havana, he will go to the entrance of the Mississippi, to see whether it is possible to improve the channel of this river to allow frigates to enter it. Can assure him that if he does not succeed in the execution of his orders no one will. Has undertaken this expedition merely to please His Royal Highness. Would have wished the brevet of post captain before his departure, in consideration of his long services, and his having left all his family and considerable estates. His Highness having asked him to obey blindly, he has done so. Retires on the promise he made. Folio 109, 6 pages.

Discovered, in the afternoon of the 31st of August, two vessels and three large boats about the point of Mobile. Thought the Spaniards were coming back. Was happy to learn that it was M. de Champonélin who had convoyed the two vessels of the Company. There are vines, on the prairies as well as near the rivers, which produce grapes in abundance. There are three kinds which make good wine, one especially. Very good fruits are also found, such as the chimini which grows on a tree as large as a man's leg. The piquemini is a sweet fruit and exactly like a medlar of France. There are apple trees and plum trees. Filberts are finer than those of France. There is a great quantity of other unknown fruits. The Indians have very remarkable remedies for wounds, and serpents' bites. For confined women, they use herbs, roots, and seeds of fruits, which heal in a very short time and do no harm. These remedies are very sweet. Climate, oxen, horses, salt-mines, hard and soft maples, wild beasts, game, metals, Indians, &c., &c. Folio 145, 6 pages.

There are very fine cedar bushes, prairies, fine quarries, mineral waters, mines of tin and plumbago, and a great number of wild beasts. After having made sure of the Chactas, and renewed the treaty of commerce and alliance with them, which had been for a long time in existence, he returned to New Orleans, on the 13th of November, where he met his brother, Périer de Salvert, pushing the preparations for war, which he had entrusted to him. Departure on the 9th of Dec. Account of the march. Baron de Crisacy commanded the troops of the colony, and M. de Bénac, the inhabitants; his brother, the bataillon de la Marine. Arrival at the Tonicas. Learnt there that M. de Coulonges, who was in command of a canoe, manned by 20 Indians and free negroes, had lost half of his men, that MM. de la Touche, Beaulieu and Cochart had been killed, and M. de Coulanges, grievously wounded. A greater number than was first thought, must have escaped, as there were only 51 of them captured at the siege of their fort. Believes that there must be at least 200 who escaped. Has thought proper to allow the Chactas to wage war against the Natchez and also against the Chicachas, if the latter continue to help them. Folio 221, 3 pages.
- June 24. The same to the same. Relates several attacks made by the Natchez against Frenchmen and Tonicas. The losses sustained by the latter are regrettable, because they are our friends and form a good barrier against our enemies. The Chicachas who are a brave and warlike nation have openly declared for the Natchez and take their defence. M. Périer has commanded him to engage the Chactas to make war against them, but to succeed in this, a great many presents are needed; the Indians will only move if they are interested, and we have nothing to give them. If the Company does not send vessels immediately, everything is to be feared as we have no flour, meat, nor wine. The Chicachas who were summoned by M. Périer to deliver up the Natchez have answered that they had not gone to get them to deliver them up and that they would certainly defend them. We lost this nation in 1729, when we stopped trading with them. Folio 223, 3 pages.
- August 20. The same to the same. The report of the massacre of the Tonicas by the Natchez was overcharged. The former sustained a siege of 7 days and the Natchez then retired with the loss of 20 men. The Chactas sent to pursue them did not see them. If M. Périer had had a better knowledge of the character of the Indians, he would not have been caught by the artifice of the Natchez, and we would not, to-day, be threatened with a war with the Chicachas, who are much more numerous and braver. His post, which is very important, because the Chactas trade with us there, lacks everything, this is very regrettable as we are trying to decide them to wage war against the Natchez, and should supply them with what is necessary for that purpose. Has made representations to M. Périer. Relates the conspiracy of 400 negroes who were to massacre all the French on St. Peter's day. Folio 225, 7 pages.
- November 2. M. de St. Denis, commandant at the Natchitochas, to M. Salmon. Is sending an officer to apprise him of the flight of the Natchez and of the destitution in which he is owing to the presence of many Indian nations who have come to his help, to the number of 250 men, not counting the Natchitoches whom he has to feed, as well as their women and children, since their village was attacked by the Natchez. He was obliged to kill all the oxen and cows to feed all these people. To make it worse, 100 Cado-daquins, who were notified too late to be of use to us, have just arrived. It is regrettable that the posts are not supplied with all that is necessary. Blames the Company which is loosing the country by its negligence. If his post had been well provisioned and well supplied, the expence would not have been very great, and the defeat of the Natchez would have been much more complete. Had only 22 Frenchmen and 16 Spaniards at the beginning, to make war on the Natchez. Account of the expedition. Capture of the fort of the Natchez, who lost 74 men, killed and prisoners. The rest are wandering, divided into three gangs, along the River Noire; they must be destroyed this winter. Folio 229, 8 pages.

Unsigned memoir concerning the Illinois country. Its situation up the River Mississippi. This settlement consists of quite a considerable number of French inhabitants, who, for the last 25 years, have been cultivating the soil with such success that they have maintained themselves without the help of troops, up to the year 1719, when the company sent garrisons there. Since, the soldiers who obtained their discharge have settled there and live with a number of Canadians, who form two villages, quite considerable in buildings, horned cattle and horses. The village of Cascassias was ceded to the French by the Illinois, about 20 or 22 years ago. They have retired to a distance of a league and a half from the French. This nation numbers about 200 men, some of whom are allied to Frenchmen, who were weak-enough to marry some Illinois women. This is the cause of disorders which are difficult to prevent. These half-breeds are worse than the pure bred Illinois. This village of Cascassias is composed of about 100 families; the Frenchmen have good frame or stone houses, and have good crops of every kind of grain. At certain seasons, traders congregate there. The tribes of the lower Missouri often wage war on more distant ones and sell us the slaves they make. This is as unjust as it is prejudicial to us, seeing that they have never done us any harm, and that this conduct prevents our reaching further inland to join the Spaniards of New Mexico. The settlement of the prairie at the Fort Chartres is six leagues distant from that of Cascassias. The garrison is not strong enough to prevent insults. The French inhabitants number between 70 and 80 men. A stone fort and a garrison of four companies are needed. The English are trying to attract the Indians of these places to their side. A post should also be built at Ouabache; it would guard the River aux Yaux (Ohio), which flows from the east, where the English settlements are. They have, on the upper part of this river, posts which belong to the government of Carolina. Folio 235, 13 pages.

M. de Bienville, has got up a cabal to show him as a petulant, passionateman, incapable of controlling himself. M. de Crémont to the Minister. Relates his voyage, his touching at San Domingo, his arrival at Louisiana. Having arrived two days ago only, he is yet unable to report on the present situation of the Indians. M. de Bienville has told him that it was impossible to march against the Chicachas in less than 18 months. The report that M. D'Artagnette and all his officers had been killed on the battlefield was untrue. Having received three shots, he was taken with some of his officers, also wounded, Father Senat, and a few soldiers and inhabitants; the whole amounting to 19. An Indian Avoyelle, a slave with the Chicachas, having escaped to the Alibamons, M. de Bienville caused her to come here. She has reported that, on the day of the attack, 17 prisoners were thrown into two fires. She asserts that during the tragedy, the French sang, as is the fashion amongst the Indians, who thereby judge of the valour of men. The Chicachas kept two alive, probably to exchange them against the two Chicachas prisoners in the hands of M. de Bienville. This exchange will take place through the medium of the Alibamons. Folio 250, 3 pages.

1739. Account by the Sr. Drouet de Richarville of the engagement between M. D'Artagnette and the Chicachas during the month of March 1736. Having reached Montreal, on the 10th June 1739, by way of Fort St. Frederic, he says that, in that engagement, three of his brothers were killed, that he himself received two shots, in the left arm and in the abdomen and an arrow wound at the wrist; that he was captured in arms by three Chicachas and brought to their village with 22 Frenchmen, 20 of whom were burnt at the stake, besides others: Father Senat, a Jesuit, MM. D'Artaguette, de Vincennes, de Coulanges, de St. Ange junior, Du Tisé, D'Esgly, de Tonty the younger. These gentlemen were burnt together with Father Sénat, on the very day of the battle, between three o'clock in the afternoon and midnight. The other Frenchmen who were burnt were officers and militiamen. The Sr. de Courselas or Coustillas, officer, was burnt three days later near the grand village with an Iroquois of Sault St. Louis. The Sr. de Courselas had been appointed in charge of the powder stores with 35 men. Having lost his way, he went without knowing it to the village of the Chicachas. Has been unable to learn what became of the 35 men he had with him. He was taken to the cabin of the chief of the village of Jantalla, where he was kept in close custody during six months by the young men, after which time he became free and hunted with the Chicachas. After an eighteen months sojourn with them, he escaped with Pierre dit Courte Oreille, a soldier of the garrison of Illinois, through the advice of an English trader who indicated to him the route to be followed. Having made 40 leagues, he met some English traders from Georgia, who took him to Mr. James Ogelthorpe, commander in chief of His Britannic Majesty's troops, who brought him back from the Chicachas, who had come to claim him. He gave him a passport enabling him to pass through Virginia, and thence to Canada. Courte Oreille must have sailed from Georgia to join his parents in Paris. Description of the villages of the Chicachas. These Indians say that they are ready to make peace and deliver the Natchez to M. de Bienville, without his bothering with it. The latter are being treated as slaves. There are about 40 of them. The Chicachas are allied to the Chéraquis. They say that they know well that the French will eat them, but, they will eat a great number of the Frenchmen before the end comes. They claim that they only lost one man when they attacked M. de Bienville, and 20 killed and 30 wounded at that of M. D'Artagnette. Folio 252, 6 pages.

Unsigned account of the expedition and defeat of M. D'Artagnette, as told by one Parisien. The troop of M. D'Artagnette, which left the Illinois on the 20 February 1736, was composed of 41 regulars, 99 militiamen, 38 Iroquois, brave men who fought bravely, 38 Arkansas, 190 Illinois and Miamis, forming a grand total of 396 men. The Illinois Miamis ran away at the beginning to avenge, they said, the death of one of their chiefs, killed by a Frenchman the preceding summer. M. D'Artagnette, seeing he was to weak to resist to an enemy who was already superior in number, determined to retreat, to join the powder which he had left $\frac{1}{2}$ league behind. He was furiously pursued by the Chicachas who killed from 42 to 45 of our men, to wit: MM. D'Artagnette, de St. Ange junior, de Vincennes, de Coulanges, Lagrancier, de Contigny, 6 cadets; the officers of militia Des Essarts, d'Estaing, Carrier. Made the following prisoners, Father Senat, Du Tisne, La Lanne and 5 or 6 soldiers. The enemy captured the powder, and if it had not been for the rain which lasted from 10 o'clock in the morning until 7 in the evening, not a single Frenchman would have escaped. There were many Englishmen among the enemy, two were killed while trying to capture the French flag. The Sr. Parisien relates that M. de Monchervau was on his way to join M. D'Artagnette, with 60 men, and M. de Grandpré, with 120 Arkansas, when learning the defeat of M. D'Artagnette, they turned back. Folio 256, 3 pages.

Other detailed account of the defeat of M. D'Artagnette. The troop consisted of 27 soldiers, 110 inhabitants, 38 Iroquois, 28 Arkansas, 100 Illinois, 160 Miamis, all together 145 Frenchmen and 326 Indians. M. D'Artagnette left at Illinois, to command in his absence, M. de la Buissonnière, and the Sr. de Montcharvaux, who were to assemble 180 Illinois to bring them at Ecores à Prudhomme, to join M. D'Artagnette. Being afraid of falling short of provisions, if he awaited the arrival of MM. de Bienville and de Montcharvaux, he decided, upon the advice of the Iroquois, to attack the Chicachas. Account of the fight. Desertion of 250 Indians. The Chicachas, numbering between 5 and 600, emboldened by this desertion, made a furious attack and surrounded the French. Wounded in the hand and high, M. D'Artagnette leaned against a tree, and continued to direct the fight, refusing to flee on a horse, which was brought to him. While in that position, he was shot through the abdomen and fell dead. M. de St. Ange to command. Nearly all the French were killed near M. D'Artagnette's body. The Iroquois and Arkansas fought with much courage, and it is due to their valour and their pains that 20 wounded soldiers or inhabitants were saved during the retreat. On the next day the remnant of the troop met M. de Montcharvaux who was coming to the assistance of M. Dartaguiette with 180 Illinois, 5 soldiers and 8 inhabitants. A Tonica squaw, released from the hands of the Chicachas, declares that the latter were 1200 in number, comprising 100 Natchez and 80 Chouanons. What mislead the scouts was the fact that the villages of the Chicachas are situated on small hills, surrounded by woods, which mask them one from the other. Complete list of the killed, wounded, and prisoners. It has been learnt since, by the letters of M. de la Buissonnière, that when within a day or twos march from the Chicachas, M. Dartaguiette had received letters in which M. de Noyan, ordered him, in the name of M. de Bienville, to await him so as to strike the Chicachas together. These letters have without doubt fallen into the hands of the Chicachas, after the defeat of M. Dartaguiette, which gives them a clue to the preparations made by M. de Bienville against them. Remarks on the war with the Chicachas. (Unsigned). The two unhappy engagements which we had with the Chicachas show us that we must not rely too much upon the Indians. In the second one, under the command of M. de Bienville, certain ill-intentioned Chactas chiefs had spread the rumour that our intention was to make peace with the Chicachas in order to destroy the Chactas with the help of the former. This explains why many abandoned us, and that it was even contemplated to turn against us to destroy us. They know we are very brave, but they do not approve of our way of waging war. They say that we expose ourselves too much, that one must be cunning, and make feints. In fact they are always on the move, while we stand still, and we may easily be killed. The Indian is a good shot and all his shots tell, while on the contrary our soldiers do not know how to shoot. They claim that, with all our courage, we would be easier to destroy than they. In a word, our prestige is diminished, the proof of this is in the facilities which Chactas give to the English to trade with them. It is possible that they will not long suffer our fort at Tombecbé. Reasons why it may be preferable to abandon it. To regain our credit, it would be necessary to undertake another expedition against the Chicachas, taking care to insure its success. Otherwise it is possible that the English will succeed in bringing about peace between the Chactas and the Chicachas. The English intimidate the Chactas by letting them understand that if they do not allow them to trade freely with them, they will decide the Cheraquis, with whom the English are allied, to wage war against the Chactas. It is preferable to attack the Chicachas by ascending the Mississippi rather than the Mobile River. The Mississippi is too wide to permit the enemy to ambush us, and we would have on this side the help of the Illinois, of the Akansas, of the Hurons, and of the Iroquois, on whom we can rely more than on the Chactas, Other reasons. The Minister to M. de Bienville. Has laid his letter of the 20th of December last, concerning the Indians, before the King. Has seen with pleasure that the Chactas had kept their promise to march against the Chicachas. The latter must be greatly weakened. not only by their loss in men and that of four of their forts, but more still by the want of provisions. If it be true that, as the Chactas report, the Natchez have abandoned the Chicachas, the expedition which is being prepared against the latter will become easier. Is surprised to learn that the Chicachas prisoners have declared that they had not been molested last year by parties sent from Canada. Extracts from letters of the commandants of the posts of the Onyatanons and Rivière St. Joseph, written to M. le Marquis de Beauharnois, respecting what the Chicachas have done since M. de Bienville made peace with them. Two Indians have just brought the sad news that Illinois who were coming in six canoes to the post of Vicennes and his own have been defeated. The Chicachas have killed and captured over 30 Frenchmen at Rivière des Chéraqis, on the south of the Ouabache. 16 bodies, all scalped, were found ; among them a woman. Everything shows that they defended themselves. A negro who escaped says that there were Englishmen among the Chicachas, who made this attack. There were some also in the affair of M. Dartaguiette, and witnesses relate that they excited the Chicachas and went themselves to scalp the French who were tied at the stake. (signed by de St. Vincent). Journal of Antoine Bonnefoy, containing the details of his captivity among the Cherquis, since his departure from New Orleans, in August 1741, in the canoe of the Sr. Chauvin dit Joyeuse, with whom he was hired, until his escape and his arrival at the Alibamons. Among the incidents of his captivity, which he relates, is that of his meeting with a German named Pierre Albert, who offered him to join the society he was forming, the aim of which was the establishment of a republic in this country and, later on, in France; based upon liberty, equality and fraternity, where every one would find all that was necessary for subsistence, and other necessities of life; where every one would contribute to the welfare of the community according to his capacity, where there would be no superiority, where every thing would be in common, where the women would have the same liberty as the men, where there would be no marriage and where the children would belong to the republic, and be instructed in all they could learn. This republic, to which he had a great number of adherents, among the English of Carolina, would be located between the countries of the Chéraquis and the Alibamons, and would bear the name of the "Kingdom of Paradise." This German said that he had been working on this scheme for 20 years; that having been compelled to leave his country for March —. MM. de Bienville and Salmon to the same. Four Canadians have returned in March last from Santa Fé, capital of New Mexico. They were as surprised as they were glad at this voyage of discovery as it had been undertaken without their knowledge. The Company had been at considerable expense towards gaining a knowledge of these lands; it had even erected a fort on the Missouri. It had procured men and a reward for the Sr. de Bourmont, who had undertaken this exploration but without more success than his predecessors. The same fate had befallen M. de la Harpe who had undertaken it by way of River Rouge and Arkansas. As the journal of these Canadians has not been well kept they have decided to accept the proposition of M. Having received them in his palace, he asked them whence they came; Paul Mallet answered that they came from New France and that they had come with the intention of entering into a trade connection with the Spaniards. While awaiting an answer from the viceroy of Mexico, which took 9 months to come, he lodged them and admitted them to his own table, and they had conducted themselves properly and like christians. He advised them to bring certificates and passports from the Governor of Louisiana, if they came back. Folio 381, 3 pages.

- Extract from the journal of the voyage made to Sante Fé by the two brothers Pierre and Paul Mallet, Canadians, and the men named Larose, Phillippes, Bellecour, Petit Jean, Gatien and Moreau. They followed the Missouri, but only for a certain distance, instead of ascending higher as had been done before, they then took a south-westerly course, crossed the Platte River and other streams which they believe to be tributaries of the Arkansas. They were very well received at Sante Fé. Had to wait nine months for the answer of the Viceroy of Mexico, as the distance is 500 leagues and the voyage is only made once a year in caravans. In his answer the Viceroy tried to persuade them to settle in that country. They believe that his intention was to employ them in exploring a land, which, according to tradition, false or true of the Indians, is at a three months journey inland, where they claim that there are white men, dressed in silk, who inhabit large cities on the sea coast. There are 800 families at Sante Fé, and a number of villages of resident Indians. There are mines quite near the place which are unworked, and others, further off which are worked on the King's account, the product being forwarded to old Mexico, by caravans. It appears that the governors take possession of all the goods that come there and do whatever little trade there is to be done. The padres and others would like to do this trade. "Of the five channels in the mouth of the river, there is never more than one navigable by large vessels, and the depths vary every day. The entrance of the river has changed so much in the last 20 years, that it cannot be recognised. The Ile de la Balize, which was a half a league from the shore, is now a league and a half from it. The post of Balize must be abandoned. DESCRIPTION AND HISTORY.

LOUISIANA.

Series F. Moreau de St. Méry. Vol. 25.

Report on Louisiana (Unsigned). Description of the country, its settlements, rivers, &c., &c. Illinois. Fertility of the soil. This country has supplied over 800 thousand pounds of flour to New Orleans in one single winter. It is said that there is a population of 4,000 souls, composed principally of Canadians, who came from Quebec by way of the Oyo. Rivers Rouge and Arkansas. Silver mines. Cultivation. Trade with San Domingo and the Gulf of Mexico. In 1686 many Canadians settled in Louisiana. In 1699, M. d'Iberville brought another colony of Canadians. In order to reach here, they follow the river St. Lawrence as far as the small river which discharges into the Lake Erie. From this river a portage is made to the Miamis river which is then descended as far as its confluence with the Oyo and thence to that of the latter with the Mississippi. At the confluence of the Miamis and the Oyo, and at that of the Oyo and the Mississippi, substantial forts should be erected. The capital city should be at Manchac, or about the height of land, whence one can go on horseback as far as the sources of the Mobile, of the Alibamons, and even to that of the Oyo. All the requisite materials, as well as all the necessities of life, would be found there. Report on Canada, its productions, and disadvantages. Proposes that the Canadians should migrate to Louisiana. Combats the objections raised against this proposal. The Canadians cannot resist without the help of France, and this assistance would even have been useless this year, if the English had not divided their forces in order to capture Louisbourg. The Canadian will not be able to resist another invasion and they will be unable to succour Louisiana. What has saved Canada up to the present was lack of unity in the preparations of the several provinces of New England. Being now exasperated by the ravages of the Indians and the victories of the French, they are vigorously trying to get rid of such unwelcome neighbors. Supposing that France succeeded in restoring her navy to its former state, and repulsed the enemy, could she people both Canada and Louisiana? Why then continue to try to preserve the country which costs most and produces least. Discusses the objections which will be raised by the compagnie des pelleteries, the Seigniors, the clergy, the religious communities. Three years could be taken for the migration of the inhabitants. How this ought to be done. If this migration is decided M. de Vaudreuil should be apprised of it. Folio 1, 16 pages.

Order of M. de Kerlerec, in which, in which, in consideration of the promises made by Guedelonguay, grand chief of Arkansas and Toubamingo, chief of the Offoyoulas, to deliver, in future to the governor, all the deserting soldiers or criminals who may seek refuge with them, he grants pardons to Joseph Luillier, J. Bte. Figuière, Pierre Castellain, Antoine Berry, Antoine Girard, and J. Bte. Bernard, all deserting soldiers from Illinois country, brought back by the said Indian chiefs. Folio 9, 3 pages.

1756. M. de Kerlerec to the Minister. Explains the circumstances which led September 12. him to grant pardons to the deserting soldiers. Folio 15, 3 pages.
1757. The same to the same. Complains bitterly of the soldiers who compose October 20. the 24 companies of Louisiana. Many have deserted, a great number have succumbed to their debauchery, the remainder is more dangerous to the colony than the enemy itself. Relation of facts. Folio 17, 6 pages.
- October 21. The same to the same. Sad situation of the country. Everything is wanting. The stores are empty. The Chactas and the Alibamons harass us with their demands and threaten to receive the English in their country.
The English are trying to prevent the success of our peace negotiations with the Chéraquis. They have established a permanent patrol at Cap St. Antoine de Cuba to intercept our ves els. Folio 21, 5 pages.

October 4. 25, 8 pages.
- November 9. The same to the same. Wishes to speak especially of the Chactas and the Alibamons. These two nations form the lower barrier of this colony, and the English neglect nothing, secretly or openly, to attract them to their interest and to detach them from the French. The Chactas have 52 villages and about 4,000 warriors, and the Alibamons, about 3,000. Measures he has taken to keep these nations friendly to France. Has succeeded in thwarting the designs of the English in the Illinois country, Chéraquis.
If the country had been sufficiently well off, he would have stirred up the Indians of the south, and the English would have been caught between two fires. Could have raised four times more Indians than those at the disposal of M. de Vaudreuil. The English were well aware of this, and they have done all they could to avert the blow; they have put a price on Frenchmen's heads; have distributed presents largely, and, all they could obtain was their neutrality. It would be very dangerous if the usual presents were not distributed to the Chactas and the Alibamons. Folio 29, 8

Detailed account of the state of Louisiana, as given to M. le Marquis d'Ossun by an officer of the Swiss company which the King maintains in this colony, who went to Madrid in the month of Nov. 1761, having crossed from Vera Cruz to Cadix. The number of Frenchmen settled in Louisiana is not more than 5,000 souls. Their settlements are scattered along the right bank of the Mississippi for a distance of 200 leagues. The largest establishment is that of the Jesuits. They have a hospital in the town, where they should keep, according to the Royal Institution, two brothers and one father to send to twelve other religious the assistance necessary for their missions among the Indians, but the contrary has been done, as 12 fathers have taken their residence at New Orleans and only one or two go now and then on missions amongst the Indians. Their establishment is the richest in the colony. It contains 150 negroes and these fathers do an exclusive trade with the nations of the Illinois country. The only product of Louisiana is indigo which is of a superior quality. The Jesuits have begun the cultivation of sugar canes. There are at the most 3,000 negroes. The colony produces indian corn in abundance. There are oxen, deer and other animals. Merchandise would have been altogether wanting since the beginning of the war, if it had not been for some Englishmen, who came to trade some for indigo. When an Indian owns a gun, he becomes quite a person of consideration in his tribe. If the French cannot supply goods to their Indian allies, it is certain that the English, who are abundantly supplied, will end by detaching them from us. It is, however, said that, in general, the Indians much prefer the French, to the English, as they look upon the latter as traitors, whose main object is to destroy them little by little, and it is added that this opinion is based on many treacheries which the Indian allies of the English have suffered from them. Fortifications of New Orleans. Folio 158, 5 pages.

The Minister to M. de Kerlerec. All that has happened at Louisiana is a tissue of insubordination too flagrant not to be punished rigorously. The King has cashiered the Srs. de Belleisle and Derniville who were the main factors of the insubordination. If, upon the arrival of the troops which the King is sending him, the insubordination still subsists, he will make new examples. Folio 162, 2 pages.

The same to M. de Kerlerec. Forwards a general statement of the troops, ammunition and goods which the King sends to Louisiana. The King has chosen the Chev. de Jumilhac, colonel of infantry, to command the troops and militia of the colony under him. Would have liked to appoint an officer from the colony, to act as governor in case he should not be able to act himself, but he sees only M. Magan de Villiers, Major at Illinois, in whom he could repose confidence, and his presence is necessary where he is. Under these circumstances, he has chosen M. de Jumilhac to replace him in case of necessity. Folio 165, 3 pages.

Rochemore and Belot his unworthy secretary. The tyranny of the first increases daily and the vexatious acts of the second are such that he is obliged to watch for his safety, while awaiting an opportunity to expel him from the country. If the inhabitants had not been sure of the date of his arrival, there would have been a revolt concerning an English ship of truce sent in the regular way, by the Governor of Jamaica, and charged with flour, provisions, &c., &c., at a time when the colony was in absolute want of everything. Without regard to the inhabitants' misery, M. de Rochemore confiscated this vessel, upon his own authority, and without the ordinary observances. It is while he was at Mobile that he received a petition signed by the principal inhabitants and officers asking for a withdrawal of this confiscation, as the colony suffers from a want of provisions, and that it can sustain itself only through the means of ships of truce and the neutrals. If M. de Rochemore's action was sustained, this would drive away the neutrals from the colony and would leave us in the greatest distress. Will cause the seals affixed by M. de Rochemore to be taken off, and will require him to withdraw his orders. The public believes that this confiscation was made for the benefit of some individuals, and that the profits were divided in advance. Knows that M. de Rochemore complains loudly of action towards him, but prays he will suspend his judgment until both parties have been heard. Folio 167, 8 pages.

- July 25. M. de Kerlerec to the Minister. Represents that he has 43 years' service, 27 campaigns, 4 battles, the last of which was on Le Neptune, in 1747, that he only surrendered the vessel to Admiral Hawke after a fight of 8 hours, having lost 11 officers out of 13, and 375 men and 200 wounded, &c., &c.; that he has not received the treatment he should have had for his services. Wishes to return to France. Folio 207, 4 pages.
- Memoir (unsigned and undated) respecting Illinois. This country must not be detached from Louisiana. Fertility and usefulness. Folio 209, 3 pages.
1764. Account of what happened in Illinois when the English attempted to take possession of it by way of the Mississippi. Since the cessation of hostilities MM. de Kerlerec and d'Abadie have not ceased to send word to the Indians to induce them to remain quiet, and to receive the English. The change of government has been very unwelcome to the Indians, who remember their bad treatment by the English on several occasions. Notwithstanding all our efforts, the fire of war from the north has penetrated as far as the nations near New Orleans. The conspiracy seems today general and nothing can stop it. Being unable to reach Illinois by way of Canada, the English have decided to go there by way of the Mississippi. This arrangement was concerted by M. D'Abadie with the English commandant during the latter's stay at Mobile. He did all he could to help the English to procure the means of buying boats at New Orleans. Orders have been given to the commandants of the posts to give them all the assistance possible and to apply themselves to the pacification of the Indians. The English troops numbered 380 men under the command of Mr. Loftus. Notwithstanding severe discipline, there have been 80

1764. desertions. Account of the expedition. Two canoes forming the vanguard, having been attacked by some Indians in ambush, returned without having fired a single shot. The expedition was abandoned and the whole body returned to New Orleans. Far from recognising the handsome behaviour of M. D'Abadie, Mr. Loftus declared that his disaster was due to him. It would be difficult to imagine a blacker and more atrocious calumny. It is no doubt to justify his weakness and the incapacity which he has shown on this occasion, that he uttered it. Folio 211, 5 pages.
- January —. Extracts from the letters of M. D'Abadie to the several commandants of the French posts on the Mississippi, in which he enjoins them to render to the English forming the convoys to Illinois, as an act of friendship, all the assistance in their power. Folio 213, 4 pages.
- Pointe Coupée.
March 14. Extract from the letter of M. Desmazillières, commandant at the post of Pointe Coupée to M. D'Abadie. Gives an account, in question and answer, of an interview with the Indians respecting the attack on the English. Has learnt that the party of Indians which struck the blow was composed of Tonicas, Offagoulas, Chactas and Avoyelles. There were no Arkansas amongst them. They have confessed the fact, saying that they owned the land, and had a right to allow whom they pleased on it and that they would never allow the English to pass; that the French had never brought them any sickness, but that the English had brought smallpox with them, and had caused nearly all of their children to die. "Be angry if you will," said one of the chiefs, "our duty is to go and await them on the Ecores Blancs, and if they wish to come again we will have the honour of repulsing them once more." In returning to New Orleans, the English were imprudent enough to shoot on the village of the Tonicas; this caused the latter to pursue the English and kill several of them while they lost no one. Folio 214, 2 pages.

March 13. The Minister to M. D'Abadie. Is informed that the Court of Spain is to forward the vessels which are to go and take possession of that part of Louisiana which the King gives to that Kingdom and for the cession of which he has sent him all the necessary orders and instructions. Reckons that by the month of September, he will have terminated all his operations, both for the delivery of the eastern part of the colony to the English and of the western part to the Spaniards. Bills of exchange. The King has judged proper to allow the Spaniards to keep the troops which are in the colony in their pay until such time as they are able to dispense with them, Will induce the officers to continue, for some time, to serve the King of Spain. Folio 219, 2½ pages.
- July 15. Copy of the speech of M. D'Abadie, Director General, and commandant for the King at Louisiana to the chiefs and warriors of the Tonicas, assembled in presence of MM. the officers and of Mr. Pittman, English engineer, bound to Illinois. They promise to no longer molest the English. Folio 221, 3 pages.
- New Orleans.
August 16. Extract from the letter of M. de St. Ange, commandant at Illinois, to M. D'Abadie. The Miamis, Kikapous, Mascoutins, Onyatanons and Peauguichias chiefs came here last month. They protested their attachment to France and asked for assistance, saying that they lacked everything, and if they were not succoured, their wives and children would all perish. Has taken the opportunity to tell them that this was due to the war which they had declared with the English; if they consented to lay down their arms as M. de Neigon had asked them to do, they would receive all the aid they asked for from their Father as well as from the traders, and if they wished to take this decision, he would help them. They answered that they preferred to die rather than make peace with the English. They are very angry when spoken to about this. It seems clear that they entertain an implacable hatred toward the English.

6-6 EDWARD VII., A. 1906

Could not do otherwise than give them some assistance. Chief Pondiak left here on the first of the month to go to Detroit, after having gained over to his cause (which he says is a common one) the whole of the Illinois nation, and promising to come and see them in the spring. Has learned that all the nations of the Lakes were assembled at Detroit and that they were encamped at the various passes to prevent the English garrison from obtaining succour. Folio 222, 3 pages.

Copy of a letter of M. D'Abadie to Mr. Farmar, commandant for the King of England at Mobile. Makes representations on his refusal to extend the time allowed to Frenchmen to sell their property and leave the country. His order decreeing the arrest of those who have not left the country within the time prescribed is so much the harder from the fact that the arrival of the English troops having been retarded, these people had no chance to sell to British subjects. He also complains that the British subjects are not allowed to act as agents for the sale of these properties. This means confiscation of their domains pure and simple, and agrees but little with the liberty of trade which was agreed upon between the two colonies. Folio 225, 4 pages.

M. D'Abadie to the Minister. Has received his instructions concerning the cession to Spain of that part of Louisiana which still remained to France. Will comply with them. Will not be able to quit his post as soon as he thinks. The English are not yet in possession of Illinois. The evacuation of our posts in Illinois cannot take place before three months or more, if the Indians create as great difficulty for the Spaniards as they did for the English. Great care will have to be exercised. In order to appease them more easily he has explained that the Spaniards were of the same blood as the French. The Spaniards will have to adopt the French way of governing the Indians. The English think that our departure will help them to gain the friendship of the Indians. All this leads him to sad reflections on humanity. Folio 227, 4 pages.

Copy of the speech of the Chouanon Indian Charlot Kaské to M. D'Abadie. Has come a long distance to see him. Brings a belt with five rows of wampum which he is instructed to hand him. It contains the names of 47 villages which wish to perish attached to France, defending their lands, to the last drop of their blood. Hopes that he will never abandon them. Came here before, then everything was gay, now, everything is sad. Old men, and children are sad, to see the French no longer at home. The English come and say that the land belongs to them, that the French have sold it to them. Have adopted him for their father. Let him send traders and they will pay them well for they are rich in furs. If the French do not abandon them, the English will never obtain possession of their lands. Answer of M. D'Abadie. Exhorts them not to disturb the peace. England has become the friend of France. Must reject as evil the words he has uttered concerning the English. Peace will bring back abundance and the English will promptly grant them what they are in need of. (Enclosed in the letter of M. Aubry of the 25th of February, 1765. Folio 229, 3 pages.

Wishes for nothing else. Speech of the Illinois chief. Is surprised that the country has been ceded to the English. Is master of his body and of his lands. You Englishmen only like to kill people. Copy of the minutes of the Council held at the place of M. de St. Ange, captain commandant of Illinois by the Illinois, Missouri and Osages, in presence of Mr. Ross, officer in the troops of H.B.M., sent here by Mr. Farmar, commandant at Mobile, bearer of instructions to endeavour to conclude peace with all the Indian nations of the continent, de Bellestre, Berqueville, officers of the garrison at Illinois, of MM. Lefèvre, sub-delegate of M. D'Abadie in the said country, Louvière, captain in the militia, Dubreuil. First speech of M. de St. Ange. Exhaustive plea to induce the Indians to lay down arms and conclude peace. Answer of Tamarois, chief of the Kaskakias. Has found none among his people who wish to make peace. "All red men have a scale in which are our French Father and the English, whenever it is lifted, the English are always heavier. Why? Because he is full of wickedness and his heart is not white like that of our Father. Besides we wish to follow the course adopted by our brothers who are now fighting the English. We hear their gunshots. We had assured thee, Father, that we would always act according to thy will, but today, we cannot do so and have to do otherwise. Finally, Father, do not be angry if I say that, after carefully weighing what thou and this English chief hast said, we have unanimously decided to continue the war like our brothers, and never to receive the English on our lands. This is why we ask thee (addressing the English officer) to go as soon as possible to join thy chief and report the determination of the Illinois, which is to wage war against the English, as our brothers are doing, if they come on our lands. Go, leave as soon as thou canst, and apprise the chief of all that thou hast heard; that we are the children of the French and that they are the only ones whom we wish to have among us; tell him that these lands here are ours, and let nobody lay claim to them, not even other red men. Why dost thou wish to come here? Thou dost not know us, we have never seen thee. Tell thy chief to remain on his lands as we will on ours. Take, I repeat it, the first occasion to leave and assure the chief that we want no Englishmen here and that such is the unanimous sentiment of all red men. Depart! go quietly, fear nothing, no harm shall befall thee. It suffices that thou art in the house of our Father and that thou art seated near him. Go! and leave us with our French Father. It is he who opened the eyes of our ancestors and who has made us live, so we only want the French. Adieu! Go away! and think no more of returning hither, because our warriors who are giddy-brained, might throw thee in the water if thou triest to return." The arrival of M. de Ulloa, although expected, has thrown the colony into a state of consternation owing to the loss to France of a colony of such extent, natural resources, and fertility of soil, the number and strength of its inhabitants, and the mildness of its climate. The enormous disrepute into which paper money has fallen, causes ruin and misery. Many soldiers refuse to enter the service of Spain; the same may be said of the officers. Folio 243, 4 pages.
- March 12. M. Aubry to the same. Arrival of M. d'Ulloa. Has met with many obstacles from the English, with regard to the cession of the eastern part of Louisiana, as well as from the Indians, who did not want the English to take possession of their lands. Now that everything is over settled with the English, the same difficulties arise about the cession of the western part to the Spaniards. Does not, however, foresee as great difficulties. The Indians are notified, and, although they are not satisfied, it is believed that the Spaniards will not have very much trouble with them if they know how to deal with them. Few soldiers are ready to inter the Spanish service, and it is feared that many will pass over to the English if they do not obtain their discharge. Captain Sterling, who came by way of Fort Duquesne, has taken possession of Illinois, on the 8th October last. The English have built a fort on d'Iberville river, where the Indians had destroyed their stores. Lieut. Colonel Reid of the 34th Regiment, left in January last to take command of the Illinois post. Although the English have taken possession of the lands which we ceded to them, cannot answer for the future. M. de Ulloa has promised that he would succour them and would put them in such state that they would not regret their change of country. The English are so ambitious and so encroaching that the Spaniards will have much to do to keep them out of their territory. How could he maintain order and tranquillity over such a vast extent of territory, after what has happened, with only 280 soldiers, dispersed throughout it, Everything is upside down, everything is done against his will and by violence. October 29. Decree of the Council of Louisiana on the complaints of the merchants and inhabitants of the said colony (printed). Folio 290, 21 pages.

Memorial of the inhabitants and merchants of Louisiana concerning the events of the 29th of October, 1768, addressed to M. ——. The Council, seeing the calamities which oppress them, could not refuse to listen to the plaintive cries of a crushed people, the proof of it is in its Order of the 29th of October. Our magistrates did not hesitate a moment to send away the so-called governor. We wish to live under the domination of our beloved king, and it is while crying Vive le Roy that we hoisted the French flag on the day of the revolution. The letter of the King to M. D'Abadie, led us to believe that the latter would give orders to his governor to maintain the French priests, the ordinary judges and the Superior Council in their functions; that justice would be administered according to the laws, customs and usages established; that the inhabitants would be maintained in the possession of their property. This letter of the King was registered by the Council, but M. D'Ulloa did not heed it, although he was received with acclamations, and made great promises. The prosperity of the country depends in a great measure on the fur trade with the Indians. M. D'Ulloa has nearly suppressed it by reserving the privilege to 5 or 6 persons. The exportation of lumber, an industry which benefits directly or indirectly all the inhabitants of the country, has also been restricted. It is the same thing with all of our products; the restrictions which are imposed, force us to sell in Spain only; this is equivalent to taking all markets away from us, for either our products, such as furs, are not needed in that country, or, the market is already amply supplied by other colonies which produce in abundance and a better quality tobacco, cotton, indigo, tar. Spain having no industry, what can we take in exchange for our products, which, besides, she does not need? In accepting the cession of this country, Spain could have none but political views: to make Louisiana the rampart of Mexico. The question may be asked, however, whether this end can be attained by reducing the country to poverty. Decree of M. D'Ulloa and his order of the 6th of September, 1766. It simply tends to reduce all trade and commerce to exclusive privileges. The following is a conclusive example. Last year he forbade the importation of negroes to the colony under the pretext that this competition would hurt an English merchant of Jamaica, who had sent a vessel to M. D'Ulloa to confirm the contract for the importation of slaves. In creating this monopoly, he robbed his new subjects of the means of procuring slaves cheaply, this for the benefit of a foreigner or perhaps for his own, for it might be supposed that vile material interests made him act thus. What a difference between his attitude and that of our governors, who always received our representations with deference and the desire to remedy the evils we complained of. Without hearing us, M. D'Ulloa calls us mutineers and rebels, and threatens us with confiscation. As he acts thus before taking possession of the country, what will he do after? Does he take us for Indians of Peru or Mexico? Spain will draw no benefit from Louisiana, on the country, her interest is that France retain possession of it. This is the real rampart of Mexico, because, the Indians, who are much attached to France, will fight with the French, without asking against whom they fight. It will be altogether different with Spain. Her ways of doing things, which are different from ours, alienates the Indians and throws them on the side of the English. The Genoese, English and Dutch merchants who have witnessed our revolution, will declare that our flag was hoisted without offering any insults to that of Spain; that M. D'Ulloa has embarked with all the liberty possible and without any act on our part which could be looked upon as indecent; that since, we have redoubled our regards and politeness towards the other Spanish officers who have remained here; that during the three days of the revolution, no other cry was heard among the 1,200 militiamen, among the women and children, among the whole people, than that of "Vive le Roi de France. Vive Louis le Bien-Aimé!" "We pray the King to take back the colony. Folio 302, 28 pages.

M. Aubry to the Minister. Thinks it his duty to report to him the tragical events which have just happened at New Orleans, events which he was unable to control, his forces being useless against an armed colony. The refusal of our soldiers to serve under the King of Spain has obliged him to act in concert with M. D'Ulloa in all things necessary for the maintenance of order in the country. Has neglected nothing to give him information and facilitate his task. All was going smoothly, when a general revolt of the inhabitants of the colony suddenly broke out against the Spanish governor and his nation. Petition of the inhabitants. Having but 110 soldiers to oppose to the mutineers and seeing that his authority was no longer recognized, he advised M. D'Ulloa, against whom animosity was great, to retire on board the Spanish frigate. Did his utmost to calm the people, but without success. Went to the Council and protested against its order to M. D'Ulloa to leave within three days, had a presentiment for the last two years that such a thing would happen. Had reported before that M. D'Ulloa, notwithstanding his talents, knowledge, reputation in all the academies of Europe, was not fit to command Frenchmen. Instead of trying to gain hearts, he has done all he could to make himself detested and to create fear of the Spanish government. He seemed to look with disdain upon the chiefs of the Council. He has never said an obliging word to any one. By indiscreet speeches he has given the impression that he did not like our nation. He made threats and led people to believe that they would be despotically governed after his taking possession was completed. He has frightened every one, by his unbecoming conduct, surprising in a man of his wit, he has contributed much to bring upon himself and his nation the events which happened. The captain of the Spanish frigate is preparing to leave but the fury of the populace is such, that he is afraid he will be forced to, if he delays. Since the peace, this country suffers more afflictions than any other; from the uncertain fate of the French paper money, from the slowness 1769. of the payments of the sums due by the King, from the want of currency, from the insolvency of three fourths of the debtors, from the decrease in the value of negroes, from the regret of passing under a foreign domination, foreseeing that they shall always be unhappy, from the unpopularity of its governor, from the decree which deprives this province of the trade with the Islands and France. All this, added to the extreme destitution which reigns, has reduced the people to despair. Forwards a copy of the letter which M. D'Ulloa has sent to him before going on board. Will see that he gives him the full justice. Provisional arrangements which he has made. The colony is determined not to pass under the Spanish rule happen what may. It is advisable to treat the inhabitants gently, because the proximity of the English might lead them to the gravest consequences. Is too much troubled by recent events to write any more to-day. March 31.

Memorandum of M. de Villars to M. le Duc de Choiseul with the object of giving a description of Louisiana and to examine whether France has not disregarded her true interests by the cession to Spain. Lower Louisiana, products, climate. Upper Louisiana, Mississippi, Indians, return of the exports during the year 1777. The cession to Spain was a fatal mistake, it remains inexplicable to him. The idea of passing from an active and beneficent government to an arbitrary one has discouraged the inhabitants, activity has slackened; industry died, but the fecundity of the soil has upheld the edifice. "This vast and magnificent colony would to day be deserted and unproductive if, by the clauses of the treaty of Paris, the English, first, perhaps, among the trading nations, had not shared the privilege of navigation on the Mississippi, and had not awakened the industry of the discouraged colony." Had he better known Louisiana, he would have colonized it and assisted it, instead of uselessly spending his energy on the ungrateful Cayenne, and to-day, this colony would be in a more flourishing condition than San Domingo. Exaggerates nothing, Louisiana had been for 50 years, the bulwark of the Antilles. . . . She had in her day been strong enough to stop and repulse the efforts which the United States of America will surely make later on to increase their territory in that direction, and it might have been able to force them back to the north, and direct their ambition towards Canada, and to push their settlements towards this frozen region, which offers for trade only the furs of animals, which recede and are destroyed by the advance of man. It would have served as a barrier to the Americans on the Mexican side. It would almost have restrained Spain and strengthened her alliance with us, by constantly keeping in check her rich but weak domains in the New World. Such are the true and solid advantages which France might have drawn from the possession of Louisiana, advantages which she alone could enjoy because she was the only power in Europe capable of colonizing such a vast and extensive territory, in 1763. The domains of North America were sufficient for England, exhausting its population. Moreover, an unquiet, dull, restless people, indocile of the restraint of laws, should not try to settle too strong colonies far away. The spirit of independence develops into license and, like the pelican, the children devour the entrails of their mother. What the English need are small islands fertile in commodities of luxury, and wanting in all objects of the first necessity; then need, and the facility of an invasion, hold the colony in a state of dependence, the mind of the settlers become pliant and receives the impressions printed on them by the Motherland. Interesting remarks on the Spanish colonies, the vices of their administration, &c., &c. 300 determined men would suffice to conquer Louisiana, and the Americans will not be long before they become masters of it, and, by degrees, will acquire all the country as far as the Pacific Ocean. During two years, Spain seemed to see her weak points and endeavoured to settle Louisiana, but she will not succeed, because she will not understand that the despotic character of her administration, her restrictions of trade, the tyranny of the tribunal of the Inquisition, will inspire strangers with distrust and aversion. M. Favre D'Aunois to the Minister. Has informed him on the 1st of November last, that M. de Galvès had captured the English possessions bordering on the Mississippi, and that he owed this success to the French of Louisiana. The governor left on the 4th instant for La Balize with 2,000 men to go to Mobile, where he will await 4,000 men from Havana. Is informed that he will not receive this reinforcement, as there is a misunderstanding between himself and the governor of Havana. Will undertake the siege of Pensacola which is well fortified. If he fails Louisiana will be at the mercy of the English. The agent of the United States in Louisiana has subdued all the English part of Louisiana comprised between Mobile and the Mississippi, to the rule of his government. The Sr. Piele, a very brave officer, has been entrusted with this expedition with 100 Americans. Has captured an English privateer on Lake Pontchartrain. Folio 345, 2 pages.

M. de Villars to the same. M. de Galvès, at the head of 900 men, has captured all the English forts on the Mississippi, after which, he went to Mobile, where for a month, he awaited reinforcements which had been promised him. His position had become critical, when he profited by the first regiment sent to him, to attack and capture Mobile. The succour which he expected only arrived in April, one month after the capture of Mobile. He was preparing to attack Pensacola, a strongly fortified place, but the fleet withdrew under the specious pretext that it lacked provisions. This expedition was certainly successful owing to the consternation of the English, produced by the rapidity of the conquests of the Spaniards and the cleverness of the militia, which, in less than two hours had reduced all the English batteries to silence. M. de Galvès has told him that he only owed his success to the courage and the fearlessness of the French at Louisiana. Folio 346, 4 pages.

Conditions upon which Don François Louis Hector, Baron de Carondelet, Governor of Louisiana, permits to the Sr. de Maison Rouge and other French emigrants to settle in the country of the Ouachitas. Description of the country by the Sr. de Maison Rouge. "The climate is very healthy, as is proven by the number of old men one meets. Saw the funeral of Mde. Bidaux, aged 102 years. Another proof of the salubrity of of the country is the freshness and beauty of the women. Their figures are very pleasing, they have magnificent hair, they differ in this from your American ladies, who, as a rule, have narrow shoulders, the chest just as flat as the back, and ugly flat hair which makes them look like drowned persons just out of the the water. In short, does not recollect having seen a greater number together with all the advantages in so small a population, Concession en fief of the Islands of Cape Breton, St. Jean, and la Madeleine to the Sr. Gabriel Gautier, with a view to establish a seal fishery and to give him the means of increasing the permanent fishery settlement which he has formed at Chedabouctou, and indemnify him for the expenses which he made for the erection of Fort St. Louis at Chedabouctou and the maintenance of the colony which he has established there, amounting, this year, to more than 70 persons. The Minister to M. D'Artaguiette. It has been decided to establish a permanent cod fishery on the Island of Cape Breton, and a frigate is being fitted out at Rochefort with this object. Officers, one engineer, and 100 men will be sent from Canada and Plaisance to begin the settlement and put it in a state to receive the garrison of Plaisance and the inhabitants who will go there. Has been chosen commissary. Prays he will go to Rochefort for this purpose, unless he has reasons not to accept that charge. Folio 3, 1 page.

April 10.

The same to M. de St. Ovide. Writes to M. de Costebelle to send to Cape Breton, if possible, two of the Recollets who are at Plaisance. Writes at the same time to M. de Vaudreuil to have another sent from Quebec with the detachment which he will despatch. Writes to M. de Vaudreuil that it is absolutely necessary to determine the French and the Indians of Acadia to remove to Cape Breton, and forwards him two letters with regard to this, one for Father Gaulin and the other for Father Justinien. At the same time, he writes to Baron de St. Castin and prays he will remove to Cape Breton. Will communicate his letter to M. L'Hermitte. Folio 4, 3 pages.

Declaration of MM. de St. Ovide, de Lapérelle, Du Cavapre de La Vallière, Péan de Linadière, La Ronde Denys, Du Vivier, L'Hermitte and Dominique de La Marche, Superior of the missions of Cape Breton, Recollet, concerning the choice which they have made of a port for the projected settlement on Cape Breton Island. Declare and certify that they have found on the said island only one French inhabitant and from 25 to 30 Indian families; that the said island was granted, about 80 years ago, to MM. Denys, of Tours, who had built two forts, one at Baie Ste Anne and the other at Port St. Pierre, near the Strait of Canso, remains of which they have found. After having visited all the ports indicated, they have chosen that of St. Louis, formerly known by name of Havre à l'Anglais, where they have landed the troops under the command of M. L'Hermitte. March 17. The Minister to MM. de Costebelle and de Soubras. The King is much annoyed by the expenses which the fortifications of Louisbourg will entail. For the present, only a few batteries can be erected, so as to protect the place from a surprise. It would have been desirable that the bar at Port Toulouse which prevents the entrance of vessels of more than 150 tons burthen did not exist, but, as this port is to be of great usefulness for the fishing trade and the settlement of the Acadians, it is necessary to erect a few batteries there. A garrison, under an adjutant, will be maintained there. As Port Dauphin has many advantages and can be fortified easily, he will make it his principal residence, in company with the general staff and the four companies. May transport the troops there before the arrival of Le Samslack and La Charente. The age and state of health of M. L'Hermitte not permitting him to be as active as is necessary, he will be replaced by M. Berthelot de Beaucours, chief engineer in Canada. Has at the same time appointed him the King's second lieutenant. Will prepare material but will await him for the commencement of operations. Folio 28, 3 pages.

M. du Chambon to the Minister. On the siege and capture of Louisbourg. Detailed account, day by day, of events. Weakness of the garrison composed of 1,300 men, against 4 or 5,000 enemies. Sent a courier to M. Marin, whom he supposed to be at Bassin des Mines, but, unhappily he was gone, in the direction of Port Royal and was too far to reach Louisbourg in time to be useful. If this mishap had not taken place, the enemy would most likely have been forced to raise the siege. Firm resistance of M. D'Aillebout at Ile de l'Entrée. Of the 400 men who attempted to scale the fort on this island, 250 were killed or drowned, and 119 made prisoners. The 800 who were to support them did not dare approach. Parley for the surrender. Complaint concerning the non-observation of many important clauses of the capitulation. French officers killed during the siege: MM. de la Frézière, Rousseau de Souvigny and Loppinot junior, a cadet. Among the English officers who took part in the siege were John Blaskrick, of Boston, colonel general of the militia, who had been made a prisoner at Canceau, on the 24th of May preceding by M. Duquesnel with the whole garrison of that post. Having been released on condition of not bearing arms for a year and a day, he failed to keep his word, by taking part in this campaign. Surrendered only when he had no other resource, when powder and ammunition were on the eve of failing him, and the walls were in part demolished. Folio 272, 53 pages.

M. Chassin de Thierry to M. Du Chambon. Thinks it would be advisable to blow up the battery which he commands and to spike the guns, as he is unable to defend it with any chance of success and its preservation would be of great use to the enemy. Prays he will send his orders. Folio 300, 1 page.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

1745. We are treated not as prisoners, but as friends, and it is but just that we do the same towards the English prisoners. Is persuaded that he had no knowledge of the cruelties which appear to have been committed. Would do well to search out the culprits and make an example. Cannot have too much regard for his prisoners as we are so nobly treated. His compliments to M. Bigot. Folio 311, 1 page.
- Louisbourg.
June 19. M. du Chambon to Mr. Warren. The report made to him about cruelties committed by Indians and Frenchmen is not correct, at least as far as regards the latter, as no Frenchmen have gone with the Indians in their excursions. It is, however, true that a detachment of Frenchmen who met a party of Indians who had had a brush with the English, found one prisoner in their hands, and they used force to take him away from them. This prisoner was sent to Louisbourg with a few Frenchmen so that he would run no risk. Is ignorant of what happened to them as neither the prisoners nor the Frenchmen have reached Louisbourg. May rest assured that he will neglect nothing to stop the cruelties of the Indians. The English prisoners whom he detains are treated the same as the King's subjects. Folio 313, 2 pages.
- June 19. M. du Chambon to M. de la Maisonfort.* May feel certain that cruel treatment meted out to English prisoners by Indians were not authorized by him. Learnt only a few days ago what did happen; the chief of a French party apprised him of it, and it is he who rescued the prisoner from the hands of the Indians and had sent him to the town under escort. Believes that the prisoner was recaptured by his nation. Will do all he can to prevent the Indians from committing new cruelties, but it is well to remember that those barbarians do not always obey the orders given to them. There were no Frenchmen among the Indian party which perpetrated the acts of cruelty complained of, and this is to be regretted, as they would not have allowed them. Gives every attention to English prisoners in his power. Folio 315, 2 pages.
- Representations of the inhabitants of Louisbourg to M. Du Chambon. Sets forth, that they see with much pain the enemy who keeps the town in a state of blockade since the 15th of March, and who besiege it since 46 days, increase daily in number, by land as well as sea, while the town receives no assistance. Have done all in their power to defend the place. Sees clearly that the town cannot be saved. Prays him to capitulate and not wait till the town be captured by force, as this would entail the total loss of whatever property is left them. The enemy's squadron is composed of 13 warships and about 80 sail, no efficient assistance is possible. Signed: De Lort, Morel, Cœuret, Lannelongue, Joseph Chartier, Dupérier, F. M. Warren to M. Du Chambon. Has just learnt that a large band of Indians are 8 leagues from Louisbourg. Prays he will send some one to notify them to quit the island and not to come back, without which, he will send a detachment to destroy them and any Frenchmen who may be with him. Folio 347, 1 page.

M. Du Chambon to M. Marin, commanding the troops of Canada. Ile Royale has been surrendered to the English. Prays he will commit no act of hostility on this Island, until after its complete evacuation, in 2 or 3 months. Believes that the only thing he can do is to return to Canada. Has sustained the siege for 45 days. Notwithstanding the precarious state in which he was, the want of assistance, the dilapidated state of the place, and the great superiority of the enemy, who had 6,000 men on the sea, and on land, he would not have surrendered had he had any powder left. Could not obtain permission for the inhabitants to remain in the colony, nor even that they be allowed to go to Canada. Folio 348, 2 pages.

June 30. The same to M. Warren. No Indians have been seen in the neighbourhood of Louisbourg. Hopes that he will allow the inhabitants of this town to fetch their families in the various neighbouring harbours. Folio 349, 1 page.

July 3. M. du Chambon to MM. Warren and Pepperell. Protests in his own name and that of the officers against the infringements of one clause of the articles of capitulation. This clause provided that the officers, troops and inhabitants, with their families, should be conveyed to France to the port designated by them; that the English commander at Louisbourg was to furnish the extra ships and victuals required for their transportation. It had just been decided that instead of being conveyed directly to France, they would first be sent to Boston. Protests against this decision; declares that there are enough ships to convey them to France direct; this infringement will oblige them to abandon a great part of their goods; if their just claims are not acceded to, they will have recourse to the Courts of France and England. Folio 352, 2½ pages.

July 3. M. Warren to M. du Chambon. Is obliged to send them to Rochefort by way of Boston, where they can be embarked on better ships and provided with better provisions. Has written to Governor Shirley not to permit the landing of the men, certain officers excepted, of whom he will send a list. If he wishes it, the ships on which they will be embarked will stop at Louisbourg. Folio 353, ½ page.

July 4. M. du Chambon à MM. Warren and Pepperell. Thinks it proper that he should send back the ships from Boston to Rochefort as promptly as possible, to avoid the diseases which a long stay would occasion. Folio 353½, ½ page.

July 11. MM. du Chambon and Bigot to MM. Warren and Pepperell. Represents that a ship sailed from Boston, this morning, having French sailors on board pending their sailing for France; that their arms were taken from them contrary to the terms of capitulation. Ask that their arms be shipped direct to France. Submits that the ships provided for their transportation are far from being sufficient; that there will be 1,300 persons and 500 tons of goods left. They would be severely blamed if they sailed before the inhabitants, for the latter would then be without protection from the insults to which they would be submitted, since they are daily exposed to them from the Boston troops who enter their houses armed to pillage them. Could mention MM. de Beaubassin, Rodrigue, Sautoux, Sanson, Dufourc and Médoux, and Mmé Prévost, wife of the commissioner of war and several other ladies who have been robbed by the troops without being able to obtain justice. The threat is made to the inhabitants that their houses will be captured by force. Asks them, on this account, MM. Warren and Pepperell to MM. Du Chambon and Bigot. They can rest assured that the arms of their men who started to-day for Boston will be shipped to them at the first opportunity. As to their demand that the officers' departure be delayed to protect the inhabitants, they can rest assured that the latter will be treated with all possible humanity and justice, circumstances forbid their demands being granted. Unsigned letter of a person in the English colonies concerning the capture of Louisbourg. Has received his letter confirming the news of the capture of Cape Breton. Agrees with him that this conquest is of the highest importance. Is satisfied with the measures taken for the preservation of this conquest, otherwise he would fear that it would be recaptured. Hopes that its preservation will be looked after with the same eagerness as that of Gibraltar and of Port Mahon. To secure to this conquest its value and duration it is expedient to expel the French from Canada, which can be done with the greatest facility. That being done, all the fisheries would be ours, as well as the fur trade, which would permit us to live in perpetual friendship with the Indians. This conquest would ruin the French colonies of the Islands by depriving them of the provisions they obtain from Canada. It would also ruin shipbuilding in France. This conquest would be infinitely more advantageous than that of Mexico or Peru, considering the great number of artisans who could be employed and the large fortunes which could be made. Those who would discredit the acquisition of Cape Breton on account of its remoteness show a remarkable ignorance and ignore the importance of this island which has been for several years an inexhaustible source of wealth for France. Folio 357, 4 pages.

Copy of the letter written by the Sr. Bellefeuille, senior, to M. Hocquart, dated from Pabos, June 9 and 10, 1745. A small brigantine intended for him arrived here, last Saturday; she was pursued by several English privateers near Ile Royale. One of them foundered with all the hands, of about 150 men. The others gave chase up to Ile de Sable. The men have seen 3 big ships anchored before Louisbourg and about 15 other small ships. There arrived here yesterday, from Niganiche, 19 men in 3 boats, who could not reach Louisbourg on account of the enemy. Everything is burned at Niganiche, L'Indienne and Ste. Anne and the great battery of Louisbourg has been abandoned to the enemy. Has neither arms, powder nor shot and can offer no resistance. Folio, 361, 3 pages.

Unsigned letter Complains about the Sr. Agnes, captain of a ship of Grandville, which had been captured in attempting to reach Louisbourg. The same to the same. Apprises him with grief of the surrender of Louisbourg on June 27. The very next day, Mr. Warren took possession of Ile de l'Entrée and of the gates of the city with 600 regulars landed from his ships. Mr. Pepperell also entered it on the same day with 3,000 men of the besieging army. They were blockaded by sea since the 14th of March, as he had sent word to him by the ship despatched on May 8. On the 14th of March 5 or 6 ships only of 20 to 30 guns, soon followed by 11 warships were signalled. On the 11th of May a fleet of 90 to 100 sail was seen approaching Gabarus convoyed by 3 warships, one of 60 guns commanded by Mr. Warren and 2 of 40 guns. M. du Chamhon sent M. Morpain with 80 men to reinforce the 40 men who were supposed to be there and to oppose the landing of the enemy. This landing was partially accomplished when he arrived, and his troops had to retreat to the woods after losing 5 or 6 men. The enemy landed 6,000 men and at one o'clock in the afternoon they were in sight near the Royal Battery. M. Thierry who commanded there with 200 men thought that it should be abandoned, as it was open behind and at the sides since last year and it was impossible to prevent its capture. The Council of War was also of that opinion. Besides, these 200 men were needed to defend the town. He thought, as did several officers, that this battery should be blown up, as, in any case, this would be done by the enemy if they were obliged to raise the siege. Fifteen days before the landing of the enemy, he had the women's and children's ration reduced to a quarter of a pound of flour a day and half a pound for the men. Relates the operations of the enemy in bringing their artillery before the town and erecting batteries. Intrenchments thrown up in the town. It was decided, on account of our weakness, not to attempt sorties to disorganize the enemy's operations. Believes, however, that they would have been effective. Have not displayed all the vigour which the courage of the population would warrant on account of the scarcity of powder. Everything was against them: Le Vigilant was captured, and 13 ships at anchor off the port could not put in on account of contrary winds. M. Marin, who was at the Mines with a big party of Canadians, was gone when a despatch was sent him begging him to come to the relief of the town. The walls of the Bastion du Roi et Dauphin, as well as the other walls, were worthless. All the facings were made of round stones in no way bound together. The inside of these walls was filled with sand only, so that more fell from the shock of our own guns than from the enemy's fire. One single shot completely destroyed the breast-work of the wharf and spur. The engineer, to whom he complained of the weakness of the walls, told him that he had built them to resist to musketry only. Had not believed that the King had been put to so much expense for such a trifling result. To all these causes it must be added that they were about to run out of powder and there were only 1,132 men left to defend the town. Believes, in spite of all this, that if the ships of the Compagnie des Indes had not taken away, some time before, 1,000 sailors, fishermen and servants, the colony would still belong to the King. The enemy intended to make a general attack by land and sea, on the morrow, and give up the city to pillage. This had been promised to the Bostonians. Account of the night attack against the fort of Ile de L'Entrée and the defeat of the enemy. Of the 500 men who composed the attacking party, 119 only escaped death by surrendering themselves prisoners. M. D'Ailleboud's gallantry on this occasion. Must relate the brave deed of M. Lavallière Beaubassin. Seeing that M. Du Chambon ordered no sortie, which, in his opinion, would have been successful, considering the lack of discipline and spirit of the Bostonians, he asked to be allowed to take out 100 men by sea, saying that he would land at Lorembec and would go through the woods to Gabarus to destroy the enemy's stores. Relates this expedition which failed because a deserter of his detachment had warned the enemy. Had to cut his way through an enemy ten times more numerous. Lost 10 or 12 men. The enemy lost 150 men who were buried in M. Boucher's close at Lorembec and counted by the habitants. Some English officers said that 1,200 of their men had been killed during the siege. It is certain that if Le Vigilant had not come, the Bostonians would have raised the siege; their powder was exhausted and they could receive none from Boston for 15 days. Mr. Warren, who saw that the warships which were to join him did not arrive and who feared a French squadron which merchantmen he had captured had announced to him, wanted to return. He thought that this was a strong squadron which would capture him, burn the transports of the land army and thus compel it to surrender to us. That was told to him by Mr. Warren, but the capture of Le Vigilant quieted the latter. This ship strengthened his squadron and supplied powder to the besiegers until that from Boston arrived. She was captured by 3 English warships, one 60 and two of 40 guns, and two other privateers, one of which had delayed her and driven her to leeward of the port where was the squadron. Had she followed her course, she could have put into port having the weather-gage of the fleet. This ship would have saved the colony for the King by the reinforcement in men and powder she would have given us. The enemy would even have raised the siege, thinking us more numerous and better provided with ammunition than we were."

Sends him copies of the letters exchanged with the English generals, being his representations to them on their possessing themselves of the hospital furniture, although the capitulation provided that only the munitions and implements of war were to be surrendered. Have also seized upon the provisions. Has given his word of honour that the money in the coffers belonged to individuals, or they would have seized upon it. Could give his word of honor as the King owes triple that amount. Could not obtain from the English generals permission for the inhabitants nor even for the Sœurs de la Congregation to go to Canada. Victuals are wanting on board. Provision has been made for 500 men for thirty days, and there are 580. M. D'Aillebout has stayed behind. He will accompany the next shipment which will be composed of inhabitants. Folio 368, 29 pages.

February 17. Certified extract from the registers in the record office of the Superior Council of Louisbourg respecting a suit brought by the Comte de Raymond, at the request of Jean La Borde, Deputy Procureur General, against the Chev. Bogard de la Noue, ensign and commanding officer at the Baie des Espagnols for having, on the 11th February 1754, married in spite of M. D'Aillebont's refusal. Had applied to the latter for permission to marry an Acadian, the daughter of one Guedry dit Paul Grivois and an Acadian Spanish half-breed Anne d'Entremont. This permission was refused and he was forbidden to return to the Baie des Espagnols. Upon his remarks that this interdiction would be prejudicial to the interests he had in that place, the Sr. D'Aillebont gave him permission to go, under his word of honour that he would not marry before having the approbation of the Minister and of his family. In spite of this promise, he wrote to his De Caux, commanding officer at Port Dauphin to ask him to send Sr. chaplain under pretense of assisting one of his brothers seriously ill. This chaplain officiated at the marriage without observing the rules contained in the King's ordinances. The Sr. de la Noue was put in jail and released, hence the suit to annul his marriage. The certificate of marriage declares that after dispensing with 2 bans, Father Hyacinthe Lefevre married the Sr. Jules César Félix de la Noue, son of the late high and mighty seigneur Messire Toussaint Marie de la Noue, knight, Seigneur de Bogard, la ville Norme, St. Hermel and other lands, councillor at the Parliement of Brittany and of Dame Marie Madelaine Prassac, native of the parish of Quaissais, bishopric of St Brieux, and Damoiselle Marguerite Guédry, daughter of Paul Guédry and of noble dame Anne d'Entremont, native of the parish of Ste.

1755. Memorandum from M. de Drucourt respecting the stronghold of Louisbourg, its fortifications and the events of the siege. Bad state of the fortifications. Louisbourg, surrounded by heights, was not to be considered as a stronghold. Most of the besieged strongholds are always captured when they are not relieved. The defence was valorous, the soldiers and officers have devoted themselves without murmur and there are no troops who have so well deserved the rewards and favours of the King. Folio 529, 18 pages.
- Diary of the siege of Louisbourg, not signed, forming 5 books, in which are minutely related day by day, all the events pertaining to it from March 30 until the departure of the garrison for France. In the French squadron, there were only 5 frigates, under command of Comte Des Gouttes, which could land in the harbour of Louisbourg. M. Du Chaffault, who was in command of the main section of the squadron, could not land on account of headwinds. M. Des Gouttes, seeing that the defense was useless, prayed M. de Drucourt to let him leave the harbour and return to France and thus save his ships from sure ruin. The staff of the garrison having been consulted by M. de Drucourt all were of the opinion that the most important thing was to prolong the resistance, this would be impossible if they were deprived of the troops which were on board of those ships and of the ships themselves. List of these ships.

Four of these ships were burned during the siege. On July 15, there was only 3,080 healthy men in the garrison troops. Admiral Boscawen's squadron was composed of 29,962 men when he sailed from England. The ships composing it were :—

camp.
August 14.

Diary of the campaign of M. de Boisb  heret from Quebec to Louisbourg and return. He had, as officers: MM. de Catalogne, de Boucherville, de C  ry, de St. Simon, with cadets Des Plaines, D'Amours, de Carqueville, Couillard, de La Durantaye. Embarked on the schooner La Critique of 50 tons, with 70 men, from Quebec, the remainder, with M. de C  ry, were on board Le St. Joseph, which was escorting L'Oiseau, loaded with the king's supplies for river St. Jean. Arrived at Miramichi June 9, after going through many storms and having his vessels dispersed; one of them having to put into Quebec. Had only provisions for 20 days which compelled him to put his troops on a short allowance of 4 ounces. Increased his detachment with 70 Acadians and 60 Indians. Sent M. de Niverville to take command at river St. Jean. Did not go to Ile St. Jear, as he proposed, but to G  daik, for fear the Indians might kill the cattle belonging to Acadians. Learned that M. de Villejoin had sent a detachment of 100 Acadians, commanded by his son. Arrived June 26 at Canseau passage, the 28 at Port Toulouse and July 1 at Mir   where he met M. de Villejoin with a detachment of 200 men very badly provided with necessaries. Was obliged to abandon 100 men because they had no shoes. Narration of his skirmishes with the enemy and his return to Miramichi after the capitulation. Sickness increased so much that in 8 days he had 60 patients afflicted with anthrax, which frightened the Indians so much that they all deserted. Made an attack upon an English detachment at Petitcodiac which though stronger than his was obliged to retreat. Lost 15 men during the action. Arrived at Miramichi August 8. Found that post without food. Learned of the victory at Carillon. On the 11th a schooner loaded with beef arrived which enabled him to revictual so as to join M. de Niverville at river St. Jean. Orders given to provide for the needs of the Acadians who would join his detachment or stay at Ile St. Jean. Learned on the 1758. 12th that M. de Villejoin and Rousseau, at Ile St. Jean, were expecting the English packet boat which was to take them, this disappointed him very much because he expected that these officers would not surrender to the enemy, on the contrary that they would serve in his detachment. Left Miramichi on the 13th leaving M. de Catalogne in command. MM. de la Boularderie and de Montarville remained also because they were too sick to venture the campaign. Folio 607, 12 pages.

- June 8. Copy of a letter from M. Degouttes to M. de Drucourt. Communicates his opinions which are also those of the captains of his squadron. The enemy will soon be on the side of the beacon since the troops have been removed. Shall be perplexed about the chances of his vessels. With this wind, would be able to sail to-night and go very far before the enemy could know of his departure. Desires his written advice, immediately, and plainly, so as to communicate it in good time to his captains, if not he shall sail to-night. Signed Des gouttes, Beaussier, de Mar lles de Breugnon, Ch^{er} de Lorgerie. Dudresnay, Desroches, Chev. de Tourville. Folio 616, 1½ pages.
- June 8. Answer from M. de Drucourt. The Minister has always told him that his vessels were purposely for the defense of Louisbourg. It is clear that their departure would show our weakness. To sail to-night would mean introducing the enemy to-morrow. Thinks that being doomed to the same fate, it is proper to run the same risks. Their orders to this effect being the same, thinks that they must not hesitate. Folio 616½, 1 page.
- June 21. Representations of the captains commanding the King's vessels at anchor at Louisbourg. The enemy having unmasked a battery of 10 to 11 mortars both on the side of Ross Point and behind the rocks leading towards the beacon and being thereby much exposed to the enemy's fire have inquired from M. de Drucourt with M. Desgouttes whether they could approach their vessels so as to lay under the batteries of the town, which was agreed to. Folio 621, 2 pages.
- June 21. Answer of M. de Drucourt. Adheres to the representations of the captains of ships. Folio 622, 1 page.
- June 24. Further representations from M. Desgouttes to have a Council of War to decide what course he isto take with regard to his fleet. The only service his has rendered, that he can see, is having prevented the enemy from entering the port. Begg the council to consider the loss of five vessels. They might be destroyed by shells, and then where would he lodge his troops, neither can he see how they could feed them if the loss of his vessels entails the loss of his provisions. His services can only be of small utility. Would be happy to learn how to be really useful, otherwise he wants to leave. The Court has not foreseen the strange situation he is in. If so desired he is ready to sink vessels so as to block the entrance to the port. Folio 622½, 3 pages.
- June 21. The Council persist in their first decision. Folio 824, ½ page.
- On board the Prudent. June 29. Representations from M. Desgouttes. To comply with the wishes of the council of war, but very much against his will, he has sunk vessels so as to obstruct the entrance to the port ; his crews have been withdrawn from his vessels in order to join the land forces. Has called a meeting of his captains, and they were of opinion that unable to keep the powder in their vessels they should be considered as dismantled, and in consequence they would employ their troops in the town, being resolved not to burn nor sink their vessels but as a last resource, they could always go on board, if necessary, to defend the fortress. Folio 624½, 5 pages.
- June 30. Answer of M. de Drucourt. If he has repeated his entreaties it is because 2 Councils of War were of the same opinion. Has adopted his reasons for getting his vessels nearer to the town. As he has reason to fear that they might be destroyed by shells, he has done well to take out his powder, and the same thing may be said of his stores. Folio 626½, 2 pages.

July 4. The same to the same. Has pointed out to the Chev. de Courserac, who has came this morning, the place where he should bring the 70 or 80 men he commands. Will please communicate his order to him, not having kept a copy, so as to verify certain points. Folio 627, 2 pages.
- July 4. Answer of M. Desgouttes. Regrets that M. de Courserac had not on his person, so as to give him cognizance of it, the order he gave to his captains in consequence of his advice of 30th June. Sends a copy of that order. Movements given to his vessels. His vessels were evacuated only to work in accordance with him, and it was the best thing to do, since the enemy fire red hot shot, and by acting otherwise he would have lost a great many lives. To delay that operation, as he desires would be to revoke orders repeatedly given, and show much indecision. He will leave as many men as he thinks proper, to guard the vessels but the more men left on board, so many less will remain to defend the fortress. Has fired all day on the enemy's battery, but cannot have caused much damage, for besides being masked, it is difficult to obtain good results by firing upwards. Folio 627, 4½ pages.
- July 8. M. de Drucourt to M. Desgouttes. Requests him to have his officers and his crews serve all the guns along the sea from the guard-house on the beach to the Princess's bastion, etc., to-night. Folio 631, 1 page.
- June 28. The same to the same. Respecting his answer to M. de Bellefeuille about the vessels to be sunk in the pass. Those who are detailed to obstruct the entrance to the port, say they cannot do it unless one of the King's vessels is there to silence the enemy's battery. And that door must not be left open. Repeats his remarks on that subject. Will himself do all he can to make that operation practicable. Folio 631, 1½ pages.
- July 19. Representations from M. Desgouttes to M. de Drucourt. His captains are all of the opinion that it is better to burn the vessels than to expose them to capture. They are too much damaged to be able to come out and escape. Requests him to advise when it will be expedient to burn the vessels. If we wait till the enemy call upon us to surrender, he will exact, as prime condition, that the vessels be delivered to him and then it will be too late to burn them without risking falling at their mercy. Folio 632, 3 pages.
- Answer of M. de Drucourt. Is willing to keep him informed of all that is going on, but cannot take upon himself to fix the exact time when he will be able to burn his vessels. That concerns himself. Folio 633½, 5½ pages.

January 24. Extract from a letter of M. Gerard, formerly missionary at Acadia, and latterly at Ile St. Jean, where he was captured and carried away by the English—to the Abbé de L'Isle-Dieu. Is now at Brest after having been saved from a wreck in which 300 men lost their lives on an English vessel, two from Ile. St. Jean to St. Malo, according to capitulation of Louisbourg. Embarked at Port Lajoie with a good number of the people of his parish. On the 4th of November the vessel was nearly wrecked. The crew escaped and rescued him with 4 inhabitants of whom 2 were married and 2 single. All the others were engulfed in the Channel about 20 or 30 leagues from land. Managed to land in England where they remained one month without help. Embarked for La Rochelle, but the boat called at Brest and is still there. His books, papers and effects a total loss. Has great need of his prayers and of his protection near the Court and the Minister. Folio 639, 2 pages.

The troops had at first gone to settle at Louisbourg and there it was intended to make the main settlement if that port could have been easily fortified, and if enough beaches had been found for drying the fish. But the enormous expense to be incurred in order to make that port safe from attacks induced the late King, at the instance the officers of Ile Royale, to remove the main settlement to Port Dauphin though without abandoning Louisbourg. 1654. Memorandum, not signed, relating to the abuses of authority of M. de Frontenac. It was to remedy the trouble that M. D'Avaugort had caused to the order which he had found in Canada that, under complaints made to the King, His Majesty instituted, by his edict of 1663, a Supreme Council at Quebec. M. de Frontenac, on his private authority, made innovations opposed to the spirit and letter of this institution. He appointed elective aldermen whom he made police magistrates; he appointed some councillors without consulting the Bishop; alone, he regulated the expenditure of public funds and trade with the Indians; in all the by-laws of the council, he gave himself as high and powerful Seigneur and as Monseigneur. He pretended that the ordinance of 1667 did not affect him; that one could not decline his judgements or blame him in civil or criminal matters. On account of the distance, there seemed to be less inconvenience in allowing his usurpations than to be exposed to his threats and severities. Under his Declaration of 1675, confirmatory of the edict of 1663, the King modified his powers and extended those of the council. In spite of this plain declaration, M. de Frontenac has not changed his pretensions. Amongst other misuses of authority, he has given the Governor of Montreal orders to have the bailiff of this town arrested because, complying with the orders of the Supreme Council, he executed the rulings which were made; that, exasperated at the appeal of the judge on that account, he had him imprisoned; that, having called him to the Chateau, he was sentenced to beg pardon of the Governor of Montreal before six witnesses, and pay a fine of 120 livres; that this judge was kept in jail for two months and was discharged only when his fine was paid. Detailed account of different abuses of authority against the Intendant, and MM. D'Auteuil, de Tilly and de Villeray. Folio 1, 7 pages, say 11 pages.

1674. Factum of the Bishop of Quebec respecting what was done during the dissolution of the Council Sept. 19, 1664, (?) Selection of the Sr. Le Myre as trustee, by M. de Frontenac. Protest of the Councillors. Dissolution of the Council. M. de Charney having asked M. de Frontenac the reason of his refusal to enter on the registers the deliberations of the Council, he got into a jury and said to the whole Council: "I dismiss you, go out; I do not suspend you only, but I dismiss you, go away from here" threatening them with injurious words, a stick in his hand, and looking at the registrar and the Sr. Bourdon, Procureur General, he said: "I dismiss you also." M. Bourdon retorted: "As to me Sir, I must not consider myself as dismissed; the decree of the establishment of the Council does not enact that I may be removed: I ask you, if you please, that it should be read." Hearing this M. de Frontenac rose up from his chair, took M. Bourdon by the throat and pulled him out of his place by force, hit him on the head with his stick, drew out his sword, and hit him many times, when the Srs. D'Amaurs and D'Auteuil covered him thus enabling the said Bourdon to retire. He went out. M. de Frontenac followed him outside, hit him again many times with his stick and with the flat side of his sword and wounded one of his hands, saying: "I will kill you." Sr. Bourdon retired without saying a word and called "on a surgeon to get his wound dressed." Folio 5, 3 pages.

PROVIDING SUBSTITUTES FOR MILITARY OFFICERS.—LOCAL GOVERNMENTS.

May 1.

The death of the Baron de Longueuil in 1755, has created a vacancy in the government of Montreal. The Marquis de Vaudreuil had proposed, to fill that vacancy, the Sr. Rigaud de Vaudreuil his brother, who has enjoyed, for several years the government of Three Rivers, and who, according to the natural course of service in Canada, succeeds to that of Montreal. It was thought proper to represent to His Majesty that the details of the government of Montreal required, in time of war as in time of peace, an officer who possessed a certain amount of information, as well for the negotiations with the Indians as for all the movements which may be made on the frontier; that the Sr. Rigaud de Vaudreuil, who had proved very zealous, who had even distinguished himself on several occasions by his courage, and who, besides shared the consideration which his family had

* This note appears in the copy, but there is no means, at the present moment, of ascertaining whether it is part of the document or a memorandum of the copyist.

1757. enjoyed for such a long time in Canada, did not appear to be qualified to take charge of the government of Montreal, and that it appeared expedient to seize this occasion to place at the head of this government one of the young post captains who might thereby fit themselves to become governor general when the Marquis de Vaudreuil left. His Majesty was impressed with those ideas, but His Majesty was of opinion that, before coming to a final decision, it would be well to communicate them to M. de Vaudreuil himself, which was done with all due deference. From his answer on that subject, he acknowledges naturally and honestly that his brother has not all the qualifications essential in a Governor General. At the same time he represents that the local governors of Canada have always been appointed from the officers of the colony and that they would be disgusted at the appointment of strange officers. He observes, especially, with regard to his brother, that it is so much more necessary during the war that he should have the full confidence of the Canadians and of the Indians. He cites, for instance, the expedition of Choueguen, which success he attributes to the use that his brother made of that confidence. He adds that if His Majesty decides to send a naval officer as governor of Montreal it would be imperative to retire his brother, and in that case, he humbly begs His Majesty to grant him a sufficient subsistence, as he has no means of his own.

Now, the question is this, does His Majesty intend to follow the suggestions submitted to him at first, or will he think proper to accede to the representations of M. de Vaudreuil and give the government of Montreal to his brother, and retire him when the war is over. In the first case it seems just to treat the Sr. Rigaud de Vaudreuil, who will have to rely on His Majesty's good will and to whom he is principally indebted for the capture of Chouegen, as His Majesty was informed at the time favorably.

And secondly, there would be nothing to fear for the general government of the colony supposing that the Marquis de Vaudreuil would fail whilst his brother is Governor of Montreal, since by letters patent transmitted last year, this command is given to the Marquis de Montcalm, an agreement that is kept secret, the letters patent being enclosed in a packet entrusted to the care of the Intendant and which is to be opened only in the case of the death of the Marquis de Vaudreuil.

In this volume, occurs the following respecting M. Dumas :

"It seems proper to do something extra for M. Dumas in addition to the pension of 1200 livres allowed to him, and which will remain to be paid out of the funds of the colonies. He is a distinguished officer who knows the military service and who would have been able to reform discipline in Canada if he had been in command there. He was in command in the action of General Braddock, and he also distinguished himself in the battle before Quebec where the Marquis de Montcalm was killed, and where he several times repulsed the enemy to protect the retreat of the others."

The King authorizes the Sr. Robert Cavelier de La Salle to explore the western part of New France. Was pleased to receive the representations made in his behalf to permit him to explore the western part of New France. His greatest desire is the discovery of that country which will undoubtedly help to find a way to Mexico. Permits him to follow that undertaking, to construct forts wherever he judges necessary, on the same footing and conditions as those granted to Frontenac whose letters patent of the 13th May 1675, he confirms, on condition that he achieves that undertaking within 5 years, that he will not trade with the Ottawa Indians and others who bring their furs to Montreal, that he and his company, to which the King has granted the monopoly of the fur trade of Cibola, will defray all expenses. Copy of the declaration of Henry de Tonty, governor of Fort St. Louis des Illinois, since 1684, and seignor of the said place with the Sr. de le Foret since 1690. Copy delivered by MM. de Frontenac and de Champigny.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

Has assembled the Illinois to-day the 11th April 1694, before the missionary and soldiers to give an exact account of the number of Iroquois they have killed and carried away into slavery since the year 1689 in which M. de Denonville warred with them. Have admitted to having killed and carried away 334 men and young boys and 111 women and young girls. Signed Henry de Tonty, Jacques Granier, Jesuit, Montmidy, de Liette, Laméterie, Bertrand Viau, Acol. Desrosiers, Labrisce. Folio 27, 1 page.

MM. Charles Aubert de la Chesnaye and DeLino to the Minister. The discovery and establishment of Louisiana have rejoiced Canada, but as it has been represented to him in several memoirs, "this establishment will be the ruination of Canada through the desertion of its best men and of all its young people who, without hope of a better fate, have commenced to abandon their relatives, for a change and to go to the said establishment, especially the libertines and coureurs de bois who, forgetting their creditors in Quebec and Montreal have taken all their beaver skins and other furs to M. D'Iberville who has begun to welcome them with their said beavers to the detriment of the colony of Canada, which will lose not only its property but also its most alert youths." Prays that he will so order that M. D'Iberville will no longer buy, neither by himself nor by his servants, any beavers or furs other than those traded in in Canada. Folio 29, 2 pages.

Memorandum from the Quebec Seminary for the missionaries that are in Louisiana, and whom they have to support on the 3,000 livres given yearly by the King to that seminary. The sum of 3,000 livres given by the King to the seminary to support missionaries at Louisiana would suffice were it paid in cash, but, as it is otherwise and a depreciation takes place, it results that the seminary receives after all but one-half of that sum, and this is quite insufficient to maintain several missionaries in a country which imports so largely and where the necessities of life cost so much. So long as the colony was worked and managed on behalf of the King, we could rely on the free entry of some tons of merchandise with which the missionaries provided for their wants by exchanges with the Indians; now that this work belongs to M. Crozat's company, we cannot rely on such a favour. The want of means of support will perhaps lead the missionaries to accept furs in exchange to increase their supplies, and this will cause complaints that are to be avoided. Hopes that the King will remedy that state of things. Folio 33, 4 pages.

1698. (?) Demands made by M. D'Iberville for the establishment of a colony on the Mississippi, and explanation of his intentions. Application by M. D'Iberville for the grant of the lead and other mines situated in the Mississippi district from 38 degrees 10 minutes north to 39°. August 30. The same to the same. Has received the map of the river St. Esprit. Does not know what to think. Might recognize what river it means if the names of the Indian nations inhabiting its course had been put on it. Has never come near the river Oyo. If the river in question discharges itself into the Gulf of Mexico and its mouth at about 80 or 100 leagues East of the Baie du St. Esprit, then in that case it runs into the Baie des Apalaches, and that is the one that Fernand Soto sailed up at the time of the conquest of Florida the accounts of which were so fabulous. If this is the river the English desire to capture, the Spaniards will not allow them to do so. Folio 107, 6 pages.

M. D'Iberville to the Minister. Has rendered an account of his voyage from La Rochelle to the Cap Français. Arrived at the Baie de Biloxi on the 8th January. Next day the Sr. de Sannalli came on board and informed him that an English corvette of 12 guns, commanded by Captain Bank, had entered the river Mississippi about the end of September. His brother, de Bienville, went to tell him that if he did not retire, he would compel him to do so. The captain put out to sea. He learnt from him that he had left London in October, 1688 (?) for the purpose of settling the Mississippi, that he had put back to Carolina from whence he had started with 2 vessels, one of 24 guns, the other of 12 to explore the mouth of the Mississippi, but misled by erroneous information he had found no harbour till 80 leagues further west, at a place where a Spanish settlement existed. That in retracing his route, he had found the mouth of the Mississippi, but only the smallest of his vessels could enter. He declared to M. de Bienville that he would come back with vessels capable of entering the river for the purpose of making a settlement, as the English, had taken possession of that river over 50 years previously. There are many English with the Chicachas where they trade. Account of his explorations in the country with de Tonty and his Canadians. Folio 225, 16 pages.

The Sr. Andrez Riola to M. D'Iberville. Before answering his letter of the 13th, he is obliged to advise him of two things. The first, that the Scotch who came in the Daniel to settle and fortify themselves here without orders from their King, have retired upon summons when they learnt that a Spanish squadron was coming to expel them. The second thing that he desires to inform him is, that in the month of April of last year, 5 war vessels belonging to the King of Spain had entered the Gulf of Mexico, which belongs to the King of Spain; that those who were on board those vessels landed and began constructing dwellings and entrenching themselves. Had at first believed that these vessels were English, seeing that M. le Marquis de Chateamoraud, commandant of a squadron, has assured him that he came on these coasts for the sole purpose of hunting certain Canadois (sic) who had come to seek a shelter on these coasts, and once that mission accomplished he would return to France. On this declaration, the Comte de Montezuma, Viceroy of New Spain, had sent him to reconnoitre the coast, and he was not a little surprised to see some French settled where he expected to see English, and that they came from the squadron, of M. de Chateamoraud himself. Feels obliged to protest against such an undertaking. As to his offer to aid him in preventing the English from carrying out their plan of taking possession of the river St. Esprit, he thanks him for that favour without accepting it, however, because he does not believe that he needs it for the present. same timber to be scorched and submerged in water for the same purpose. Does not believe that the Spaniards will undertake anything against our settlements. Will live amicably with them. Will send the Sr. Le Vasseur with 3 or 4 men near the Chaquias, to see what kind of nation it is of which the other Indians speak so much. Will question them about the mines that exist on the river Mobile, its navigability, if it is really the one that passes near the Chicachas, if it is navigable up to there, if there are mulberry trees along the course. Will send the Sr. de St. Denis to complete the discovery of the upper region of the river des Marnes up to the great lake mentioned by the Indians, with instruction to go as far west as possible to make himself acquainted with New Mexico and the Spanish mines. Should he find mines, he is to buy the land from the Indians in the King's name, etc. Does not believe that any European nation would like to occupy the Mississippi, the two shores of which we possess, but if any should come we will inform them of our possession, and will use force if necessary to keep them away. Sequel to the Memorandum of M. Iberville respecting Florida. Spain must beware the weakness of her position in Florida. She has, we might say, only St. Augustine to support her, which is very little compared with the English who occupy the neighbourhood, have strong settlements and draw to themselves all the Indians through their trade. Let them capture St. Augustine and then with 50 or 60 brigantines they will be able to form a body of 6,000 Indian warriors who within 24 hours will be before Cuba. This event may be regarded as yet distant, but it will happen for the simple reason that it is possible and easy with the help they could obtain from the Bahamas and Jamaica. Whatever may be said against our enterprise at Mobile, it is in the interest of Spain even since it will serve to keep the English on this side. At the most, if this colony is developed as it should be, it will serve both as a support to our colonies of the West Indies, and at the same time permit us if need be, to ruin the English colonies or at least to relieve Canada and Acadia by forcing the English to divide their forces. Remarks of the Minister on the subject of the memorandum and demands of M. D'Iberville respecting the Mississippi. Folio 331, 2 pages.

Memorandum from M. D'Iberville respecting the English colonies of North America, and the means of checking their attempts at extension. The population of these colonies consists of 60,000 families. England employs 600 vessels in her trade with her colonies of America, and those colonies employ as many vessels. They have until now been kept south of the mountain range starting from Carolina and extending towards the north-east of the continent, the English settlers will soon cross those mountains. Many do so already. Last year a good number left Carolina and Virginia to settle in Akansas, by way of the Wabash and Mississippi. Those who have settled near the Chicachas have supplied them with arms, and together they make raids unto the neighbouring nations, taking prisoners which they sell as slaves at the Islands, if they are adults, and in the adjoining colonies if they are not. Ordinarily they sell them for 3 to 400 livres. They claim that it is not most important to make sure of sea ports, considering that the coasts of the Gulf of Mexico are submerged, that the lands are sandy and dry, but of the interior where the lands are fertile; that it will be always time, when the interior is peopled, to secure of the coasts. In order to thwart those plans, it behoves us to settle permanently at the Mississippi, the Mobile and Illinois, whilst it is not yet too late. The Spaniards will do nothing in that sense, their efforts being made exclusively for the discovery and the working of mines, so that we must either enter into negotiations with them, or drop them altogether. Will willingly lend him a vessel if he provides a pilot, for he has none who knows the coast of Vera Cruz, but, as he has only a limited time for the projected works at Mobile, he cannot stop them. The King of France has nothing else in view in that settlement but the joint interest of the two crowns in opposing the efforts of the English to subjugate or destroy all the Indian nations of the interior who are friends or allies of France and Spain. The weakness of the Spanish settlements at those places would render this fate inevitable, for that reason the King of France is obliged to take steps to protect his interests. Is ready to take measures to act conjointly with him in order to foil the plans of the English. Folio 357, 3½ pages.

M. D'Iberville to the Minister. Desires to have a grant of land on the river of Mobile, erected as a county bearing his name. In the margin, by the Minister, "good, when it will be worth doing." Folio 363, ½ page.

On the articles of M. D'Iberville concerning the Mississippi and the Mobile, sent back by Monseigneur de Pontchartrain to M. de Champigny. There is no reason to believe that M. D'Iberville can accomplish his suggestion to draw together the Illinois and the Sioux of the lower Mississippi, and even if it were possible it should not be done, because Canada would thus be deprived to a large extent of its trade. It is not surprising that M. D'Iberville should propose Le Sueur for that mission, for that man has married his first cousin and he is one of the most zealous traders in the woods, a business he has carried on for the last 14 years, at first under the pretense of stopping the war between the Foxes and other nations, a mission repeated several times that has had no other result than to bring him many beavers, and secondly, under the pretense of discovering mines. MM. de Callières and de Champigny are convinced that that individual has never had other interest than trade. It is somewhat surprising to hear M. D'Iberville say that there are no more lands left for settlement in Canada; on the contrary, there are enough lands to settle whole monarchies, however, we cannot prevent Canadians from settling at the Mississippi, but it will be well to take measures to prevent them from trading en passant. If it were possible to restrict the Srs. Juchereau and Le Sueur to their tanneries and mines, probably they would give it up, so true is it that those establishments are nothing but pretenses. It would be more judicious to amnesty the coureurs de bois than to allow them to be received at the Mississippi. If guns were exchanged for beavers on the side of the Mississippi it would be the means of increasing the mass of beavers which are already too large, and it would be the ruin of Canada which is not in a condition to buy them. Memorandum from M. D'Iberville to the Minister. Le West, intended for him, is too small a vessel. Cannot accept the favour tendered him to return this vessel on the condition of one fourth. The Srs. de Valesar and de Chateauguay are busy raising 2 companies of soldiers. Believes that the Sr. Le Sueur is able to fill the office of Lieutenant General of Justice at the Mississippi. Before making any advance near the Scioux, it should be agreed whether they would depend on Canada or on Louisiana. The views held about Canada on that subject are so at variance with his own that he does not believe that anything should be proposed now to those Indians by the way of the Mississippi, for it is intimated that they are not to listen to anything coming from the people of the lower Mississippi. There is so much prejudice in Canada against himself and those who are 1703. under him, that this is sufficient to render them open to suspicion. They have gone so far as to recommend the deputies to beware of him and not to see him. Requests him to demand a memorandum from MM. de Riverin and de Champigny in which they would expose their complaints concerning him, after which he would answer it. The insidious language held against him induces him to ask to be relieved from the command in chief of Louisiana, considering that the interests of his brothers and his Canadian friends suffer therefrom. Last year his brother de Maricourt, negotiated peace with the Iroquois. Meantime in spite of the high importance of this service, he is hardly mentioned in ordinary and private letters of the authorities. His brothers complain of the annoyances he causes them. Has received from Vera Cruz a letter from M. de Becancour whom he had sent there to get provisions for the Pensacola garrison and also for Mobile. He says that he is only allowed to bring oxen and rams, but no cows nor wethers. Folio 379, 8 pages.

M. de la Salle to the same. Had informed him that he had sent a vessel to Vera Cruz, both to give notice that the fort of St. Augustine was besieged and that the Governor of that fort was asking help, to obtain provisions in exchange for those he had procured from that Governor. Everything is very dear in the ports of New Spain, and the fishing vessel has all it can do to provision the garrison pending the arrival of vessels from France. The English do all in their power to draw to them the nation of the Chicachas who are a terror to all the others. They hardly like to do it as they are already allied to the French. They often come to see us, but as we have nothing left to give them, they have ceased their visits, and it is to be feared that they will allow themselves to be seduced by the English. It is urgent to send merchandise by the next vessels. Folio 387, 10 pages.

Father Gouïye to the same. Father DuRu is determined to leave on the first vessel for the Mississippi. Hopes he will be satisfied with him. He is very intelligent, has much courage and is very virtuous, still he has a little temper which virtue will cure. The Bishop of Quebec is in Paris since 8 days. Believes that it is expedient to settle the question of vicariat as proposed by him, otherwise the position would be untenable. The conduct of the grand vicars at Illinois convinces him more than ever of the necessity of the grand vicariat, and of the division of the district without mixture of the several kinds of missionaries. If things cannot be settled so, Father DuRu is authorized to return to France with his brethren, or go to Canada or to the Islands, leaving the Mississippi to the first comer. Folio 397, 5 pages.

The same to the same. Thankful for having granted him all he has asked, but greatly fears that the disposition in which he found the Bishop of Quebec will prevent Father DuRu from leaving. He has declared to the latter and to Father de Lamberville, that he would never consent to the grand vicariat he had proposed, and that he would never take a Jesuit for his grand vicar, even though the court should grant a district where there would be no other missionaries than those of their Order. I paid him a visit last Monday; he repeated the same thing with several others it is useless to enumerate. Our Father Provincial, being informed of his sentiments, assembled, on Tuesday, what we call at home the Council of the Province. All the councillors were of the opinion that since M. de Kébec entertained those sentiments it was useless to think of the mission to the Mississippi, that an employment would be given to Father DuRu, that they would immediately recall Father Dongé, who was acting as Chaplain at Mobile where M. D'Iberville could have the Chaplain of the vessel on board of which M. de Bouteville was to return, that Father Dongé could remain at the Islands or at San Domingo, that Father de Limoges would go to the old missions of Canada. When I heard the result of the council,

I represented that I could do nothing in the case without your consent, they answered that was the intention of the Father Provincial and of the council. In consequence I pray you, Monseigneur, to find it good. M. de Kébec is still under the impression that we desire that settlement. You know how it happened that I had the honour to speak of it to you. He said to me that if we were not already at the Mississippi, we could impose what conditions we pleased, but once there, we were no longer masters. This reasoning is very consoling. The Father Provincial went to see him yesterday afternoon, with the view of making him listen to reason. Having failed in this, he informed him of the stand we were taking. I went there this morning, and obtained nothing. I insisted a little on this affair, because if Father Du Ru has to go it must be at the beginning of next week, and if he starts before obtaining from M. de Kébec what is absolutely necessary for the well-being of that mission, we shall never obtain anything from him, in which case we will be obliged for a thousand good reasons to abandon what has caused us much labour and expense to begin. I said to M. de Kébec, most respectfully but at the same time as strongly as possible, that since Louisiana and the lower Mississippi were in his diocese, thus covering more than eighteen hundred leagues from one end to the other, he should have been the first to congratulate and encourage us in taking care of a people with whose instruction and conversion he was charged; that he was the one to act at Court for that settlement; that he should even give us some of his revenues to enable us to work in a country for which he was responsible before God; that we had forewarned him that we asked nothing from him but the means of working in peace and usefully; that he knew the Jesuits to be very docile in the hands of their bishops; that by demanding the Mississippi we were not open to the same reproaches as were used so unjustly to our missionaries in India et China; that I would proclaim everywhere that he did not want us." At these words he got a little excited, even got angry absit verbo injuria. I was little short of getting angry too. We at once calmed down. He was pleased to embrace me and treat me with kindness. We recommenced talking very quietly, and, I dare say, very amicably: "So Monseigneur, you are unwilling to give the Jesuits a district in which they would work alone, without some other missionaries, either regular or secular coming in without an express order of the Court or without being called thereto in case of need by the said people for as long a time as these people will judge convenient to retain them" "This does not depend on me," he answered, "it belongs to the Court to give you this district, and I give my word that I will never send anybody there:—" "Will not Your Grace agree that that Jesuit who is the superior of others in this district be his grand vicar born, it being understood that when he is no longer agreeable to Your Grace, another one would be put in his stead, but in such a way that it would always be a Jesuit?" explained to him the reason why I demanded that grand vicariat—As for that, he said, never will I consent to it never will I grant it, never will I take a Jesuit for my grand vicar. Though I divest myself of my authority, I would prefer being ordered, but they will not order me. I will not enter into conflict with two bodies so considerable in the Church of God: that of the Foreign Missions and that of the Jesuits. I cannot create a grand vicariat attached to our order, and I do not wish to appoint a Jesuit grand vicar, even though there were none but Jesuits under him." I brought to bear many reasons and examples to show that he could and should do it, but these reasons did not seem to convince him, and they did not impress him. He fears the gentlemen of the Rue du Bac and still more those who protect them; he told me so too clearly to doubt it—"All I can do," he said, "is that when the Court has given you a district, and ordered that you will be the sole ones,

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

I will promise that I will not give authority over you to any gentleman of the Foreign Missions, but I will not put anything in writing." Seeing me smile." Do you doubt me," said he, also laughing. "Not much, monseigneur; an attorney wants deeds and fears the word which crosses the sea: the winds, the seas, the forests create great revolutions in wills as well as in bodies." But after that word, that I suppose inevitable(?) he will call a secular priest with the title of grand vicar, an Archdeacon, that is. — Be so good Monseigneur, that we should keep to what the Father Provincial had the honour to say to you. M. de Kébec has wished that I should give you an account of our consultation and of the things which he is writing to bind himself, and which we do not care. I am really sorry because I know that we have that settlement at heart, and I am satisfied that a mission of our company, such as I had the honour to propose, would have been very useful for the salvation of the Indians and for the well-being of that young colony, but the way M. de Kébec takes it, who ill knows his own interests, it would be an everlasting cause of law-suits and disagreements for the missionaries and for me. I beg of you, Mon-eigneur, through your former kindness towards me, to accept the result of our Council. I will await your orders, unless you think proper that I should wait for them elsewhere, I am etc. Folio 397, 9 pages.

1701. Extracts from the proceedings of the war Council of the Indies and from the memoirs of M. de Pontchartrain and M. D'Iberville who brought it about. M. de Blécourt has transmitted to His Majesty the letter written by M. de Pontchartrain to the Duc d'Harcourt, together with a memoir and map drawn by M. D'Iberville concerning the Mississippi and the designs of the English. He holds that Pensacola or Ste. Marie de Galbe, is not situated so as to resist an attack nor to be the nucleus of a colony, that considering the sentiments of the French at Mobile and on the Mississippi, their relations of friendship and trade with the Indians of the interior, the Spaniards would do better to cede Pensacola to the French. The war junta to which the documents were submitted, are of opinion that Spain must keep Florida and fortify Pensacola. Reasons given. Folio 413, 32 pages.

1704. M. de Bienville to the Minister. Endeavours to avenge French killed at the Alibamous. Narrative of his expedition for that purpose. All the young women who arrived on Le Pelican have married Canadians. That vessel brought the plague contracted at Havana. A fleet should be maintained to bring cattle from Havana, for ploughing the soil and supply fresh meat to the inhabitants. The English have brought goods to the Chicachas in order to counteract our influence over them. The Sr. de St. Denis, his qualifications. The influence he has over the Canadians and Indians. The Spaniards of Pensacola are very unfortunate with their settlements. Would have been obliged to abandon Pensacola if he had not come to their aid. The Apalaches have been completely destroyed by the English, 32 Spaniards were made prisoners, 17 of whom were to be burnt, including 3 Cordelier fathers, 6,000 or 7,000 Apalaches were made prisoners, and over 6,000 horned cattle were captured, etc. The Spaniards have retreated to St Augustine. Only 400 Apalaches are left, who have taken refuge on our river. The English intend coming back to lay siege to St. Augustine. Suggestions as to what should be done in the interest of the colony. Folio 449, 16 pages.

Fort Louis,

M. De la Salle to the Minister. The vessel L'Aigle has brought the supplies intended for the colony, but seeing that on the one hand he has refunded to the Spaniards what he had borrowed from them, and on the other hand that M. de Bienville entertains the Canadians contrary to the orders of the Court, they will not last long. Complaints concerning the expedition of M. de Bienville to the Alibamous. Fort Louis is falling to pieces and should be rebuilt at Ile au Massacre. Asks a grant of land at the Rivière aux Chiens where he could establish his family, a thing which M. de Bienville refused to grant him. Is powerless to struggle to protect the King's interests, for he has against him M. D'Iberville's brothers who act as if all of them had the command. Divers complaints against MM. de Bienville and D'Iberville. Folio 472, 30 pages.

September 14.

M. de Bienville to the Minister. The men are getting accustomed to Indian corn, but the women, who are mostly Parisians, scarcely eat any, which makes them grumble against the Bishop of Quebec who had given them to understand that they were coming to a country where provisions were abundant. 50 men from the upper Mississippi have come down to settle here. Report from 2 Canadians arrived from Missouri. Complaints against the curé of Mobile. Expedition of English and Indians against the Chactas. Pretensions of the governor of Pensacola. The Sr. de la Salle, his way of living. Folio 502, 11 pages.

July 28.

The same to the same. Bad condition of the supplies brought by L'Aigle. The King will have to assign two vessels for the transport of supplies, otherwise there will always be famine. The Spaniards of Pensacola have fortified themselves well since their fire. Has sent all the Canadians who refused to settle at Mobile back to France. The inhabitants demand negroes to clear the land, and desire to exchange at the Iles the slaves sold to them by the Indians, on account of the many chances of running away; that is what the English do. All the Indians much prefer the French to the English, but for all that we must provide them with the necessaries. Has been unable to construct the fort promised to the Chicachas, though that fort is needed if we wish to maintain peace between them and the Chactas and keep away the English. Has made a bargain for the acquisition of a grist mill. Suffers from sciatic gout and pain in the chest, and asks leave of absence for one year, so as to go to France for treatment. The French Indian allies behave well. The Apalaches have refused to go home with the Spaniards, saying that the French treated their allies far better, and respected the Indian women. Complaints against the curé of Mobile. Among the 20 girls sent to Mobile there is one who is unwilling to marry. She should be compelled, for she has had good offers. The Foreign Missions must be reminded to send none but fathers of presence, because the Indians have little regard for those who are young and of weak appearance. Has given to his brother de Chateaugué, the command of the vessel bound for Very Cruz, in the stead of the Sr. de Becancour, deceased. Folio 514, 31 pages.

August 10.

Extract from a letter from the Sr. de la Salle to M. Begons L'Allemant, one of the commissaries of the late M. D'Iberville, has taken passage on L'Aigle with 15,000 livres in piastres. This man has taken what he pleased from the King's stores without hindrance, and by the orders of M. de Bienville. Begs to have him apprehended on his arrival in France. Complaints against M. de Bienville. Le Traversier commanded by M. de Chateaugué, was wrecked at the entrance of the harbour. Folio 566, 3 pages.

Vol. 2.

Unsigned memorandum on the advantages France would derive from the possession of Baie du St. Esprit. Twenty-five years ago the Spaniards had projected a settlement there. It would be easy to attract there the French settled in the Carolina. The Indians of these regions have a deep hatred for the Spaniards and a liking for the French. The inhabitants of Vera Cruz fear that the French will take hold of that bay, for they know its advantages. The Spaniards, it is true, are powerful and look upon us as enemies, but the weakness and corruption of the rulers render that undertaking easy, for the governors begin by putting all their goods in their offices and they cannot resist the temptation of the traders who offer them presents. MM. de Beaujeu and de la Salle have made a mistake in their sailing and have missed the Mississippi channel, because they have not reckoned enough with the latitude. The Spaniards have already passed through that channel with their galleys. Has obtained this information from a merchant of Constance named François Encognard, who has made several trips with the Spaniards to Peru and Mexico. Unsigned memorandum, giving the King an account of the discovery of the Mississippi. It was in 1684 that M. de la Salle, who had visited the greater part of North America, brought to M. de Seignelay the relation of the discovery of the Mississippi. M. de Seignelay, having apprised the King of that discovery, a man-of-war commanded by M. de Beaujeu, and a storeship, were sent there in 1684. M. de la Salle took passage with M. de Beaujeu, accompanied by the people he had engaged and who were to settle in that country with him. Narrative of that expedition and of the death of M. de la Salle. The survivors turned their steps towards Canada and arrived at Lake Frontenac in July 1688, having been 15 months on the march. The war which broke out in Europe prevented this discovery from being utilised. The war over, a company was formed in London for the purpose of forming a settlement at the Mississippi, composed of French Protestants who had taken refuge in England, in Holland and in Germany. To frustrate that project, an expedition was organized composed of 2 frigates under the command of M. D'Iberville. On being informed that the English were about to sail with superior forces the King ordered M. le Marquis de Chateaumorand who was going to San Domingo with the vessel Le François to convoy them as far as the coast of Florida. They left San Domingo all together, and reached the Florida coast where they found the Spaniards in possession since the preceding month of October in the Bay of Pensacola. M. de Chateaumorand being no longer of use to M. D'Iberville, the latter proceeded alone to the mouth of the Mississippi and Manilla, at a place called Biloxi. Narrative of the voyage of M. D'Iberville for 100 leagues up the Mississippi. The Indians below the Mississippi call that river Malbauthia. The Indians know the Canadians, and one of them wore a dress of Poitou cloth that M. de Tonty had given him. They had a letter from M. de Tonty for the Sr. de la Salle which had been delivered to them 13 years before. M. D'Iberville before leaving for France, constructed a fort at Biloxi, and appointed M. de Sannolle, governor of the fort, M. de Bienville King's lieutenant, and the Sr. Levasseur, a Canadian major. The question is, are we to abandon that settlement, or develop it. Reasons for and against. It were well to discuss that matter with M. D'Iberville. Folio 11, 19 pages.
