JOURNAL of my campaign on the "Formidable," commanded by Monsieur Dubois de la Mothe, Lieutenant General in 1757.

We came to anchor to-day, Thursday April 21st 1757 at 4 P.M. with a W.N.W. wind, rather fresh. M. Dachée, in command of the Zodiaque and the Indian expedition, was anchored there, also the squadron of M. d'Aubigny, composed of the following vessels: Le duc de Bourgogne, M. d'Aubigny; Le Héros, M. Dechateloger; Le Glorieux, M. de Chavagnac; Le Dauphin Royal, M. Durtebie; Le Bizarre, M. de Montalis; Le Superbe, M. de Choiseul; Le Belliqueux, M. d'Orville; Le Célèbre, M. de la Jonquière; the frigates La Fleur-de-Lys, M. de Tourville; L'Hermione, M. Dubos. M. Dubois de la Mothe assumed no particular command on this squadron and only hoisted a simple pennant on his own vessel.

Friday, 29th

Tuesday, May 3rd.—Light wind E.N.E. We weighed anchor and heaved short at noon. M. Dubois de la Mothe flew a pennant of order and declared himself in command of the squadron of M. d'Aubigny; he signalled all the vessels and gave the necessary orders for the campaign; at one o'clock we all hoisted sail, there being very little wind; at 3.30, when abreast of Berthaume, we lay to and drew aboard our boats; at 5 o'clock the squadron composed of 9 ships of the line, 2 frigates, set sail; 2 merchantmen, one of which carries troops to Canada and the other goes to the fisheries at Newfoundland, asked permission to follow us. About half past six we saw 11 vessels to the N.W. They did not all seem to be following the same route, we took them for neutrals, many of them appearing to have only one mast.

Wednesday, 4

Monday, 20th June.—Weather calm until 4 o'clock when the wind freshened from the S.W.; steered S.E. and noticed Gunflint Island N.W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W. by the compass, and the Eastern extremity of Scatarry Island S.W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W. $2\frac{1}{2}$ leagues distant; we were carried south by currents during the night; at 7.30 o'clock, took the larboard tack; the two vessels of last evening were running on the starboard; they seemed to be large ones; the wind is fresher; we sail west; at 11 o'clock Portenove and Louisbourg were seen from the mast-head; we were making good speed; when we arrived about $\frac{1}{2}$ a league from the town we came around W. $\frac{1}{4}$ N.W. and then W.N.W. By 3 o'clock we anchored in the roadstead of Louisbourg near the entrance of the channel, the winds being too strong to allow us to go further in. As the sky was becoming overcast, the ships entered in a great hurry without accident. A fog came down suddenly and prevented Le Glorieux from getting in; it was not more than half a league off. We found in the roadstead the squadron of M. de Beaufremont coming from San Domingo composed of the following vessels: Le Tonnant, commanded by M. le chevalier de Beaufremont, commander of the squadron; Le Défenseur, Mr. de Blénac, Vice Admiral; Le Diadème, M. de Rosilly, captain; L'Eveillè, M. de Merville, captain; L'Inflexible, M. de St. Laurent de Sartres, captain; La Brune, a frigate, M. de la Prévalaye, captain. This squadron had arrived on the 31st of May; there were also 3 vessels from Toulon that had arrived yesterday, L'Hector, commanded by M. du Reveste, captain; L'Achille, M.

5-6 EDWARD VII., A. 1906

de Pamot, captain ; Le Sage, M. Dabon, captain ; Le Vaillant, commanded by M. de Saurim, captain, which formed part of that squadron, were separated from it just before its arrival ; it is likely that it was that ship we saw outside with the frigate L'Abénaqué, commanded by M. de Macarty, which had been sent to meet this vessel ; there was also in that harbour the frigate, La Comète, M. de Brugnon, captain ; the King's transport La Fortune and two merchant ships bound for Quebec. We had hoisted the flag of vice-admiral before entering, and when we cast anchor M. de Beaufremont hoisted that of lieutenant general. M. de Blénac and M. d'Aubigny hoisted their pennants ; we towed ourselves in three or four cable lengths to pass the night, and then moored across with two anchor cables.

Tuesday 21st.—We towed ourselves further in, and dropped the port anchor to the south west in a depth of ten fathoms ; bottom muddy, the great cable to N. E., in 10 fathoms, muddy bottom ; we have backed the anchor to S. W. The main cable was N. E., causing us to face the S. E. winds which are the most to be feared. All day long we had a very thick fog ; Le Glorieux was not far off, we often heard cannon shots ; took the bearing of the flag staff of the Royal Battery, north west ; the light house tower 4 degrees north, the parish church S. W.

Wednesday 22nd.—Winds from the S. W. fair enough. Le Glorieux anchored at 2.30 ; we were 17 ships, 2 frigates and one transport in the large harbour, it is true that we were in pretty close quarters ; La Comète was alone the only one at the careening place ; orders were given Le Sage and Le Belliqueux to enter.

Saturday 25th.—Le Vaillant and L'Abénaqué and L'Hermione came in the morning, so that now the number is complete if intended to serve under M. Dubois de la Mothe ; on all the vessels efforts were made to put the sick ashore and place them in houses outside the town, these being numerous enough for a considerable number of invalids.

Wednesday 29th.—La Comète left this morning with a wind 4 N. to cruise in the direction of Canceau.

Saturday July 2nd.—Le Bizarre, Le Célèbre, the transport La Fortune, and three merchant ships, left this morning with a N. W. wind, which afterwards shifted to S. W. to transport to Quebec the two battalions of the Berry Regiment which had arrived here on the squadron of M. Dubois de la Mothe.

Tuesday 5th.—S. W. wind, this afternoon there left here 4 vessels, 2 small privateers of 10 cannons, one vessel for France and one for St. Domingo.

Wednesday 6th.—One schooner left for France ; wind S. W. ; 2 Indians and one Acadian, who had been sent by M. de Beaufremont to Halifax to ascertain what was going on there, returned to-day with a young Englishman captured by them in the woods near the town. The Acadian, a man of good sense, reports that he saw in the harbour two 50 gun ships, one of them L'Arc-en-ciel, and also two frigates of 20 guns each ; the young Englishman seemed to speak strait forwardly, saying he wished to take service with us, and he declared that preparations were being made at Halifax for the siege of Louisbourg, that all the garrison were making fascines and gabions, that a convoy of 14 vessels had left a few days before, being, he says, King's ships, but they can only be small ones, to go to Boston and take 2,000 militiamen with General Loudon in command of all the troops in that region, and that they had a conference with Hopson who is in charge of the expedition ; he says they were daily expecting the arrival of the convoy from old England ; that a frigate which arrived recently reported having left it 150 leagues at sea ; that the convoy in question was composed of 14 men of war and 70 transports ; this deposition tallies with many things of which we already had an idea, which leads us to regard it as truthful. On the 1st July, as the Acadian and the 2 Indians were on their way back, and at a distance of 3 or 4 leagues from Halifax, they heard many reports of cannon ; salutes were being fired by way of rejoicing, from which they and also the prisoner, infer that it was on account of the arrival of the squadron.

Thursday 7th.—La Fleur-de-lys, left this morning to cruise around North Cape ; with her, left a small vessel which she is to escort to Port Dauphin ; the winds were changeable, from W. to S., saw a vessel during the afternoon ; it was not acting at all suspiciously and may have been one that did not know the coast.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 18

Sunday 10th.—La Favorite, from Granville, dropped anchor this morning in this roadstead, laden with 10 days, provisions for 8 vessels of the squadron; she had left Rochefort on the 20th of May with 2 other ships carrying supplies for the squadron, and 11 for Canada. There were on board that vessel some provisions for the colony. La Comète, returned this evening without having seen anything during her cruise, it was she that came in sight on the evening of the 7th, she spoke a dogger coming from France which was not able to enter with her. Wind S. W.

Monday 11th.—The dogger which was visible yesterday is at anchor this morning; she had left Rochefort on the 6th of April with 600 barrels of flour and other supplies for the colony; there were 3 vessels with similar cargoes, we have no news of the 2 others. Wind S. W.

Tuesday 12th.—We raised our two anchors to take a position more north; there would be two ships of us to fight the channel in case the English made their appearance; we anchored mooring across N. E., S. E. and S. W. 5 W; the first anchor in 10 fathoms, $\frac{1}{2}$ the second in 11; sand and mud; took the bearing of the light house tower, E $\frac{1}{4}$ S. E. 5 S.; the parish Church; S. W. and 2 S.; wind S. W. A vessel left for La Rochelle; saw a ship this evening, manoeuvring as if trying to reconnoitre the land.

Wednesday 13th.—At 8.30 Le Phaéton, from La Rochelle anchored in the roadstead; she had left Rochefort with La Favorite the 20th May, with 19 days' supplies for 8 vessels, and provisions for the colony; it was she we saw last evening; wind S. W.

Friday 15th.—La Fleur-de-lys returned this morning; she saw nothing during her cruise; winds were S. W. all day. Saw a laden vessel at sunset.

Saturday 16th.—Wind continues S. W.; news received from Port Toulouse that on the 14th, 14 vessels came in sight which hugged the shore as closely as possible, probably a section of the fleet of Holbourne; they were judged to be men of war.

Wednesday 20th.—Five French prisoners who had escaped from Plaisance arrived here; they told us there was a 40 gun frigate in harbour there and very few people in the place; a vessel had arrived there from England recently and reported having sailed most of the way in company with Holbourne's fleet, which, he said, is composed of 17 men of war, 2 fire-ships and 2 galiots, making for Halifax, and destined later to attack Louisbourg; we are advised from Ste Anne's Bay that a vessel from St. Malo with a cargo of supplies, had put into port, and that it was blockaded there by 2 small privateers. Wind S. W. Weather very foggy.

Friday 22nd.—Wind still from S. W. By noon the weather cleared; the fog had lasted from the 16th, making it impossible to see half a league away, even when it was lightest, and these comparatively clear spells never lasted more than 24 or 30 hours. La Brume and La Comète are setting sail to look for the vessel blockaded at Ste Anne. A ship was seen out at sea steering for here; I think she was afraid of the frigates; she anchored near La Baleine. News came from Port Toulouse that a deserter from Halifax had arrived there who reported that up to the 4th of July, Holbourne's squadron had not yet come in.

Sunday 24th. Wind S.W. A ship arrived from St. Jean bringing oxen; she also brought back the Halifax deserter; he had escaped on the 23rd June and not the 4th July; he told us nothing more than had the prisoner taken by the Indians.

Thursday 28th.—Wind from the S.W. ever since the 24th and a great deal of fog. At day-break the weather cleared and the wind shifted to the north. La Brume and La Comète with the St. Malo ship which they went to look after at Ste Anne anchored this morning; a Bordeaux vessel which had been seen on the 22nd and which had afterwards anchored at La Baleine also came in; in the afternoon the wind shifted again to S.W.; since our arrival here we have not had any other wind three times for 24 hours together. Noticed a vessel out at sea shaping her course towards the entrance.

Friday 29th. A vessel from La Rochelle came in this morning with supplies and recruits for the colony. Wind S.W. the whole day.

Wednesday, 3rd August.—A band of ten or twelve Indians arrived to-day from the vicinity of Halifax; on the 27th of last month they attacked some men outside of Fort Laurens; this fort is 4 leagues from Halifax, at the inner end of the Bay, they made 4 prisoners, killed one and brought us 3. These three men could not say anything positive concerning the designs of the English ; they were New England militiamen and had only arrived a short time before ; they said that a good many ships of Holbourne's fleet were not yet in port, that the fleet comprised 17 men of war, that there were two in the harbour that did not belong to the fleet, which agrees with the information received by us from several quarters. These prisoners allege that the fleet can land more than 15,000 landing troops ; two of them said that efforts were being made to prepare for coming here this year, the other stated that the siege had been postponed till next year. Wind S.W. without change since the 29th.

Friday 5th.—Yesterday the wind was S.W. ; the whole of to-day it has been N.N.W. and N.W. and pretty fresh ; in the evening it fell off and afterwards went round again to the South ; this afternoon a snow came into port from Quebec in ballast ; it saw Le Bizarre and all its convoy at Isle aux Coudres where it had been at anchor since the 23rd July ; this snow met nothing except two trading ships entering the St. Lawrence.

Saturday 6th.—Wind W. S.W., pretty fresh. The schooner on guard at the channel was lost on Pointeau Fanal by not coming round. This afternoon the wind fell off and went round to the N.W.

Sunday 7th.—Wind variable all morning ; by 10.30 it was blowing pretty fresh from the S.W. ; Gauthier, the Acadian, and 4 Indians arrived this afternoon from Halifax (the Acadian is the one who brought us the prisoner on the 6th of last month) and a Dutchman captured by him $\frac{3}{4}$ of a league from Halifax, trying to escape in a small boat. The Dutchman told us that the English were working hard to prepare their army for coming here, that the expedition was composed of 14 men of war, 6 frigates, two galiots carrying bombs and 16,000 landing troops. The Dutchman was lately at Halifax having come from Antigua, from which place 3 English men of war had arrived to increase the fleet. Gauthier told us the same things about the English forces ; he saw the squadron during several days, but the precautions of the English were such that he had no chance to make a prisoner ; it was on the 22nd July that he met the Dutchman who followed him with pleasure. Gauthier reports that he saw a three-decker and that they were dismasting L'Arc-en-ciel ; he spent a night near a guard in the bush, whom he heard talking a great deal about the siege of Louisbourg ; a battalion of 600 men in 12 companies has been formed from the marines together with a corps of 230 volunteers, in 4 companies, taken from the assistant pilots and pilots' apprentices ; they were landed at Rochefort Point for inspection ; this troop, under two post-captains, will defend the landing of the three creeks at Gautier and of the Grand Laurenbec, which M. Dubois de la Mothe has caused to be entrenched and furnished with two pieces of ordnance at each landing. A merchant ship left for St. Domingo.

Tuesday 9th.—The wind yesterday and to-day was S.W. ; this afternoon two Acadians and two Frenchmen arrived, who had escaped from Halifax on the of last month. They reported that the English were embarking troops and making all preparations to come here ; they said that they have from 15 to 16,000 landing troops, and that they have only 16 ships, one of which cannot come because she has been dismantled, 5 frigates, two galiots and two fire-ships. The 4 men told us that the crews on their vessels were small and that a good deal of bad feeling prevailed amongst the soldiers and seamen. The officers are trying to make them believe that the expedition will not last fifteen days. Many desertions, he says, are taking place ; the English flagship is a three-decker ; they have 5 ships of 74 guns each ; the rest carry 64 and 60. Our soldiers and the volunteers went this morning to camp at their destination.

Monday 15th.—A boat left here for Brest on the 11th. The wind was S.W. from the 9th until last evening, when it changed during the night and blew pretty free from N.E. In the evening it shifted E. S. E., and at 10 o'clock to S.W. A prize was brought in, one of 110 tons made by a privateer of this place ; and an English soldier arrived here who had deserted from Halifax about 3 weeks ago ; he told us just what we had learnt before ; the troops, he said, were to embark the day after his departure.

Wednesday 17th.—The wind has continued S.W. these two last days. An English prize, with a cargo of cod, taken by a privateer from Louisbourg on the Great Bank, was brought in yesterday ; to-day one of the privateers that sailed on the 5th July dropped anchor in this roadstead ; during its cruise it made three prizes of which two are not yet in.

Friday 19th.—The wind continues S.W. and quite fresh. About 2 p.m. couriers arrived from the southern part of the Island to give us notice that many vessels had been seen along the coast ; one hour later from the mastheads several were discovered sailing to the E. and N.E. By 6.30 we counted 20 of them ; they were manœuvring to keep to the windward of Gabarus.

Saturday 20th.—Wind S.W. pretty stiff. At day-break we saw the English squadron running before the wind. At about 8 o'clock, the leading vessels lay to, a little to the windward of Rochefort Point ; the whole of the squadron assembled and lay to ; it looked to me as composed of 15 large vessels, one of which had three decks and several of 70 guns ; only two seemed to be small vessels of 60 guns ; there were also 4 frigates, one of two tiers of guns, and the 3 others carrying 20 to 30 cannon, also a dogger that might be a bomb-ketch, making 20 in all. The flag-ship carried a blue flag at the mizzen, another one carried a blue flag at the fore, and a third one had a kind of red broad pennant at the main mast. They were not more than a league and a half from the land. At about 9.30 the sky having become cloudy with the likelihood of fog, they set sail to the S.E. and appeared to form three columns ; soon after the fog hid them from us ; the fog continued all the day, in the evening we heard several reports of cannon.

Monday 22nd.—The wind was variable all day yesterday with continual and heavy fog ; towards the evening the wind shifted N.W. and blew pretty strong from that quarter ; this morning it went round to the N. and N.E. and in the evening to the East. In the afternoon a prize from Jamaica was brought in, made by one of the privateers of Louisbourg, who knew nothing about the proximity of the English ; he said that it was he who fired the guns which we heard from the roads last evening.

Saturday 27th.—On the 23rd, 24th, 25th the wind kept shifting from W.N.W. to N. ; fine weather ; yesterday the wind went N.E. In the morning two English prizes came in, that had been tacking for several days, one laden with tobacco, the other with grain bound from Philadelphia to England. Both were captured by the privateers from here ; the wind has been N.E. and E.N.E. the whole day, pretty fresh with fog. The troops and pilots' apprentices who were encamped at Gautier Creek, re-embarked to-day.

Wednesday 31st.—Wind changeable since the 27th, W.N.W. to N. fairly fresh, without fog. On the 29th a privateer left to go to the gulf to ascertain whether any vessel had passed in. A ship arrived from Canada on the 30th, bringing news of the reduction of Fort George, and to-day the privateer sent to reconnoitre came back ; it had spoken the vessel from Canada which arrived yesterday ; it reported that it had seen nothing in the gulf and the St. Lawrence but French merchant ships.

Sunday, 4th September.—On the 1st, the wind was S.W. on the 2nd and 3rd, N.W. and N., quite fresh. To-day it has been N. and N.E., with much rain. This evening a prize was brought in, made by one of the Louisbourg privateers ; it had a cargo of tobacco from Virginia.

Thursday 8th.—Wind W. N. W. At 5 o'clock this evening two privateers put out. On the 6th the wind changed and by the evening was S.W. A Louisbourg privateer that had left on the 2nd of July returned to-day ; it was chased off Canceaux by a brigantine ; a fishing schooner taken by the privateer came in yesterday. To-day the wind has been from N. to N.E. On the 6th and 7th we saw a schooner which we suspect to be a scout, she appeared to change her track at the entrance, keeping the wind and went away after making observations.

Monday 12th.—On the 9th the wind was from N. to N.E. Very fine weather ; on the 10th it was S.W., also very fine ; on the 11th N.E., in the morning, during the afternoon E.S.E. ; in the evening there was a dead calm, to-day the same ; at 2.30 we had a light breeze La Brume and La Comète set out to escort 5 schooners or bateaux laden with supplies to Ile St. Jean.

Thursday 15th.—On the 13th the wind was S.W. and S.S.W. the whole day. We saw the two frigates during the afternoon. Strong wind during the night. On the 14th wind S. W. ; every day pretty fresh. Our frigates came as far as the entrance conducting two of their schooners which had been damaged during the night. To-day the wind being N. E. and pretty fresh, the vessel sent by M. Dubois de la Mothe on the 5th of July to France arrived ; it had touched yesterday at Menadon from which place a number of packets were sent to our generals. This vessel arrived at Brest on the 22nd of July and left there on the 8th of August ; this afternoon a snow from La Rochelle came in with a cargo of supplies for the squadron ; five of them had left together on the 27th of June.

Friday 16th.—Wind S. W., very cold. At 11.30, we saw the English squadron coming from a southwesterly direction, wind abaft, one man of war and a frigate sailed along the coast at the distance of a cannon shot as far as the island. We fired 7 or 8 shots at them from different batteries ; these two ships put their helms hard to starboard ; the main body of the squadron sailing with the wind did not come nearer than two leagues or $2\frac{1}{2}$ leagues with the wind and then kept as close to the wind as they could ; we saw 23 or 24 of them including a schooner, but as the horizon was thick their forces could not be clearly distinguished.

Monday 19th.—On the 17th the wind was fresh from N. W. the 18th from N. W. to N. N. W. ; less wind to-day, but it blew pretty fresh from S. W. A small vessel came in carrying supplies for the squadron, it is one of the 5 which sailed on the 27th of June ; this vessel met 18 ships 8 leagues south from here, but could not make out their strength having only seen them from a great distance ; two detached themselves from the main body and gave chase as far as the entrance to the harbour.

Tuesday 20th.—Wind S. W. At sunset we saw the English squadron, but only from the mastheads ; from the land 22 were counted. They were to the S. W. more than 3 leagues distant ; they went off on the starboard tack.

Wednesday 21st.—Calm weather the whole day. During the evening a vessel was seen in the S.W., which we thought was trying to come in.

Thursday 22nd.—Wind from E. to E.S.E., light during the day ; last evening the Acadian, Gautier, and 4 Indians who had left on the 1st of the month for Halifax, returned. Gautier reports that only one man of war remains in the harbour, dismasted of its foremast and far fewer transports than before, when he and his Indians were there, which was shortly after the arrival of the fleet. He said he saw a great number of troops encamped outside the town and observed from the heights surrounding the place that they were building barracks inside the town which would accommodate a large body of troops. The object of the party was to capture prisoners, but they did not succeed in doing so ; they only killed two men whom they scalped. Saw to-day the vessel, noticed yesterday, in the neighbourhood of Gabarus, she made a long tack to the N.E., which caused us to believe she was trying to come in.

Friday 23rd.—Wind from E.S.E. to S.E., pretty fresh with heavy sea ; weather very cloudy. The vessel noticed during the last few days was seen again, we recognized her positively this morning as an English ship of 60 or 70 guns ; she made a stretch to N.E., under a considerable spread of canvas, notwithstanding that it was blowing hard ; not being able to double Scatary on that tack she went about. This vessel was in a bad position if the wind had increased ; its manoeuvres during the last 3 days make me think that they had landed somebody whom they wished to take on board again, she would not have risked running so close in shore without urgent reason. This evening they lowered the top-masts and dropped the sheet anchor.

Saturday 24th.—The wind continued E., during the day, strong wind and very heavy sea. Weather very cloudy ; in the evening the wind increased in violence.

Sunday the 25th.—Wind was blowing very hard from E. to E. $\frac{1}{4}$ E., and constantly increasing. By 3 o'clock it was furious with an awful sea. Le Dauphin Royal dragged anchor and struck Le Tonnant which in trying to get away came very close to us, and forced us to pay out the cable of our own anchor to the north-east. Le Tonnant had her bow-sprit carried away by the stern of Le Dauphin. The two vessels were then lashed together, side by side, and so they remained 6 or 7 hours drifting from time to time and obliging us to pay out the cable of our N.E. anchor. We sustained the brunt of the blast, the anchor being of no use. We approached very near the coast having come to the blade of the S.W. anchor, which with a small cable anchor to the S.E. were the only ones that held. We had only 29 feet of water; about 11 o'clock one of the cables of Le Tonnant broke, and she got separated from Le Dauphin; we saw her drifting away to the shoal where she grounded; they cut away her mizen-mast; the wind blew from 3 o'clock until 11 o'clock almost without cessation and with equal violence from E. to E.S.E.; during a squall it shifted to the S.E. and went round finally to S.W. not long after, which saved our 3 vessels. Le Tonnant which only touched lightly once or twice managed to get off; soon after the wind abated and the sea became less heavy; at 2.30 some boats came along and we set to work to get away from where we were; boats were sent those most in need of them; of the 5 vessels that were opposite the entrance none remained; 3 of us had been in the greatest danger; L'Hector and Le Héros had been in equal straits; the first one grounded several times, and the second had lost two cables; in a word the wind was so violent that if it had lasted two hours longer, perhaps not one of the King's vessels would have been saved; seven of them were in evident danger; L'Abénacqui went aground on a shoal through the snapping of a cable. All the merchant ships and schooners with one or two exceptions, went ashore. The oldest inhabitants have no recollections of so furious a wind or of one of equal duration, coming moreover from a direction which produced a frightful sea. Some men belonging to merchant ships were drowned. Our ships of war lost a few men drowned from the boats that were driven ashore. Le Tonnant suffered much through grounding; she has a leak near her stern post through which she takes more than 20 inches of water per hour. It is hoped that L'Abénacqui can be saved. The wind blew from S.W. all the afternoon and in the evening pretty fresh, but there was no sea. We have secured ourselves as well as we can for the night. Boats are missing from most of the vessels.

Monday 26th.—The wind has been S.W. to W.S.W., but very light. All the vessels were busy making themselves fast again; there was not one of them that had kept its place. Many had lost their cables by snapping or fraying; the operation of making these vessels secure took a long time.

Tuesday, 27th. Hardly any wind this morning, and it shifted all round the compass during the afternoon; it settled W.S.W. and nearly died down. Le Tonnant has been sent to the careening place for repairs; an attempt was also made, but unsuccessfully as yet, to float L'Abénacqui. Le Superbe is gone to the careening place, not on account of damage but for greater safety.

A vessel arrived this morning from Port Toulouse and reported that yesterday they saw two vessels dismasted. This afternoon a boat from Canceau reports having found a vessel with two tiers of guns aground at St. Esprit, and that they recognized her as English; they went near to offer help but seeing it was not French they did not care to expose their boat to the risk of capture or of being sunk by taking too many people on board. The prow of the vessel was all that could be seen, on it there were more than 100 men, they saw a good many who had escaped to the shore. 150 soldiers were despatched from Louisbourg to take them prisoners.

Wednesday 28th.—Wind S.W. all day pretty fresh. This morning a boat arrived from the vicinity of St. Esprit having on board the 1st lieutenant of the man of war, the Tilbury 58 guns, lost on that coast on Sunday. He came to ask for help for about 200 men who had escaped from the wreck; the prisoner and the men who brought him here testify that they saw some other wrecked vessels and many dismasted; a Council was held this afternoon to decide whether we should go in search of the disabled vessels, which the winds we have had cannot have carried far from land; the hope of saving Le Tonnant by giving it all the assistance the squadron can afford, prevailed; and only La Fleur-de-lys was ordered to set out for Canceaux.

Thursday 29th.—No wind this morning; this afternoon it freshened up a little from W. N. W. La Fleur-de-lys got under sail. Le Superbe is through careening.

Friday 30th.—Wind all day W. N. W. just a light breeze. La Fleur-de-lys is anchored this morning outside the roadstead; she captured yesterday, abreast of the Guion Islands, an English snow the Prince of Wales, 14 guns belonging to the King, and commanded by a man carrying the King's commission. This vessel took La Fleur- de-lys for an English vessel and went within range ; we judge, that she was detailed from Halifax to carry dispatches to Holbourne ; she had been gone only 30 hours, the captain says he was on his way to protect the fishing on the Great Bank, he did not fire a single shot before surrendering ; he says he met nothing on his way.

Saturday 1st October.—La Fleur-de-lys and her prize came in this morning ; to-day we had a Council of War to decide what to do with Le Tonnant, and it was agreed unanimously to keel her over upon two merchant ships that have been impressed for the purpose, and to leave her crew ; also to leave L'Abénacqui here as we are assured that she will float at the first high tide ; the Council also fixed the departure of the squadron for the 8th instant. The wind varied every day from W. N. W. to S. W. Two merchant ships left for St. Domingo ; along the south coast the debris of vessels have been found, from which it is believed that two others have been lost.

Sunday 2nd.—Wind has been variable from S.W., to W., gentle breezes.

Monday 3rd.—It has been almost calm all day, any little freshness came from S.W. There was continuous and very thick fog.

Tuesday 4th.—Gentle wind from S.W. ; fog very thick until 4.30 p.m. when the weather cleared a little. We saw a small vessel to S.W. pretty close, but owing to the fog it could not be recognized. The fog these two days has been exceptional ; it is not usual, after June and July, to see it so dense and of such duration. We have only had it once or twice since then, after having had it almost continually during those two months.

Wednesday 5th.—Gentle breezes from S.W. and S. S.W., fog in the morning ; by 10 o'clock the weather cleared ; we discovered La Brume and La Comète. These two frigates anchored in the roadstead at noon ; they come from Ile St. Jean nothing interesting happened to them since they left here. They felt the gale of the 24th September, but it does not seem to have been so severe with them as with us ; an extraordinary thing in connection with that gale is that it was not felt at Port Dauphin, only 12 or 15 leagues from Louisbourg ; the vessel seen yesterday did not come to the entrance during the day, from which we infer that she was English ; during the evening a small vessel was seen at the Guion Islands which might be the same, it must therefore be a scout in search of the squadron. Yesterday and to-day there arrived a number of prisoners from the Tilbury ; 280 men in all were saved ; debris are being found continually on the coast ; according to the information we possess 3 large vessels and one frigate are lost between St. Esprit and here. The English officers say that on Saturday evening they numbered 8 vessels all assembled at the Cape : it is difficult to believe that the greater part of them were not lost.

Thursday 6th.—Light breeze from S.W., weather clear. This afternoon one of the privateers of the town arrived. She had with it a prize from Boston ; she had also captured 2 other vessels, one loaded with supplies, and met on Tuesday the 4th, a coaster going from Mirligueche to Halifax ; she put a prize crew on board in sight of seven men of war and two frigates then entering the port. The privateer declares that the vessels which she saw are much shattered ; two were seen without top masts, one with the main mast badly disabled ; the privateer was chased by the frigates, but only for a short time.

Friday 7th.—Wind S.W. ; in the morning almost a calm, but a good breeze in the afternoon, weather clear, a vessel seen in the evening ; blew from the N.W. during the night but in squalls and after that it came round to S.W. again.

Saturday 8th.—Wind S.W. clear, fine, all day. They tried this morning to lay Le Tonnant over on her side, the apparatus employed was not strong enough, it has to be made over again ; this evening a prize made by a Louisbourg privateer was brought in, one of about 90 tons taken with supplies ; she is not that of the privateer that returned on the 6th. This vessel was chased by a schooner up to Gabarus.

Sunday 9th.—The wind was S.W. in the morning, and went round to N.W. in the evening, then to N.E. ; fine weather.

Monday 10th.—Wind E. all the morning, a little fresh ; at 9 o'clock 3 vessels were seen, one N.E., one E. and one S.W. ; the first was L'Apollon laden with supplies for the squadron ; she had left Brest on the 1st September. The second a packet-boat from Quebec carrying prisoners to Halifax, the 3rd is, I think, a cruiser which we have seen several times. The weather was quite clear in the morning; by 2.30 the wind shifted S.W. and all at once a very thick fog came up. L'Apollon was forced to anchor in the channel. Le Tonnant was laid on her side this afternoon; it is calculated that the damage on one side will be repaired within 24 hours, and on the other in less time.

Tuesday 11th.—Wind S. W. nice, fresh breeze; continuation of thick fog; weather cleared somewhat at 11 o'clock. Two vessels were seen, one seemed to be trying to come in, the other is the cruiser that has been making her appearance lately. At 1.30 the fog returned as thick as ever.

Wednesday 12th.—Wind S. W. pretty fresh, thick fog almost all the time. In the morning, during a brief lifting of the fog a small English privateer of 6 guns, came in, which had been taken in the Gulf by Le Bizarre and Le Célèbre, who are to join us here. This little vessel is one of those we saw yesterday, she was chased by the other vessel.

Thursday 13th.—Wind variable all day, weather clear. This morning there came in a prize made by one of the Louisbourg privateers; she was carrying supplies, there also arrived, a packet-boat from Quebec for Halifax having a number of English on board. The one we saw last Monday left to-day.

Friday 14th.—Wind changeable from W.N.W. to N.W.W., very cold, rain, heavy squalls. Le Tonnant was put on her other side this morning and thoroughly repaired. By nightfall she was put on her keel again; the packet-boat left.

Saturday 15th.—Wind W. N. W. to N. W., steady and fresh, weather clear. La Fleur-de-lys left to cruise in the direction of Canceaux. Weather very cold and hard yesterday and to-day.

Sunday 16th.—Wind W. N. W., all morning, good fresh breeze; during the afternoon it fell off and went round to N. and afterwards died down in N. E.

Monday 17th.—Wind this morning quite fresh from E. then S. E. and stronger. It continued to increase until 3 o'clock when it became very strong with a very heavy sea. The top masts were lowered and we dropped the sheet anchor.

Tuesday 18th.—Wind continued with the same force until 2 o'clock in the morning, then after a squall it went round to S. W. and subsided a little; we felt it less being in a sheltered position, but the sea continued heavy and the vessel laboured a good deal. Hardly any wind all afternoon. La Fleur-de-lys returned this evening, she encountered the wind at a great distance from the land.

Wednesday 19th.—Wind all day W. S. W. and W. N. W. pretty fresh; fine weather; wind subsided in the evening. L'Abénacqui was laid over to-day on the pontoons of Le Tonnant and was entirely repaired and placed on her keel by the evening.

Thursday 20th.—Wind S. S. W. to S. W. nice, fresh breeze with fine weather. This morning a vessel arrived with 10 days' provisions for the squadron, the remainder of the cargo being for the garrison of the colony; she left Brest on the 19th September. There came in also this evening a small vessel from La Rochelle, loaded with supplies for the colony, she had sailed 7 months before, some accidents which she had sustained in the gulf having forced her to put into port twice on the Spanish coast, whence it took her 65 days to cross. At the beginning of the night an English boat laden with codfish came in as a prize of a Louisbourg privateer. At about 7 o'clock the wind greatly increased; we had a squall during the night.

Friday 21st.—A prize made by one of the Louisbourg privateers came in, a New-England craft.

Saturday 22.—Wind W. S. W. to W., fine weather. This morning there arrived 6 Indians with two Englishmen captured at Halifax, who informed us of the arrival in that port of 14 vessels of Holbourne's squadron, two of them without any masts. They had had information of the loss of the Tilbury and of another large vessel, but seemed to have no news of the rest of the squadron. The admiral nevertheless was spreading the report that 7 vessels were making for Europe; but it appears certain that he had no information regarding them; as the squadron on its first appearance on the 16th September and during the cruise was composed of 20 ships of the line and 6 frigates, 3 were still missing at Halifax ; two were said to be at Newfoundland ; one of the Louisbourg privateers anchored to-night in the roadstead, she met the gale of the 25th in latitude 37 and narrowly escaped destruction in the blasts of the wind.

Sunday 23.

Wednesday October 26.—The wind sprang up from E. to E. S. E., strong and fresh, it varied between those points until 4 o'clock when it went round to N. E. and fell off ; during the night it shifted S. W. with fine weather. One of the Louisbourg privateers came in this morning, having left not far from here an English prize of 200 tons loaded with military stores for Boston.

Thursday 27.

Sunday October 30.—Light wind from W. N.W., bright moonlight ; at 1.30 a.m. we received the signal to weigh anchor and the vessels nearest to the channel were ordered to go out ; about the same moment Le Tonnant which was trying to come from the inner end of the bay, went aground, at 6.30 she floated again. We waited until she was under sail before the signal was given to start ; by 11 o'clock she had her sails set and we set ours, at a distance of $\frac{2}{3}$ of a league we lay to, those remaining in the bay were L'Inflexible, Le Diadème and L'Eveillè, the latter ran aground while hoisting sail, the two others anchored in the channel for want of wind ; we saw L'Eveillè floating again and towing herself opposite the channel, the rest of the squadron was outside. L'Apollon fitted as an hospital and destined to follow us, was there also ; we put on board that vessel 212 sick persons so as to relieve the colony, of that number, which still left about 500, besides a very great number whom we embarked. The squadron lost 850 men during its sojourn notwithstanding that hospital supplies were not absolutely scarce ; they were, however, very dear ; the expenditure of the squadron for that item alone amounted to nearly 300,000 livres, the total being 438,000 livres. It is estimated that the repairs to Le Tonnant included in this cost were more than 80,000 livres.

Monday October 31.

Monday November 7.—Wind from S. S. W. to S. $\frac{1}{4}$ S. W., smart breeze and fine sea. At 6.30 we bore E. N. E. because the general wished to take his position in latitude 47 in order to look for the squadron which was to rendezvous on that parallel.

Tuesday 8.

Wednesday 9th.—At 8 o'clock saw 4 vessels taking the same route ; at 10 we lay to and waited for them. At 1 we went ahead under shortened sail ; the 4 vessels gave the signal of recognition they were Le Défenseur, Le Diadème, L'Eveillè and L'Inflexible.

Thursday 10th.

Sunday 13th.—Were sent to take off L'Apollon 17 Englishmen who attempted a revolt, (but without success) the crew being on their guard.

Sunday November 20th.—Saw a vessel without her main top mast, and sails furled on her fore-mast a little to the windward of us ; taking her for one of our frigates we made signals : The vessel spread all her sails and was carrying a white flag ; we saw it was a large vessel ; with the hope of catching up to her soon we decided to give chase ; but none of our ships was ready which gave the vessel time to get away. Le Diadème was the first ready and the fastest. She continued to pursue the English vessel ; at 1.30 Le Diadème got within range and opened fire on her ; several broadsides were exchanged until 3.15 when signals were made to give up the chase. That vessel looked like one of 70 guns. We lay to waiting for our vessels which were far away. L'Inflexible had lost her main mast.

Wednesday November 23rd.—At midnight found 75 fathoms, fine sand reddish ; at 7.15 75 fathoms reddish-yellow with small white shells. At 9 o'clock we bore S. E. We saw 3 vessels ; le Bellicieux stopped one which was near her which I think was English ; we lay to awaiting her and half an hour afterwards we started again, at 10 o'clock we took a course E. S. E. and made sail, lying to again in 68 fathoms grey sandy bottom, with small pointed shells, wind S. W. ; the route since yesterday at noon is S. E., 4 degrees south, 24 l. latt. ob. 48—16, 1 minute more north than long 6—50. I find I passed beyond Ouessant, at 1 o'clock ; we saw it E. $\frac{1}{4}$ N. E. of the compass at 5 leagues distance. We had made two leagues since noon which puts me in advance of the vessel 13 $\frac{1}{3}$ leagues.

Historical Journal containing all the most interesting occurrences during the expedition to the Island of St. Domingo and Canada in the year 1757, on board the King's ship L'Inflexible, being part of the squadron of M. le Chevalier De Beaufremont; rear-admiral.

I wish at this moment, monsieur, that my memory were retentive enough to make you acquainted with every detail, and this would be all the more satisfactory to me, as it is my desire to be exact.

I received orders to embark on the said ship on the 10th of December 1756, and sailed for Brest on January 20th, 1757, en route for the Islands of St. Domingo, for which we were first bound, and where we arrived on the 19th of March of said year. As it is my object to make you acquainted with everything which occurred during the voyage, I will begin by the mention of a slight alarm which happened the day we left Brest. Here are the facts: at one o'clock past midnight, a sailor came up in haste to the castle and cried out "Oh my God; we are sinking." This was enough surely to cause a panic amongst the crew, but nobody believed in anything so serious. On seeking to ascertain where the leak was, we were indeed much surprised to find everything afloat between decks, where there was more than thirty tons of water, which at once slackened the speed of our vessel, without yet knowing the cause; we made prompt diligence to remedy the evil as you may well imagine. It was found that it came through the hawse holes, the plugs of which had been forced in by the high sea. We immediately used our pumps and buckets, and were not long in taking advantage of the fair winds which had favored us so far and continued until the 2nd (day of February) when they veered to the S.W., where we encountered a hard gale, which towards evening swept away our two top sails and did not abate until the 8th. During this long period we were constantly lying to; the sea was very heavy, so that our ship was labouring hard at times; on the 8th the wind dropped and became favourable. On the 22nd we entered the tropics. M. Duvigneau, midshipman, died on the 26th, and on March 3rd we lost our captain, Monsieur De Tilly, whom we honored on the same day with the last rites, by eleven guns and three volleys of musketry. I regretted the latter inasmuch as he was an amiable man and used to treat me most friendly. The sad situation we were in, made us impatient to see the end of the voyage, considering that we had more than 130 poor sick fellows, who deserved compassion, as they lacked absolutely all refreshments. we cut off we even deprived ourselves during a few days of our soup in order to procure them some relief. To complete our distress most of our surgeons were disabled; we asked the General for the services of some others, and seeing our sad situation he authorised us immediately to take four surgeons from two ships of the squadron. That same day, the General had M. and Mde Bart at his table. M. Bart was going as General to St. Domingo, and during the evening Mde Bart was honored by eleven guns when leaving the ship. On the 16th, we noticed a vessel ahead of us, which we could not very well distinguish on account of the fog; one of our frigates made her out as a man-of-war, and gave chase, meantime signalling her intention; the general issued the order to the whole squadron to join in the chase. We recognised the vessel partly, because of her way of manœuvring, and there was every indication that she was commanded by a man of experience, and in this we made no mistake, because Captain Roddam commanding said vessel (by name Greenwich 50 mounted guns, but with embrasures for 60, with 350 crew) proved himself to be a skilful officer, and only surrendered at 8 o'clock in the evening, after having withstood the fire of several of our ships. M. Deschistierna, a Swedish officer on board Le Diadème was dangerously wounded in the thigh by a cannon ball, but happily the wound was not fatal. The presumption of the English, that all ships at sea must belong to their people, has contributed somewhat to the loss of the ship; it is singular that notwithstanding several examples of this kind which ought to open their eyes, they persist always in the same manner of thinking. We spent the 17th manning the prize, and distributing the prisoners on our ship; toward evening we continued our route; on the 18th we noticed a privateer in sight of the Cape (Haytien) and the general signalled our frigates to give chase; toward evening we lost sight of the vessel. The next day, the 19th, we anchored in the roadstead of the cape at 5 p. m. The same day M. and Mde Bart went ashore. Le Diadème commanded by M. de Rosilly gave them a salute of 17 guns and the Royal battery fired 21 guns. Upon landing, on the 21st of the said month, M. Bart was received with great pomp at the head of the troops, as commander general of St. Domingo. Indeed greater honour could not have been paid to the Creator. On the 23rd, we received news from our frigates, which we had left on the 18th, chasing the privateer. They had put into port at Port-de-Paix which is on the coast 12 leagues distant from the Cape. La Brume commanded by M. de Prévalaye overtook the privateer and engaged in a brisk fight. Captain Valentin in command, gained the name of a brave man, and only surrendered, when at the last extremity, not solely because he was dismasted, but after two-thirds of his crew had been killed or wounded. The night was very dark, and the sea so rough, that the frigate could not take more than fifty prisoners; they left aboard on the prize a pilot's apprentice with 20 men to navigate the vessel, as it was impossible to follow the frigate, the pilot received orders to put into Port-de-Paix, which was in sight, but they met at the entrance three privateers who captured the vessel. On the 24th Le Sauvage, a frigate, broke her bowsprit, her foremast and main gallant sail, and La Brume, seeing this accident remained to assist her; this obliged them to put into Port-de-Paix, the one vessel to rig out, and the other to repair the damage caused by the fight.

Being informed that there were near 400 prisoners at Jamaica, our general sent, on the 24th, a flag of truce, to propose to the Governor of Jamaica an exchange, as we had more than 700 prisoners. From our situation we were anxious that our proposals should be accepted, although they may not have appeared to our advantage and were made only with a view to please the enemy. We therefore waited with impatience the return of the flag, but to no purpose, as will be seen later on. On the 26th M. de Sérigny second lieutenant commanding the schooner La Levrette sent to bring despatches to our general, had to sustain a fight against a privateer in sight of this Island, which obliged him to put into port at Port Dauphin, whence he came by land on the morning of the 27th to fulfil his mission. La Levrette being thus 14 leagues from here the general sent a frigate on the 28th to escort her, and the 29th they both entered this roadstead. On April 4th I received orders from the general to go on board the Greenwich and disarm her. I was engaged at this work, day and night, as the matter was pressing, having finished on the 17th, I handed all statements to the general. On the 4th we lost a midshipman named Juchereau, a lad of merit, very much regretted. On the 20th the general gave an entertainment on board his ship in honour of Mde Bart, to which all the ladies of the town were invited. The ball commenced at 9 p.m., and only terminated at 8 a.m. On the 22nd a Danish boat arrived from Jamaica, she had been stopped by the English ; she reported that the flag of truce sent by us, was on the eve of being confiscated and considered a fair prize, as they found in the hold three small cannons used for ballast ; this did not surprise us by any means, because they capture in these ports all that comes near them, without excepting any nation. Dutch, Spanish, Danish boats, all are welcome ; such is the real law of pirates ; no more pirates are seen since the English have usurped the trade. We heard often that they feared that we had some design on that Island, and in view of this, they had placed four large ships from their roadstead opposite the entrance. On the 24th the general ordered us, as well as the whole squadron, in this roadstead, (numbering 25 vessels) to get ready to leave at the first signal. On the 3rd of May calm weather prevented us from carrying out this plan, and we were obliged to defer our departure till the next day, the 4th, when we covered 40 leagues from the place of disemboguement, and as it was the intention of the general to escort the merchantmen to this spot and no further he gave the signal agreed upon with them on the evening of the 8th, in order that each could continue her route as desired ; it being of great consequence for us to reach our second destination. Our departure from the Cape caused much talk. During our sojourn there, the strict silence maintained by our general about his designs, gave rise to great speculation. The route we followed after the disemboguement was towards Ile Royale where we anchored, having exercised the utmost diligence, in order to arrive there before the enemy. During the voyage we burned two of their vessels. As we were aware of their design upon that colony we were much surprised in not finding it blockaded by the enemy, so as to intercept all the ships carrying supplies or ammunition. Our arrival created a feeling of ease, as we were awaited with anxiety. M. de Beauremont seeing the state of the fortifications ordered some detachments from every ship of his squadron to commence work most necessary. On the 11th L'Achille a ship of the squadron of M. Du Revest, arrived alone, being separated in the fog from others, which entered on the 19th ; the squadron of M. Dubois de la Motte arrived on the 20th. This general also expected to find before the place some forces to oppose his entrance and he was much surprised at the conduct of the enemy. The English nation, which had flattered itself to make a second exchange of Louisbourg for Port Mahon, had not acted in such a manner as to succeed this year, while on our side we may be gratified at the happy junction of our squadrons. Immediately after his arrival the general began his inspection of the fortifications of the place, with which he was not satisfied : his inspection went on all along the coast, on the south side as far as Gabarus, which is the locality where the enemy effected his landing in 1745, and on the north side as far as Laurenbec. Having found in these parts several points suitable for a landing, he immediately ordered detachments from all the ships, with officers, to work the intrenchments, and establish batteries at each point, and no work was stopped until everything was complete. He caused the fortifications to be repaired and increased as well in the interior as on the exterior of the place, where we increased the batteries and levelled a height which commands the grand cavalier of the Dauphin gate, one of the principal batteries of the town. Ile Royale, a place of much renown, required such an inspection in order to be put somewhat in a state of defence. Four companies of the troops of the colony, with a few pickets from the Artois, and the Bourgogne regiments, began to encamp early in June in several entrenchments ; but in the course of said month all the camps were increased. As the general said that the garrison was insufficient to guard all the points where the enemy could attempt a landing, he ordered a detachment from each ship with officers, to form a battalion of 900 men and 4 companies of volunteers of 50 each, taken from amongst the pilots' apprentices, and assistant pilots, fellows who were well disposed. When all arrangements were made he ordered all the troops detailed for this service to land to be inspected by himself. They came in good order, in two lines, and they re-embarked in the same manner, with instructions to keep themselves ready to march, which order they received on the 8th and 9th ; all the troops went to Anse à Gauthier, and Laurenbec which is only half a league distant, and where they pitched their camps ; the camp of the Indians, numbering 600, was at Gabarus. We were quite prepared to receive the enemy at all points. We could have wished that there had been no misunderstanding between General Holbourne and Loudon, and that they had executed their plan, of which we were well informed. Finally Holbourne whom we impatiently expected appeared before the town on the 19th of August, with his squadron composed of twenty-two ships, men of war, as well as frigates, and remained all night side by side, not quite certain whether the convoy followed them, as it did not show itself; all the troops turned out from the town and advanced towards Gabarus where they encamped. The next day, the 20th, there was no indication of any convoy. In the morning Holbourne advanced his squadron and came near enough to make a good reconnaissance, and after his examination went seaward, then made for Halifax, where he remained eight days shut up in his room without speaking to anyone, after which time he ordered all the captains to prepare to sail, each taking a picket of grenadiers on board, as his intention was to attack us if the occasion presented itself.

On the 24th, eve of the festival of St. Louis, the general ordered all the ships to dress and to discharge all their artillery in succession, to be followed by a continued musketry fire, which was performed accordingly. On the 26th, the ships were similarly dressed, and fired each 15 guns, the general firing first. On the 27th, the troops raised the camp and each detachment received orders to re-embark. On the 16th September, Holbourne reappeared before us, and at a certain distance sent a ship from the roadstead and a frigate to make observations, but a few discharges of cannon from the land upset their plans and they rejoined the fleet. The design of Holbourne was to cruise before the port in order to blockade it and intercept all the ships coming to the colony. We had been informed that the 15,000 land troops then at Halifax were to winter there, which I hardly believed, but we learned since that Loudon had taken part of them to Boston; that a large number were distributed throughout New England and a Highland Battalion alone remained at Halifax. A man named Gauthier, resident of Louisbourg, a sworn enemy of the English, did not neglect to tell us what was going on in their ports, although 60 leagues distant. Our general detailed him on several occasions to go there with some Indians, who never returned without bringing scalps and prisoners, secured even at the foot of the ramparts, and I must say that Gauthier received a well deserved reward from the general.

Since the 23rd, the winds in the E. and S.E. parts of the island, were constantly from the S.E. and were fresh enough, with much fog and rain to make us fear a storm, and so it began on the 24th in the afternoon, without much violence at the outset, but at one o'clock in the night it turned into a most terrible hurricane, there was not a single ship of our squadron that did not drift, although each had four anchors under her bows; by daybreak our situation was lamentable. During the night Le Dauphin Royal fired a cannon as signal of distress. In spite of our wish to assist them, we were absolutely unable to do so. The sea was so dreadful that it made us shudder. The cable of Le Dauphin Royal broke, she was instantly thrown on Le Tonnant where she broke her rudder, the whole of the gallery of the poop was destroyed, but these damages were inconsiderable compared with those sustained by Le Tonnant, whose bowsprit was broken, also the figure-head and cut-water; and she was thrown, while thus entangled, on the Royal battery, where she struck with violence. We were even surprised that she could resist the shock, the mizzen-mast was promptly cut away to lighten the stern which was the portion that was suffering most, they staved in the water casks and even 30 large barrels of wine to lighten her, and notwithstanding the rough weather they got her off again. The worst leak did not exceed 38 inches per hour when once things were arranged, which gave hope of saving the vessel. L'Hector, although it struck pretty hard, was fortunately none the worse. If at noon the wind had continued for another hour and not changed to the S. and S.W., nine or ten of our vessels, including that of our general, would have been in imminent danger of being driven ashore. It is impossible to imagine such a dreadful spectacle as that which met our eyes. The frigate La Bénacquise, the cable of which parted, was instantly thrown up on the beach, along with 25 merchantmen, several of them high and dry. More than 80 boats and skiffs of the squadron were tossed by the waves and smashed most of them on the shore, a number of the men on board them perishing. More than 50 schooners and boats met the same fate. By 3 p.m., the hurricane having greatly abated, I went in our boat to help our generals. Sailors, who have been more than 50 years afloat, say that they never saw the sea so awful. The ramparts of the town were thrown down, and the water inundated half of the town, a thing which had never been seen. The sea dashed with such tremendous force on the coast that it reached lakes two leagues inland. It may be said that Louis played a high stake and made six points, but that George, although supported by Holbourne, only scored three, as you will see further on.

During the afternoon of the 27th a boat arrived with a report that whilst passing St. Esprit they saw a large ship lying on the shore with the rear part sunk; they saw a number of people on the shore, and also many others on the prow. Upon this information we sent, next morning, 4 schooners with 60 grenadiers and 100 soldiers, who were forced back by contrary winds, and went by land. The same day a person of the locality brought in his boat Captain Thems second captain of the said ship who is on board with us, also two sailors. We learn that it was the Tilbury 60 guns, forming part of the Holbourne squadron. The Captain, and the commander of the grenadiers were drowned, as well as half the crew. Our troops had great difficulty in reaching the scene of the wreck, owing to the floods in many localities which the gale had caused the sea to submerge. We were anxious to give the shipwrecked prompt assistance, for fear of the fury of the Indians, who might possibly get there first. This they did but they behaved very well under the circumstances, their conduct surprising us. When a company of Savages, 150 strong, made their appearance, not one of the English, although half dead with hardship, expected to escape, but a chief came forward and reassured them, saying:—"Fear not, since the hurricane has brought you to shore we are coming to your relief, but if you had come to make war upon us, not one of you would be safe, and we would take all your scalps".

The Indians themselves went on board the ship to help the others get off. The living were not plundered at all, but as the dead arrived on the shore they searched them. As soon as the Captain came ashore he was taken before the General and questioned freely as to the wreck. We expected that this would prove futile because the English are ignorant of anything which is disadvantageous to them, nevertheless in that moment may be in the rush of joy as knowing that he was saved from such great danger, he said that since his ship was lost, he had great apprehension for part of his squadron, from that, questions were useless. Notwithstanding reports received from several persons certifying that masts and remains of vessels were found, I never thought that an exact account of their losses could be obtained except from France; the best news we could obtain was through the reports of five Indians who returned from Halifax on October 22nd. These Indians brought 5 scalps and two prisoners from the squadron. The Indians offered their captives to the General saying "Our Father, accept from us, some more fresh meat, and make use of it." The prisoners being questioned, said that the Tilbury with another ship that they could not name were lost: that 14 ships of Holbourne's squadron reached Halifax, but of these 3 or 4 were so damaged that it was found necessary to leave them there, and besides seven other ships dismantled were missing. Now, will it be a mistake to say that Holbourne is a daring man on the sea and Loudon on the land. With his determination to beat us the first loses the sight of dangers and sacrifices himself, while the second trained his troops at Halifax when the capitulation of Fort George was going on, you must acknowledge that the million they spent to lay siege to Louisbourg and for other undertakings through Canada, were a poor investment, and we must recognise that their projects have failed in this part of the country. The disaster of the 20th March last at Fort George has been a terrible blow; the burning of 300 boats, stores of victuals, and supplies of all kinds, 17 houses located near a fort, an hospital and a large store full of timber, a saw mill, and several houses making a kind of lower town near the fort, two galleys with 30 oars, and more than 300 cords of wood picked up for the heating of the Fort, all reduced to ashes. The loss was so much the more deplorable, that the provisions were stored to be used during the next campaign, also that they thus found themselves in the greatest embarrassment. On the 30th of August last, we learned from Quebec that the trench in front of Fort George was forced between the 4th and 5th of August during the night, and the besieged raised the white flag on the 9th at 6 o'clock A.M. As this is secret information, I will continue the story of the campaign.

5-6 EDWARD VII., A. 1906

On September 28th, the general sent M. de Tourville to inspect the coast and see if he could discover any debris of the Holbourne squadron ; in turning out he met a snow, which was bearing down on him with such confidence that he took it for a French vessel despite its flag. Their (the English) pretensions are so great that they believed the vessel to be of their own nationality. What will surprise you, perhaps, is the fact that this vessel carrying 16 guns, 12 swivel guns, 4 grenade mortars, a crew of 92 men, depatched to Halifax with despatches to Holbourne, surrendered at the first shot from M. de Tourville. Since the accident of Le Tonnant all hands on board are working day and night at the repairs in the hope of saving her. The general neglects nothing that may expedite the work, with a view of bringing her back to France, but in spite of the shortening of rations which he made throughout the fleet, the reserve of stores forced him to decide on leaving before the last moment, and he would do nothing else though the separation was very painful to him.

The happy arrival of L'Appollon however, two days before our intended departure, caused him much pleasure, and he determined to postpone leaving until the work was completed, a time we awaited with patience, being in a roadstead where we had no protection, and where the rough weather caused us several times to apprehend further disaster, but happily none came.

During the time we were waiting there came into port 3 boats and schooners, equipped by the merchants of Louisbourg as privateers, bringing 14 or 15 English vessels. On the 29th when we were all ready to sail, the wind became too strong and we had to defer it till the morrow, the 30th, when the weather was very fine until one o'clock in the afternoon, when we were becalmed.

The squadron started with the exception of L'Eveill   which grounded on a bank, where she remained some time, and then got off happily without accident.

Le Diad  me and our own ship had to anchor in the channel, as we found that the wind from the open sea opposed our leaving and at the same time threatened rough weather, we therefore returned to the head of the roadstead ; towards evening fog set in and the wind from the east south-east freshened with very heavy rain during the night. This gave rise to some anxiety concerning our fleet, which was off the coast. They were still in sight at midnight, and remained in the calm. Amongst them was Le D  fenseur, and as the currents drove her westwards, she anchored under Portenove, half a league off shore, but the roughness of the weather drove her thence and she had to cut her cable, hoist her sails, and enter the roadstead by 6 a.m. As commandant, I went on board at 7 a.m. to take orders. The wind veered to the east north-east quite fresh with snow in abundance. At noon Le Diad  me dragged her anchor, making signals of distress ; we sent her some assistance at once ; for a time it looked as if she would be wrecked on the reefs of the Islet, but happily she recovered herself in spite of the heavy wind which was blowing. The next day, the 1st of November, we sailed from the roadstead for France, at about 10.30 a.m., a long looked for departure, but it was not made without accident for we had nine men wounded by anchor cordage which broke, and we came near being thrown ashore. On the morning of the 9th we sighted a squadron of 13 ships slightly to leeward heading in the same direction as we were. We made towards them, and at noon were about one league and a half, as they answered our signals, we recognized them as some of our own nationality. We joined them, each one taking his own position in the line. On the evening of the 11th, we passed through a gale which became very violent during the night, so that we were obliged to shorten sail until next day, the 12th. About 3 p.m., the wind having calmed down, our general gave the signal to reform ; the sea was very rough and our ship laboured heavily. On the 19th at 10 p.m. a frightful hurricane arose as did the sea also, this obliged us to shorten sail on the mizzen-mast, which was instantly carried away. The following day at 5 a.m. the wind shifted from S.W. to W.N.W. in a frightful squall, but fortunately did not last long and eased the tempest. On the 24th whilst giving chase to an English ship we lost our main top-mast, and immediately set to work to replace it. Le Diad  me overtook the chase and attacked her, and for an hour and a half the fight was briskly maintained on both sides. Seeing that the chase led us towards the British

Channel, the general gave the signal for us to resume our formation, and we continued our course. The sad condition of the whole fleet made us long to reach France, more than half the crews were sick and the remainder worn out with fatigue, so that we could not manoeuvre.

On the 23rd before one p.m. we sighted Ushant, and at 9.15 we anchored in the roadstead at Brest. We lost during this voyage 5 officers, seven midshipmen, and 2,000 sailors, in addition to bringing back more than 2,400 sick. Such is the end of a sad cruise.

PREFACE

The "Genealogy of the Families of La Beauce" printed in this volume will enable the families of that vast district to trace their origin with a degree of certainty. It is the work of a worthy priest, Mesire Charles Beaumont, who devoted years of patient research to the accomplishment of this patriotic service to his country. M. Charles Beaumont was born at Charlesbourg on the 2nd November, 1820, issue of the marriage of Jacques Beaumont and Agathe Pageau. He was educated at Quebec and ordained priest on the 23rd of June, 1844, and became vicar of S^{te} Anne de Beaupré. In 1849 he was appointed curé of St. Féréol, in 1852 curé of S^t Etienne, in 1853 curé of S^t Hénédine, in 1862 curé of S^t Michel, and, towards the end of the same year, curé of S^t Joachim. He retired from the ministry and went to reside at Ange Gardien, where he died on the 2nd of September, 1889. He was buried at Charlesbourg, his native parish. We are indebted to the Rev. Edward Carrier, curé of St. Joseph, for permission to publish this volume.

St-François (Beauceville).—Les commencements de cette paroisse, l'une des plus anciennes de la Beauce, remontent à 1700, et probablement même avant cette date. Dès 1737 elle était déjà desservie comme mission d'abord par le R. P. François Carpentier, Récollet et dans la suite par d'autres missionnaires, dont sept religieux récollets. La paroisse de St-François comprenait dans l'origine toute la seigneurie de Rigaud-Vaudreuil, soit une étendue de 9 milles de front sur 12 de profondeur ; elle fut démembrée dans la suite pour former St-Victor de Tring (1871) et plus tard St-Benjamin. Son érection canonique date du 9 oct. 1835, et l'érection civile du 4 nov. 1850.

La première chapelle fut construite vers 1750 et subsista jusqu'en 1783 ; de 1783 à 1803, les offices eurent lieu dans une chapelle temporaire, qui fut démolie pour faire place à une autre également démolie en 1855 et remplacée par l'église actuelle.

St-Joseph :—La plus ancienne et la plus importante des paroisses de la Beauce. Son établissement remonte presque aux temps même du fondateur de Québec, car on trouve que des colons s'y étaient fixés des 1640 ; cependant sa première chapelle ne fut bâtie que près d'un siècle plus tard en 1737. Cette première construction fut remplacée par une nouvelle église construite en bois en 1764. Comme elle menaçait ruine elle fut démolie pour faire place à une autre en 1785 laquelle à son tour fut remplacée par l'église actuelle, magnifique édifice en pierre, construit en 1867.

Dès l'origine St-Joseph fut visité par les missionnaires, à des époques éloignées, jusqu'en 1738 lorsqu'une desserte régulière fut organisée.

La paroisse de St-Joseph possède un magnifique couvent dirigé par les Sœurs de la Charité.

St-Ludger—C'est vers 1880 qu'eurent lieu les premiers établissements dans cette région—qui faisait alors partie de la paroisse actuelle de St Samuel et du Domaine de la Couronne. Elle fut desservie comme mission d'abord en 1885 par M. le curé de St-Sébastien et ensuite par le curé de St-Samuel M. Garon. Il n'y a pas eu d'érection canonique mais par décret la mission fut établie le 19 sept. 1893. La construction de l'église remonte à 1901. Le presbytère actuel bâti en 1895, servit temporairement de chapelle.

Les archives de la paroisse sont :—

- 1° Les Registres des Baptêmes, des Décès et des Mariages.
Vol. I. depuis 1897 jusqu'à date.
- 2° Le Registre des Délibérations de la Fabrique.

Ste-Marie. Cette paroisse, une des plus grandes et des plus importantes de la Beauce a commencé à s'établir dès les premières années du XVIII^e siècle. Elle était déjà desservie comme mission en 1737 et eut son prêtre résident en 1767. Ste-Marie a été la paroisse-mère de plusieurs autres; de là l'importance qu'il convient de donner à ses registres et aux autres documents précieux qui y sont conservés. Son érection canonique date de 1770 et sa première église paroissiale fut bâtie en 1780. D'autres églises l'ont remplacé dans la suite. Une construite en 1857, et bénite en 1859, c'est l'église actuelle.

Une chapelle dédiée à Ste-Anne, y a été bâtie par la famille de feu Son Éminence le Cardinal Taschereau, comme ex voto, c'est un lieu de pèlerinage, le jour de la fête de la Bonne Ste-Anne.
