DID YOU KNOW?

- Canada's total trade (imports plus exports) of goods and services with G7 countries was over $1 trillion in 2017, representing more than three quarters of Canada's total trade with the world.
- In 2017, Canada had direct investment worth $633 billion in the other G7 economies, exceeding the direct investment of $508 billion held by other G7 countries in Canada.
- Excluding the United States, in 2017 Germany was the G7 country from which the highest number of Canadians enterprises imported, and the United Kingdom was the G7 country to which the highest number of Canadian enterprises exported.
- Among the G7 countries, Canada has a travel services deficit with the UK, US, France and Italy, meaning that Canadians are spending more on their trips to these destinations than the residents of these countries are spending on their trips to Canada. Canada has a travel services surplus with Germany and Japan.
