LEAD, 1927.

Finally revised statistics on the production of lead in Canada in 1927, as reported by the Mining, Metallurgical and Chemical Branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, show that a new record in quantity was established when the total recovery amounted to 311,423,161 pounds worth $16,477,139 as against 283,801,265 pounds valued at $19,240,661 in 1926.

The greater part of Canada's production was from the Trail smelter which received a large proportion of its lead ores from the Sullivan mine at Kimberley, B.C., but which also purchased silver-lead ores from the Kootenay district. The remainder of Canada's production comprised pig lead produced at Galetta, Ontario, lead from lead ores and concentrates shipped from the Mayo district of the Yukon Territory and from the Tetreault mine in Quebec.
