Full investigation of reporting procedure for "in transit" stocks made necessary this correction to the March 1 report. A large shipment of imported butter arrived at Halifax just prior to the end of February and reached Eastern and Central Canada destinations at month end. In the interpretation of their reporting instructions railway companies did not report carloads spotted for unloading in railway yards. Since, in many cases, actual delivery to warehouses had not been made, these firms also did not report the butter as stocks on hand.
