Minister's message

On behalf of the Canadian Grain Commission, I am pleased to present the 2017 to 2018 Report on Fees.

On June 22, 2017, the Service Fees Actⁱⁱ received royal assent, thereby repealing the User Fees Actⁱⁱⁱ.

The Service Fees Act introduces a modern legislative framework that enables cost-effective delivery of services and, through enhanced reporting to Parliament, improved transparency and oversight. The act provides for:

- a streamlined approach to consultation and the approval of new or modified fees
- a requirement for services to have service standards and reporting against these standards, along with a policy to remit fees to fee payers when standards are not met
- an automatic annual fee adjustment by the Consumer Price Index (CPI) to ensure that fees keep pace with inflation
- annual detailed reporting to Parliament in order to increase transparency

This 2017 to 2018 Fees Report is the first report prepared by the Canadian Grain Commission under the Service Fees Act. The report includes new information such as a detailed listing of all fees along with future year fee amounts. Additional fee information will be included for even greater transparency starting in the next fiscal year, once the Canadian Grain Commission fully transitions to the requirements of the Service Fees Act.

I welcome the increased transparency and oversight that the Service Fees Act embodies, and I am pleased to oversee the transition to this modern framework.

The Honourable Marie-Claude Bibeau,
Privy Councillor, Member of Parliament,
Minister of Agriculture and Agri-Food

Chief Commissioner's message

As Chief Commissioner, I'm proud of the changes we have made to our grain forecasting model to ensure that our fees better reflect the cost of providing Canadian Grain Commission services and that they mitigate the risk of further accumulation of surplus funds. I invite you to read our 2017 to 2018 Fees Report to learn more about how we are transitioning to the modernized Service Fees Act.

Canadian Grain Commission fees are fixed in Schedule 1, Fees of the Commission in the Canada Grain Regulations. The Canadian Grain Commission is funded through a revolving fund, which is based on charging fees for our services, and appropriation.

In 2017-18, the Canadian Grain Commission consulted with stakeholders to update our fees and service standards to mitigate the risk of further accumulation of surplus funds and to better align fees with operational costs. Effective August 1, 2017, we updated our model for forecasting grain volumes to ensure that fees reflect the actual cost of providing services, following the 2017 User Fees Consultation and Pre-Proposal Notification^{iv}. We also reduced fees for official inspection and weighing services by 24 percent. The Canadian Grain Commission has committed to review its fees every five years. Reductions in August 2017 were implemented 8 months ahead of the end of the five-year review cycle and I am pleased to report that, in 2017-18, the fee reductions resulted in sector savings of $10.8 million.

On April 1, 2018, a new fee schedule and service standards took effect. Fees for many of our services are lower, while several other fees were combined or eliminated. The amended fees align revenues and costs, and factor in projected increases in grain volumes inspected and weighed by the Canadian Grain Commission. We expect that these changes will save the grain sector approximately $15.5 million per year going forward.

Starting in 2019-2020, the Canadian Grain Commission will adjust fees for inflation each year on April 1 in accordance with the new Service Fees Act. The adjustment will be based on the percentage change over 12 months in the April All-Items Consumer Price Index for Canada, for the previous fiscal year.

The Canadian Grain Commission is committed to clear and transparent reporting to Parliamentarians and Canadians through the Service Fees Act.

Patti Miller
Chief Commissioner
Canadian Grain Commission

General fees information

The tables that follow provide information on each category of the Canadian Grain Commission's fees, including:

- the name of the fee category
- the date that the fee (or fee category) was introduced and last amended (if applicable)
- service standards
- performance results against these standards
- financial information regarding total costs, total revenues and remissions

In addition to the information presented by fee category, there is a summary of the financial information for all fees as well as a listing of fees under the Canadian Grain Commission's authority. This listing includes the existing fee dollar amounts and the adjusted dollar fee amounts for a future year.
