The information contained in this directory is based on information provided by the companies listed and does not imply any government endorsement of a company's capabilities or the accuracy of their submission. It is intended that this directory be periodically updated and corrected where necessary.

It will be apparent that a number of companies that are active in the business are not listed herein. There are a number of reasons for this, not the least of which is that participation is voluntary; some of the companies who were surveyed simply declined to be listed. Relative to this, if any firms have been inadvertently omitted, please advise this office directly and we will attempt to ensure inclusion when a second edition is published.

We are most grateful to all who submitted data.

Ponderosa pine, spruce-pine-fir, western red cedar

Facilities and Services: dry kiln

Other: They have two dry kilns each holding about 25000 board feet. Capacity of a kiln charge approximates that of an overseas container. Both kilns are dehumidifiers. These are superior to conventional kilns thus particularly suitable for high value wood drying.
