The Department of Trade and Industry of the Commonwealth of Australia has published "Directory of Overseas Investment in Australian Manufacturing Industry 1971". This is of interest to Canadians because it gives information about manufacturing firms in Australia which have Canadian firms as their overseas associates, owning capital in them. It is also of interest as an example of how information on this subject can be presented.

The Directory gives information on firms engaged in manufacturing operations in Australia which have some proportion of their ordinary capital owned by firms or persons other than those resident in Australia. A complete list of such firms could not be compiled from public sources, but the coverage is considered to be "substantially complete". Over 900 Australian companies are listed, and in most cases their subsidiary companies are listed with them. Their assets amounted to about $A 11,000 million.

The extent of the Directory's cover is explained in the introduction, a copy of which is attached as Annex A.

For presentation, the firms are classified into twelve broad industry groups, which are based on the manufacturing division of the Australian Standard Industrial Classification.

The information presented consists of the following:-

- (a) full name and address of the Australian firm.
- (b) name and location of subsidiaries and associated enterprises in Australia of the Australian firm, where appropriate.
- (c) broad description of products made by the Australian firm, and by its subsidiary and associated companies.
- (d) total assets.
- (e) name and location of the overseas firm or person directly financially associated with the Australian firm.

- (f) percentage of the ordinary capital of the Australian firm held by the overseas associate.
- (g) date at which equity information was provided.
- (h) identification as a branch, if appropriate.

In most cases, the information was supplied by the Australian firms concerned. In other instances, it was obtained through search at the offices of the registrars of companies in the various States.

The methods used in compiling the information are outlined in the chapter "Notes on methods", a copy of which is attached as Annex B.

A specimen page of the information presented is attached as Annex C.

An index of overseas firms is included, which lists all of the overseas firms mentioned in the Directory. It is presented alphabetically under country headings. The name of the Australian associate is placed opposite that of the overseas firm. If the financial association is indirect, (that is through another Australian firm or overseas firm) there is an asterisk inserted against the name of the Australian firm.

Annex D consists of two pages which contain Canadian material from the index of overseas firms.

An index of the Australian firms concludes the publication. The first page of this index is reproduced as Annex E.

Introduction

This directory gives information on firms engaged in manufacturing operations in Australia which have some proportion of their ordinary capital owned by firms or persons other than those resident in Australia. If the overseas investment is solely of a portfolio nature by overseas firms or individuals it has been excluded. The directory updates information published in the first edition in 1966.

The date on which the information was obtained is included for each entry and generally falls in the latter part of 1970 and early 1971. Each firm is given its product range:

the value of its total assets; the name and address of the overseas associate(s); the proportion of the ordinary capital owned overseas; and a list of the firm's subsidiary and associated companies.

A complete list of all Australian firms which would qualify for inclusion in the directory is not available from any public source, and there will inevitably be some omissions, but it is considered that the coverage is substantially complete. There are over 900 Australian companies listed, in most cases together with their subsidiary companies. Assets of the Australian companies listed amount to approximately $A11,000 million. In broad industry groups, the number of firms covered and the assets represented are set out in Table I.

It is not possible from the entries in the directory to derive the percentage ownership by overseas interests of individual industries. Information of this nature has recently been published by the Commonwealth Statistician; see Table 2. The Office of Secondary Industry is grateful for the co-operation of the Australian firms which provided information for the directory. The assistance of various High Commissions and Embassies is also appreciated together with that of the Registrar of Companies Offices in the various States.

* In aggregating the assets of individual firms, some duplication has occurred, where an Australian subsidiary or associate company and the Australian firm owning an equity interest in the subsidiary or associate company have each qualified for separate entries in the directory. In such instances, the assets of the subsidiary or associate company would also be represented in the consolidated assets of the Australian firm which has a shareholding in it.

Asset figures are not available in certain entries for some branches and exempt proprietary companies, and consequently could not be included. The value of issued capital has been substituted for the value of total assets in some cases.

Notes on methods

The directory lists firms which engage directly in manufacturing in Australia or indirectly through subsidiary or associated companies, and which have some proportion of their ordinary capital owned by overseas companies, or persons non-resident in Australia.

The information shown in the directory was supplied in most instances by the Australian firms. In other instances it was obtained by search at the Registrar of Companies' Offices in the various States. The information contained in the Australian firm's entry is set out under various headings. These are discussed briefly below:—

Australian Firm: The full name and address of the Australian firm is shown in column 1. In a number of cases the overseas investment in Australian manufacturing firms is through Australian holding companies. In these cases the holding company was asked to provide the information.

Products: A very broad description of the products made by the Australian firm, its subsidiary and associated companies is provided in column 2.

Total Assets: The total assets of the Australian firm, from its last available balance sheet at the time of the survey, is shown in column 3. If a holding company published a consolidated balance sheet for itself and subsidiary companies, it was requested to provide the consolidated figure of total assets.

The total assets concept used in this directory relates to the total value of all the assets of the Australian firm, i.e., the sum of current assets, fixed assets (net of depreciation) and any other assets such as investments and intangible assets.

Overseas Associate: The name and location of the overseas firm or person directly financially associated with the Australian firm is shown in column 4. If the overseas associate was, in turn, owned by another overseas company, Australian firms were asked to provide the name of the ultimate overseas owner, and this has been shown where provided by firms. Where an overseas firm is indirectly financially associated with an Australian firm, either via an Australian holding company or an intermediary company, particulars of this indirect association have been shown.

Overseas Equity: The percentage of the ordinary capital of the Australian firm held by the overseas associate is shown in column 5. For purposes of this calculation nominal shareholdings by Australian directors have been excluded. Percentages are shown to the nearest whole number. In those instances where an overseas associate holds an indirect financial interest in the Australian firm, the word "Indirect" has been shown immediately below the percentage equity figure. It is important to note that forms of shareholding other than ordinary shares are not covered in this survey.

Date of Equity Information: The date shown relates to the equity information. In most cases the date shown is the date on which the information was provided by Australian firms; in other cases it is the date of the annual return searched at the Registrar of Companies' office in the State of incorporation of the company.

Subsidiary and Associated Companies: The name and location of subsidiaries and associated companies of the Australian firm are shown in the body of the firm's entry. The percentage of the ordinary capital held by the Australian firm in its subsidiary and associated companies is also shown in most cases. This information cannot be taken as a complete record of the company's subsidiaries. For some companies, because of the large number of subsidiaries involved, only the more important have been listed. Where the Australian firm was a branch of an overseas firm or an exempt proprietary company, some variation in treatment was necessary.

Branches: In these cases, the word "Branch" has been shown in the overseas equity column. Where the value of the total assets of the Australian branch was not provided for this directory, the remark "Not available" has been inserted in the total assets column, as this detail is not available from the Registrar of Companies.

Exempt Proprietary Companies: Where an Australian subsidiary of an overseas firm is regarded by the Registrar of Companies in the State of its incorporation as an exempt proprietary company, it is not required to lodge annually with the Registrar a copy of its balance sheet. Accordingly, where an exempt proprietary company did not provide a figure of total assets for the survey, this detail was not available from any public source. In these cases, the issued capital of the exempt proprietary company, which is available from the Registrar of Companies, has been obtained and shown in the remark "Issued capital — exempt proprietary company".

fication, prepared by the Commonwealth Bureau of Census and Statistics, is used as a basis for classifying companies into industry groups. It is anticipated that all statistics published by the Bureau, which are classified by industry, will be based on this classification.

The term "manufacturing" is used in the broad sense to relate to the physical or chemical transformation of materials or components into new products, whether the work is performed by power-driven machines or by hand. A minor qualification is that several companies engaged in marketing petroleum products, salt producing, tea blending and iron ore mining have been included in the directory.

Australian firms having overseas financial associates were requested to indicate their major manufacturing activity and have been classified into industry groups under the following twelve broad industry sub-divisions:

Food, Beverages and Tobacco

Textiles

Clothing and Footwear

Wood, Wood Products and Furniture

Paper and Paper Products, Printing and Publishing

Chemical, Petroleum and Coal Products

Glass, Clay and other Non-Metallic Mineral Products

Basic Metal Products

Fabricated Metal Products

Transport Equipment

Other Industrial Machinery and Equipment and Household Appliances

Leather, Rubber and Plastic Products and Manufacturing n.e.c.

While the classification of firms in the directory is comparable with that used by the Commonwealth Bureau of Census and Statistics, there are important differences. For example, some companies appearing in this directory may be classified by the Commonwealth Statistician in a non-manufacturing group because manufacturing may not be predominant in their total operation. Similarly, some firms produce a diversified range of products and could be classified in more than one industry sub-division.

Indexes: The names of all the overseas associates mentioned in this directory have been consolidated under their respective country headings in the index of overseas associates commencing on page 141. The index shows the name of the overseas associate and the name of the Australian firm with which it is financially associated. An index of all Australian firms listed in the directory begins on page 173.

Index of Australian firms

This index lists alphabetically all the Australian firms mentioned in the directory and which accordingly have all or part of their equity capital either directly owned by overseas associates or indirectly owned through Australian holding companies or intermediary companies.

Key to the Index: Australian firms have been treated in one of three ways in this index:

1. Where an Australian firm (say, A.B.C. Company Pty Ltd) has been given a separate entry in the directory because there is direct overseas investment in it, and the firm is not mentioned elsewhere in the directory in some other firm's entry, it has been indexed as follows:—

A.B.C. Company Pty Ltd page 20

2. Where an Australian firm (D.E.F. Pty Ltd) has been given a separate entry in the directory because there is direct overseas investment in it, and the firm is, in turn, mentioned again in the directory as being a subsidiary or an associate in another firm's prime entry (X.Y.Z. Ltd) it has been indexed as follows:—

D.E.F. Pty Ltd page 30

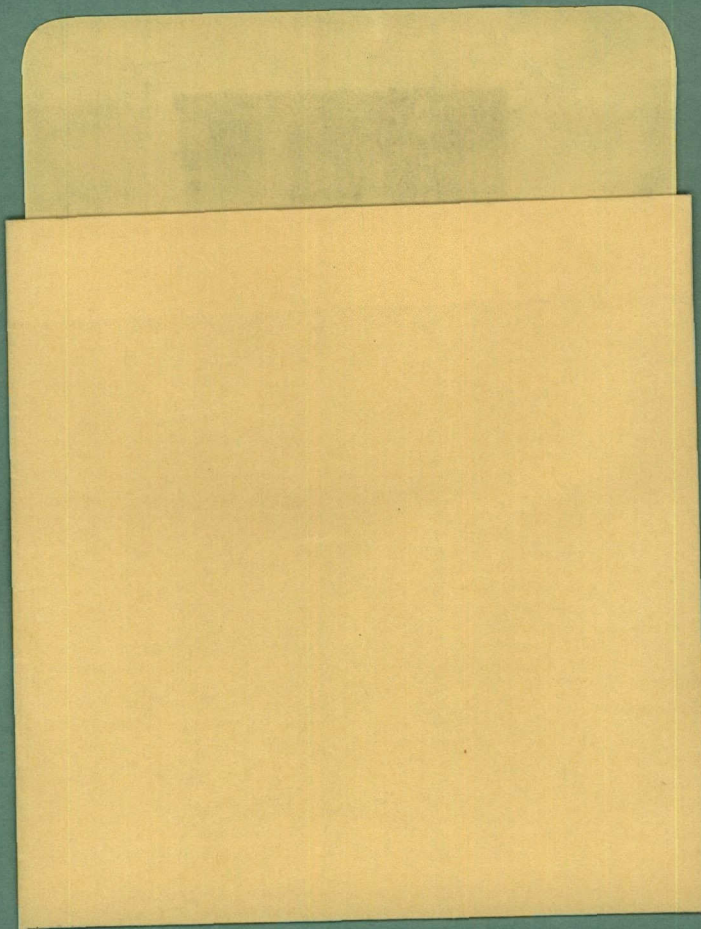

see also X.Y.Z. Ltd page 70

3. Where an Australian firm (M.E.M. Pty Ltd) is shown only as a subsidiary or as an associated company in the entry of a firm (T.R.S. Limited), in which there is direct overseas investment, it has been indexed as follows:—

M.E.M. Pty Ltd
