CANADIAN SUPPLIES OF PRODUCE IN COLD STORAGE, AUGUST 1st, 1918.

The Cost of Living Branch, Department of Labour, makes the following report to the Honourable T. W. Crothers, Minister of Labour, concerning goods in Cold Storage throughout the Dominion.

The statement for the total amount of food commodities in storage, August 1st, 1918, is made out for a somewhat different classification of commodities than formerly shown. This statement shows the total stocks physically on hand at the premises of all the storages reporting. This includes certain supplies of food owned by the British Ministry of Food and temporarily stored in Canada awaiting shipment. Unfortunately, for the sake of comparison with last year we do not have a complete record of all the stock on hand in all the storages in the Dominion on the first of August, 1917. We are, however, able to give a comparison between the quantities held in the premises of the largest companies this year, and the stocks owned by these same companies last year, which present the fairest possible comparison with conditions a year ago. By the month of December of this year we shall be in a position to give a complete comparison with the corresponding month of the preceding year. The comparison between July 1st and August 1st for this year is for the total stocks physically on hand in all the warehouses reporting, and is accordingly a stock comparison.

In the case of butter, we find a decidedly greater quantity on hand at the first of August than on the first day of July. This is natural in itself owing to the fact that this is the season of the year in which next winter's supplies are being laid by, but we also find that there are greater stocks on hand this August than August of last year. This surplus is already being forcibly driven into the hands of the allied buyers by action of the Canada Food Board since August 1st.

In the case of cheese, we also find somewhat more on hand at the first of August than the first of July, owing to this being the season of production, but we find that there is very much less on hand this August than there was the preceding August, the figures showing less than one-half this year of the stocks of last year. The shipments have been kept up closer this year than last by the allied buyers owing to the fact that freight conditions are better.

In the case of eggs, while the stocks have increased over last month, it is natural at this season of the year, all the comparative data at hand indicate fifteen per cent less on hand this year than at the same date last year, probably because consumption is greater and possibly because of the slight decrease in production.

In the case of pork, we are able so far to give a comparison only for all kinds of pork produce taken together. The data here show a slight decrease as compared with last month, and 26.76% less than at the corresponding date last year. As will be noticed, over 15,000,000 pounds of the quantity reported are still in the process of cure. The supply of hogs coming into the markets in Canada up to the present time, has not been so great this year as was anticipated.

The stocks of fowl on hand are so small as to be almost negligible.

The stocks of mutton and lamb show a very decided increase on last year. Since there is no export of mutton and lamb to the Allies, these stocks should be immediately available for domestic consumption.

In the case of fish, we have slightly less than a month ago, but still large holdings. The comparison with last year includes such a small proportion of our companies' storing fish that no deductions can be made therefrom.
