THE CONTROL AND SALE OF ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES IN CANADA

Historical Summary

The use of alcoholic beverages goes back to antiquity. The dedication of wine to special deities - the god Osiris of the Egyptians, Dionysus of the Greeks, Bacchus of the Romans - indicates its importance to these peoples. Ancient Babylonian records depict the brewing of beer from cereals and indicate its use as a household beverage. The distillation of liquids was known to the ancient Chinese, Hindus, and other Eastern peoples. Arrack, a strong spirit distilled from the fermented juice of the palm tree was made in India as early as 800 B.C.

Of ancient origin, too, are laws to regulate the use of alcoholic beverages. The Code of Hammurabi (c. 2100 B.C.) contains decrees regulating the activities of tavern keepers. Governments, from early times, have used the taxation of alcoholic beverages as a means of raising revenue. The social motive in control, too, has been strong. It has been sought to control the evils of intemperance in the interests of health and social welfare. These evils have varied greatly according to differences in climate, diet, economic conditions, habits, social customs and standards.

In general, the methods of legislative control of the liquor traffic have commonly comprised (a) licensing, the oldest and most widely adopted method; (b) prohibition, either total or limited, the latter usually associated with local option or veto; and (c) monopoly of sale, usually by the State which retains control of the wholesale or retail sale, or both, and takes the profits as public revenue.

The first legislative restriction regarding intoxicating liquor, in what is now the Dominion of Canada, concerned its sale to the Indians. The spirits given in exchange for furs produced such devastating effects upon the native population that restriction of the traffic became necessary. In New France, an "arret" of 1663 declared that, "since the foundation of the Colony, the sale of liquor had always been prohibited on account of the fury of these people when in a state of intoxication", and imposed penalties on those continuing the traffic.

In the English colonies, too, laws were enacted imposing heavy fines or imprisonment for selling or giving liquor to the Indians. Its sale to the white population was also restricted. The usual method of regulation was the issuing by the local authorities of licences to manufacture or sell alcoholic beverages with more or less strict conditions imposed, the non-observance of which resulted in cancellation of the licence.

In the middle of the nineteenth century, a considerable agitation for the total prohibition of the liquor traffic developed both in the United States and in the British North American provinces. This found expression in various enactments designed to lessen the evils of intemperance. In 1853, the Municipal Councils of Upper Canada were authorized to pass by-laws to regulate licences and to limit their number, or to prohibit the retail sale of liquor within the municipality. These provisions were modified from time to time and, in 1866, the various Acts were revised and consolidated. In 1855, the Municipal Councils of Lower Canada had conferred upon them powers of regulation of the traffic in liquor and prohibition of its sale. In 1856, the County Councils were authorized to pass such by-laws for the whole country; if they failed to do so by a stipulated time, the local councils might act. In 1860 and in 1866, amendments were passed extending the powers of the local councils. New Brunswick, in 1855, passed a law prohibiting the importation, manufacture, and traffic in intoxicating liquors. Provision was made for the annual appointment in each parish of an agent to import, buy, and sell liquors for medicinal, mechanical, or sacramental purposes. The provisions for the enforcement of this Act were so defective, however, that much friction resulted and it was repealed the following year. In 1864, the Dunkin Act, passed by the Legislature of the United Province of Canada, provided that any Municipal Council could prohibit the retail sale of intoxicating liquors in townships and smaller localities, if the majority of the electors within the municipality declared in favour of the law.

The distribution of legislative powers, as set forth in sections 91-95 of the British North America Act, 1867, left some doubt as to the respective jurisdictions of the Dominion and Provincial Governments in respect of liquor control. Control over the importation of liquor was generally conceded to belong to the Dominion. As to regulation of the sale of liquor, it was claimed that the provinces had jurisdiction because to them had been assigned "shop, saloon, tavern, auctioneer, and other licences in order to the raising of a revenue for provincial, local, and municipal purposes", (92-9); "municipal institutions in the province", (92-8); "property and civil rights in the province", (92-13); and, "generally, all matters of a merely local or private nature in the province", (92-16). On the other hand, it was argued that the licences were given to the provinces solely for the purpose of raising a revenue and that, apart from this, the Dominion had jurisdiction as part of "the regulation of trade and commerce", (91-2); or, as coming within the scope of "criminal law" (91-27); or, "of customs and excise", since, it was argued, the right to import and manufacture liquor implied the right to sell. Moreover, the Dominion had the right "to make laws for the peace, order and good government of Canada" in relation to all matters not coming within the classes of subjects assigned exclusively to the Legislatures of the Provinces.

The uncertainty as to the rights of the Dominion and Provincial Governments in respect of liquor legislation caused much confusion for several years after Confederation. In Ontario, when the Licence Law was separated from the Municipal Act and passed as a separate statute in 1869, the provisions as to prohibition by municipalities were not embodied in it, nor were they inserted in the Municipal Act when it was revised in 1873. In Quebec, the Municipal Code of 1870 retained the provisions of the old law authorizing municipal councils to pass prohibitory by-laws. In 1869, the Nova Scotia Legislature passed a law providing that no licence for the sale of intoxicating liquor should be granted unless the application was accompanied by a petition from two-thirds of the rate-payers of the polling district in which the tavern was to be established. The constitutionality of this law was upheld by the courts. On the other hand, a New Brunswick statute of 1871, providing that no licence should be granted in a municipality where the majority of the rate-payers petitioned against it, was declared ultra vires, chiefly on the ground that it was a regulation of trade and commerce which belonged exclusively to the Dominion.

In 1876, the Ontario Legislature passed a new licence law, known as the Crooks Act, which took from the municipal councils the power of granting licences, and placed it in the hands of three commissioners, appointed by the Government, in each city or electoral district. The Act also imposed further restrictions in respect of tavern licences, hours of closing, etc.

In response to appeals made, from time to time, for prohibitory legislation that would be applicable to the whole of Canada, the Dominion Government, in 1878, passed the Canada Temperance Act, more commonly known as the Scott Act, which provided that, on a petition from one-fourth of the electors in any county or city, an election was to be held and, if a majority of the votes polled favoured the Act, a proclamation would be issued bringing it into force, after the date of expiration of the existing licences. From the date of the adoption of the Act, the sale of intoxicating liquors, except as expressly stated in the Act, was prohibited. Provision was made for sales for medicinal, sacramental, and mechanical purposes, by druggists and other licensed vendors. Distillers, brewers, and wholesalers, might sell in quantities of 10 gallons and upwards, (8 gallons and upwards in the case of wine and beer), at one time, to druggists and other licensed persons, or to such persons "as they had good reason to believe would carry it forthwith beyond the limits of the county or city, or of any adjoining county or city, where the Act was in force". Penalties of $50 for a first offence, $100 for a second offence, and two months' imprisonment for a third and every subsequent offence, were imposed. The Act might be repealed on a similar petition to the above, followed by a favourable vote. Decisions either for or against the Act, as decided by a majority vote, were to remain in force for three years. It was further provided that the Dunkin Act should not be brought into force in any new locality and that the Scott Act should supersede any by-law passed under the former.

The constitutionality of the Canada Temperance Act was soon disputed. It was, however, sustained by the Privy Council in 1882 (Russell v. The Queen), for the reason that it did not fall within any of the powers assigned to the provinces, and was valid as "maintaining the peace, order and good government of Canada". From this decision the inference was drawn that the Dominion had supreme authority over liquor licences, and that the rights of the provinces were confined to raising revenue therefrom. In the session of 1883, the Dominion Parliament passed the Dominion Licence Act, popularly known as the McCarthy Act, establishing a Dominion system of hotel, shop, vessel, and wholesale licences. This Act, made applicable to all parts of Canada where the Scott Act was not in force, followed largely the lines of the Crooks Act and was, in many respects, more stringent than the liquor licence laws of several of the provinces.

In 1883, the Privy Council, in a test case from Ontario (Hodge v. the Queen), upheld the provincial legislation and regulations on the grounds that they properly came under the head of municipal institutions, the enforcement of provincial laws, and matters of a local or private nature, that they did not interfere with the regulation of trade and commerce, and did not conflict with the Canada Temperance Act. This decision validated the provincial law but there was still doubt as to whether it voided the Dominion Licence Act. Most of the provinces adhered to their own licence laws and, in some, two sets of licences were issued.

The question of the constitutionality of the Dominion law was finally carried to the Privy Council which decided that both the McCarthy Act and an amending Act of 1884 were ultra vires of the Dominion Parliament. By the turn of the century, the constitutional dispute had been settled by successive decisions of the Privy Council which established that the provinces have complete control of the retail trade in liquor, the Dominion of its manufacture and importation. The licensing of shops and taverns is within the exclusive jurisdiction of the provinces. The Canada Temperance Act, which provides for local option in counties or districts of the provinces, is within the jurisdiction of the Dominion and the licensing of brewers and distillers, although duly licensed by the Dominion, is also within the competence of provincial legislation.

The question of the prohibition or regulation of the liquor traffic has figured largely in Canadian politics. To follow in detail the historical record of each province in dealing with the liquor problem would require more space than the scope of this bulletin permits. It is possible merely to indicate a few of the salient features.

The Scott Act was adopted in a large portion of the Maritime Provinces, shortly after its enactment, and proved generally acceptable. The other provinces made, on the whole, little use of the Act, preferring to develop local option through provincial legislation. During the years 1884 and 1885, the Scott Act was adopted in many counties throughout Ontario. Difficulties soon arose, due mostly to controversy as to whether the Dominion or provincial officers were bound to enforce the Act. This was settled, in 1887, by legislation which provided that the officers and machinery of the Licence Act should be available for the enforcement of the Scott Act. Dissatisfaction had grown so strong, however, that the latter was repealed, in 1888 and 1889, in county after county, by decisive majorities. An agitation was begun for the re-enactment of the prohibitory clauses of the Municipal Act which had been omitted when the municipal and licence laws were separated (see page 2). In 1890, local option provisions were introduced in the Ontario Liquor Licence Act. A municipal council might pass a by-law that no licences to sell liquor might be issued in the municipality. Approval of the by-law, by a three-fifths majority of the electors, was necessary, and it might not be repealed for three years, and then only on a three-fifths majority of the electors approving. Quebec always retained the clauses of the Municipal Code authorizing local councils to pass prohibitory by-laws and refuse licences. Manitoba's licence and local option laws were based on those of Ontario and, in 1892, similar laws were applied to the Northwest Territories. British Columbia, where the number of licences was large in proportion to the population, tightened its licence regulations in 1891. The tendency in all provinces was, in general, towards restrictive legislation and more stringent regulation. In the two decades before World War I, considerable numbers of rural and the smaller urban municipalities throughout Canada adopted local option under provincial statutes. These did not, however, entirely stop the consumption of liquor because they could not prohibit manufacture in one province for export into another.

Agitation for national prohibition had continued. Resolutions in favour of a Dominion prohibitory law were, from time to time, introduced in the Dominion Parliament. During the session of 1884, a resolution declaring "that the right and most effectual legislative remedy for the evils of intemperance is to be found in the enactment and enforcement of a law prohibiting the importation, manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors for beverages purposes", was adopted by a vote of 122 to 40. However, an amendment declaring that the public sentiment of Canada was then ripe for such legislation was defeated by a vote of 107 to 55. In 1887, a resolution in favour of immediate prohibition was defeated by a vote of 112 to 70, and, in 1889, by 99 to 59. A Royal Commission was appointed in 1892 to inquire into the working of the liquor traffic and prohibitory legislation. It took evidence and conducted inquiries throughout Canada and in several of the United States. Four of the Commissioners reported adversely to prohibition, while a fifth presented a minority report strongly in its favour.

Manitoba was the first Canadian province to submit the question of prohibition to a plebiscite. During 1892, a Bill was introduced in the Manitoba Legislature "to enable the electors of Manitoba to vote upon the advisability of introducing a law totally prohibiting the importation, manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor as a beverage into or in the province of Manitoba". The result of the vote in an electoral list of 46,669 was: For, 18,637; Against, 7,115. In 1893, the New Brunswick Legislature adopted a resolution in favour of Dominion-wide prohibition "of the importation, manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor as a beverage". In Ontario, in the municipal elections of 1894, a vote was taken on the question of "the prohibition by competent authority of the importation, manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor as a beverage in the province". This vote resulted in a majority for prohibition of 81,769, the total vote polled being 303,209 of a voters' list of 549,202. Similar resolutions were adopted in other provinces and votes on the question taken at different times during the next few years.

A Dominion-wide plebiscite, taken in 1898, showed a majority of 13,886 in favour of a Dominion prohibitory law. The number of votes polled, however, was only 44 per cent of the names on the voters' list. The decision of the Government, as summarized by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, was that "the expression of public opinion as recorded at the polls in favour of prohibition did not represent such a proportion of the electorate as would justify the introduction of a prohibitory measure". The results of the provincial plebiscites, likewise, were not considered decisive enough to warrant the enactment of provincial prohibition laws. It was not until after the outbreak of World War I, in fact, that there was any real departure from the local option system as developed under the Scott Act and the Provincial Licence Acts.

During the years 1916 and 1917, as a war policy, legislation prohibiting the sale of alcoholic liquors, except for medicinal and scientific purposes, was passed in all the provinces except Quebec, where similar legislation was passed in 1919. The prohibition extended to the sale of beer and wine, except in Quebec. Native wine could be sold, however, in Ontario.

In aid of provincial legislation prohibiting or restricting the sale of intoxicating liquors, the Dominion Government, in May, 1916, passed a law (6-7 Geo. V. ch. 19), making it an offence to send intoxicating liquors into any province to be dealt in, contrary to the law of that province. In November 1919, this Act was amended to include manufacture for illegal sale, and the Canada Temperance Act was amended by 10 Geo. V. ch. 9, to prohibit importation and manufacture for illegal importation in any province, by Order in Council, after an approving referendum had been taken, by the Dominion Government, at the request of the Provincial Legislature. From February 1, 1921, to May 21, 1923, seven of the nine provinces decided, by referendum, to prohibit importation. Under a later amendment, exportation from a province could be prohibited by Order in Council and this was invoked by four provinces.

After World War I, the provinces continued under prohibition for varying periods. Plebiscites were taken, from time to time, to ascertain the will of the electorate as to whether the policy of prohibition, adopted as an emergency measure, should be continued. During 1921, Quebec, British Columbia and Yukon Territory discarded the existing prohibition laws and adopted policies of liquor sale under government control. The same course was followed by Manitoba in 1923, Alberta in 1924, Saskatchewan in 1925, Ontario and New Brunswick in 1927, and Nova Scotia in 1930. Prince Edward Island is the only Canadian province still adhering to a policy of prohibition.

The Provincial Liquor Control Acts have been framed to conform to conditions peculiar to the localities where they are in force, and there is considerable variation in the regulations. The salient feature of all is the establishment of a provincial monopoly of the retail sale of alcoholic beverages, with the practical elimination of private profit therefrom. Partial exception is made in the retail sale of beer by brewers or others, which certain provinces permit, while reserving regulative rights, and taxing such sales heavily. One province permits local producers to sell wine at retail, under certain restrictions. The original Liquor Control Acts have been modified, from time to time, as deemed advisable. Brief summaries of the legislation under these Acts are given on pages 5-15.

In 1928, the Dominion Government passed "The Importation of Intoxicating Liquors Act", (18-19 George V. ch. 31), prohibiting the importation into any province of intoxicating liquor, unless consigned to His Majesty, the Executive Government, or government agency vested with the right of selling intoxicating liquor. The provisions of the Act do not apply to the transportation of intoxicating liquor through a province by a common carrier by water or railway, if in unbroken packages; the importation by licensed distillers or brewers for blending purposes only; transfer between distilleries; the importation of intoxicating liquor for sacramental or medicinal purposes; or for manufacturing or commercial purposes, other than for the manufacture or use thereof as a beverage.

World War II brought additional controls, designed to further restrict the use of alcoholic beverages in time of war and release manpower and material resources for the requirements of the armed forces, war industry, and essential civilian activity.

War Order No. C.C. 14 prohibited the production of distilled spirits for beverage purposes in Canada, on and after November 1, 1942. The distilling of spirits was placed under the Chemicals Controller, the distilleries, in effect, being commandeered by the Government for the production of alcohol for war purposes, chiefly in the manufacture of munitions and synthetic rubber. War Order C.C. 14 was rescinded by C.C. 14 A, of August 30, 1945.

The Wartime Alcoholic Beverages Order (P.C. 11374, December 16, 1942) prohibited the advertising of spirits, wine, and beer, and limited their importation and sale. Manufacturers' sales of proof spirits were limited to 70 per cent, domestic wine to 80 per cent, and beer to 90 per cent, of the respective amounts sold in the base period (year ended October 31, 1942). Imports of spirits, wine, and beer, were similarly restricted. The sale of alcoholic spirits of strength greater than 70 per cent proof spirit (except that taken out of bond or bottled prior to the date the Order became effective), and the distilling of spirits for use in fortifying wines were also prohibited. The publication of advertisements respecting any spirits, wine, or beer, also the advertisement of any person as a distiller, manufacturer, or brewer, of spirits, wine, or beer, or of person who sells spirits, wine, or beer, was prohibited, with the exception of labels or information on the containers, or of an advertisement "which, in the opinion of the Minister, is in the public interest, or the legal, financial, or other reasonable needs of the distiller, manufacturer, brewer, or seller, requires to be published".

An amendment of March 13, 1944 (P.C. 1775) cancelled that part of the Wartime Alcoholic Beverages Order relating to beer and an amendment of August 22, 1944 (P.C. 8502), the part relating to the fortifying of wines. P.C. 5438, August 3, 1945, cancelled that part of the Order relating to spirits.

The Liquor Boards adopted various wartime restrictive measures, designed to conserve stocks and to ensure a more even distribution of the available supplies. These included the discontinuance of special permits, reduced selling hours in retail outlets, establishment of quotas, etc. With the removal of the restrictions of the Wartime Alcoholic Beverages Order on sales by manufacturers, the Liquor Boards increased the ration allowance to consumers. However, supplies continued to be limited by shortages of materials and manpower.

Brief summaries of the legislation under the provincial Liquor Control Acts follow.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

Under the Prohibition Act, liquor is dispensed by Government vendors to holders of prescriptions given by practising physicians for medicinal use only.

From 1918 to 1935, the enforcement of the Prohibition Act was in the hands of a Commission appointed by the Government. In 1935, the Commission was abolished and the enforcement of the Act placed on the same footing as all other law enforcement in the Province, by transferring it to the Department of the Attorney General. The existing legislation was confirmed by a plebiscite, taken in June, 1940.

In 1945 an amendment to the Prohibition Act provided that where a physician prescribes alcoholic liquors for a period of six months, such prescription may be surrendered and a warrant obtained providing for the sale weekly of spirits, wine, and ale in quantities not exceeding one 26-oz. bottle of spirits, one bottle of wine, or one case of ale. Warrants are cancelled upon conviction for any offence involving alcoholic liquors.

NOVA SCOTIA

Act

The Nova Scotia Liquor Control Act, passed April 30, 1930.

Administration

The Nova Scotia Liquor Commission has authority to control the possession, sale, transportation, and delivery of liquor; to control, manage, and supervise all government liquor stores and shops, and in all other ways to administer the provisions of the Act. All moneys received from the sale of liquor at government stores, or otherwise arising in the administration of the Act, other than from licence and permit fees, are paid to the Commission. Fees for licences and permits for the purchase and sale of liquor are paid to the Commission through stores and at head office and the moneys received are transmitted by the Commission to the Provincial Treasurer, to be accounted for as part of the general revenue of the province, and do not form part of the profit and loss account of the Commission. The Commission must make an annual report to the Legislature covering operations for the year ending November 30.

Disposition of Profits

From the profits arising under the Act such sums as may be determined by the Governor in Council are to be set aside for the creation of a reserve fund to meet any losses that may be incurred by the Government in connection with the administration of the Act, also such sums as are necessary to cover the expenditures incurred in connection with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Expenditures incurred in carrying out and enforcing the provisions of the Act are charged against profits. The remaining net profits are paid into the Consolidated Revenue Fund at the direction of the Provincial Treasurer.

Regulation of Sale

Where Sold. - Liquor may be sold by the Commission in such manner, and at such places and prices as the Commission prescribes. No liquor is to be sold, however, in any municipality in which, under the Plebiscite Act of 1929, a majority of votes was cast against the sale of liquor under a Government Control Act. In consequence of this Act, the sale of liquor is not permitted in the counties of Shelburne and Hants. An amendment of April 18, 1946 to the Nova Scotia Liquor Control Act provides for the appointment of a "Tavern Licence Committee", which is authorized to issue, suspend, revoke or cancel licences for the sale of beer and wine. This Committee has not yet been appointed and full details have not been worked out.

How Sold. - (1) In sealed packages from Government liquor stores. Individual permits are required for the purchase of spirits, beer, and wine. Alcohol can be obtained only under a prescription or special permit specifying it.

(2) Limited quantities may be sold by vendors on a doctor's prescription.

To Whom Sold. - (1) Individual permits may be granted to individuals of 21 years of age, who have resided in the province at least one month previous to the application.

(2) Individual permits for a period of one month may be granted to individuals of the age of 21 years, temporarily resident or sojourning in the province.

(3) Special permits may be granted to druggists, to persons engaged in manufacturing or scientific pursuits requiring liquor for use therein, or for other stated purposes.

(4) Special permits may be granted to physicians, dentists, veterinaries, persons in charge of hospitals, homes for the aged, etc.

(5) Liquor may not be sold to minors, interdicted persons (except on a doctor's prescription) or to any other persons disqualified by the Commission, or by Act of the Dominion of Canada.

Wartime restrictions included the suspension of banquet permits and the placing of sales on a ration basis, with quotas varying from time to time according to conditions of supply. Practically all restrictions have now been removed. However, Scotch whisky and some brands of imported brandy are in short supply.

NEW BRUNSWICK

Act

The Intoxicating Liquor Act, 1927, assented to April 20, 1927; main provisions brought into force September 6, 1927.

Administration

The New Brunswick Liquor Control Board has authority "to control all dealings in liquor in the province, to control, manage, and supervise all government liquor stores, and in all other ways to administer the Act". The Board must make to the Government an annual report covering the nature and amount of business transacted during the year ending October 31. All moneys received under the Act are paid to the Board which pays all expenses of administration.

Disposition of Profits

From the profits of the Board there may be set aside such sums as may be specified by the Governor in Council for a reserve fund to meet any loss which the province may incur in the administration of the Act. The remaining profits of the Board are paid into the Consolidated Revenue Fund at the direction of the Governor in Council.

Regulation of Sale

Where Sold. - At Government liquor stores; beer from beer warehouses or from licensed brewers on order of the Board.

How Sold. - (1) In sealed packages, (a) at government liquor stores; (b) by express or mail from head office mail order department; (c) delivered directly by brewers on order of the Board. In such cases the brewers act as agents of the Board and must make to it a monthly report of gross sales.

(2) Six ounces may be sold by government liquor stores on a physician's prescription.

To Whom Sold. - Liquor may not be sold to minors, interdicted persons, etc., (except on a doctor's prescription), nor to any other persons disqualified by the Board. All other persons may purchase liquor in accordance with the provisions of the Act and Regulations.

A system of purchase cards was adopted in 1943 and in 1944 this was replaced by a system of individual permits. All wartime restrictions including use of individual permits and rationing were discontinued, effective November 1, 1946.

Act

The Alcoholic Liquor Act, assented to February 25, 1921.

Administration

The Quebec Liquor Commission has authority to control liquor sales, to grant permits, to regulate the establishments to which permits are granted, and in other ways to administer the provisions of the Act. All revenue collected under the Act is paid to the Commission, which pays all costs of administration. In 1936 the five Commissioners were dismissed and their powers transferred to a General Manager.

Disposition of Profits

Profits of the Commission are paid to the Provincial Treasurer on demand to become a part of the Consolidated Revenue of the Province.

Regulation of Sale

Where Sold. - Spirituous liquors and wines from government liquor stores; beer from brewers or brewers' warehouses to permittees authorized to sell to consumers; in hotels, inns, cafés, boats, dining cars, grocery stores, taverns, clubs, trading posts, at banquets, etc. (See under "How Sold", below).

However, the Commission must refuse to grant any permit for the sale of alcoholic liquor in any municipality where a prohibition by-law is in force. Such a by-law may be revoked as to beer and wine, or beer only, by submission to the electors.

The Commission must refuse to grant any permit for the sale of alcoholic liquor in any city or town whose population exceeds 5,000 (and where a prohibition by-law is not in force) whenever the municipal council has, by a by-law, requested the Commission to refuse to grant any permit.

In addition, the Commission must refuse to grant a permit in a town whose population does not exceed 5,000, or a village or municipality, unless such municipality requests it by by-law approved by a majority of voters.

How Sold. - (1) Spirituous liquors and wines from government liquor stores.

(2) Beer by brewers to permittees authorized to sell beer to consumers. In such cases the brewers act as agents of the Commission and must make to the Commission a monthly report of sales. Those who purchase from brewers must pay, through the brewers to the Commission, a tax equal to 5 cents per gallon of draught beer; 7 cents per dozen of large bottles, and 4 cents per dozen of small bottles.

(3) Spirits, beer or wine by the glass or open bottle in hotels having special licences, in steamboats, dining cars or clubs, with or without meals; in other hotels and in cafés with meals only; beer and wine only in inns having special licences, with or without meals; in other inns and in cafés, with meals only.

In the case of a steamboat, permit is granted only if such boat performs regular service between points in the province at least fifty miles apart.

(4) Beer in quantities of not less than one bottle from licensed grocery stores, such beer not to be consumed on the premises. In villages or rural municipalities, such licence may be granted only to hotels licensed under the Quebec Licence Act and which, at the same time, holds permits for sale with meals.

(5) Beer by the glass in licensed taverns in cities or towns for consumption on the premises.

(6) Beer and wine at banquets for consumption on the premises.

(7) Trading posts or industrial or mining establishments in New Quebec, or other territory in the northern part of the province, designated from time to time by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, may sell alcoholic liquor at such posts or establishments to their employees and to people living in such territory.

In every case, the alcohol, spirits or wine must have been purchased direct from the Commission by the holder of the permit, and beer from a brewer who is also a holder of a permit. Hospitals, universities, laboratories for industrial and scientific research, retail druggists, and doctors may purchase either from the Commission or direct from distilleries under permit, thus procuring alcohol at a lower price.

To Whom Sold. - It is forbidden to sell to persons under twenty years of age, or to interdicted persons, or other persons disqualified by the Commission. All other persons may purchase from government stores or licensed establishments.

Wartime restrictions included the adoption of an individual permit system for the purchase of spirits, the reduction of hours of sale in Liquor Board stores, the placing of sales on a ration basis, and various other measures to conserve supplies. Since May 1, 1946, no individual permit is required to purchase spirits. While no rationing is in effect, certain brands are still scarce.

ONTARIO

Act

- (1) - The Liquor Control Act (Ontario, assented to April 5, 1927).
- (2) - The Liquor Authority Control Act, 1944, assented to April 6, 1944.

Administration and Distribution of Profits

The Liquor Control Board of Ontario has authority to control, manage, and supervise the government liquor stores, to grant, refuse, suspend, or cancel individual permits for the purchase of liquor; to make necessary regulations, and in other ways carry out the administration of the Act. The Board must make to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council an annual report covering its activities during the year ending March 31. All moneys arising from the application of the Act are paid to the Liquor Board which pays all expenses of administration. The Board may remit to a municipality such portion of fees payable by authority holders as may be fixed from time to time by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. From the profits of the Board there may be taken such sums as are determined by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council for the creation of a reserve fund to meet any loss which the province may incur in the administration of the Act. The remaining profits are paid into the Consolidated Revenue Fund of the province at the direction of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

By the Liquor Authority Control Act, 1944, "The Liquor Authority Control Board of Ontario", consisting of three members, was created. Its duties are to issue "authorities" for the sale of beer and wine in respect of such premises as the regulations may prescribe or define, and to review, consent to the transfer of, suspend, or cancel any such authority. All expenses of the Liquor Authority Control Board are paid by the Liquor Control Board of Ontario.

Further amendments provide that a beer vendor's licence may be issued to any hotel registered with the Commission or, in the case of a hotel located in the city of Winnipeg, duly licensed by the said city.

A beer vendor's licence authorizes such licensee, other than that in the city of Winnipeg, to purchase beer from the Commission for resale to permittees in either twelve or twenty-four bottles in a sealed package for consumption in the permittee's residence, the licensee in the city of Winnipeg being limited to the sale of the same quantities only to a permittee resident in his own hotel.

Purchasers from brewers had to pay a tax of 15½ cents per gallon (12½ cents prior to April 1, 1932). However, an amendment to the Act passed at the 1936 session of the Legislature provided that brewers who manufacture beer in Alberta may sell only to the Board. All sales, both to beer licensees and to permit holders, are now made through the Board. Under the new arrangement the gallonage tax is no longer levied.

Banquet permits have been reinstated. Owing to shortage of supplies it is still necessary to restrict the sales of whisky, brandy, and wine. Gin, rum, and beer are not rationed and may be purchased in reasonable quantities.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Act

The Government Liquor Act, 1921; assented to April 2, 1921.

Administration

The administration of the Act, including the general control, management, and supervision of government liquor stores, is vested in the Liquor Control Board. The Board must make an annual report to the Attorney General, covering operations for the year ending March 31. Moneys received from sale of permits are paid to the Minister of Finance, to be accounted as part of the general revenue of the province. All other moneys received under this Act are paid to the Liquor Board.

Disposition of Profits

From the total profits of the Board there may be set aside such sums as are specified by the Government for the creation of a reserve fund to meet any losses which may be incurred in the administration of this Act or by reason of its repeal, the net profits remaining being paid into the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

Regulation of Sale

Where Sold. - (1) Government liquor stores (liquor of all kinds)
(2) Beer parlours (beer only)
(3) Veterans' clubs (beer only)

Beer parlours may be established in electoral districts or specific polling divisions which have voted in favour of the sale of beer in licensed premises, and the licence provides for the sale of beer by the glass, or by the bottle, for consumption on the premises, or elsewhere.

How Sold. - (1) Liquor of all kinds, by permit, in sealed packages, from government liquor stores. However, malt liquor need not be sealed.
(2) From liquor stores, or from druggists on a doctor's prescription.
(3) Beer by the glass, or open bottle, for consumption in licensed beer parlours, and beer by the unopened bottle for consumption elsewhere than in the said licensed premises. The licensee must purchase his beer from the Liquor Control Board. No bars are allowed.

(5) Veterans' clubs may obtain licences entitling the holders to purchase beer from vendors, and to sell it by the glass, or open bottle, to bona fide members, for consumption on licensed premises, in accordance with the terms of the licence and the provisions of the Act.

To Whom Sold. - (1) To permittees. Individual permits are issued to persons over 21 years of age, for the purchase of liquor for beverage or medicinal or culinary purposes. Special permits are issued to druggists, physicians, dentists, veterinaries, hospitals, etc.

(3) To veterans' club licensees, who may purchase from the Board, and sell by the glass, or unopened bottle, to bona fide members of the veterans' club, for consumption on the licensed premises.

The fee for an individual liquor permit is 25 cents.

During the war, the quantities available to individual permit holders and to beer licensees, were restricted, the quotas being changed to meet changing conditions. Although the Wartime Alcoholic Beverages Order, 1942, has been revoked, the distribution of liquor (with the exception of gin) by the rationing system is still necessary. This is due, in large part, to the great increase in population in the province during and subsequent to the war years.

NORTHWEST TERRITORIESAct

The Territorial Liquor Ordinance, assented to April 27, 1939, with amendments.

Northwest Territories Act, Chapter 142, R.S.C. 1927, with amendments.

Administration

The only authorized liquor stores in the Northwest Territories are the store opened at Yellowknife on June 27, 1939, and the store opened at Fort Smith on June 24, 1942. They are known as the Territorial Liquor Stores, and are operated by the Saskatchewan Liquor Board as Territorial Liquor Agent for the Northwest Territories Administration. The Board purchases all supplies, employs all necessary labour, and handles all the receipts directly connected with the operation of the stores. The net profits are struck at the end of March and September, each year, and turned over to the Northwest Territories Administration. Convictions for liquor offences are made under both the Territorial Liquor Ordinance and the Northwest Territories Act. The net profits from the liquor stores, and the proceeds of fines under the Territorial Liquor Ordinance, are placed in a special account in the Consolidated Revenue Fund. The proceeds of fines under the Northwest Territories Act are credited to ordinary revenue.

The Commissioner of the Northwest Territories, with the advice and consent of the Northwest Territories Council, directs the activities of the Territorial Agent in the operation of the Territorial Liquor Stores, and makes all necessary regulations to meet the conditions which arise.

Distribution of Profits

Under the provisions of the Territorial Liquor Ordinance, all moneys and all property acquired in the administration of the Ordinance shall be the property of the Crown in the right of the Northwest Territories, and all profits arising out of the operation of a liquor store shall be applied to territorial purposes.

- (4) Beer may be sold in licensed premises for consumption therein, and limited quantities may be sold for consumption elsewhere, during certain periods when the local Territorial Liquor Store is closed.

With the lifting of wartime restrictions on the quantities of liquor available for sale, the supply has been increased as stocks could be obtained but rationing is still continued in the Northwest Territories. At present (August, 1946), one bottle of spirits per day but only four bottles per month of anything but gin and rum, one bottle per day of wine, and one case per day of beer, may be purchased. The permittees at the mining settlement of Yellowknife may also purchase beer in licensed hotel premises for consumption therein.

SALES OF LIQUOR CONTROL BOARDS

Data on gross sales, other revenue, and net profits of the Provincial Liquor Boards, are tabulated in Table I. In connection with the figures on gross sales, it is essential to note that for Quebec, Manitoba, for Alberta (prior to April 1, 1936), and for Ontario (after July 24, 1934), the sales of beer made direct by brewers, are not included. Data on such sales are shown in the footnotes to the table.

It should be noted that the sales values, as given do not, in all cases, represent sales to final consumers, as, in some provinces, the sale of beer by the glass is permissible. Of course, all the liquor sold in any province is not necessarily consumed within the province. The tourist traffic is an important factor in this connection.

All the revenue resulting from the Liquor Control Acts is not paid to the Liquor Boards. In certain provinces, permit fees are paid direct to the Government, and do not pass through the Board. Table I further indicates the total accruing to the Governments through the control of liquor sales.

The reports of the Boards do not, in all cases, show the quantities of liquors sold, and in comparing values for a series of years, or between provinces, it should be borne in mind that price variations may be an important factor. Information as to quantities of liquor sold, insofar as available, is given in the footnotes to Table I.

PRODUCTION AND STOCKS

Production figures on spirits and beer, as given in Table 3, are taken from the reports of the Department of National Revenue, to which the distillers, brewers and liquor warehouses are required to make regular reports. Data on the output of wine, Table 4, are taken from the Industrial Census reports. As the bulk of the spirits and part of the malt liquor go into warehouses it has been considered necessary to show warehouse statistics in detail; these data, Tables 5, 6, and 7, also have been taken from the reports of the Department of National Revenue.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS

Data on imports and exports, as shown in Tables 8 to 10, have been taken from the Bureau's reports on the Trade of Canada. It will be noted that the figures on exports of spirits do not agree with the warehouse exports given in Table 6; the latter cover only exports in bond. It is not possible to estimate smuggling or illegal traffic in liquor, nor to estimate the quantities carried across the border by tourists leaving the country.

^{1/}The excise duty which was included in the value of distilled spirits, chiefly whiskey, imported into Canada from countries entitled to the British Preferential Tariff since the fiscal year 1920-21, is excluded as from April 1, 1935. This lowers the import values and renders them not strictly comparable with those of previous years.

Apparent Consumption of Alcoholic Beverages

It is not possible to obtain accurate figures on Canadian consumption of alcoholic beverages. All the provinces do not publish figures showing sales on a gallonage basis, and even were such data available, they would not, necessarily, represent Canadian consumption. For instance, Canada's tourist traffic must be considered. In 1945, tourists and other visitors to Canada numbered over 17 million persons. While exact figures are not available, these visitors, undoubtedly, consume considerable quantities of the various beverages. Further, there is no definite information regarding the illegal traffic in liquor, though inquiry has revealed that such illicit business has, at times, reached fairly large proportions.

In Tables 11, 12, and 13, an attempt has been made to indicate separately the apparent consumption in Canada of spirits, beer, and wines. Obviously, these computations are subject to error for the reasons mentioned above and also because they take no account of increases or decreases in the quantities held in stock by the Boards or by licensees. For example, the Liquor Boards may, in certain years, buy heavily to replenish stocks or create reserves; such purchases would unduly weight the apparent consumption figures for these years.

The figures in Tables 11-13 have been arrived at as follows:-

Spirits. - Practically the total production of spirits is placed in bonded warehouses, from where it is released for various purposes, as indicated in "Warehouse Transactions". (See Table 6.). The quantities shown as "Entered for Consumption" are released from warehouse, duty paid, presumably for consumption for beverage purposes in Canada. In certain years, however, particularly in the late 1920's, the total domestic exports were considerably greater than the exports in bond. (See Table 11.) The difference, presumably, was made up from exports out of the quantities "Entered for Consumption". The apparent consumption of spirits in the years 1920-42 was estimated by assuming that the total supply of spirits available for home consumption or for export was the sum of the quantities shown under (a) Entered for Consumption, (b) Imports, and (c) Exports in Bond. From this total available supply the total domestic exports and re-exports of imported goods were deducted, the remainder indicating the apparent consumption in Canada.

World War II introduced a new factor, namely, the export of large quantities of non-potable spirits for war use. For instance, spirits exported in bond were 3,401,542 proof gallons in the fiscal year 1943, 17,392,892 proof gallons in 1944, 15,876,537 proof gallons in 1945, and 11,884,061 proof gallons in 1946, while exports of beverage spirits were, - 2,536,605 proof gallons, 2,182,628 proof gallons, 3,129,788 proof gallons, and 4,810,848 proof gallons, respectively, in those years. Hence, for the years 1943-46, the addition of the quantities "Entered for Consumption", and "Imports", less "Re-exports of Imported Spirits", is thought to provide the most accurate estimate of the consumption of beverage spirits in Canada.

Beer. - Only a small part of the output of beer is placed in warehouses. The available supply is, therefore, made up of, (a) Production, (b) Changes in warehouse stock, and (c) Imports, and by deducting the domestic exports and re-exports of imported goods from this total supply, a figure indicating the apparent consumption in Canada is obtained.

Wines. - The apparent consumption of domestic wine is obtained by dividing the rates of excise tax into the total tax collection. This is believed to furnish a better measure of consumption than subtracting exports from production, since part of each year's production is not consumed in that year but placed in storage for maturing. The apparent consumption of imported wines is arrived at by deducting, from the imports into Canada, the re-exports of foreign supplies.

STATISTICS OF CRIME

Certain statistics of crime are shown herewith in view of their association in the popular mind with the consumption of liquor and so that this aspect may be studied. Table 14 shows, for the years 1920-45 convictions for indictable offences which include serious breaches of the law, and also convictions for non-indictable offences, i.e., illegal acts of a minor nature which are dealt with by police magistrates and Justices of the Peace. Table 15 shows convictions for drunkenness by provinces, and Table 16 shows offences against the Liquor Acts by provinces, during the same period. Table 17 shows convictions for indictable offences, by age groups, during the years 1921-45. Table 18 shows the population of Canada by similar age groups in census years 1871-1941 and as estimated for 1945.

It must be emphasized that it is exceedingly difficult to obtain comparable statistics of crime over even a relatively short period of time. In most statistical fields the unit of counting, at least, is constant but in the case of criminal statistics, the definitions lack precision - even the definitions of specific offences are elastic. Conduct, formerly legal may, by a change in law, become criminal, and vice versa; offences may be changed from a less to a more serious category, or the reverse, and so on. For instance, driving a car while drunk in Canada was, in 1937, changed from a non-indictable to an indictable offence. Again, much of the increase in indictable offences during the war years is attributable to strict enforcement of wartime measures such as gasoline rationing, Defence of Canada, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and Selective Service regulations. It must be remembered, too, that recorded criminality and actual criminality are not the same. Certain factors may operate to increase the number of crimes reported and punished quite independent of the number of crimes actually committed.

While statistics of convictions are generally used as an index of crime, they are at best merely indicative of apparent criminality. A conviction rate reflects not only criminal behaviour but the attitude towards criminal behaviour of the public and of the administrative and judicial personnel. These vary from time to time and from place to place and the separation of the various variables is difficult and perhaps impossible.

The composition of the population in respect of age and sex has an important bearing upon criminality. Crime is much more frequent among males than females, and much more frequent among younger than middle-aged and older men. Consequently, when a population contains a large proportion of young men a high crime rate is to be expected. Thus, the trend of crime over a period of years may merely reflect changes in the composition of the population.

Crimes definitely associated with the liquor traffic, such as illicit stills, driving while drunk, etc., are shown separately in Table 14. Even such convictions form an unreliable ground for judgment as to the comparative amount of drunkenness under different systems of regulation. Differences in the conditions and the severity of law enforcement at different times may, apart from any change in the drinking habits of the average Canadian, affect the statistics of such convictions. For example, the great increase in the number of automobiles, and the growth of tourism bringing large additions to the Canadian population at certain seasons has necessitated stricter enforcement of traffic laws.

Considerations such as the above illustrate the difficulty of obtaining adequate statistical proof of any direct relation between increases or decreases in crime and methods of liquor control. The reader is, therefore, cautioned against superficial comparisons of statistics and hasty generalizations without taking into consideration differences in the age and sex distribution of the population and other factors, extraneous to changes in drinking habits, which may affect the crime rate.

MORTALITY STATISTICS

Table 19 shows statistics of deaths attributed to alcoholism for Canada and provinces, over a period of years, and, Table 20, deaths due to cirrhosis of the liver. The latter, while of alcoholic origin in many instances, may be due to causes in no way connected with alcoholism, hence, a separate classification of deaths from cirrhosis, definitely specified alcoholic, is shown.

As with crime, the relation between alcohol consumption and disease and death is very complex, and it is difficult to obtain conclusive evidence thereon. It is a common procedure to take deaths from alcoholism as a percentage of total deaths, and to base on this an index of increase or decrease in deaths from alcoholism from year to year. This, however, may lead to wrong conclusions. For example, a decrease in the total number of deaths (owing, perhaps, to decreasing infant mortality) would increase the proportion of deaths attributed to alcoholism, and, conversely, an increase in the total number of deaths (due to epidemics, war, etc.) would decrease the proportion of alcoholic deaths, without proving either an increase in the amount of alcoholism in the one case, or a decrease in the other. Again, the degree of uniformity among doctors in returning alcoholism as a cause of death is doubtful, especially when such is contributory only, and other causes may be assigned. These are but a few of the difficulties confronting the student who seeks to obtain statistical evidence of the relation between alcoholism and disease and mortality, and to compare this under different systems of sale and control of liquor.

The compilation of deaths attributed to alcoholism is useful to the vital statistician and may be used for comparisons in time and place, and between geographical units, if proper care is taken to allow for the influence of different bases of assignment, differences in the age and sex constitution of the population, and such other factors extraneous to changes in drinking habits as may affect the rate. It must be emphasized, however, that comparisons of crude rates, when isolated from other information, are extremely questionable. (See also Note 1/, page 47).

1/ The decline in deaths attributed to alcoholism in 1941-44 is more apparent than real. A revision in the classification of causes of death as recommended by the International Commission lessened the number which could be attributed to alcoholism.
