

2020 WALKING GUIDE

Discover the Heart of the Capital

ART

ARCHITECTURE

HISTORY

HERITAGE

Canadian
Heritage

Patrimoine
canadien

Canada

WELCOME TO CANADA'S CAPITAL REGION

Canadian Heritage acknowledges that Canada's Capital Region is located on the traditional territory of the Algonquin People.

Gatineau QUEBEC

IN THIS GUIDEBOOK

ZONE 1:	Sparks Street . . . . .	2
ZONE 2:	Elgin Street . . . . .	6
ZONE 3:	Mackenzie Avenue . . . . .	10
ZONE 4:	ByWard Market . . . . .	14
ZONE 5:	Sussex North . . . . .	18
ZONE 6:	Gatineau . . . . .	22
ZONE 7:	West on Wellington . . . . .	26

© Her Majesty the Queen in Right of Canada, as represented by the Minister of Canadian Heritage, 2020

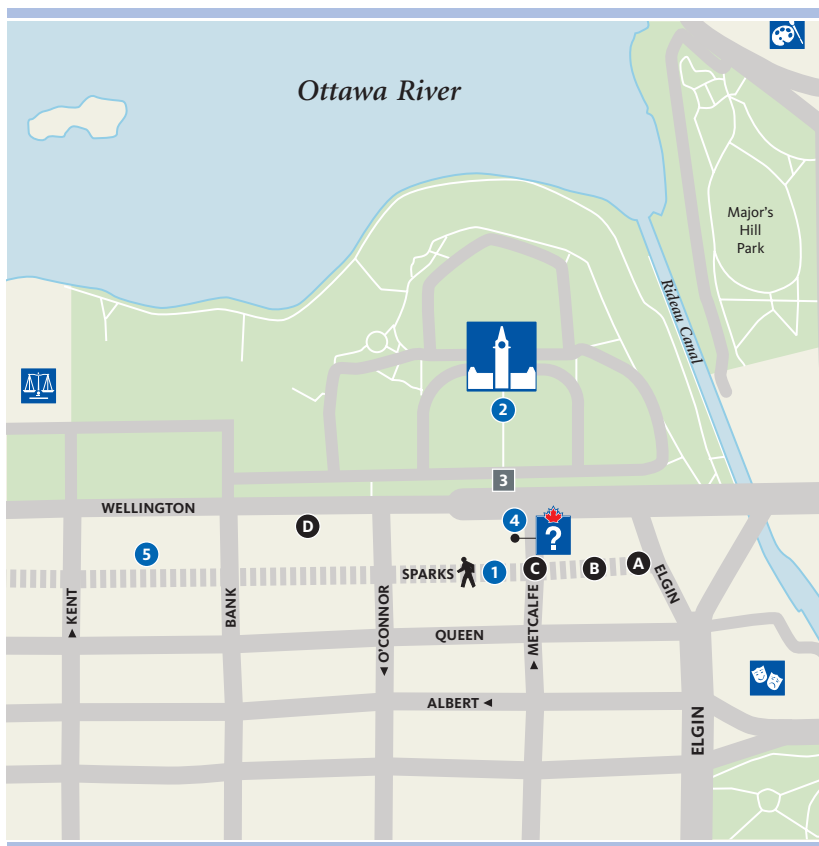

Catalogue # CH4-160/2020E-PDF
ISBN # 978-0-660-33921-4

ZONE 1: SPARKS STREET

Art on the Street

Parliament Hill is undergoing a large-scale restoration and modernization of many of its buildings and monuments. When the work is complete, it will be ready to meet the nation's needs for years to come. Much of Parliament Hill will remain open during the construction. If you are looking for more to explore nearby, be sure to visit Sparks Street. Enjoy charming architecture and unique works of art as you make your way down the pedestrian mall.

1 SPARKS STREET

Named after Nicholas Sparks, who once owned the land between Laurier Avenue and Wellington Street, Sparks Street was where the Capital's elite came to see and be seen. In 1848, Sparks cut this road through his property. Within decades, it was Ottawa's most exclusive shopping district. Today, people still stroll here. Visitors can't resist having their pictures taken with Bruce Garner's sculptures Joy and Territorial Prerogative.

Joy, Bruce Garner, 1970

1 Sparks Street

2 Parliament Hill

3 HIDDEN TREASURE

Harper Memorial (Sir Galahad)

4 Terry Fox

5 Bank of Canada

While in the area, look out for:

A Lord Stanley's Gift,
Covit/Nguyen/NORR, 2017

B Joy, Bruce Garner, 1970

C Territorial Prerogative,
Bruce Garner, 1980

D Parliamentary Press Building

Sparks Street decorated to welcome the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall (later King George V and Queen Mary), in 1901.

2 PARLIAMENT HILL

No visit to the Capital is complete without a stop on Parliament Hill, the seat of Canadian democracy. Major repairs are under way on the Hill. Before you visit, we recommend that you talk to our Capital Information Kiosk staff across the street at 90 Wellington. They can help you make the most of your visit.

HIDDEN TREASURE

3 HARPER MEMORIAL (SIR GALAHAD)

Ernest Wise Keyser, 1905

Although it's sometimes lost against the impressive background of Parliament Hill, the Harper Memorial is a monument to bravery and, arguably, to friendship. The statue of the chivalrous medieval knight Sir Galahad remembers Henry Albert Harper, a young man who drowned trying to save a girl who had fallen through the ice on the Ottawa River. It was Harper's close friend, future prime minister William Lyon Mackenzie King, who led the project to memorialize this heroic act.

It was a warm spring night in 1868 when Thomas D'Arcy McGee left Parliament for the last time. As this Father of Confederation stood at the door to his rooming house on Sparks Street, fumbling for his keys, he was shot in the back of the head — murdered! Patrick James Whelan, who was known to hate McGee, was arrested. Although he maintained that he was innocent, Whelan was convicted and hanged. To this day, no one can say for certain who committed the crime.

LAC, C-039376

Thomas D'Arcy McGee

4 TERRY FOX John Hooper, 1983

There's no disputing it: Terry Fox is a Canadian hero. At 18, he lost a leg to cancer, an event that set him on a remarkable journey. Three years later, he dipped his artificial leg in the Atlantic Ocean, beginning his cross-Canada run to raise money for cancer research. However, 143 days later, his journey ended near Thunder Bay. The cancer had returned. Terry Fox died on June 28, 1981, but his legacy continues to inspire people around the world.

5 BANK OF CANADA

This federal institution, responsible for keeping inflation stable and our economy ticking, fills the block bordered by Wellington, Bank, Sparks and Kent streets. Modern glass towers and a courtyard, designed in the 1970s by Canadian architect Arthur Erickson, surround the original 1938 neoclassical building. In 2016, the Bank completed a major renewal. Step inside the large pyramid to visit the Bank of Canada Museum, which features interactive exhibits about the Bank's role in the economy, as well as artifacts from Canada's National Currency Collection.

Henry Albert Harper

LAC, PA 12894

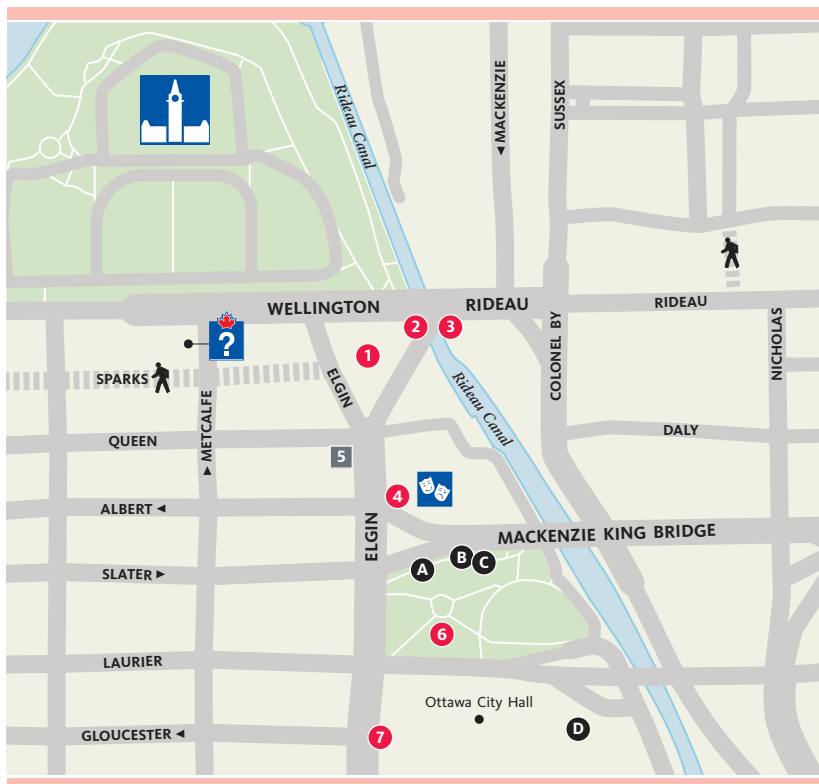

DoubleSpace Photography

ZONE 2: ELGIN STREET

Honouring Canadians

Confederation Square, located at the heart of the Capital, is home to the National War Memorial and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Explore other military commemorations in Confederation Park, or discover some great art and artists along Elgin Street and at the National Arts Centre.

1 Confederation Square and the National War Memorial

2 The Valiants Memorial

3 Women Are Persons!

4 National Arts Centre and Oscar Peterson

5 HIDDEN TREASURE

Nature Girls

6 Confederation Park

7 Canadian Tribute to Human Rights

While in the area, look out for:

A Kwakiutl Totem, Henry Hunt, 1971

B Monument to Canadian Fallen, Yoo Young Mun, 2002

C South African War Memorial, Hamilton MacCarthy, 1902

Animals in War Dedication, David Clendinning, 2012

D Ottawa Sharpshooters Memorial, Percy Wood, 1888

For more art, check out Ottawa City Hall!

1 CONFEDERATION SQUARE AND THE NATIONAL WAR MEMORIAL

Confederation Square is home to the National War Memorial, designed by Vernon March, and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier (2000), by Vancouver sculptor Mary Ann Liu. These commemorations honour the sacrifices of the brave men and women who gave their lives so that we may enjoy the freedoms we have today. Every year on November 11, tens of thousands of Canadians gather here to pay their respects during the national Remembrance Day ceremony.

Unveiling of the National War Memorial, May 21, 1939.

2 THE VALIANTS MEMORIAL

Marlene Hilton Moore and John McEwen, 2006

Canada's history has been marked by several conflicts, from the colonial wars of New France to the Second World War. The Valiants Memorial includes the figures of 14 extraordinary men and women who helped shape Canada in times of war. They came from all walks of life: warrior, mechanic, housewife... Some names are familiar, while others may not be as well known, but each life tells a story of bravery and endurance in the face of overwhelming odds.

3 WOMEN ARE PERSONS!

Barbara Paterson, 2000

You are invited to join Emily Murphy, Henrietta Muir Edwards, Louise McKinney, Nellie McClung and Irene Parlby as they mark their 1929 victory of having women recognized as persons under the British North America Act. This major milestone in the struggle for women's rights in Canada made women legally eligible to be appointed to the Senate. The Famous Five will celebrate near the Senate of Canada Building until work on Parliament Hill is complete.

4 NATIONAL ARTS CENTRE AND OSCAR PETERSON

Ruth Abernethy, 2010

Need a rest? Join one of Canada's greatest artists, Oscar Peterson, at his piano! The statue of the jazz legend is found outside the National Arts Centre (NAC), Canada's stage for the performing arts.

HIDDEN TREASURE

5 NATURE GIRLS

Laura Ford, 1998

Peeking out from the shrubs at the British High Commission are Stump Girl, Conifer Girl and Bush Girl — the Nature Girls. Are they hiding? Are they lost? Are they watching you? The small bronze trees with little girls' legs are comical and unnerving at the same time.

6 CONFEDERATION PARK

The National Aboriginal Veterans Monument by Noel Lloyd Pinay (2001) commemorates the contributions of Indigenous Canadians in war and peacekeeping operations. It is one of many important military commemorations in this park.

7 CANADIAN TRIBUTE TO HUMAN RIGHTS

Melvin Charney, 1989

This monument celebrates and commemorates universal human rights and the ongoing struggle to achieve and maintain them.

ZONE 3: MACKENZIE AVENUE

The Makings of a Capital

Two of the Capital's iconic waterways meet where the Rideau Canal empties into the Ottawa River. It's no coincidence that the Capital's first park and many heritage buildings are also found here.

- 1 Rideau Canal
- 2 Ottawa River
- 3 Fairmont Château Laurier
- 4 Major's Hill Park

5 HIDDEN TREASURE

Twist 1.5

While in the area, look out for:

- A Anishinabe Scout, Hamilton MacCarthy, 1918
- B Canadian Building Trades Monument, John Greer and Brian MacKay-Lyons
- C Conjunction, Joel Shapiro, 1999
- D Shaw Centre
- E The Family, Bart Uchida, 1974

1 RIDEAU CANAL

In a city brimming with Canadian history, the Rideau Canal, an engineering masterpiece, is one of the Capital's strongest links to the past. A UNESCO World Heritage Site, the canal has evolved with the Capital. It was planned after the War of 1812, to provide a safe way to transport troops and equipment between Montréal and Kingston. As times changed, so did the canal — it became first a commercial, then a recreational, waterway. Today, thousands of paddlers, boaters and skaters enjoy the Rideau Canal, while joggers and cyclists cruise the pathways alongside it.

2 OTTAWA RIVER

The Ottawa River flows through Canada's Capital Region, separating Ottawa and Gatineau. It is, without a doubt, the dominant feature in the landscape of the Capital. This waterway, travelled for thousands of years by the region's Algonquin inhabitants, played a vital role in the development of Ottawa and Gatineau. For a century and a half, the Capital Region was a hub of the lumber industry, and millions of logs were floated downstream on the Ottawa River.

National Capital Commission

Timber raft on the Ottawa River near Parliament Hill, ca. 1899.

LAC, PA139242

3 FAIRMONT CHÂTEAU LAURIER

In the early 1900s, Ottawa was a rough lumber town. The construction of the Château Laurier Hotel and Union Station across the street brought a touch of glamour to the city. The old Union Station is home to the Senate while the Parliament buildings undergo a major renovation. Now called the Senate of Canada Building, it has been restored to showcase its original features, with new elements highlighting our country's rich history.

»» As you walk down Mackenzie Avenue from the Château Laurier to Major's Hill Park, look out for another building that looks like a castle. The Connaught Building, which houses the Canada Revenue Agency, was designed by David Ewart in a Tudor Gothic style. Other buildings built by Ewart, such as the Royal Canadian Mint and the Canadian Museum of Nature, are in a similar style.

It's hard to imagine, but until the 1960s there were tracks running along the Rideau Canal and into downtown. Trains coming from Gatineau ran alongside the Château Laurier Hotel and right under Wellington Street!

4

4

Lieutenant-Colonel John By,
Joseph-Émile Brunet, 1971

4 MAJOR'S HILL PARK

Once home to Lieutenant-Colonel John By, the man who oversaw the construction of the Rideau Canal, Major's Hill was the Capital's first park — and a much-needed spot of greenery in early Ottawa. But the Capital's parks are more than just green spaces. They are gathering places, festival sites and home to many works of art.

HIDDEN TREASURE

5 TWIST 1.5

Alex Wyse and Ken Guild, 1978

Take a stroll around Twist 1.5, a piece described by its creators as a “wooden, spiral, wind-vane thing.” Artists Alex Wyse and Ken Guild were commissioned in 1978 to build a sculpture in Major's Hill Park. Over five weeks during the summer, Wyse and Guild worked outdoors allowing visitors and residents to see the creative process and watch the work of art take shape. Twist 1.5 is made of British Columbia Douglas fir secured to a steel frame. Its form echoes the spirals commonly found in nature.

ZONE 4: BYWARD MARKET

Urban Rhythm

This is where town and Crown meet: you'll find national institutions and monuments just a block from the hustle and bustle of the ByWard Market. Browse the shops and outdoor vendors, take in the art and architecture, and then sample the offerings at one of the many restaurants in Ottawa's oldest neighbourhood.

Vendors have been coming to hawk their wares at the ByWard Market for well over a century. Meat, produce and flowers are still sold from the market stalls and stores lining ByWard Street.

1 ByWard Market

2 HIDDEN TREASURE

Tin House

3 Reconciliation,
the Peacekeeping Monument

4 National Gallery of Canada

5 Alexandra Bridge

While in the area, look out for:

■ Sussex Courtyards —
Art in the Courtyards

Ⓐ Samothrace,
Armand Vaillancourt, 1966

Ⓑ McClintock's Dream,
Victor Tolgsey, 1978
(ByWard Market building, second floor)

Ⓒ Champlain,
Hamilton MacCarthy, 1915

1 BYWARD MARKET

Named after Colonel By, the ByWard Market was home to many of the labourers who built the Rideau Canal. The area has housed an open-air market since the 1840s, and today it is a bustling commercial district packed with shops and restaurants. In the early days, commercial barges travelled right through the market, using the Bywash, an overflow stream from the Rideau Canal. This stream flowed down Dalhousie, George and York streets, before emptying into the Rideau River at Cathcart Street.

HIDDEN TREASURE

2 TIN HOUSE

You are standing in the Tin House Court. Can you see why it's called that? Look up. On one of the buildings hangs Tin House, by artist Art Price. The piece is a reproduction of the facade of Honoré Foisy's house, which once stood only a few blocks from here. Foisy, a tinsmith, used sheet metal to create a facade that looked like materials such as wood and brick.

»» The Tin House Court is one of four courts that run along the western edge of the ByWard Market. With their cobblestones and historic buildings, these courtyards give us a glimpse of the Capital's past. Look for works of art, like Dancing Bear by Pauta Saila, in the Jeanne d'Arc Court, and a cast iron angel in the Beaux-Arts Court.

3 RECONCILIATION, THE PEACEKEEPING MONUMENT

Harman, Henriquez and Oberlander, 1992

This monument, designed by sculptor Jack Harman, urban designer Richard G. Henriquez and landscape architect Cornelia H. Oberlander, contrasts the chaos of war with the order and safety of peace, and symbolizes the resolution of conflict. Reconciliation tells the story of UN peacekeepers, a story that Canadians have every right to be proud of. In 1957, Canadian Lester B. Pearson, who later became prime minister, won the Nobel Peace Prize for his success in establishing this international force. Thirty-one years later, UN peacekeepers themselves were awarded the same prize.

4 NATIONAL GALLERY OF CANADA

The National Gallery of Canada is one of seven national museums in Canada's Capital Region. Designed by Israeli-Canadian architect Moshe Safdie, the building's shape echoes that of the Library of Parliament. Inside and out, the National Gallery is dedicated to showcasing art, both Canadian and international. Louise Bourgeois's giant spider, Maman (1999), is possibly the most recognizable of the many outdoor sculptures, but a stroll around the museum grounds will reveal many more, such as Roxy Paine's stark One Hundred Foot Line (2010).

5 ALEXANDRA BRIDGE

When it opened in 1901, the Alexandra Bridge created an indispensable link between Ottawa and Hull (now Gatineau). The bridge, which provided a second crossing between the two cities, had railway and electric trolley tracks, as well as a carriageway. Both beautiful and functional, the Alexandra Bridge was also a feat of engineering. In 1901, it was the fourth-longest cantilever span ever built, and the pilings were set on bedrock buried under 7.6 metres (25 feet) of sawdust and debris from the lumber industry.

ZONE 5: SUSSEX NORTH

International Crossroads

Explore the international side of the Capital as you walk down Sussex Drive. From embassies and high commissions to official residences, Canada's relationship with the rest of the world is on display here. In the quiet parks along the way, you'll find monuments commemorating Canadians who risked their lives to make the world a better place.

Rideau Hall

- 1 Rideau Hall
- 2 Queen Elizabeth II
- 3 24 Sussex Drive
- 4 Reflection
- 5 HIDDEN TREASURE
CANLOAN Memorial
- 6 Lester B. Pearson Building, Global Affairs Canada
- 7 National Research Council
- 8 Royal Canadian Mint

While in the area, look out for:

- A Totem Pole, Mungo Martin, 1946
- B Inukshuk, Kananginak Pootoogook, 1997
- C Mackenzie-Papineau Monument, Oryst Sawchuk, 2001
- D Ottawa Memorial (Commonwealth Air Forces Memorial), Commonwealth War Graves Commission and Public Works and Government Services Canada architects, 1959
- E Remember Flanders, Ruth Abernethy, 2015
- F Defence of Hong Kong Monument, 2009

1 RIDEAU HALL

In 1838, businessman Thomas McKay built an 11-room villa in the countryside outside Bytown (now Ottawa). In 1866, the house and surrounding estate became the official residence and workplace of Canada's governor general, the Queen's representative in Canada. Here at Rideau Hall, the governor general welcomes visiting heads of state and other dignitaries.

2 QUEEN ELIZABETH II (1926– ): REIGNING 1952–PRESENT

Jack Harman, 1992

Queen Elizabeth II is Canada's reigning monarch. In this monument, she is depicted on her horse Centennial, a gift from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) in 1977 to celebrate the 25th anniversary of her reign. Centennial was named in honour of the RCMP's 100th anniversary, which was in 1973. This monument from Parliament Hill will grace Sussex Drive during construction on the Hill.

3 24 SUSSEX DRIVE

Perched above the Ottawa River, 24 Sussex Drive is the official residence of the prime minister of Canada. This lovely Victorian mansion has been home to our prime ministers and their families since 1951. A long-term rehabilitation project has been planned for this heritage property.

4 REFLECTION John Greer, 2001

In 1996, two Canadian aid workers — Nancy Malloy and Tim Stone — were killed in separate incidents. Their deaths were the catalyst for this monument, which honours Canadian aid workers and Canada's commitment to international development and humanitarian assistance.

Take a moment to linger in Rideau Falls Park, on Green Island. From here, you can look down on the Ottawa River from atop the Rideau Falls, where the Rideau River plunges 13 metres (43 feet) into the Ottawa River. Nearby are four important monuments: the Ottawa Memorial (Commonwealth Air Forces Memorial); the Mackenzie-Papineau Monument, honouring Canadians who fought in the Spanish Civil War; Remember Flanders; and Reflection.

RCMP Archives

5 CANLOAN MEMORIAL

In 1943, at the height of the Second World War, British military resources were stretched. The invasion of northwest Europe was looming, and the British Army needed junior officers. In a program code-named CANLOAN, 673 Canadian officers volunteered to join British Army regiments. The casualties were high: nearly three quarters were killed, wounded or taken prisoner. The CANLOAN Memorial remembers 128 officers who died while serving in the program.

8 ROYAL CANADIAN MINT

In 1908, the first coin was struck in this building, which was then a branch of Great Britain's Royal Mint. In 1931, the Royal Canadian Mint was founded. For the first time, Canada was responsible for producing its own coins. Today, the Royal Canadian Mint produces world-class circulation coins, collector coins and medals at its facilities in Winnipeg and Ottawa.

ZONE 6: GATINEAU

A Rich Cultural Tapestry

Natural history, Canadian culture, heritage buildings and the region's industrial past all come together here. From museums and art, to picnics and patios, to walks in the woods and river views, Gatineau provides something for every visitor to do, as well as plenty of places to relax in the sun.

Papa, Hal Ingberg, 2010

- 1 Canadian Museum of History
- 2 Jacques-Cartier Park
- 3 Place Aubry
- 4 Ruisseau de la Brasserie (Brewery Creek)

5 HIDDEN TREASURE
Boat Sight

6 HIDDEN TREASURE
Three Forms by the Sea

While in the area, look out for:

- A Marina de Hull
- B Réflexion, Claude Chaussard and André Fournelle, 2006
- C Papa, Hal Ingberg, 2010
- D Monument to Algonquin Chief Tessouat, Jérémie Giles, 2017
- E Maison du Citoyen
- F Love, Henry Wanton Jones, 1975
- G Commentary, Phyllis Kurtz Fine, 1978
- H Builder's Fountain, Vincent Théberge, 1975
- I Monument to Philemon Wright, Artist unknown, 1950
- J Lys cala, Jacek Jarnuszkiewicz, 2001
- K Explorer II, Victor Tolgesy, 1968

1 CANADIAN MUSEUM OF HISTORY

Designed by Métis architect Douglas Cardinal, the Canadian Museum of History is a place for discovery, both inside and out. The museum's architecture reveals the Canadian landscape as it was when humans first arrived — with the Canadian Shield, Great Plains, rivers and lakes emerging from receding glaciers. Step inside and discover the people and history of Canada in the museum's exhibits, or take in a movie at the CINÉ+.

2 JACQUES-CARTIER PARK

At the entrance to Jacques-Cartier Park stands Never Give Up! (Au Cœur du Bronze, 2001), a statue of Maurice “The Rocket” Richard, who was one of Canada's all-time greatest hockey players. The park beyond is one of the Capital Region's main festival sites, playing host to the celebrations for thousands of visitors during Winterlude and Canada Day. It also provides a break from the bustle of the city. Cycle or stroll along the recreational pathway by the river and you'll be rewarded with fantastic views of the Ottawa River and Rideau Falls.

»» Have you noticed the play of light through the coloured glass panels of Hal Ingberg's Papa? Stop for a rest here and experience the sculpture's dreamlike atmosphere. You'll end up with a completely different perspective on this busy Gatineau intersection.

3 PLACE AUBRY

Place Aubry is one of Gatineau's (formerly Hull) oldest and most picturesque spots, and a wonderful place to just sit and relax. Rest a moment on a bench, or stop awhile at one of the restaurant patios open during the summer months. Indulge in some people watching and enjoy the architecture of old Hull before heading out to explore some more. As you leave Place Aubry, notice Yves Trudeau's Mur ouvert et fermé (1978), across the street on Promenade du Portage.

Logs floating behind a Gatineau lumber mill, ca. 1890.

LAC, PA-073932

First Peoples and early visitors avoided the turbulent Chaudières Falls by portaging their canoes through what is now Portageurs Park.

4 RUISSEAU DE LA BRASSERIE (BREWERY CREEK)

Here, on the banks of Ruisseau de la Brasserie (Brewery Creek), you are at the heart of what used to be industrial Hull. If you were to have visited this area in the late 1800s or early 1900s, you would have found textile mills, an axe factory, a foundry and other industrial sites. Cross the footbridge to the island, where past meets present. Built in 1888, the former Hull Water Works now houses a theatre company, Théâtre de l'Île.

HIDDEN TREASURE

5 BOAT SIGHT

John McEwen, 1984

Set at the eastern end of Portageurs Park, John McEwen's Boat Sight reflects the coming together of nature and culture, and recalls the history of this park as a portage route.

6 THREE FORMS BY THE SEA

Pierre Bourgault, 1984

At the western end of the park is Pierre Bourgault's Three Forms by the Sea. These three smooth concrete shapes, evoking stones worn smooth by the elements, ask us to contemplate the short span of human existence and to take comfort in the seeming permanence of rocks.

ZONE 7: WEST ON WELLINGTON

Living Heritage

Canada's heritage is on view as you head along Wellington Street. National institutions that shape the country sit side by side with military commemorations and symbols of Canada's provinces and territories. Make your way down to the Ottawa River for a glimpse of the history of the Capital Region and its inhabitants.

- 1 Supreme Court of Canada
- 2 East and West Memorial Buildings
- 3 HIDDEN TREASURE
Garden of the Provinces and Territories
- 4 Library and Archives Canada
- 5 Richmond Landing and Royal Canadian Navy Monument
- 6 National Holocaust Monument
- 7 Victoria Island

While in the area, look out for:

- A Confederation Building
- B Justice Building
- C The Canadian Phalanx, Ivan Meštrović, 1920
- D Canadian Firefighters Memorial, Douglas Coupland and PLANT Architect, 2012
- E Canadian War Museum
- F Art in the Tunnels
- G The Gather-Ring, Manuel A. Baez and Charlyne Lafontaine, 2018

1 SUPREME COURT OF CANADA

The Supreme Court of Canada is the country's highest court and the final court of appeal for those involved in criminal proceedings. Responsible for upholding and interpreting the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms, the Supreme Court also rules on controversial societal issues, such as gay marriage and the right to die for people who are terminally ill. Two sculptures, created in 1912 by Walter S. Allward, flank the entrance to the building. The figures of Veritas (Truth) and Justitia (Justice) remind us of the principles that underlie the justice system and our society. On the front lawn you'll find a statue of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, who as a lawyer argued many cases before the Supreme Court.

2 EAST AND WEST MEMORIAL BUILDINGS

These two buildings, built after the Second World War, pay tribute to those who served and died in the war. Set on the median on Lyon Street, beneath the Memorial Arch that connects the two buildings, The Canadian Phalanx, by Croatian artist Ivan Meštrović, was gifted to Canada in 1920. Honouring Canadian soldiers in the First World War, the sculpture is part of a collection of documentary art commissioned to record Canada's participation in the conflict.

LAC, E09069279

Louis St. Laurent,
Prime Minister of
Canada, 1948–1957

The Secret Bench of Knowledge,
Lea Vivot, 1993

National Capital Commission

HIDDEN TREASURE

3 GARDEN OF THE PROVINCES AND TERRITORIES

The Garden of the Provinces and Territories might be one of the Capital's best-kept secrets. Created in 1962, the park's concrete terraces highlight the flags and floral emblems of the provinces and territories. The garden beds invite you to explore Canada through its plants and vegetation, showcasing the country's diverse regions — from forest, to prairies, to tundra.

4 LIBRARY AND ARCHIVES CANADA

Library and Archives Canada is more than just books and papers. With millions of written documents, photographs and musical recordings (to name just a few of the available formats), it's the collective memory of our country. The collection here is the work of many people, fuelled by the vision of Sir Arthur Doughty, who made it his mission to collect Canada's documentary heritage and make it accessible to Canadians. He is honoured by a statue behind the building. Walk around and thank him in person, if you like!

5 RICHMOND LANDING AND THE ROYAL CANADIAN NAVY MONUMENT

Al McWilliams, Joost Bakker, Bruce Haden, 2012

Sometimes it's worth stepping off the beaten path — that's certainly the case with Richmond Landing. Make your way down to the Ottawa River below Library and Archives Canada to stand on the spot where some of the Ottawa area's earliest settlers landed after the War of 1812. You'll also find the Royal Canadian Navy Monument, which pays tribute to all those who serve, have served or will serve in Canada's Navy.

6 NATIONAL HOLOCAUST MONUMENT LANDSCAPE OF LOSS, MEMORY AND SURVIVAL

Lord Cultural Resources, Studio Daniel Libeskind, Edward Burtynsky, Claude Cormier + Associés, Doris Bergen, 2017

More than six million Jewish men, women and children were murdered during the Holocaust. This memorial's soaring concrete walls form a star of David, a visual symbol of the Holocaust. The interior of the monument features a large gathering area for commemorative and educational activities, an interpretive exhibit and six murals depicting contemporary photographs of Holocaust sites. There is also a space for quiet reflection and a terrace with views of the Capital's downtown core, including Canada's democratic institutions.

The monument design fully integrates architecture, landscape, art and interpretation. It communicates themes of hardship and suffering while conveying a powerful message of humanity's enduring strength and survival.

DoubleSpace Photography

DoubleSpace Photography

WHAT ARE COMMEMORATIONS?

Commemorations honour the memory of people, events, ideals or accomplishments that have meaning and value for a community. They can be monuments, buildings, celebrations or solemn occasions. Commemorations bring us together and, in a country as diverse as Canada, remind us of the things we have in common.

6

7

7 VICTORIA ISLAND

Victoria Island has a long and storied past. For thousands of years, the region's Algonquin inhabitants used it as a gathering place for trade and ceremony, and it is still of great significance to First Nations people in the area. By the mid-1800s, the lumber industry flourished in the region. Dotted with mills and factories, Victoria Island was at the heart of it all. The Willson Carbide Mill, built by the Ottawa Carbide Company in 1899, still stands, providing a powerful reminder of the history of Canada's Capital Region.

McCord Museum, 178971.01

Lumber piled on the shore of the Ottawa River near Victoria Island, 1872.

Discover the Capital

LET US PLAN YOUR VISIT

Capital Information Kiosk

90 Wellington Street, Ottawa

Roving information officers

Located at major attractions

canada.ca/capital-of-canada • 1-844-878-8333 • 1-888-997-3123 (TTY)

Canadian
Heritage

Patrimoine
canadien

Canada

Canada's National Museums

PASSPORT

Canada Agriculture and Food Museum

Canada Aviation and Space Museum

Canadian Museum of History

Canadian Museum of Nature

Canada Science and Technology Museum

Canadian War Museum

Discover Canada's National Museums
with the Museums
Passport:

3 MUSEUMS
DAYS
$40

National Gallery of Canada

Valid for general admission over 3 consecutive days, starting from the day of your first visit. It is valid for 3 visits to museums of your choice among the 7 participating national museums. Each accompanying child (age 17 and under) receives a 30% discount on general admission.

museumspassport.ca

Canada

NORTHERN LIGHTS

Free multimedia show
every evening

July 6 to September 7, 2020

- July, 10 p.m.
- August, 9:30 p.m.
- September, 9 p.m.

See you on the Hill!

canada.ca/northern-lights

Exclusive Sponsor

 Manulife

Canadian
Heritage

Patrimoine
canadien

Canada

