Gender-based analysis plus

The PPSC is an independent and accountable prosecuting authority whose main objective is to prosecute cases under federal jurisdiction in a manner that is free from any improper influence. Its mandate, as set out in the Director of Public Prosecutions Act, is to initiate and conduct federal prosecutions and to advise law enforcement agencies or investigative bodies on matters relating to prosecutions or on particular investigations that may lead to prosecutions. While the PPSC does consider GBA implications, including gender- and EE-based impacts on its operations, given the scope of the PPSC's role and mandate, the PPSC does not currently have the capacity to conduct a formal GBA+.

General information

Governance structures	The PPSC has identified a Responsibility Center for GBA+ within the Corporate Services Branch.
Human resources	During fiscal 2019-20, approximately 0.2 of an FTE will be dedicated to working on how GBA+ could be integrated into organizational decision-making.
Planned initiatives	The PPSC will work on raising awareness of GBA+ for selected groups within PPSC. The PPSC will also develop the Statement of Intent and explore the inclusion of GBA+ into its organizational decision-making. The GBA+ will be explored in collaboration with the Diversity and Inclusion Committee and relevant stakeholders.
