

GAMING & YOUR PRIVACY

WHAT GAMERS SHOULD KNOW ▶

If you're one of the millions of Canadians who enjoy playing video games, take a moment to understand the potential privacy risks and what you can do to help safeguard your profiles.

RISKS INCLUDE:

- Your personal information may be shared broadly with third parties
- Gaming and social sites may exchange your personal information
- Someone may attempt online impersonation

USE THIS REAL-TIME STRATEGY TO DEFEND YOUR POSITION:

- Always read privacy policies and Terms of Service agreements
- Create strong passwords
- Allow multi-factor authentication where possible
- Choose restrictive privacy settings
- Don't share sensitive information like your school, workplace or home address
- Be careful when clicking on links within in-game chats – they could be phishing attempts

MORE TIPS TO LEVEL UP YOUR PROTECTION:

- Create an email address just for gaming
- Use a nickname

Read our complete guidance: priv.gc.ca/videogames

Follow us: @PrivacyPrivee

Office of the Privacy Commissioner of Canada

Commissariat
à la protection de la vie privée du Canada