Perspectives on Labour and Income Winter 1991

The Winter 1991 edition of Statistics Canada's quarterly journal on labour and income topics is released today.

This issue focuses on occupations with high unemployment, women's RRSP savings, non-standard work arrangements, adults who are back in school, factors influencing early retirement, and non-wage employment benefits. This issue also features two short notes on self-employment growth and the federal government's Work Sharing Program.

Each quarter, Perspectives on Labour and Income uses results from many data sources to examine and offer insights on emerging issues. Articles review recent labour market developments as well as current income issues.

The Winter 1991 edition of Perspectives on Labour and Income (75-001E, $13.25/$53) is now available. See "How to Order Publications". To obtain further information on this release, contact Ian Macredie (613-951-9456) or Cécile Dumas (613-951-6894).

Highlights of the study on occupations with high unemployment rates appear on page 7 of today's Daily.

 Unemployment - Occupation Makes a Difference Unemployment tends to be concentrated among certain occupations. Even during periods of economic growth, these occupations maintain high unemployment rates. 	7

Composite Leading Indicator and GDP

Composite Leading Indicator September 1991

The growth of the composite index slowed to 0.8% in September, from 1.0% in August and 1.1% in July. While the index has risen every month since it began to turn upwards in April, the increase has been slower than in recent recoveries. Weak household demand accounted for the deceleration in September.

Household demand slowed at a time of weak employment growth and major strikes in the public sector. The housing index, particularly, slowed noticeably, with growth easing to 0.9% in September from a peak of 6.3% in June. Housing starts and sales of existing houses decelerated in tandem. House sales continued to weaken into October, despite accelerating drops in mortgage rates, although housing starts rebounded. The upturn in furniture and appliance sales continued at a modest pace for the third straight month. Purchases of other durable goods also slowed in September.

The growth of new orders for durable goods strengthened from 2.0% in August to 2.4% in September. This reflects steady gains in export demand for autos and housing along with a pick-up in other industries such as fabricated metals in September. Despite the negative impact of public sector strikes on transportation, shipments continued to trend upwards, leading to a sharp increase in the ratio of shipments to stocks. The average work-week posted a third straight increase.

The Toronto stock market slowed to virtually no gain in September, while the real money supply posted a third consecutive gain.

Growth in the U.S. leading indicator also moderated, from 0.7% in August to 0.6% in September. The slowdown originated in sluggish labour market conditions and weak financial markets.

Sales of Refined Petroleum Products

October 1991

Highlights

Seasonally Adjusted Sales

- Seasonally adjusted, preliminary estimates of October sales of refined petroleum products totalled 6.6 million cubic metres, an increase of 0.4% over September 1991.
- Two of the four major products contributed to this increase in sales. Sales of heavy fuel oil increased 3.2% and light fuel oil rose 2.3%. Diesel fuel oil and motor gasoline sales registered decreases of 0.9% and 0.1%, respectively, from September 1991.

Unadjusted Sales

- Preliminary estimates indicate that total sales of refined petroleum products in September 1991 declined 5.9% from October 1990, recording a volume of 7.0 million cubic metres. All four main products registered decreases: heavy fuel oil fell 11.0%, diesel fuel oil 7.3%, light fuel oil 4.6% and motor gasoline 1.7%.
- Total refined petroleum products sales for 1991 were 7.0% lower than volumes recorded in 1990. Within this total, heavy fuel oil decreased 19.8%, light fuel oil 12.3%, diesel fuel oil 5.2% and motor gasoline 2.9%.

Available on CANSIM: matrices 628-642 and 644-647.

The October 1991 issue of Refined Petroleum Products (45-004, $18.20/$182) will be available the third week of January 1992. See "How to Order Publications". For more detailed information on this release, contact Gérard O'Connor (613-951-3562), Energy Section, Industry Division.

Construction Union Wage Rate Index

October 1991

The Canada total Union Wage Rate Index (including supplements) for construction trades (1986 = 100) showed no change in October from September's revised level 123.6. On a year-over-year basis, the composite index increased by 3.2%, from 119.8 to 123.6.

On a monthly basis, the index for Winnipeg increased slightly by 1.4% in October due to increments in the existing contracts for carpenters, labourers, sheet metal workers, bricklayers, plasterers and roofers.

On a year-over-year basis, the largest increase in wage rates was observed in Toronto (6.5%), followed by Sudbury (6.0%), Thunder Bay (5.9%) and Ottawa and Windsor (5.8%). For the other cities, yearly increases ranged from 1.7% in Edmonton to 5.6% in London; the cities in Newfoundland, Quebec and British Columbia recorded no change.

Available on CANSIM: matrices 956, 958 and 2033 to 2038.

The fourth quarter 1991 issue of Construction Price Statistics (62-007, $18/$72) will be available in March 1992. See "How to Order Publications". For further information on this release, contact the Information and Current Analysis Unit (613-951-9607), Prices Division.

Unemployment – Occupation Makes a Difference

Unemployment varies widely by occupation. Even with the economy at its cyclical peak in 1989, some types of workers had high unemployment rates.

Data from the Labour Force Survey are examined in "Unemployment - occupation makes a difference", one of eight articles featured in the Winter 1991 issue of Perspectives on Labour and Income. The author explores how unemployment and other labour market indicators differ according to occupation.

Highlights

 High-skill occupations consistently experience lower unemployment rates, and are least affected by economic downturns.

- Occupations that traditionally experience high levels of unemployment are attracting fewer workers, while high-skill occupations, that have low unemployment levels, are rapidly expanding.
- During the recession, the sharpest increases in unemployment occurred in traditional blue-collar occupations.
- Even when the economy peaked in 1989, and the national unemployment rate was only 7.5%, certain occupations experienced high unemployment rates (for example fishing, logging and mining at 16.4%).

The Winter 1991 issue of Perspectives on Labour and Income (75-001E, $13.25/$53) is now available. See "How to Order Publications".
