INTRODUCTION

INTRODUCTION

This report provides basic detailed information as to the location, numbers and characteristics of the people in the Newfoundland and Labrador unincorporated places. This data constitutes an essential framework for the planning and implementation of the Newfoundland Resettlement Program.

The population characteristics of Newfoundland and Labrador communities contained in this report were obtained from DBS visitation records of the 1966 Federal Census. Unincorporated places have no official or legal boundaries. It is therefore, not always possible, within the present degree of rural enumeration, to distinguish the community population separately within the general locality in which the communities are situated. In some cases, this can result in a grouping of several or more localities enumerated under one general locality. Extensive research was, consequently, required in order to determine the exact number of persons to be ascribed to the listing of individual outlying communities, settlements and localities.

The study indicates that there is a total of 1,042 unincorporated places in Newfoundland and Labrador - comprising 41,867 households and a total population of 206,528 people according to the 1966 DBS visitation records of the enumerated areas. This figure of 206,528 people represents 41.9% of the total population - 493,396 people in the Province of Newfoundland and Labrador - June 1966.

The findings also indicate that there are 573 unincorporated places with 30 or less families per place in the Province of Newfoundland and Labrador. These 573 places are of the following sizes"

131 unincorporated localities with less than 5 families

126 unincorporated settlements with 5 to 10 families

185 unincorporated communities with 11 to 20 families

131 unincorporated communities with 21 to 30 families

The continuing impact of the Newfoundland Resettlement Program, among other mobility factors, requires modifications as to the community data as documented. Since 1965, one hundred and nineteen unincorporated settlements have been evacuated and approximately twenty-six other communities are now in the process of evacuation.
