Certification Mark Standard

TSM is a globally recognized sustainability program that supports mining companies in managing key environmental and social responsibilities. Individual facilities evaluate their environmental and social performance based on the standard and then have the results externally verified and publicly reported. Participation in the TSM program is mandatory for TSM partner organizations that have signed TSM agreements. Participation is also open to mining companies that have requested to utilize the TSM standard and paid the per-facility subscription fee in full. Participating mining companies are those that are members of TSM partner organizations, who must use the standard to evaluate domestic mine performance. Use of the TSM standard by members in jurisdictions outside of their national boundaries is welcome but strictly voluntary. This standard requires adherence to the following Protocols:

1. Indigenous and Community Relationships - Building strong relationships with our communities of interest, in particular Indigenous communities, is a fundamental component of TSM. The indicators of the Indigenous and Community Relationships Protocol are supported by detailed criteria to determine whether:
 - Processes are in place to identify communities of interest, including Indigenous communities and organizations.
 - Processes have been established to support the development and maintenance of meaningful relationships with communities of interest.
 - Mining facilities are actively building meaningful relationships and implementing engagement and decision-making processes with Indigenous communities.
 - Processes have been established to mitigate adverse community impacts and optimize social benefits generated from facilities.
 - Processes are in place to respond to incidents, concerns, and feedback from communities of interest.
2. Safety and Health - Protecting the health and safety of employees, contractors and communities is deeply ingrained in the culture of the mining industry. The indicators of the Safety and Health Protocol determine whether a facility:
 - Has made senior management accountable for the safety and health of employees and contractors.
 - Has processes in place to prevent incidents.
 - Sets safety and health targets for continuous improvement and meets them.
 - Monitors and publicly reports safety and health performance.
 - Conducts risk-based training for all employees, contractors and visitors, and fosters a culture of safety.
3. Crisis Management and Communications Planning - The Crisis Management and Communications Planning Protocol provides mining companies with the tools needed to effectively manage and communicate about a crisis at a facility or at the corporate level. Where the crisis is caused by a physical emergency, such as a fire or flood, the tools offered in this protocol are intended to work in conjunction with emergency response plans at the facility. The indicators of the Crisis Management and Communications Planning Protocol determine whether a company's corporate office and facilities:

- Have developed crisis management and communications plans and have teams in place to support the execution of these plans.
- Engage with local emergency responders such as fire, police and ambulance.
- Regularly review crisis management and communications plans and conduct crisis simulation training exercises.

The Crisis Management and Communications Planning Reference Guide provides recommendations, suggestions and examples to support companies in implementing this protocol.

4. Preventing Child and Forced Labour - The Preventing Child and Forced Labour Protocol requires companies to verify that processes are in place to ensure that neither child nor forced labour, as defined by the relevant International Labour Organization conventions, occur at facilities that implement TSM. The indicators of the Preventing Child and Forced Labour Protocol require companies to verify that: - There are processes in place commensurate to jurisdictional risks to ensure that forced labour is not used, that no child under the age of 15 is employed, and that no child under 18 engages in particularly hazardous work. - Supply chains and recruitment agencies are monitored for human trafficking and forced labour, where there is a high risk of forced labour. 5. Biodiversity Conservation Management - TSM supports mining companies in adopting best practices in biodiversity conservation management through all stages of a mine's life cycle. The indicators of the Biodiversity Conservation Management Protocol determine whether a facility: - Has made formal commitments to manage biodiversity at the site. - Has identified significant biodiversity aspects and is implementing action plans. - Partners with interested stakeholders on conservation planning. - Publicly reports on its biodiversity activities and performance. 6. Tailings Management - Tailings facilities are necessary components of mining activity, but it is crucial that these facilities be managed responsibly to protect human safety and the environment. TSM tailings management guides are used around the world. These include A Guide to the Management of Tailings Facilities (the Tailings Guide) and Developing an Operation, Maintenance and Surveillance Manual for Tailings and Water Management Facilities (the OMS Guide). The guides outline best practices in safe tailings management for facilities and the Tailings Management Protocol measures adherence to these guides, determining whether a facility: - Has a policy and commitments in place to safely manage tailings facilities. - Has implemented a tailings management system that conforms with the guides mentioned above. - Has assigned accountability for tailings management to both a senior executive and the company's board of directors. - Conducts an annual tailings management review. - Has implemented an Operation, Maintenance and Surveillance Manual that conforms with the OMS Guide. 7. Water Stewardship - The Water Stewardship Protocol includes a set of performance indicators to measure water management at the mine site and engagement in multi-stakeholder activities to govern and manage watershed activities. The indicators of the Water Stewardship Protocol determine whether a facility: - Has a commitment and accountabilities in place and has communicated to relevant communities of interest to support water stewardship. - Has implemented an operational water management system. - Participates in watershed-scale planning. - Conducts water reporting focused on performance outcomes at the site level. 8. Climate Change - The TSM Climate Change Protocol is designed to support mining companies in managing their climate-related risks and opportunities, including associated mitigation and adaptation strategies, target-setting, and reporting. The indicators of this protocol determine whether a company has: - Corporate commitments, governance, and processes at the board and management levels to support the consideration of climate change implications in business strategy. - Facility-level systems to manage energy, GHG emissions, physical climate impacts and adaptation. - Facility-level energy and GHG emissions performance targets and annual reporting on energy, GHG emissions, potential physical climate impacts, and adaptation measures.

Territory

The 'Campo de Borja' PDO geographical area is comprised of land located in the following municipalities of the province of Zaragoza in the Autonomous Community of Aragon: Agón, Ainzón, Alberite, Albeta, Ambel, Bisimbre, Borja, Bulbuenta, Bureta, El Buste, Fuendejalón, Magallón, Maleján, Pozuelo de Aragón, Tabuena, and Vera de Moncayo, as well as the cadastral polygons 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11 of the municipality of Mallén, and the cadastral polygons 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14 and 19 of the municipality of Fréscano.

Qualification

The link to the geographical area is based on historic tradition that pre-dates 1203. The Monastery of Veruela's influence on the development of the vine was significant. It preserved, developed and strengthened the viticulture that exists to this day. The low precipitation, the 'Cierzo' wind and the sudden changes in temperature affect the organoleptic qualities of the wines. The 'Cierzo' wind produces an intense transpiration that limits moisture in the soil, causing permanent water stress which weakens the vines. Consequently, phenolic ripeness is very slow, which boosts the presence of aromas and intense colour tones in the wines. The wine heritage of the DO Campo de Borja is very rich in terms of Garnachas; the oldest vineyards in the DO. They date from 1890 and the almost 3,300 hectares of Grenache, more than 2,000 are between 30 and 50 years old. Its productions are low, but immensely appreciated oenologically, due to the structural and aromatic complexity that they provide to the wines. EU Regulation 1308/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 17 December 2013. Protected Designation of Origin and Protected Geographical Indications Established by Article 104 of Regulation (EU) No 1308/2013.
