ALASKA HIGHWAY PIPELINE INQUIRY (LYSYK REPORT)

A beautiful publication outlining the results of the Inquiry's investigation into the predicted social and economic impacts of a gas pipeline through the southern Yukon. The report also summarizes substantial evidence presented to the Inquiry on existing social and economic conditions in the Yukon and on how Yukoners see themselves and the society in which they live. The results and recommendations discussed in this report will be crucial to the government's decision on whether or not the pipeline through the southern Yukon will be built in the near future. An excellent well-written publication suitable for the historian, the environmentalist and the interested Canadian. Contains numerous colour and black and white photographs. Recommendations, appendices, maps. 171 pp. Separate French edition.

ALASKA HIGHWAY PIPELINE - INTERIM REPORT OF THE ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT PANEL (HILL REPORT)

Outlines the results of the Panel's investigation into the environmental impact of a gas pipeline through the southern Yukon and of alternate routes and the Dempster lateral. Also investigates the comparative environmental impact of the Mackenzie Valley and Alaska Highway routes. Discusses physical and engineering concerns, biological concerns and unique and sensitive areas with conclusions and recommendations. Because of constraints, a normal environmental assessment of the project was impossible. This is an interim report only and will be amplified by a formal assessment and review procedure if the proposal is a contender when decisions on competing proposals are made. 55 pp. (English text). Bilingual.

LEGISLATION ON PUBLIC ACCESS TO GOVERNMENT DOCUMENTS

This green paper discusses the problem of greater public access to information in a parliamentary system. The public's "right to know" is balanced against the government's requirement for some degree of confidentiality in which to carry out the nation's business effectively and efficiently. The paper deals with the issues of ministerial responsibility, what can and cannot be made available, and the various methods by which the release of information would be handled. The question of public access to government documents is a delicate and controversial one. This green paper is important in its efforts to arouse discussion, and thereby adopt appropriate legislation to answer the question as fairly as possible. Appendices. 39 pp. (English text). PERCEPTIONS 4: PEOPLE AND AGRICULTURAL LAND

Science Council of Canada, Study on Population, Technology and Resources. This volume addresses the problem of the loss of some of our best agricultural land, due directly or indirectly to development. The first part of the book presents a picture of the foodland preservation problem given the existing pressures of urban expansion. The second part examines the phenomenon of the expanding city itself, showing ways in which those pressures can be reduced. In general, breadth rather than depth has received priority.

SKYLAB FLOATING ICE EXPERIMENT

Miscellaneous Special Publication 34. This volume presents a spacecraft-aircraft-surface multi-sensor view of sea ice in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and lake ice in the Thousand Islands-St. Lawrence River during January-February 1974. The ensemble of data is complex, including imagery and photography from Skylab-4 (SL-4) and from detailed surface Truth and Aircraft observations. The data collected give a new view of the ice in these regions which will hopefully serve as an aid to image interpretation of similar ice in other areas when such multi-level, multi-sensor data are not available.
