NORTHWARD LOOKING: A STRATEGY AND A SCIENCE POLICY FOR NORTHERN DEVELOPMENT

Science Council of Canada Report No. 26. This report is the culmination of a 3½-year study of Canada's northern development. With well-written text, the report calls for a federal science policy stressing both small- and large-scale development in Canada's North which would favour locally controlled activities over those tending to increase political and economic dependence. Filled with interesting and informative facts, the report consists of six chapters: The North (a description of climate, vegetation, ethnic composition, etc.); The North in Perspective; Strategy of Mixed Development (studies large- and small-scale development and their ramifications); Principles of a Science Policy for Northern Development; Initiatives to Support a Strategy of Mixed Development; and, Direction and Control of Development. Each chapter is briefly summarized. Index, appendices. Maps. Tables. Fold-out map. 95 pp. Separate French edition.

THE AQUATIC EXPLORERS - A HISTORY OF THE FISHERIES RESEARCH BOARD OF CANADA

Co-published with University of Toronto Press. In 1898 a group of scientists, working without pay, often under hazardous conditions with primitive equipment, began a systematic study of Canada's fishes. The team operated under the aegis of a board of management which later evolved into the Fisheries Research Board, a scientific organization that has placed Canada among the world's leaders in fishery knowledge. This history of the Fisheries Research Board examines the aims and achievements of its research, its attempts to deal with the often conflicting demands of pure and applied science, and its confrontations with a frequently uncomprehending and dissatisfied government. The people who shaped and sustained the organization figure prominently in the account. Appendices, index. Numerous black & white photographs.

CANADIAN URBAN TRENDS - VOLUME II: METROPOLITAN PERSPECTIVE

Co-published with Copp Clark Publishing, Toronto, Ontario. Canadians are predominantly urban, and Canada has one of the most rapid rates of urbanization in the world. This handbook provides a general orientation to the problem of high urban growth rate, giving the user a set of tables, charts, maps and descriptive text outlining the social and economic ramifications of growing urbanization. It is of particular interest to governmental policy-makers, corporations and individuals needing general information on the problems of urban growth, and the research community. Volume II considers the 22 Census Metropolitan Areas, both as single entities and as agglomerations of neighbourhoods. Differences among metropolitan areas and neighbourhoods in terms of the family life cycle, income and cultural characteristics are discussed.
