Minister's message

I am pleased to present the Canada Revenue Agency's report on fees for fiscal year 2024–25.

As in past years, the report gives detailed information about the components of CRA service fees, in keeping with the CRA's ongoing commitment to open and transparent fee management.

Beginning in fiscal year 2021–22, the CRA started offering remissions in the form of partial fee refunds to clients when it did not meet service standards, in line with the Service Fees Act. For fiscal year 2024–25, the CRA issued only one remission, and performance results for most of the CRA's service fee programs exceeded service standards.

Guided by the Service Fees Act, I will continue to lead the CRA in its commitment to transparency, and quality client-focused service delivery.

Original signed

The Honourable François-Philippe Champagne, P.C., M.P.
Minister of Finance and National Revenue

About this report

This report, which is tabled under section 20 of the Service Fees Act, the Low-Materiality Fees Regulations, and subsection 4.2.9 of the Treasury Board Directive on Charging and Special Financial Authorities, contains information about the fees the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) had the authority to charge in fiscal year 2024–25, including those that were collected by the Canada Border Services Agency.

The report covers fees that are subject to the Service Fees Act.

For reporting purposes, fees are categorized by fee-setting mechanism. There are three mechanisms:

1. Act, regulation or fees notice
The authority to set these fees is delegated to a department, minister or Governor in Council pursuant to an act of Parliament.
2. Contract
Ministers have the inherent authority to enter into contracts, which are usually negotiated between the minister and an individual or organization, and which cover fees and other terms and conditions. In some cases, that authority may also be provided by an act of Parliament.
3. Market rate or auction
The authority to set these fees comes from an act of Parliament or a regulation, and the minister, department or Governor in Council has no control in determining the fee amount.

For fees set by act, regulation or fees notice, the report provides totals for fee groupings, as well as detailed information for each fee. For fees set by contract, the report provides totals only. The CRA did not have fees set by market rate or auction.

Fees charged by the CRA under the Access to Information Act are not subject to the Service Fees Act and are not included in this report. Information on the CRA's access to information fees can be found in our annual report to Parliament on the administration of the Access to Information Act. You can find that annual report at CRA's Annual Reports to Parliament on the administration of the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act.

Remissions

In 2024–25, the CRA was subject to the requirements to issue remissions under section 7 of the Service Fees Act and subsection 4.2.4 of the Treasury Board Directive on Charging and Special Financial Authorities to remit a fee, in whole or in part, to a fee payer when a service standard was not met. The CRA’s remission policy and procedures, pursuant to the Service Fees Act, are on the following web page: Remissions for Service Fees.

The other sections of this report provide detailed amounts for the CRA’s remissions for 2024–25.

Overall totals, by fee-setting mechanism

The following table presents the total revenue, cost, and remissions for all fees the CRA had the authority to charge in 2024–25, by fee-setting mechanism.

Service standard

Our objective is to issue an advance income tax ruling (Ruling) to the client within a specified, agreed-upon time period. The service standard is 90 business days, commencing with the receipt of all information required from the client as outlined in Information Circular IC70-6, Advance Income Tax Rulings and Technical Interpretations.

Our objective is to complete a pre-ruling consultation teleconference with the client within a specified, agreed-upon time period. The service standard is within 15 business days from the date the CRA confirms to the client that the Pre-ruling Consultation request has been accepted as outlined in Information Circular IC70-6.

In some cases, achieving the 90 or 15 business days service target may not be possible due to delays outside of the CRA's control. This may arise in situations involving exceptionally complex cases, requests to expand and change the scope of the Ruling or pre-ruling consultation, or cases that require intra-governmental consultation, for example with the Departments of Justice or Finance. In those circumstances, when the service target date needs to be adjusted, the CRA will inform the client in advance and establish an alternate mutually agreed upon service target date.

Performance result

During the 2024–25 fiscal year, 91% of advance income tax rulings were issued within 90 business days of receipt of all essential information from the client.

During the 2024–25 fiscal year, 100% of pre-ruling consultation teleconferences were completed within 15 business days from the date the CRA confirmed to the client that the pre-ruling consultation request had been accepted.

Service standard

Due to the complexity and the availability of the data, some requests may take more or less time to complete and deliver. The CRA's service standard is to issue requested statistical information on or before a mutually agreed-upon service target date with a performance target of providing this information on or before this date 90% of the time.

After receiving all the information required for the request, the CRA and the client will agree on a mutually acceptable date to deliver the requested information (referred to as the "service target date" below).

Completion date for the purposes of this directive will be the date that the requested information is delivered to the client by the CRA.

Performance result

Statistical data was provided to the client on or before a mutually agreed-upon service target date 100% of the time.
