Certification Mark Standard

The use of the certification mark is intended to indicate the following particulars, namely, that the user has qualified as an Assistant.e Optométrique Certifié.e Canadien.ne (AOCC). The certification is granted to those who successfully complete the Assistant.e Optométrique Certifié.e Canadien.ne (AOCC) program administered by the Canadian Association of Optometrists or by third party providers approved by the Canadian Association of Optometrists. The program consists of nine modules: 1. Introduction to Optometry - This module provides an overview of optometry in Canada and the role of the optometrist. Students are introduced to common medical and ophthalmic terminology, as well as basic anatomy and physiology of the eye. Customer service skills and essential patient management skills are also discussed. 2. Pre-testing - This module focuses on the preliminary optometric tests and procedures that form an important part of the comprehensive eye examination. Case history, visual acuity, contrast sensitivity, color vision, and stereopsis are all covered, along with additional procedures such as eye drop administration and infection control. Students will be introduced to key instruments such as the refractor, keratometer, and non-contact tonometer. 3. Supplementary Testing - Sometimes a patient will require additional testing to rule out, diagnose or monitor certain eye conditions or diseases. This module covers some of the most common supplementary testing procedures and equipment including: visual fields, digital imaging systems (OCT, HRT, corneal topography, fundus photography), and pachymetry. 4. Refraction & Ocular Health - This module covers the comprehensive eye exam in greater detail. Students are introduced to common eye conditions and diseases, with a focus on children and senior's vision. Basic pharmacology, triage, and patient referrals are also discussed. 5. Ophthalmic Lenses - This module provides a brief overview of fundamental optical principles and how these are used in ophthalmic lenses to correct vision problems. Different lens designs, treatments, and materials are also discussed, as well as specialty lenses and troubleshooting patient complaints. 6. Ophthalmic Frames - Module 6 looks at the various frame parts and materials, as well as frame selection and adjustment. Additionally, students will learn tips for communicating with both patients and frame vendors. 7. Ophthalmic Finishing Lab - In Module 7, students are taught how to use standard and automated lensometry to verify the prescription of a lens. Basic lab skills required to produce a finished lens are also discussed. By the end of this module, OAs will be able to verify the quality of finished eyewear. Many of these concepts will be reviewed at the AOCC workshop. 8. Contact Lenses - This module covers the different types and materials of contact lenses. Students are taught how to conduct contact lens fittings, and the importance of proper lens care and handling. 9. Business & Retail Components - This module focuses on the day-to-day management of an optometric practice. Students will learn various techniques for communicating and working with a variety of patients. Administrative processes such as maintaining inventory, billing, and working with insurance providers will also be covered. This module also includes a brief introduction to human resource management and marketing. In addition to completing all module requirements for all nine modules, candidates must attend a AOCC workshop, and must maintain employment with a sponsoring optometrist. The AOCC examination is the final requirement to complete the AOCC program, and the pass mark is 65%. Graduates of the course are required to maintain and renew their credentials every three years. To be eligible to renew the AOCC credential; AOCC's must accumulate 18 hours of continuing education and provide proof of a valid CPR certification. Those who are certified may use the title 'Assistant.e Optométrique Certifié.e Canadien.ne' and the initials 'AOCC' following their name when working under the direct supervision of an Optometrist.
